OMINOUS CALM SUCCEEDS RIOTING AT REGINA

NEWS BRIEFS AND ODDITIES

Batons and Bullets Fly Rioting, Bloodshed Cause Death of Officer Miller

Striker Near Death And Many Are Injured

EVANS ARRESTED

Leader of Strikers Taken Into Custody No Charge Laid

(By Sam G. Ross)
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Regina, July 2.— (CP)— Royal Canadian Mounted Police armed with rifles patrolled the exhibition grounds this morning as 2,000 striking relief camp workers spent the night after wild rioting left Det. Constable Charles Millar dead, about two hundred injured, some seriously and property damage estimated up to $50,000.

Arthur Evans, leader of the on-to-Ottawa trek of the strikers since the Labor Temple at Vancouver, was arrested during the skirmishes and George Black, said to be one of the chief lieutenants, was in custody along with about twenty-five others.

Death as to Action

What action was being contemplated at the exhibition grounds this afternoon was not known and the strikers would not be permitted to leave the grounds until representatives of the Federal Department of Labor arrive at Ottawa, police here were told of here.

Among most seriously injured are Constable Shaw and Constable Wakefield, Conquest, Sask., both members of the R.C.M.P. Constable Shaw is believed to have a fractured skull and other injuries, on Constable Wakefield suffered severe head injuries.

Ten Wounded

Ten persons seven of them identified as strikers were wounded by bullets in the street fighting, W. Burnett, chief deputy attorney-general of the Citizens Emergency Committee, said shortly after midnight. The three others wounded were spectators. All are expected to recover. Reports an unidentified man was dying were apparently erroneous.

Regina, July 2—(CP)—Ominous calm settled over Regina today following a night of rioting and bloodshed.

One man, police say, is dead, defending Charles Miller lay dead, fatally pummelled, when caught in the rioting melee of 2,000 relief camp strikers and sympathizers, who turned violently when police as they attempted to take up an open-air meeting in the city's market square.

Another victim, identified as Dan McCue, striker, was near death. He also found bleeding from head wounds after the mob had been driven from the square by tear-gas bombs and bullets.

Fifty city constables were being mined for less serious injuries. Scores of strikers were in hospitals, stated by doctors called in to aid in the emergency.

Behind prison bars was tall, lank Arthur Evans, Toronto-born leader of the "on-to-Ottawa" marchers, restated from federal relief camps from the Pacific seaboard and the Fairies, twenty-six other strikers were in custody.

For three hours after police barged the strikers' meeting, rioting raise funds to keep the stranded camp dwellers in Regina, fighting continued through the city's streets. Dominion Day flags were ripped from buildings, windows were broken, property damage was heavy.

Streets Strewn

As dawn broke the streets, strewn with debris, were almost deserted. Police continued to patrol the thoroughfares, disorder had ceased. Protected by steel helmets, wielding batons, Royal Canadian Mounted Police charged into the market-square meeting as one of the speakers began to tell them it was necessity to raise funds for the marchers early in the night.

Some of those at the meeting fell upon the constables. A group of men attacked Detective Miller. Unarmed, he was thrown to the ground, pre-witness told, beating him over the head with sticks until he fell to the street, dead.

Tear gas bombs were buried among the men, women and child-ren who crowded the square. Eyes smarting from the stinging fumes, scores fled. One woman fell. It was believed her leg was broken in the rush.

After it was believed the crowds had dispersed, disorder broke out in another part of the city. The men stormed upon the R.C.M.P. and city constables, hurling rocks and other missiles.

Shots rang out from the R.C.M.P. headquarters. One man whose identity has not been determined fell wounded. Reinforcements were called to the scene in trucks and on horseback.

Evans and more than a score of others were taken into custody. Charges against them were not immediately made known.

Scores Treated

Hospital attendants were too busy caring for the wounded to give out details of those under their care.

It was believed scores were being treated for wounds. Many of the wounded had lain on the streets for minutes before being picked up by cruising ambulances.

Among the known injured were Constables Francis and Shaw of the R.C.M.P. and Constable D. Tate, the city police force. Sergeant John Moffatt of the city force, Condition of Constable Francis was said to be critical.

Many of the strikers remained in the area, where they have camped since being halted here on their trek to Ottawa, where they planned to place before Premier Bennett their demands for improved relief camp conditions and work and wages.

It was not immediately known, what charge would be laid against Evans. He was scheduled to speak at the open-air meeting and was on the stand when the police raided the square.

Prior to the meeting the strike headquarters had announced funds were "completely depleted." Money had been raised by subscription and tag-days before authorities declared it illegal to solicit the deserters.

Halifax, July 2—(CP)—The father of R. C. M. P. Constable Francis, injured in last night's rioting at Regina, received word here today that his son's condition was serious. Constable Francis, a Haligonian, left here two years ago to join the R. C. M. P. in the Canadian east.

JAP TANKS PREPARE TO ROLL IN TO A NCIENT PEIPING

This, the first original photograph to arrive from the disputed area in North China, shows Japanese tanks manned, ammunitioned and fueled, ready to roll toward Peiping as an outgrowth of anti-Japanese manifestations. When the ultimatum that Japan sent to the Chinese government was acceded to, the tanks did not go to the walled city, former capital of China. Later, when Chinese factions began fighting in Peiping over the "surrender", the tanks again were held in readiness.

PREMIER BENNETT TO LEAD PARTY

Recovers Health and Will Be in Thick of Campaign

Ottawa, July 2—(CP)—With parliament slowly moving toward prorogation, it is more apparent day by day that Premier R. B. Bennett will lead the Conservatives in the Dominion campaign. His is recovering his health steadily and will continue as leader of his party as long as he can withstand the physical pressure.

The Prime Minister's health, his illness and recovery, was the high-light of the session, apart from the leg'slative program. He was taken ill suddenly June 10, upon his return to Ottawa after addressing a Toronto audience. He was ordered to bed and it became known he was suffering from a heart ailment.

While the government leader was stricken, rumors flew about constantly that he could not come back. But he did what the doctors ordered—stayed in bed, rested and eventually regained his feet. He went to London for the Jubilee celebrations and the sea voyage that would bolster his strength.

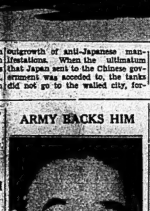
Tang Things Easier

Mr. Bennett came back to parliament on schedule but he returned against the strike of London doctors who suggested more rest. At first he sat only for afternoon sittings and then an occasional night session.

During all this time, reports flew around that he would give up the Conservative leadership, that his health would not stand the pressure of an election campaign.

Suddenly, about two weeks ago, Mr. Bennett dispelled all doubt about his health. Introducing a bill to establish a grain board, he ripped into the Liberals with all his old-time fire, rallied his followers behind him with a rousing speech and demonstrated to the House his determination to go through the campaign. A few nights later he told Conservative members at a private dinner party he would remain their leader as long as his health permitted.

A Prime Minister generally dominates a House but Mr. Bennett does so more than is usual. When he was away, things barely moved, but since his return, and especially in the last two or three weeks, business has been accelerated and political rows have been more frequent.



Toothpick Causes Death

Pitchburg, Mass., July 2.—(AP) A long-standing habit of sleeping with a toothpick in his mouth was fatal to Roy W. Pike, 35, chief. Dr. Richard A. Morgner, attending physician, yesterday pronounced death due to peritonitis caused by a puncture of the latter intestine a week ago. An operation Thursday at the Burbeck Hospital disclosed the toothpick, whole and unbent. The dead man's family expressed the belief he had swallowed the pick in his sleep last Sunday.

Kiddies' Watch Parade

Today is circus day!

Kiddies of Belleville went to bed last night dreaming of clowns with funny painted faces, giraffes with sheer brilliancy, color and gorgeousness it surpassed any circus parade given here in generations. There were hundreds of gaily caparisoned horses, five herds of elephants and two caravans of camels and innumerable other animals.

Four hundred performers appear in 200 different acts. Three great aerial acts are pitted against one another, the Flying Thrillers, American champions; the Imperial Harolds, champions of Europe, and the Rencinds family, foremost aerialists of the Argentine.

Marietta, queen of all European equestriennes, the Hodgini family and the Belmont troupe of equilibrians are among the famous riders to be seen the Nelson family of acrobats Harold Barnes, sensational juvenile gymnast on the light wire, and Frank Shepherd, Tasmanian aerialist, are other great stars. Sixty clowns are on hand for the entertainment of the little folks.

Clyde Beatty, acknowledged king of wild animal trainers is this season promising a troop of 40 purebred African lions and royal Bengal tigers. The intrepid trainer presents an all new act with newly recruited animals. Allen King's great mixed group of wild animals, lions, tigers, leopards, jaguars and black panthers is also here for the first time.

A colossal pageant with scores of romantic and historic characters believed by all, starts the circus performance proper. It is called the "Serenade of Spain", a gorgeous processional fiesta, from the land of charm and romance. It is particularly by upwards of 1,000 men, women and horses. There are 100 dancing girls; great choruses of trained singers; golden toned organs and massive orchestras. Yet it is but a single feature of the great combined circus.

Reserved and admission tickets are on sale at the Doyle Drug Store, Front street. On the day of the show the white ticket wagon is conveniently accessible for the purchase of reserved seats. The general admission ticket will go on sale at the ticket wagon simultaneously with the opening of the doors. Tonight the last of the circus bills will be pounding over the lowards Kingston. VETERANS ENJOY OAK LAKE OUTING

Sports Program Run Off With A. L. I. Band in Attendance

Holding their initial picnic at Oak Lake the members, friends and families of the Army and Navy Veterans in Canada enjoyed a day's outing yesterday, when the usual sports events and other entertainment constituted the day's activities. The music of the day was supplied by the A. L. I. band, by kind permission of Lieut.-Col. Green and over 600 persons were on the ground to enjoy the festivities, President Waddon was capably assisted by the members of local Army and Navy Veterans in assuring those present, especially the kiddies, of a delightful day's outing.

During the afternoon a softball game was played between the veterans with the executive battling the general body team to a 12 to 12 tie. The game being terminated at the duration of nine innings. Following the regular program of sports, swimming in Oak Lake was the order of the day, while dancing was enjoyed during the evening. The kiddies were supplied with ice cream and favours at the expense of the veterans, who are highly indebted to the citizens and merchants for their generous contributions in the matter of prizes and cash.

The result of the sport program was:

Another son, Robert Day passed away two years ago.

CHILDREN LOST BUT SOON FOUND

Lost, strayed but not stolen were the children reported by local police today following the Cole Bros. Circus parade, when anxious parents hurried to the police station in search of the lost kiddies. Fortunately all such wandering children, who had been fascinated by the wonders of a circus parade, were finally returned to the anxious parents, none the worse for their experience. From 11.00 o'clock long after the noon hour local police authorities were continually asked to find children who had wandered away from their parents during the excitement of the circus parade this morning.

POLICE COURT

Eight inebriates appeared in today's local police court held before Magistrate E. J. Butler K. C., all pleading guilty. Three took the ten day jail sentence in lieu of the $10 dollar fine, while the remaining five were granted a stay of time in order to obtain the imposed fine, released.

Two assault charges and the same number of theft complaints were also heard during the short session, both terminated in that two have all witness the circus parade. H.Beaty, Thurlow, was found guilty of assault and sentenced to one month in the common jail Beaty, it was alleged, struck Edward Patterson, Belleville, when the latter fortunately appeared on the scene as the accused man was in the act of throwing little Roy Palmateer, age eight, in the Moira river near the Canniton Road bridge. Beaty admitted being intoxicated, but denied molesting the child. "It will take Palmateer about a month to recover from his injuries", Inferred Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan K. C. "You should be ashamed" he came back the Bench. Albert Ashley, Thurlow, pleaded guilty to a charge of common assault and was given a suspended sentence upon the payment of the costs thereof.

CLASS HONORS POPULAR MEMBERS

On Wednesday evening, June 26th, the girls of the Chums Class met at the home of their Sunday School teacer, Mrs. Noble Brown, in honor of one of their classmates, Miss Gena Stinson. The evening was spent in contests and music, after which the following address was read by Miss Helen Brown:

Dear Gena:

Although we are so happy here tonight yet mingled with the happiness are feelings of regret that you are so soon to leave our neighborhood.

Despite the fact that we have known you for so short a time yet even that has been sufficient to prove to us your true worth, and your spirit of friendliness and willingness to help in any activity that has been for the betterment of our community.

As a class we shall miss you very much. We hope you will let us go with you in memories and ask you to accept this photo. Hoping as you look at it you will have the same loving feelings towards us that we have for you.

Signed by the Chums Class of the Front Road Sunday School.

A photo of the class was then presented to Miss Stinson by Miss Helen Hall.

Lunch was served by Mrs. Brown and all departed for there various homes.

DOMINION DAY IS MARKED AT BOULTER

At Boulter, Montcalm Township, North Hastings, a picnic was held on Dominion Day under the auspices of the veterans of that locality. There was a large attendances and a good time was all that could have been desired. An interesting programme was carried out much to the enjoyment of all present. Among those taking part were— Master C. Sexton, Jack Clarke as pipers, M. Meldrum and Leo Field as drummers.

FIRE POT BURSTS GRIER'S GARAGE AT TWEED, BURNS

Flames Spread Rapidly Despite Work By Brigade

GASOLINE BURNS

For a Time Business Section of Village Threatened

TWEED, July 2.—A fire which for a time threatened to destroy a large section of the business area of Tweed, broke out on Saturday afternoon, about 3:45 in Harry Grier's garage and repair shop, was owned and operated by the flames. Mr. Grier was busy with a gasoline fire-pot at the time and it is believed that it exploded. The flames spread rapidly and in a few moments the interior of the building was on fire due to the oil and gas with which the contents was covered. This made it impossible for the fire extinguisher with which the place was equipped. Dense clouds of smoke arose from the doors and the alarm of fire was given by Mr. Grier soon brought assistance.

In a few minutes the fire brigade was on hand and three streams of water with a pressure of eighty pounds behind it were playing on the flames. To add to the menace the gasoline tank in front of the shop had been filled with 600 gallons of gasoline just a few hours before and the two ten gallon glass containers were full of gas. The intense heat from the fire soon caused these to burst and the resulting flames soared to a height of forty or fifty feet, higher than the hotel which is separated from the garage by a narrow passageway. A slight change in the wind at this time was blowing down the street carried the flames to W. J. Grier's Barber shop on the north and soon these and the flames spread to the apartments above the shop and to the hotel by the latter apartment being occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Grier and Mr. Vincent Garland. They had little opportunity to rescue any of their belongings.

For a time it was feared that Mr. George Lapsley's residence, which would catch but the splendid work of the firemen showed that, although some articles were removed from the store as a precautionary measure, and the awning was partly destroyed.

The situation was saved partly because of the metal sheeting and roof with which the garage was covered and the brick wall of the barber shop. These prevented the flames from spreading after the blaze had reached the inflammable part. At the same time it made the work of the firemen more difficult because the walls and roof were ablaze under the metal shingles. It was necessary to cut off the shingles in order to reach the flames from the inside. Another feature was the fact that just behind the garage is one of the local stock barns of frame construction. Had there been a high wind this would have been saved only with great difficulty and several frame houses near by would have been in danger.

The work of the local fire brigade cannot be too highly praised. Many of the members worked themselves into a complete condition of exhaustion. Among those deserving of special praise are Gordon Thompson, John Orr, Tim Cooke, Sim Bracken, Frank Orr, Claude Barnett, Will Orr, Wilmot Cooke and others. The value of the waterworks system was also proved on this occasion, the first service fire in nearly three years.

The property is owned by W. J. Grier and the loss is covered by insurance. Harry Grier is also a loser in the contents of his garage. Many donations of parts are being heard on all sides as he had not a few in stock and the loss to his garage and repair shop business is believed to be heavy. It would will be undertaken shortly. The building is a frame one and other shop was not seriously damaged.

GUARDSMEN WILL RESCUE STRIKERS

Set up Machine Guns But No Force is Needed

Galena, Kas., June 20 (AP)—National guardsmen today joined the plant of the Eagle-Picher Mining and Smelting Co. here today to rescue 36 strike besieged guards whose attendees had fled under cover of darkness.

The troops, riding a dozen trucks, deployed about the smelter and set up two machine guns, one of them atop a freight car commanding the environs.

Not a lead and zinc mine strike nor a strike sympathizer was in sight.

There had been hundreds of them about all day yesterday and far into the night, a pelting, destructive mob that numbered a dozen persons with bricks and clubs and later fired volley after volley of rifle and pistol bullets at the beleaguered mine guards who had taken refuge in the frame office building and the plant washroom.

Allyn Steuer, Los Angeles aviation mechanic, displays the latest in streamlining automobiles, of his own design and construction. He combines the low price, it has a five-passenger seating capacity, and develops a speed of over 100 miles per hour on of aeroplane and automobile. Built to sell at half the gasoline consumption of an average auto, according to its builder. A six-cylinder motor in the rear is also of his designing.

Young Belleville Divers Set In Splishing Waters of Pool

Young Citizens of Few Years Delight in Paddling

Shrill shouts of childish voices resounded happily from the pool and gambol in the lukewarm water. Showers of water and spray cascaded high and flipped by busy hands and feet go through the motions. Fond mothers seated under the shade of nearby trees beaming at their precocious offspring paddling in perfect comfort and safety. Little gaffers at one end of the pool in-between just learning the rudiments of the art of swimming in the region, and larger children at the deeper end, surging their first few strokes with fer and hands off the bottom.

Already the season the civic swimming pool on Victoria Park, provided through the generosity of the late Senator Harry Corby has become one of the most popular gathering place for the juvenile population. In the season advanced on and the last of July and August grips their fancy the large pool may become even inadequate for the large number of juveniles who will be to take advantage of its facilities.

It is here that Young Belleville receives his or her first contact with the water. Here they paddle and splash in gay abandon. Little arms reach forth into the first few strokes in imitation of the larger boys and girls diving scarcely from the board of the fountain out into the rough-er and deeper waters of the bay. Watermelons and other inflated rubber tubes are gradually cast aside and soon their owners are a swimmer ready for "deep hole."

In the south end the park scores of bigger and older swimmers are taking advantage of the warm water and the shallow depth of water. More interest is being displayed this season in water sports, diving and fancy boating—than ever before. Even now several dozen of the park are cramped and it may become necessary to provide larger platforms and diving boards. This will be easily needed, decide the more competent swimmers, it is hoped that diving may form anchored several feet out from the shore. Then water polo games could be engaged in. This could be arranged with a minimum cost and even assembled by volunteer labor, point out the regular swimmers.

Whether a life guard will be appointed this year has not been decided as yet.

CHILD ATTACKED BY MARE WITH COLT

Camlachie, July 3—Jack Hayes, the six year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Hayes of the Tenth Line of Plympton, is in the General Hospital, Sarnia, suffering from a fractured nose the hips, the two broken bones in the right forearm and a scalp which required twelve stitches in the back of the head.

The child was attacked by a mare who had a little colt and apparently feared he was going to interfere with it. The animal kicked him with her hind feet, knocked him down, and then seized and attacked him with her front feet. The father, seeing what was happening shouted at the mare and she desisted.

CHARGE LAID AFTER MOTOR ACCIDENT

Believed by police authorities to have driven carelessly and to have traffic conditions an automobile driven negligently by W. J. Wenman, maker of West Huntingdon, collided with another motor car being driven on the opposite direction by Percy Campbellford some four miles south of Belleville on the Provincial highway at 10:30 p.m. Sunday night. Traffic Officer Sam Ferby investigated the accident and found both vehicles badly damaged, although no injuries were sustained by any occupants of the motor cars involved. The Wenmanmaker car was found by police on the wrong side of the highway, upon the arrival of the authorities. Charges of reckless driving were preferred against Wenmanmaker, authorities announced today.

RELIEF CAMPS TO BE ABANDONED

Port Arthur, July 2.—Hon. Peter Heenan, Minister of Lands and Forests and Northern Development, announced here last night at a banquet celebrating opening of the Grand Canyon section of the Transcanada Highway that the government in future would let contracts for the road building.

Mr. Heenan said the government could get a mile of road built by a contractor for half the costs of the relief camp system and that the worker could get a fair wage. He added that it was said with a $5 per month allowance for the men a section of road in Northern Ontario last year cost $50,000. A contractor would build it for half that amount and would have paid fair wages. In eastern Ontario a mile of road under the relief plan cost $35,000. A contractor would have built it for $15,000.

"It will mean more wages for the worker and more money so that we can give more and build more roads," said the minister.

Hon. Dr. R. J. Manion, speaking for the Dominion government and inviting American holiday in Canada stated the tourists in Canada last year spent more money than farmers derived for their crops.

URGES JUDGMENT BE SUSPENDED

Doctors Urge Parents Withhold View on Discovery

Ontario parents who have had their hopes raised by the announcement of Dr. St. Claire Ransford Lindsley, Toronto-born woman, that "thousands of children paralyzed since birth may eventually walk and talk as other children" are advised by Reginald Hopper, secretary of the Ontario Society for Crippled Children, and Dr. D. E. Robertson, chief surgeon of the Toronto Hospital for Sick Children, to reserve judgment pending receipt of further information regarding results of this alleged medical discovery.

"Parents should place no credence, nor should they have their hopes aroused concerning any treatment that has not received the sanction of the profession generally," stated Dr. Robertson today.

"Every few years," continued Dr. Robertson, "something comes along with the statement that they have a cure for spastic paralysis. Doctors in Ontario are continually on the lookout for new methods that would be of benefit. Dr. Lindsley's methods have not yet been proven to any meeting of orthopaedic surgeons" went on Dr. Robertson "and it is my opinion that there can be no improvement of this condition except by special operative procedure."

Many inquiries regarding the re-ported achievements of Dr. Lindsley have been received at the office of the Ontario Society for Crippled Children," said Reginald Hopper yesterday. "The whole matter will be investigated thoroughly and Dr. Lindsley has been written to for more detailed information of her methods. In the meantime we are reserving any opinion."

STIRLING L.O.L. ATTENDS CHURCH

Brethren Addressed by The Rev. E. W. Rowland

Stirling, July 2—On Sunday morning, June 30th, Stirling L.O.L. No. 110 and L.O.B.A. No. 665 in company with the Stirling Citizen's Band attended divine worship at St. Paul's United Church. The members of both organizations gathered at their lodge rooms at 10.30 a.m. and headed by the band proceeded to the church, where an interesting service was conducted by the Pastor Rev. E. W. Rowland. Special music was given by the choir under the capable direction of Mr. O. L. Chie musical director and organist of St. Paul's Church their first offering was an anthem "Rejoice Oh Ye Righteous" given in a fine manner. Rev. E. W. Rowland delivered a message of great force as he addressed the brethren of the fraternity. "Forty years ago" he said, a man could be anything from the very lowest kind of a poverty stricken drunkard and yet be satisfied to some degree with the gospel of the great happiness In that same period of time, man's mind today it is different. Man cries out for a portion of that bounty to be given him here while on earth. Man now wants to be saved on earth Heaven comes to him. "This is a most significant year" stated Mr. Rowland and added it is to be the celebration of the founding of some great cause 60 years ago the various sections of the Presbyterian Church were brought together, 51 years ago the Methodist churchmen were solilly joined as one, 29 years ago the congregational churches united, 25 years ago the great Anglican Church had its beginning in the province of Ontario and 20 years ago the followers of King William were brought together on the first time Orangemen and at this time the speaker gave a brief sketch of the history of the order. The question is sometimes asked, why do we have lodges, what is the society which is forever stirring up under the stars. It is to mold definitely "no." The order is not secret and it is based on a religious principle. They have no apology to make for their existence nor they have a watchword to live with the Christian Church, and their motto is "Loyalty." Today we have on our hand a work that is of equal importance to the accomplishments of our heroic forefathers. For we are in grave danger of losing the great heritage in these troublesome times when powerful forces are at work in our present within our land. This red element with its atheistic philosophy of life is our common problem and we as thinking people have a responsibility clear of it. We must remember that the Communistic movement has risen in Germany—Nazi, in Italy Fascism is the great father of it and it is a godless element that is evident within our land to come to the front and sacrifice our constitutional law and authority which was given to us by our Christian forefathers. Never before has the demand been more urgent for the church and order to stand fast to the faith of our fathers. We are up against the driving conditions in Soviet Russia and Communistic propaganda in Ontario, would give a ticket to that land and in less than a decade we would plead for the ticket back home." Take away God and you would plead for God and pray for by our fathers that to them were committed. We have our own problems as do Utopian Russia and sanctified Germany, but we have the privilege of living of Belief. Let us improve, but hold fast to the faith. Let us be faithful to the prayer at the close of this fine address gave a solo entitled "Open Wide" Percy Hubble gave a duet—"Whispering Hope."

The evening worship service was very largely attended with holiday visitors and there was also present delegations in addition to the big number of regular members and adherents.

On Friday evening the following Brothers of Stirling I.O.O.F. visited the lodge at Frankford and conferred the Second Degree: Brothers, C. Carlyle, F. Bridges, Thomas, Clark, H. Ashley, Geo. DOMINION DAY

While Dominion Day's celebration may lack some of the enthusiasm which other nations put into their national holidays, Canada, it must be remembered, celebrates right royally the twenty-fourth of May and June third. His Majesty's birthday is marked in a number of places which do not observe Dominion Day, July 24th. Dominion Day, of course, is observed as a holiday though it lacks the more apparent demonstrativeness.

But the spirit of the Dominion is marked by the anniversary. Canadians are privileged in finding it possible to mark their natal day in the outdoor world. This means a pressing of the healthy outdoors experience, for no nation can go far which is not built on the sense of freedom which nature instils into the human heart. Canadians are blessed with one of the finest climates in the world, a climate which will always exert a powerful influence upon the initiative and the enthusiasm, the sanity and courage of the people. When they mark their national birthday they are always all in the natural setting in which it has pleased Providence to place them.

A CIRCUS ATMOSPHERE

Circus brought the old time atmosphere back to Belleville. Though many outward forms change as time goes on the spirit of them fortunately, for the circus appeals to the foundational interests in life in its form of amusement. It does not worry about sophistication and the monetary troubles of today, whatever its management worries over the high costs of circuses and the tax on admissions. And as its form of amusement does not alter, so its appeal is perennial for no matter how sophisticated the child may become, he is still a perfect natural at heart and it is the circus which brings this elemental character of man and child to the surface.

Who would want a circus if it was so modernized as not to be like the old circus? The clown uses tricks as old as the most ancient cities in the world where they showed and his appeal lives forever. Technocrats can meddle with the world but they do not appeal the way our old friend the clown does. He bares the instincts of the ridiculous in man and boy. What a thing therefore it is for the modern pessimist who sees nothing ahead of him and the world except blue ruin. The clown is the antidote of the melancholy man. Look at a clown's face and laugh. So great is his art.

And who would want a circus without a menagerie which is one of the primitive concepts of the child? Animals, the moving things in the world, first attract his attention after the human's arrival as a babe and he comes to know the domestic animal and then the wild one from story and from circuses. That first love for the animal and for the strange animal will never die out of man.

And then a circus is a moving thing. It is not a museum. It is a thrill and a thrill with life at every pore. The circus brings a health-giving air with which all men and women, boys and girls fill the lungs and their imagination.

Pomp, tinsel and glitter, and circumstance mark the circus. Whoever forgets the sight of the street parade and the grand march, who forgets the daring exploits of the acrobats, the expert handling of the trained animals, the skill of the contortionists, there is a manifold presentation of life going on in the rings. There is the crowd of spectators, all healthy, all delighted to see something which pleases them, to applaud daring, to praise the performer, to sway to the rhythm of the music. The circus preserves the horse still in all his glory in a motor-riding world, the horsemanship being of a kind which never fails to register a thrill for such is never seen outside of the big tent. The circus is the epitome of entertainment and while a circus man may use adjectives freely, who could express what he sees and feels at a circus in anything but adjectival descriptions?

So let circuses live forever, let them tour the continent, and may Belleville be one of the places always selected for a show.

Philosophy can do nothing which religion cannot do better than she; and religion can do a great many other things which philosophy cannot do at all.—Rousseau.

Public opinion is a weak tyrant, compared with our private opinion. What a man thinks of himself, that is what determines, or rather indicates his fate.—Thoreau.

That nation is worthless that will not, will place a premium upon venture all for its honor.—

THE INHERITANCE

Then my father spoke of the tales retold
That his father had told to him;
And I saw the scenes of life unfold
And life filled my cup to the brim.

'Twas then that I came to learn the light
That glowed in my father's eye,
As he told me of the deeds they had done for right,
With honor their only prize.

And I cried: "O, Father, I too will keep
Thy faith and the faith of our sires,
That my children's children shall never weep
For the evil of my desires.

"And so I will pledge my life to you,
And my sons' when God blesses me,
And, in turn, they will pledge their sons to be true
For all time and eternity.

AVOID ALL WORRIES and live long, said a woman in Montreal recently on her 101st birthday. Easy to say but hard to do.

Worrying folks just seemingly have to worry over little and big things, tangible things, and things which have no materialize. Won't it Martha in the Bible who worried over little things? Mrs. Timothee Malouin, of Montreal, who has just passed her 101st birthday, gives her recips for long life as follows:

Never worry, never hurry, walk a lot, and drink a glass of good wine three times a day for appetite's sake.

"Leave the cares of tomorrow for others to worry about, live for the pleasure of the day—and always take things easy," said Madame Malouin to a reporter. She has lived a long life without serious illness and is still in good health and active. Every Sunday she walks to Notre Dame de Lorette Church, her parish church, for morning Mass. She rises each morning at 9.30, has a small glass of light wine before breakfast and spends most of the day out of doors at the menu (never hurrying, never worrying)—Read till lunch time, then repeats the wine formula, and usually partakes of a small cooked steak, of which she is very fond. Her first question every morning is, "How's the weather?" If the weather determines whether she walks out or not. If the day is sunny and warm she goes for a walk. She considers that life is still worth while and people are kind, but hurry too much. She has not ridden in an automobile for some time, they go too quickly, she says. Modern young people are much the same as when she was young, but the girls do not wear enough clothing, in her opinion. Short dresses and sport clothes detract from their appearance, she says. To be really beautiful according to Madame Malouin, a woman must wear becoming clothes and enough of them.

SOME FOLKS WRITE ON THEIR CUFFS, others write on anything handy, but a new stunt is to write on your shirt bosom. Purple being set by no less a notable than Sigmund Romberg, well known composer of "The Student Prince." She was at the holidaying Chatham and attended a concert given by a Chatham harpist. The composer wished to send a message to the harpist asking that some of his own compositions be played. He could find nothing to write on so tore off his collar and wrote the request on it with the names of the compositions desired, and sent the collar to the platform. Being a musician and also temperamental the harpist did not mind.

The reckless motorist swerved and killed a fowl which darted across the road. An old woman who lived in a cottage nearby was quickly on the scene. Her face was red with anger and fear and forbidding. Before she could utter a word, the motorist plunged a hand in his pocket and tendered a $5 pound note.

"Here, my good woman," he said apologetically, "this will square matters."

The fury face softened.

"It is good of you," she said, "Now I shall be able to start keeping fowls myself."

REVOLT IN THE DESERT

by

T. E. LAWRENCE

These were great matters. It was determined that Auda himself should ride to Nuri and invite him to become their friends. Meanwhile we would stay with Ali ibn Flitna, meeting gently northward with him towards Nebk, where Auda would tell all the Abu Tayi to collect. He would be back from Nuri before they settled. This was the business, and he laded air bags of gold into Auda's saddle-bags and off he went. Afterwards Ali's chiefs or the Filenna walted on us, and said that they considered it feast us twice a day, forenoon and sunset, so long as we remained with them; and they meant what they said. However, hospitality was unlimited—but three-day nigarditiness for them of the nominal desert law and hospitality, and left a most honorable escape from the subtlety of the nomad's dream of well-being.

Each morning between eight and ten, a little group of blood mares under an assortment of imperfect saddlery would come to our camp-fire (Ali and us, and then Feisal, Nasir, Zeid and I would mount, and with Ali's chiefs as escort, would ride for half an hour. Then we would solemnly across the valley by the easy paths between the bushes. Our horses were led by our servants, who followed at a respectful to ride free or fast. So eventually we would reach the tent which was to be our host's for that time; each family claiming us in turn, Ali, Abd el Kadir, Mijbil el Zeil, the adjudicator, preferred quo out of just order.

As we arrived, the dogs would rush out at us, and be driven off by children with sticks. We had collected round the chosen tent—and we stepped in under the rope to its guest half, made very large for the occasion and carefully carpeted with its wall-curtain on the sunward side to give us shade. The bashful host would murmur and vanish again out of sight. The tribal men, hurld red things from their rout, were ready for us, arranged in a long, partiliion crescent, with the back wall and across the drop-end, so that we sat down on three sides of an open dusty space. We might be fifty men in all.

The host would reappear, standing by the pole; our local fellowship, Ali Ibn Hadhal, Zaal and other sheikhs, reluctantly let themselves be placed on the rugs between us, sharing our elbow-room on the pack saddles, padded with folded felt cloaks, upon which we leaned. The front of the tent was cleared, and the dogs were frequently chased away by excited children, who ran between the empty space pulling on them from either side. Coffee-bowls were less as fifty years were low, and each man rounded the smallest infants of all, out of their flip-flaps, and would stare at the company, gravely balancing on their hands, clasped together, their thumbs and pushing out cautiously their tongues.

Then would follow an awkward pause, which our friends would try to fill by talking, and we by eating the household hawk (when possible in a semi-circle, each man to the fire-coast) or their watch-cockerel, their gryphound. Once a tame lion was produced in for our entertation: another time an ozyx. When the food was finished, the bowls were wordy try and find a small-talk to

20 YEARS AGO

JULY 2nd., 1915

The Rev. S. C. Moore, B.A., B.D., the new pastor of the Tabernacle Church, was inducted into office yesterday.

The Rev. J. H. Clarry, B.A., the new pastor of Holloway Street Methodist Church, has arrived in the city. The new pastor, the Rev. A. R. Sanderson, has left for his new charge in Bloomfield.

Mrs. C. R. Donnelly and family of Rochester, N.Y., Mrs. Hall and Mrs. D. Denton, after an absence of four years.

The holiday yesterday was exceptionally quiet in the city, there being no celebration of any kind. Many citizens went to Napanee and other places where the day was being celebrated. The holidayers from Chatham and attended a concert given by a Chatham harpist.

The composer wished to send a message to the harpist asking that some of his own compositions be played. He could find nothing to write on so tore off his collar and wrote the request upon it with the names of the compositions desired, and sent the collar to the platform. Being a musician and also temperamental the harpist did not mind.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Symington spent the holiday in Toronto with friends.

The editor of the Intelligencer is in receipt of a handsomely illustrated booklet from Mr. C. M. Held who is now in London, England.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Ford are visiting friends in Bay City.

Dr. Perry Goldsmith, Mrs. Goldsmith and young son are spending a short time at Oak Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Frost of Toronto, spent the holiday in the city.

Judge Lazier and Mrs. Lazier are spending some time in Wellington.

Mr. George Wilder is visiting his brother in Rochester.

Mr. and Mrs. George Meyers of Toronto, spent the holiday here with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Black spent yesterday in the city with relatives, enroute to their future home in Cobalt.

JULY 2nd., 1895

The Rev. E. Boynton has been appointed assistant to the Rev. R. Roberts at the Bridge Street church.

Ald. W. H. Gordon and family spent the holiday at Deseronto.

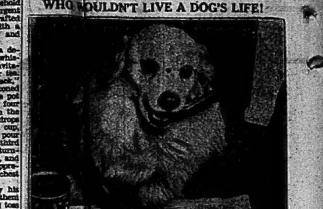
Miss Georgie Sutherland of this city is visiting friends in Deseronto.

Mr. W. J. Thomson spent the holiday in Marmora.

Mr. M. D. Ward, dentist, spent Dominion Day in Toronto. He was accompanied by his son, William.

Mr. Chas. Vandervoort spent the holiday in Deseronto.

Mr. J. A. Brasier and Mr. Albert Vandervoort spent yesterday in Tweed.



There was no public celebration of Dominion Day in this city.

JULY 2nd., 1885

July 1st, 1885, the anniversary of Confederation, was not such a gala day as merry-makers would chose had they the privilege of having the weather made to order. At an early hour the sun rose to enter the city from all the leading highways, hauling loads of happy people bent on viewing the several events which were to transpire in the city. The downtown streets were crowded. At eleven o'clock a grand procession was formed on the market square under the following order: Highland Brass Band, Knights of St. Andrew's Society, 15th. Battalion Band, soldiers of the 15th. Battalion, members of the Masonic Fraternity on their high wheels, Oddfellows' Band, Independent Hose Company No. 3. After the parade the soldiers marched to Hotel Street in Bleecker's Grove to engage in a friendly battle. The officers of the battilion, two companies, were stationed in the grove under command of Lieut. Col. Lazier, Major Bleecker and Major J. W. Dumont. The remainder of the battalion under Col. Lazier took up a position on the bank of the Moira River at the corner of Bleecker and Hotel Streets, and sent out a line of skirmishers to feel the enemy's position. After a couple of hours' fire the attendants retired on the main body. No. 2 Company under Capt. Pond Pontion deployed to the left, while No. 3 Company under Capt. Bath Lazier deployed to the right. No. 3 Company under Col. Lazier moved forward in line of fours, Capt. Pontion hurried his men forward and deployed in front on their right. Soon after Adjt. Lazier rallied the fire then fell back and Lazier bringing up his command formed line and the reserves attached the front. A short sharp fire the enemy retreated and were driven from their position in the grove. The fight being over the men were formed and addressed by Col. Lazier at the close of which the battalion marched to the armory and were dismissed. In the afternoon sports were held on the field at the bicycle park. The celebration was under the auspices of St. Andrew's Society and Messrs. D. W. Waters and William Sexsmith were entrusted with the management of the affair. The proceedings were quite successful although not have been selected. Some notes of the day have been given. The division of the 15th. Battalion under command of Adjt. Lazier to the steam fight was charged by a body of the 15th. It took a volley from the men to turn the enemy, but the battle did not like the red uniforms. The ladies in the Highland games were Messrs. W. H. Foster, Alex. Biggar and David McKay. Their decisions gave general satisfaction. An old man in the rear of the grandstand on the north side caved in under the load of free spectators upon it. No one was injured. The streets were crowded all day in which the park is situated were densely packed with free spectators to the works in the evening.

WHO WOULDN'T LIVE A DOG'S LIFE!

Here is "Pet" who Eskimo Spitz that inherited the entire $25,000 of his late master, Miss Margaret McDermott of Chicago, colbreating the good luck by feasting on bones and other assorted dog-food. Everything to tickle a canine appetite was on the dinner menu.

Chiselling Contagious

(From "Hardware" and Metal")

Press reports tole of the recent seizure of 400 speckled trout by wardens of the Ontario Department of Game and Fisheries. One thing of the three 400 fish measured up to the seven inch legal catch limit. One man had upward of 200 of the undersized trout, all of them last year's fish, and many of them were no larger than sardines. For that reason it was impossible to have them consumed even by charitable institutions.

"This is one of the worst cases of game-hogging I have ever run across and enough to break a true sportsman's heart," said the Deputy Minister of Game and Fisheries.

This is just another indication of the depth to which the "chiseller" can sink. Because he thinks he can get away with it—even in the field of amateur sport which had been notably free of the virus which has nearly paralyzed business the chiseller stops at nothing. It is to be hoped that true sportsmen quickly apply the proper remedy to attempts to invade their ranks while employing such dastardly unsportsmanlike tactics as did these anglers. The chiseller is despised wherever whatever. They must continuously be under the watchful eye of a policeman if decent citizens are to be protected. The chiseller is common in business and is found among many other interests as well.

Canada is undoubtedly a land of great opportunity, but for that reason it will also become a land of great opportunity for the opportunist, the exploiter and the chiseller. Our great potential wealth has its dangers in that it is bound to attract a large proportion of this filthy element. This makes all the more necessary the proper enforcement of our laws. Every business man should support the law enforcement officers to the limit, providing they are honest and are doing a good job. They must have efficient law enforcement in this country, without fear or favor, we are in grave danger of encountering a condition nearly as our discredit.

Many Canadian business men have allowed themselves to fall prey to the unscrupulous of the exploiter and the opportunist in the past. Every effort of honesty throughout the world as "suckers" for every "glittering" scheme and for every glib-tongued individual with a gold brick.

THE RED TIGER

By ALANSON CROSBY

"You do not think him guilty, do you, Mr. Anderson?" Judith pleaded piteously.

"I don't know," the lawyer answered. "It may have not given the matter much consideration; I know Spencer, though, and it seems incredible that he could commit such a crime." Anderson smiled, a bit grimly. "Do you wish to retain me as counsel for the defense?"

"How can I" Judith said softly unmindful of the check in her hand. "I have no money."

Anderson laughed and nodded toward the bit of paper.

"Really, my check isn't as bad as all that. Any you forget your lawyer . . . Now you see Miss Bates, how desirable it is that you should wave aside all scruples as to the acceptance of this bit of good fortune. It may take a great deal of money to clear Mr. Spencer—if he is innocent, which is precisely you know. You will accept your legacy?"

"Yes," said Judith decisively. "And devote every cent of it if necessary to the vindication of Randal Spencer."

"Very well. Then you wish me to act as your personal counsel in this matter?"

"In this and all things if you will, Mr. Anderson."

"I consider your confidence an honor—and I'll do my best. . . My dear, it is past lunch time. Suppose we pressed the buzzer on his desk. When Miss Selmer appeared in the doorway in answer, "Ruth, be said: "Tell Mr. Harold Stokes I wish to see him at once."

Miss Selmer looked significantly at Judith, who had cast aside her notebook and pencil, bowed, and left the room.

Within a few minutes Stokes entered the office looking sullen. As he saw Judith he scowled. Anderson pointed to a third chair and spoke:

"Please be seated, Mr. Stokes. You are acquainted with Miss Bates, of course. I have just had the pleasure of congratulate her on her good fortune."

Stokes' frown deepened. He did not take the indicated chair but stood by it nervously.

"What good fortune?" he snarled. "What good fortune?"

"Your late uncle's last will and testament makes her his sole heir," said Anderson calmly.

"It's a lie!" Stokes snapped.

"Oh, no, it isn't," said Anderson pleasantly. "I have it here." His voice, your language and manner are unbecoming, Mr. Stokes, and unpostsmanship . . . This is the will in holograph, you will observe—written by Mr. Bates on the back of a telegram partner, was murdered.

"Stokes, did you get it?" Stokes demanded.

"I found it in this desk," said Anderson, unruffled. "The murderer or his fairly examination of papers overlooked it."

"It's a forgery!" Stokes shouted, hoarse with rage. "I'll fight the case to the last ditch!"

"Why, Mr. Stokes," said Anderson . . . "I am surprise. "You quite astonish me! What reason have you to regard this manifestly authentic document as a forgery?"

"I have the genuine will in my office," blustered Stokes. "I am the beneficiary, as I should be."

"Ah, that old document," asked Anderson mildly.

"Oh, about a year. But the date doesn't matter. It is the only genuine will my uncle ever drew."

"How long have you had it in your possession?" Mr. Anderson asked calmly, as though he were considering the question of the authenticity of the other will.

"Just ten days," He stopped, and then added suddenly: "Why, I had stepped blindly into a trap.

"Ten days!" Anderson inclined his head gravely. "Why, then, you forgot your memory is tough about Randall Spencer's guilt. Of course, he's innocent! (Sally wasn't so sure of it, but will hours couldn't have drawn a confession or doubt from her in Judith's presence) "but don't you think it would be better for him if you give himself up and face the music? Think how much time you would save!"

"I'm sorry, Judie dear," said the latter, "but I must go. I'll be back before you come way . . . There's the bell-boy. Shall I let him in?"

"Please," said Judith.

She saw a momentary look of surprise come into Sally's face as she answered the call, and Sally winked at her reassuringly as the boy came on one at the other end of the line. Then Sally turned to hang up her hand over the mouthpiece, and whispered hurriedly:

"Gee whiz, Judie, it's Miss Madison! . . . Are you home?"

"Yes," said Judith, and took the receiver from Sally.

"Hello, Madison Bates," she said into the transmitter.

"Is that Miss Madison," came thru the wire in cold, crisp tones. "I wish to speak to you at once with regard to Miss Bates. Will you be my guest at tea tonight? Very informal—just a few friends. Can you come me, I shall send my car for you in half an hour. Will that be convenient?"

Judith had expected a little elaboration of the invitation, but a cool "Extremely kind of you" was the response that came from the hook-like click of the receiver hung up on the other end of the line.

"Do you mind eating dinner with me?" Judith asked, hanging the receiver and turning to Sally with a faint smile. "Miss Madison wants me to take tea with her."

"Gee whiz and golly thunder!" Sally exclaimed. "I will not have you just talking about her. Well, you have nerve enough! Wouldn't that make a great headline for Bob: "Beautiful Girl Takes Tea With Murderer's Sister Only In Their Eyes? Well, good luck, old dear. Take a look at your advice, though—carry a chemist bottle of smelling salts before you drink it."

Sally chided Judith.

"Yah! Well, I'm off to the dining room. They can stare at me as much as they please. Anyway, I won't blast 'em! If you're not back by midnight I'll send the police to look for your mangled remains! Good-bye, I'll never see you alive!" Miss Selmer Randall Spencer as Slayer Stokes!"

"Yah!" responded Sally. "And don't forget to tell the spectators in dersen found old Mr. Stokes' body—he died—last will and testament; Beautiful Stranger Proves Sole Heir! And when Harold Stokes, under pup, kicks up a fuss, Miss Bates, Disinherited Nephew Claims Forgery! Then, before the jury, Miss Bates dazzled quick, though, after Mr. Anderson's evidence, I wonder what's become of Stokes? He's disappeared completely. Hasn't left a trace. Well, I suppose I'll see you at the trial. Good-bye, and no summons to the Madison mansion might be.

"Mistress is the right word," she said to herself a little resentfully, as Judith disappeared in the hall. "Yah, and you, too, darling. I reckon Mr. Stokes is terribly upset his egotism to have you turn him out of all that money. I'm not going to step into the old man's shoes, and then I'll just thank you, and not be, would get the dough-well, I guess that nearly drove him crazy. I shall we go down and get on the good old nosebags?"

"I," said Judith, as they never served here, if you don't mind. Sally, I don't feel like eating. I'm not hungry. I'll have a cup of coffee and a sandwich or two sent up to my room. I'll eat in town? Judith, I'm going to send to me. I feel like a parasite, Sally, I'm going to start expending and selling away my little twenty dollars. I'll get a job and pay back—"

"Hush, dear," Judith said. "I'm all right. I'll be all always will be. I with you'd give me a chance to be job not be my private secretary, Sally, I'm going to start expending and selling away my little twenty dollars. I'll get a job and pay back—"

"Hush, dear," Judith said. "I'm all right. I'll be all always will be. I with you'd give me a chance to be job not be my private secretary, Sally, I'm going to start expending and selling away my little twenty dollars. I'll get a job and pay back—"

"You'll have to let Inez Seastey before you need a private secretary," observed Sally. "When you do I'll give your application as my employment qualification. The waiting list is awfully long, you know. But seriously, Judie dear, why don't you let me stay with you? I'll be always had the looks and more than enough money. Gifts in four years

LEG ULCERS

Respond Promptly To This Treatment

Many people suffering from leg ulcers have found that Zam-Buk relieves pain and heals the sores in a surprisingly short time. Mrs. Mary Moore's case is typical. She says: "I had a bad leg ulcer for years. Previously every dressing I put on it caused pain, but Zam-Buk relieved the pain at once. I used Zam-Buk for a month, and the ulcer healed completely. I am grateful for what Zam-Buk has done for me." Zam-Buk is equally good for eczema, piles, abscesses, blood poisoning, ringworm, cuts, burns, scalds, chapped hands, and all skin injuries and diseases. Refuse substitutes. 50c box everywhere.

NEED FOR BIBLE IS POINTED OUT

Rev. W. J. Walker Tells Story of Translation of Bible

The annual meeting of the Dupont Canada Bible Society was held in Bridge Street United Church. In spite of the rain the attendance was not encouraging.

Devotional exercises were conducted by the pastor, Rev. A. E. Mowles after which the secretary, Rev. A. L. Geen took the chair and called for the reading of the last year's minutes. These were read by the secretary and carried. Then the treasurer, Mr. Lloyd Burke, read his report which showed a fairly satisfactory financial condition. The report was received and carried. Then the election of the officers for the ensuing year were proceeded with.

L. Edwards as treasurer, reported collections of $274.30, of this amount $214.00 was sent in, thereby leaving a small balance on hand. Rev. Mr. Reid moved and Mr. Edwards seconded and carried that a hearty vote of thanks be tendered the ladies for their faithful work as collectors.

The speaker for the evening was Rev. W. J. Walker, B.A., B.D. Mr. Walker gave a very good and instructive address on the Bible Society and its work. He stressed the urgency of the circulation of the Bible in view of the strenuous opposition encountered by such organizations in challenging the circulation of the Bible. Talented international relationships are pertaining in Southern Saskatchewan where he had labored, he found that many Jews were using the Bible because of athestic tendencies in their religion. Mr. Walker claimed the Bible is not read as much as it should be. Many homes today do not carry on without the aid of the Bible Society translating the Bible into other tongues.

Speaking of the origin of the Bible Mr. Walker said God carried out its humble beginning. A young Jew found Joseph's coat among

PRESENTATION AND ADDRESS

On Tuesday evening a concert was held at S.S. No. 6, Huntingdon and the teacher, Miss Marie Townsend was presented with a gift on behalf of the community. The presentation was arranged by pupils and parents.

Miss Townsend was presented with a silver casserole and an address read in her honor by Miss Thelma Elliott. Miss Townsend graciously thanked her friends for their kindness. A quinty lunch was served after the program.

The address is as follows:—

"West Huntingdon, June 23, 1935.

"Dear Miss Townsend:—

"We regret to lose of your leaving our neighborhood but hope you may find another one where they appreciate you as we have. You have been always kind and ever ready and willing spirit at all times since coming in our midst. Your genial manner has helped to lighten many a burden and brighten many a dark cloud.

"We feel we could not let this opportunity pass without in some way showing our appreciation for your help and kindness, towards us as pupils and friends. We would ask you to accept this small token and always remember there is a warm spot in our hearts for you. We want you to feel and know you are welcome in our community and our homes at any time you wish to come.

"We all join in wishing you every success and good luck in your undertakings" and trust that wherever you go you may find lots of true friends.

"Signed on behalf of the pupils and friends of School section No. four (—)—"

Anglican Primate Visits Picton for Anniversary

Accompanied by Lord Bishop of Ontario and Others

Picton, July 2—(Special)—Commemorating the sixty-eighth anniversary of Confederation, the special yearly service was held on Sunday afternoon, June 30th, at the old St. Mary Magdalene's Church, at three o'clock. Large flags at the front of the church grounds, and hanging from the great lonzal trees, emphasized the patriotic aspect of the occasion. The interior of the quaint old edifice, built in 1823, and partially restored when Rev. Dr. Lyons was rector of the parish, was fragrant with many baskets of lovely blooms—daisies, delphinium and peonies. The flowers for the chancel were in memory of Rev. Cannon Loucks, for forty years rector of the parish, and of Mrs. Loucks, placed there by the family, and also in memory of the Abercrombie family. The offertory was taken in the quaint, old collection box used in this old church, when Rev. Wm. McAuley was the first rector of the parish. This offertory, after the expenses of the service are dedicated, is used to keep the burying ground surrounding the church, where many prominent pioneers of the county lie at rest, in a very well-kept state, under the direction of Mr. Nelson Bailie. The choir, under the leadership of Mr. Sid Simpson, with Miss Holmes at the organ, supplied the music provided for the occasion. Mrs. P. Webster was heard in a solo given with fine effect. Hymns sung included—The Most Rev. Derwyn T. Owen, D. D. C. L., Lord Archbishop of Toronto, and Primate of all Canada, who gave the sermon on the afternoon.

The Right Rev. John Lyons B. D. Lord Bishop of the Diocese, the W. E. Kidd, Kingston, the Archbishop's Chaplain, Rev. A. E. Stuart, Kingston, Bishop Bown's Chaplain, Rev. Redding of Tamworth, Arch Deacon Dumbrell of Napanee, Rev. Hope Swayne of Tweed, Rev. G. G. Wright of Belleville, Rev. Canon Smith of Trenton, Rev. Arthur Smith of Trenton, Rev. Mr. Walker of Bath, Rural Dean Leech of Amherst Island.

The lessons were read by Arch Deacon Dumbrelle and Bishop Lyons. Rev. Cannon Smith offered prayer.

Following the address of welcome to His Grace, the Lord Primate, by Mr. A. E. Strickland, the people's warden, Archbishop Owen said that such an address brought him happiness, and encouragement to meet the difficulties he had also encountered in the ten months that he had held the primacy of the Church of England in Canada. He referred to the "father" of the Church of England in Canada, Rev. John Stuart, born in Pennsylvania about 200 years ago, who began his ministry in Canada in 1785. He was called the "little gentleman", six feet four inches in height, and built in proportion. In all his travels up and down Canada, His Grace said he had conducted services in many private houses, stores and shacks, but this yearly service in an old church, was the first service of this kind he had ever attended—a service made beautiful by sacred associations and memories of childhood. Such a yearly service pays tribute to reverence and to the past, to God, our refuge from generation to generation. His Grace spoke of the pioneers, as people with a spirit of adventure. They had vision and looked ahead. They had faith that endured—seeing Him who is invisible. They were practical people. They were idealists and realists. We have pioneers today in Northern Ontario, in the Yukon and the Peace River Country. This service pays tribute to all sentiment that characterizes pioneers, wherever they are found. His Grace read an extract from an ancient book found in an old library in Toronto, describing a community in Upper Canada in the early days. There was pictured the estate in the woods, with its comfortable log house, and handmade furniture. Inside was the silver and china brought across the lake by the Loyalist, from his old home. As children were old, it was replaced by garments made of the coarse blankets issued by the government, or often of cerealin, later linen and woollen cloth was woven from home grown flax and wool. Neighbor helped neighbor at barn building and house raising. At such occasions there as plenty of food and drink, and dancing to music, supplied by the fiddle. Hidden, Bible and prayerbooks were cherished possessions brought from the old homes to the new. His Grace said today we have need of the spirit of the pioneers in meeting today's problems. We need to meet new conditions with vision and faith, and the spirit of adventure that accepts change. His Grace brought greetings from Miss Miller Provost of Toronto, who is retiring from active missionary work.

A very large congregation from all parts of the County gathered for this inspiring service. Mr. Wm. Leeds, 94, the oldest member of the church, was able to attend.

Dock Strike

When the "City of Toronto" docked at Picton at 10 o'clock Saturday morning, the regular men who load canned goods onto the boats, went on strike, holding up the work for some time. They demanded 40c per hour instead of 35c per hour they had been receiving. They said the pay was fine, but time of the opening of the hatches, until they were finally closed, with no time declared for work for trucks to arrive. Their demands were refused. Right manager, Mr. Cannon the crew of the boat supplemented by new dockers filled a gap, and an hour, loaded the canned goods in record time. The police were called to prevent any disorder. The old workers feeling they had experience called a meeting on Saturday night, with no apparent results.

Early Sunday afternoon some twenty boats from Belleville sailed for Picton, the second boat F. F. L. Ward, Herb. Daubney, Lloyd Hicks and others in their craft. At 5 o'clock Sunday evening, the boats arrived from Kingston for the Regatta on Dominion Day. The visitors were accomodated in a large tent near the old electric light station.

Mr. and Mrs. Greenshields of Toronto, on Saturday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Kinney, Mary Street, West.

On Saturday evening, June 29th, Miss Margaret Collier, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Wilbur Collier and Mr. James Cecil Archer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Archer of Bellville, Ont., were quietly married at the Presbyterian Manse, with Rev. S. M. Scott officiating. Miss Catherine Collier was bridesmaid, and the ceremony was attended by immediate relatives. Mr. and Mrs. Archer will reside in Belleville.

Miss Cole, teacher in the Kinney School, Greenbush, treated her pupils to a picnic at Parks Cove on Saturday.

Early Saturday evening a son of Mr. James Bond of Milford, luckily escaped serious injury, when a motor car in which he was driving got out of control. One horse was hitched to a buggy, and the other being led by the young man. On reaching the hill the horses being led became frightened, and the team tore madly down Hinton street in the midst of fairly heavy traffic. Turning a corner sharply at the Court House, the horse being led fell, halting the mad race. This horse was bruised by the fall, but Mr. Bond was uninjured.

On Saturday while Mr. John Heffernan worked in his garden, a thief entered his house and escaped with a gold watch, and $2.00. No arrest has yet been made.

Miss Marporie Vance of the staff of Mary St. School, has left to spend the summer in British Columbia where she expects to attend Summer School.

Miss Helen Bond returned to Brockville on Monday July 1st after sending the week—at her home here.

Mr. Bruce Yarwood, Mr. Fred Cott and Mr. Herbert Mallett are organizing the Boy Scouts who go to camp on Thursday July 4th for ten days at Consecon Lake.

AUTOS KILL 15,296 IN 6 MONTHS IN U. S.

Hartford, Conn., July 2.—A toll of 15,296 dead and 500,000 hurt in automobile crashes in the United States during the first six months of 1935 was reported today by the Travellers' Insurance Company. The number of deaths is about two per cent. less than for the first six months last year, the report shows.

Three Run Rally in Fifth Williams' Perfect Hurling Gives Radios Win Over Petes

Teammates Also Turn in Smart Defensive Play

GREY BEST HITTER

Williams Helps Win Own Game With a Single

Peterboro, Ont., July 2—Stewart-Warners celebrated Dominion Day in the Little City with a 3-1 C. O. B. L. win over the Petes to hand Enotty Lee's squad its first home defeat of the year. With Jack Williams hurling fine ball and getting perfect support, single Eastern Field gained just one big frame to net three counters for the victory. They got it in the fifth and Ralph Grey led the homesters to a single run in the ninth.

It early developed into a pitching duel between Williams and Russ Kitchen, the Indian had a hot fastball edge as Kitchen wobbled long enough in the fifth to lose the game. The Chief scattered seven hits evenly over the nine innings, while he fanned two and walked three. Not at his best, Williams nevertheless tightened up at crucial times, while his teammates gave him great backing. Williams allowed seven hits as he struck out three and issued three accompaniments. He got good support, too.

Grey led the winners at bat with a ringing double and batted in two appearances. Williams , Mcllroy, Green, Weir and Barclay got one hit apiece, which lopped the number to four for four and Whatley hit a double.

Radios Shine Defensively

The whole Radio outfit shone defensively. Kitchen was the only fairly sparkling around second and Weir and Grey outdazzled in the garden. The Petes infield also looked smart, and Murphy was particularly good at short. Bellefield threatened in the first, when Gray led off with a double to centre. He advanced on an infield out but died at third. Foley's weak meant nothing in the Pete's half, Green beat out a bunt in the second but was forced by Smith, who got on through third second, and Whatley died on the keystone sack for Peterborough in their end, after doubling to right. Both sides went out in order in the third but Belleville repeated in the fourth. Foley walked and moved up on a single for the Lee crew but stopped at third.

The Mills boys got three next inning. With one out, Gray drew a walk and went to second McIlroy's sacrifice. Williams singled to right and sent McIlroy to third, the latter tallying on Kramer' bad throw to Lind and the Chief trotting to second. Gray rolled out and Williams went third. Kerr was hit by a pitched ball and stole second, Barclay walking. Lind's throw to second to catch the field his scored Williams but Green ground out.

In the Pete's half, Kitchen cingled with two out but got no further. The visitors went out one-two-three in the next two frames but the home team scored a run in the sixth. Calladine opened with a single, went to second on Kenna's hit and raced on to Murphy's single. An ash catcher's fly to Green left Calladine on third and Murphy on second. Calladine's hit to Williams' right field his scored Williams but Green ground out.

GANANOQUE WINS FROM BELLEVILLE

Locals Shoved Down to Third Place by 8-2 Score

Gananoque defeated Belleville in the Bay of Quinte baseball game on the home ice last evening 7-4. Belleville oldtimers Gananoque 11-8 but their errors, seven to Gananoque's two, were responsible for some of the runs.

Gananoque scored three in the first, two in the fifth and two in the eighth; while Belleville registered single runs in the first, the fifth and one in the seventh.

This makes the second home game which Gananoque has won this season and the team appears to improve with every game, while the visitors dropped to third place in the league standings.

KI-Y LEAGUE

Two champions in the local Ki-Y softball league were declared following wins on third base in two different sections on Saturday when Cobourg won the third and final game in the play-off of the Bantam series to annex that sectional title while the Rough Riders defeated the Cubs in the Junior Ontario Group 2 series.

In the Bantam play-off each team had won a game, Cobourg the game and Saturday's victory of the Tigers by the score of 13 to 11 gave them the championship honors. Also in the Juvenile series the Rough Riders won without a game.

ALEMITE WINS FIXTURE 15-3

Second Inning is Nightmare to Gordon Steel Works Nine

TWEED.— Everything that goes to make up a softball game was crowded into the second inning of Friday's game between Gordon Steel Works and Alemites which was won by the latter with a 15-3 score. This fatal inning in which the visitors scored seven runs was a nightmare to the local fans, as eleven men went to bat, Boyle and Dickey up twice. The first two men were called safe at first base on some weird umpiring when even the runners themselves admitted they were out cold. This was followed by a painful injury to Simpson, local catcher which delayed the game for several minutes. On his return Simpson greeted Latimer's second pitch with a four base knock scoring three runs. From then on it was a succession of Lefty swatting mixed in with four or five errors. When the smoke cleared away the visitors had an insurmountable lead and there was no holding them.

This encouragement worked out favourably for Alemite. From then on they could do nothing wrong. White pitched a masterly game, allowing but six hits, while his mates decidedly scrachy. He was backed up by sensational fielding particularly by Jordan at short, and Halsey in centre. The former neared one of the circuit clouts and labelled for extra bases had they not been called back. Halsey after put out three on nice catches. Everyone of the visitors made a contributed one or more hits, Jordan had four and Glenn three, one a homer. For the losers Gordon Plate three times, Flagler, Henn, Bowman and Bellefeuil once.

Meraw and Gowsell who replaced Laffman in the ninth allowed the heavy hitters for the locals. The first game contested for a home and away series in Alemite's home ground. Although he was a loser in his only turn at bat. Both these hurlers showed to good advantage in eighth and accounted for all the locals' runs. Sinclair being on through Dickey's error incidentally the only one made by the visitors during the game. Gowsell's homer was the longest hit of the day, far over Flagler's head in left field, crossing the plate almost at the moment the ball struck the ground. Gordon's scrap furnished the finest bit of fielding, when the second baseman foul fly in the second after a long run. Meraw made an unassisted double play in the seventh.

KINGSTON AND OSHAWA SPLIT

Ponies Lose First One 7-4 And Win Second 11 to 2

Kingston, July 2—(CP)—Oshawa snapped out of their losing streak when they defeated Kingston Ponies here Monday morning 7-4. It was the first defeat in four games for the Central Ontario senior league leaders.

Oshawa got to Clancy for a run in the first and three more in the third, while the Ponies failed to get a hit off Kaltenbrunner's delivery in the sixth.

In the fifth Osh-awa had run the count to four on Goudy, J. E. Shortt and Ralph B. Morden.

Garield Kelly and Stella Bird Winners of Main Sections

As was the case last year, Kingston natators were very much to the front, when the trophies were presented the winners of the Across the Bay Swim at Rossmore yesterday morning. The three divisional, which were open to them, ladies, senior and juniors were all won by the easterners but in only one of these, the senior, was last year's time bettered.

Although five swimmers had previously filled their entry for the Senior Division, when the race was started only Garfield Kelly of Kingston responded. Three other swimmers were present at Rossmore but were without boats to accompany them and because of this were not allowed to compete. In spite of the fact he had no opposition to crowd him along, Kelly maintained a fast seconds off his last year's time to make a new record of 41 minutes, 12 seconds for the mile and a half. In winning yesterday's Senior event the Kingston entry kept within his string of victories, having competed in more than four score sessions and obtaining first places honors in all four.

Miss Gardner Defeated

Stella Bird, the only Kingston lady representative, was able to turn the tables on Frances Gardner, Belleville, who won last year, when she headed all other contestants in the ladies' event by a fine margin mark by slightly better than two minutes. Miss Bird's time of 48 minutes, 31 seconds, lacked but a second of being two minutes slower than last year's record for the event, but on that occasion the swimmers were entering from the opposite direction. Misses Edna Shaw and Gladys Marsden of Kingston two entrants in the girls' race, finished in that order.

Aajmaa Split

Meraw and Gowsell who replaced Laffman in the ninth allowed the heavy hitters for the locals. The first game contested for a home and away series in Alemite's home ground. McCARNEY RINK WINS DOUBLES

Fisher and Fisher Jr., of Local Club Ahead in Consolation

Lawn Bowlers from all parts of Eastern Ontario met at the Belleville Lawn Bowling Club yesterday for the annual "men's doubles" tournament. The matches were keenly contested with the final play in consolation series finishing up after 9.00 a.m. today. During the progress of the afternoon's proceedings, activities were hailed for a short space of time, during which the ladies of the membership of the Belleville Lawn Bowling Club, Mrs. Geo. Watson, presented the retiring president, C. A. Peck, with a beautiful hand carved walnut bookend. Mr. Peck responded to the occasion and conveyed words of regret upon his resignation, wishing the Belleville Lawn Bowling Club every success in the future. Miss Hurley, on behalf of the ladies' group of the club, expressed the appreciation of the club to Mrs. Peck who also took an active interest in the thriving organization.

The finals in the annual men's doubles were won by the McCarney rink of Kingston, defeating the Oulcliffe rink of Norwood. The consolation finals were also eventually won by the Keith-Thompson rink of Cobourg, by the score of 8 to 7, after a hectic eight end game. The results of the play were

AAJMAAS SPLIT WITH OAKWOODS

Lose Afternoon Tilt 9-4 And Win Nightcap 7-6

Two games of holiday softball were played in Belleville at the baseball park yesterday, when the local Aajmaa A.C. split an exhibition twin bill with the fast Oakland seniors of Toronto, the visitors winning the afternoon fixture by the score of 9 to 4, while the Aajmaas came down from first to win the nightcap scrap by the score of 7 to 6. Both games were keenly contested throughout, being enjoyed by the spectators.

The Oakwoods staged a belated rally in the second game to score four runs in the last inning, but the masterful pitching of Bert Bawden, local moundsman, proved too much for them and saw the locals win 7 to 6. Bawden hurled steady ball throughout the entire game and three McDowell, the starting hurler for the Oakwoods whiffed six, but was nicked for 12 of the thirteen hits garnered by the Aajmaas. McCormick, the relief pitcher used by the Oakwoods, proved far more effective, striking out six in two innings, as he allowed only one single. With the exception of the twelfth, which saw the visitors record four runs and two homers, Bawden was in complete control of the situation and was afforded excellent support by his teammates.

Hanna, for the homesters hit for the circuit, as did Cameron and Findlay on the visiting team. They each swatted a triple while Clarke and Darby hit for the circle.

In the afternoon tilt the Oakwoods were the victors as one of the singlays committed by the locals and score-it six runs on two hits. A walk and a homer each. They were never headed. Frank Farraro started as the mound choice for the locals but was replaced by Warpy O'Brien in the fourth inning. Throughout the tilts of Toronto hits. Findlay hurled the entire game for the Juvenile nine and garnered seven hits. Only a seven run lead in the second frame, Bruner hit the only homer of the afternoon tilt.

Score by innings:

TORONTO STOCKS CLOSE

Toronto, July 2—(CP)—Distillery stocks started the day with a brilliant note but early gains were pared in the late trading while the afternoon general tone was a bit heavy, giving the list a preponderance of recessions over gains at the close. Oils, foods, and miscellaneous issues were down. Volume was a little under-sized.

Liquor shares held fractional gains in today's industrial share market while other the rest of the board losses were as numerous as gains. Nickel sold down 2-8, Brazilian 1-8, C.P.R. 1-8 and Imperial and British American Oil dropped a small fraction each.

Distillers-Seagrams held the volume leadership and it touched 20 before dropping part of the advance under profit-taking. Walkers Common advanced a point, under smaller turnovers and Industrial Alcohol "A" was unchanged into a fraction.

Food, steel, bank and miscellaneous groups were quiet with a generally firm tone prevailing.

TORONTO MINES CLOSE

Toronto, July 2.—(CP) — Gold stocks had the main play on the mining section of the Toronto Exchange today but volume on the whole was below the average for June. Pickle Crow, Teck Hughes, Cams, Sladen and Central Patricia came up in considerable volume. There were no price adjustments of importance made at the local session, closing near last Friday's final level.

The mining section was decidedly slow, following the double holiday with prices showing a general note of firmness. McIntyre had a loss of 31 while Lake Shore was up 2-3 and Bralorne, Teck Hughes, Hollinger and Wright Hargreaves boarded only minor changes.

Norvana was the outstanding issue in the Base Metals, adding 50 cents while the other active stocks were unchanged. In Red Lake Eldorado and Castle eased back 4 to 7 cents but Howey showed reaction on heavy trading.

In the speculative Gold Coast division Sylvanite and Mackenzie were off-setting gains for Pickle Crow and Central Patricia.

WALL STREET FINANCIAL

New York, July 2 (AP)— With Washington developments apparently to its liking, the stock market today developed most of its bullish attention to the utilities.

Canadian stocks were generally quiet. International Nickel declined 1-4 and slightly lower issues were established for Hiram Walker and other liquor stocks on the Curb, but Lake Shore Mines advanced a full point to 31. Base metals were mostly unchanged. Canadian Funds were unchanged at $0 11-32 cents.

Shares selling in Canada to a point or more included Consolidated Gas, Canada Cement and Myers "B", American Tobacco "B", American Can, Montreal Tramways, Can Wesh Power, Products, Timken Roller-Bearing and Westinghouse. A decline of around 2 points was suffered by both the common and preferred stocks of Southern Railway. The oils, steels and motors did little. Mining issues were lethargic.

NEW YORK CLOSE

New York, July 2 (AP) — The utilities and scattered specialties moved up in today's stock market but profit taking appeared in some sections of the list as the day's routine was arranged.

Buying of power group was brisk following yesterday's defeat in the House of Representatives of the holding company bill's "death sentence" clause and a confirmation of this action by a record vote today.

Issues up fractions to a point or more included American Telephone, Consolidated Gas, North American Company, Consolidated Gas, Pacific Power, Cerro de Pasco, Kennecott Amalgamated, Electric Auto-Lite, Liggett and Myers "B" and American Tobacco "B".

The rails were a little heavy, Southern Railway Common and preferred leading the downward rush. The steels, motors and oils lagged. Bobb Allis-Chalmers jumped on a small turnover. Transfers approximated 1,100,000 shares.

Board Room Gossip

As supplied to Bigger and Crawford by Financial Service.

BRALORNE—Company calls a meeting for purpose of approving proposed merger of Bralorne and Bradian. Bradian to be shorted on a share exchange basis of 1 Bralorne for 2½ Bradian. Capital of Bralorne to be increased from 1,000,000 shares to 1,500,000 shares.

PARKHILL—The ore above previously encountered on the tenth level has been cut on the ninth level.

STADACONA.—Arrangement completed for supply of hydro-electric power to the mine, in place of the present steam plant. Power development has already been ordered.

LAKE SHORE—Harry Oakes reports satisfactory. It is reported that Mr. Oakes intends to leave the country.

LLOYD GEORGE SOUNDS CALL TO RECONSTRUCTION

Old War Horse Scents Impending Battle From Afar

By GEORGE HAMBLETON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, July 2 (CP) Cables—The National Convention of the Council of Action for peace and reconstruction voted today to take immediate steps toward organizing a non-partisan campaign.

Their action followed a vigorous speech by David Lloyd George, war time Prime Minister.

He had some shots for the Government.

"If their foreign policy had been the success they claim," he charged, "why did they get rid of their Foreign Secretary. You don't take a stand away from where he has been a great success and put him in an inferior position."

War and War Preparations

The Government's declaration from the point of view of peace he thought worse than in 1914. He referred to Premier Stalanoff then, as now, were talking peace and preparing for war. Nations unanswered into war positions. All denied they were so now, their armaments were intended exclusively for defence.

Nations countered alliances alliances until the well-oiled machine began to move on the lines with a momentum as great nobody could stop, it.

Plucking of Poultry By the Wax Method

Both the material and the method for the wax plucking of poultry have now reached the stage of commercial application, and demonstrations will continue to be given at strategic points throughout the Dominion as arranged. This development is the successful result of the research work carried out during the past winter by the National Research Council at Ottawa in conjunction with the Live Stock Branch of the Dominion Department of Agriculture. Their allied efforts to evolve a suitable wax and an efficient method of plucking have proved so satisfactory in actual practice that considerable possibilities both for commercial plants and on the farm have been made available. The system, in brief, consists of the application of the bird in liquid wax, after the rough feathers have been removed. The coating is allowed to harden and when removed takes with it residue, and pin feathers, hair and quills, leaving a bird with a clean and attractive finish. For the wax bearing the wax will be prepared in limited quantities by the National Research Council, Ottawa. Particulars concerning the procuring of the wax may be obtained from the Council or from the Live Stock Branch, Dominion Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

SOVIET EXECUTING DRUNKEN DRIVERS

Russian Efforts Made to Eliminate Crime, Carelessness

Moscow, July 2 (AP)—The Soviet government is waging a campaign to stamp out crime, irresponsibility and carelessness as evidenced by the day in a summation of numerous death and stiff prison sentences recently imposed.

Nine were condemned to death for murder.

Six were sentenced to death at Tagil, in the Ural area, for the murder of Grigori Zykov, Bolshevist author.

At Sverdlovsk, three officials of a factory bank, convicted of appropriating $100,000 were executed. A government lottery loan to their own use from the capital punishment. A blueboard convicted of killing 30 women and two chauffeurs who had failed to refuse her by drunken driving, also were ordered executed.

Others sentenced to pay with their lives for crimes included five members of a robber band accused of stealing state property, the organizer of a band of child criminals and numerous hold-up men.

One of the purposes of the campaign is to force the men to show more respect for women, children and other forms of discourtesy on the streets of Moscow were recently made punishable by fines, imprisonment or exile from the city.

London, July 2.—(CP Cable)—A despairing cry from the farmers of Tynside, Durham and South Wales rang through the hall here today when the Council of Action for peace and reconstruction sat today.

Angus Maude, M.P. for Ashton-under-Lyne, declared: "Nothing has changed how two years ago he had addressed a meeting in the same room through the home of unemployed in Tynside.

"Where is dumb shame," said the Prince afterwards, his eyes filled with tears.

Rev. Charles Fletcher, Methodist Minister, told the meeting: "Out of ranges of 60 and 70 per cent. unemployed, of young men there is scarcely a single family that is not affected.

"There are times," he said, "when the patience ceases to be a virtue. We want a government which will give us back our dignity."

"The hillsides of Glamorgan and South Wales," declared Rev. Fletcher, "are greener than they have been for two generations because there are no men. They are the castaways of our industrial system."

WEATHER

Toronto, July 2—(CP)—The weather will be fair and moderately warm in Ontario and Quebec to-day and Wednesday. Some heavy local thunderstorms have occurred in Manitoba and it remains cool and showery in Alberta.

Minimum and maximum temperatures: Manitoba—Fresh winds; mostly cloudy and warm; local thunder showers.

HAY CROP ONE OF BEST IN YEARS

Pasture in Prince Edward Never Better in Past Five Years

Toronto, July 2 (CP)—Heavy rains throughout Ontario during the latter part of June forced crops rapidly and gave all indications of a good season but as the same time delayed haying in various districts, according to the crop report for the week ending June 29, released today by the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

In Norfolk County one foot and one half feet high have been measured.

Grey County is "in a most promising position," Hallon counts on a heavy crop of grain and says fall rye and spring grain never looked better. Brant believes a heavy yield is assured.

Heavy rains in Lambton delayed corn cultivation and the blocking of sugar beets which show a splendid growth. A bumper crop is expected the grain harvest will be on before the heavy crop of hay is harvested.

Pasture in Prince Edward is the best in five years, while grain in Frontenac is doing well. Corn fields in Lennox and Addington became excessive rain than any other crop. Wet weather delayed cutting of alsike and red clover in Leeds in Eastern Ontario, and Prescott and Russell. Pastures are excellent. red clover fields.

Reports from the north was regarded as helping all crops but in Muskoka and Parry Sound such on the grain and low land is showing the effect of wet weather, favourable weather conditions will still however, bring a good crop.

CORPORATION TAX YIELDS 7 MILLION

Deadline For Payment Extended Until Midnight

TORONTO, July 2.— (CP)—Last minute figures issued today under the Corporations Tax Act today found employees of the Ontario Department preparing to work until midnight at least tonight, however, which will give an estimated peak of $5,000,000.

The tax on foreign companies doing business in Ontario is estimated to bring a government $7,000,000. Already $2,000,000 has been received. The tax is a corporation tax and is paid on capital and one per cent on profits.

Corporations failing to declared to be made on or before June 30 but as the deadline fell on Sunday yesterday was a public holiday, Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn extended the deadline to midnight today.

Failure to pay the tax on time, Premier Hepburn declared, would bring a penalty of five per cent and failure to pay that an additional penalty of one per cent a month for each additional month or portion thereof in default.

"The Cowboy Millionaire"
George O'Brien, Francbot Tone and Una Merkel in Latest Western Feature Bill

What is the first of a first-rate Western picture? This question pops up as a result of the grand entertainment given by "The Cowboy Millionaire," starring George O'Brien, now on the Belle screen, and Wednesday, matinee and evening, and ranks as the finest Western that ever graced town.

All the characters are red-blooded and the scenes have breath-taking beauty. Action is plausible and makes one want to climb into the saddle and ride for the land of adventure and unexpected romance.

George O'Brien, who has the title loved of the Western film stars, gives a splendid portrayal of the cowboy guide, rough-mannered but with a fine character, who falls in love with an English miss, and swanky dude ranch in Arizona. He and his pal jointly own a mining claim, and while George O'Brien is called to the mine hurriedly, the girl returns to England.

He returns excitedly with the great news that the mine is struck and is worth a fortune, to find not only that the girl has left for England, but also that his pal and partner has gone too, having had an offer to sell the claim for $25,000.

Thereupon starts the quest for the partner, to prevent him from selling the mine, and during the search he loses from the deepest desert of Arizona, across the United States to London, and back again, many mounting many obstacles. How he achieves his goal is told in the highly moving beautifully mounted film. Evelyn Bostick, young English miss in search of her lover, Hollywood role in this picture and undoubtedly will be heard from.

One New York Night"

Laid in a large Metropolitan hotel on Park Avenue, "One New York Night", the second spectacular production on the same program is replete with thrills and laughs.

The story concerns a mysterious murder in a hostelry where several guests from various walks of life become involved in the crime.

Franchot Tone, co-featured with Una Merkel, is seen as a romantic young fellow who comes to the big city to get married. Miss Merkel plays the role of a telephone operator, joins the cowman in an attempt to solve the crime and almost finds themselves of suspicion.

How they eventually apprehend the criminal and find romance to-

AT THE CAPITOL

"The Case of the Curious Bride"
Laughs and Thrills in Big Double Bill at Capitol Excellent Entertainment

One of the best mystery-thrillers since Charlie Chan of "The Curious Bride" is one of the two feature pictures that is offering at the Capitol the first three days of this week.

Filmed in the vicinity of the famous Chu Chin Club and with Warren William playing the role of the famous detective, Perry Mason, it held the large audience in suspense spellbound. The dramatic sequences and rocked the laughter with its many comedy touches.

The case of the Curious Bride shows the clever detective solving a mysterious murder of which a young woman is strongly accused. He is taken through a series of adventures that fairly astound and enthrall.

Besides the popular Warren William, there is attractive Margaret Lindsay as the accused bride and Allen Jenkins as a stooge for the detective and, who provides many laughs. Winifred Shaw, Claire Dodd, Donald Woods, and Warren Hymer complete the exceptional cast.

That irrepressible William Haines has come to the screen in recent months, is again with us in a rollicking comedy-drama called "The Marines Are Coming" which opens a two days' run at the Capitol today. Haines with an ideal vehicle for his humor, from the fast-moving, hilarious opening which is well supported by such stellar players as Esther Ralston, Hale Hamilton, Armida, Jerry Spanish dancer and a host of others.

Starts Tonight

Flint "Salvation" Band Interrupted, Arrests Made

Kitchener, Ont., July 2.—(CP)—The two alleged principals of a disturbance here Saturday when the Flint Salvation Army Band was interrupted by Lester Clemmer and James Walker, both aged 21, were out on bail of $2,000 until Wednesday, July 10.

Walker is charged with creating a disturbance and resisting a police officer. Clemmer is charged with obstructing the police and resisting an officer.

When Mayor J. A. Smith giving an address of welcome to the visiting musicians it is stated Walker shouted "What unemployment?" The Mayor replied as they were well looked after.

The police intervened and the Citizens' Band continued. Clemmer injected himself into the picture and both he and Walker were arrested.

Daily Short Story

HARPOONED!

(Copyright 1935 King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

"Hello, Aileen, this is Billy Hubbard. Will you let me have the car?"

"The line is busy, Mr. Hubbard. Hold the wire."

This was no surprise to Billy. There were always long waits for the "busy" signal when the reporters would hid and chat with the girls at the switchboard. Aileen liked putting through calls for Billy, George, better than for the others. He always referred to her by name instead of "sweetheart" or "desire."

Billy Hubbard was the society reporter for the paper. He would go down the bay on a coast guard cutter, board the incoming liners with the customs and immigration officers, get his interviews on the trip back up the bay, and then rush to a telephone to give his story to a rewrite man in the office.

"Oh, Miss Lambert," said Billy, filling in time, "today I met the most beautiful girl. She's the daughter of a millionaire and there was a blind of her being engaged. So I let her on the spot about it and she asked me if I was proposing!"

Invited to Call

Aileen was frigidly silent for a second. Then she realized that her failure to respond might seem peculiar.

"It must be great being a reporter!" She tried to sound amused.

"I'm telling you this girl was in a class by herself," Billy went on enthusiastically. Then he proceeded to explain how he had helped her in declaring her luggage and had even hired a taxi to escort her to a big midtown hotel. Then she had invited him to call that evening!

At last the wires were clear and Billy was switched to the "desk" and told his yarn. But, to Aileen's amazement, he did not mention the rich young girl.

No sooner had he hung up than Aileen called him back.

"Say, you were listening, eh?" said Billy good-humoredly.

Admitting that she had, Aileen then informed him that this was not the first time, either, as she had become quite interested in his stories.

"Indeed!" Billy was completely astonished and even more so by her next sally.

"I've gotten off at eight this evening," she said sweetly, "and I have two tickets for a show. The dramatic editor gave them to me this afternoon. I'd love to have you go with me."

"But I have a date with that rich girl, Billy started to say.

"No, you haven't!" she flared back. "I know that girl, from what I've read in the papers. You leave her alone, Billy!" Oh was the first time she had ever called him by his first name.) "She'd just make a fool of you. Right now she's probably telling all her Mayfair friends how she vamped you in order to get by the customs. You come up here to the office and call for me at eight. I'll have a bite to eat at the board and you get something, too. Then we can go straight to the show."

Later Billy was surprised—surprised that he, the bachelor of the ship news crowd, obeyed so meekly.

To the Theatre

He went to the theatre with Aileen, had supper afterwards, and took her to her home in the wilds of Brooklyn. Moreover, he thoroughly enjoyed every minute of it!

The next day, half-heartedly, he phoned the rich girl.

At first it was difficult to remind her who he was, and then she burst into peals of laughter.

"I thought I'd hear from you again!" she said. "What happened last night?" Did your horrid old editor make you work overtime? Too bad you couldn't get up to the hotel. I had quite a mob here all impatiently waiting to see the hero who got me through the customs so easily. Oh, I guess you're a wonderful liar, all right! All the girls were saying bets on which one could steal you from me, although I warned them that you were the oldest game I had ever tackled!"

Billy saw that she was laughing at him and that, after all, he did not speak her language.

"I guess you're right," he parried. "I'm not a ten!"

She laughed uncuriously at that, and Billy added philosophically, "But maybe I'm a whale. Anyway, I've been harpooned!"

Little Benny's Note Book

Pop was smoking to himself with a satisfied expression and I said, Hay pop?

He didn't hear a voice in the nite? pop said.

I said, what, and I said, What do you think would be the best thing for me to do, stay, single or get married?

Yee gods, that comes under the head of large questions, pop said. You're not thinking of taking either step in the near future are you? he said, and I said, No, sir, it's just for fear.

Well, there appears to be something to be said for both decisions, pop said. A single man never has anybody but himself to blame, with his troubles must grow quite few-some, but on the other hand he always has to get his morning paper still in its original folds at breakfast, and he always has the satisfaction of starting that with his natural gumption and unerring instinct for finding the rite thing, he would have chosen the perfect wife if he ever really had decided to get married, pop said.

But how about a married man? I said, and pop said, I see what you mean. Well, a married man needs more regular rite than a bachelor, even if he happens to have an unusually good wife, for even if he finds surprising flaws and unsuspected blemishes in his wife he can always console himself with the thawt that at least in picking him for a husband she showed natural good taste and unerring instinct for finding the rite thing he said.

But G, pop, wich would you advise me to do? I said, and pop said, You'll find out.

Wich just then ma came in saying, Find out what? And pop said, I was just telling him that after all there's no condition for love as satisfactory as the state of matrimony.

Well naturelly not, the ideer, ma said.

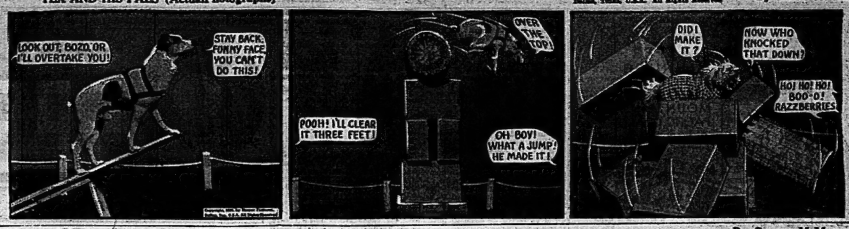
We was eating breakfast and ma said to pop, The Brownly's silver wedding is drawing nearer and nearer, Wilyum.

Send them a nice present and not bear regrets, pop said and he said, We'll have to except the invitation and there are no two ways out of it, and that's just the point. You'll have to get yourself a new hat because that old one of yours looks like an arkive from the ark and I should think you'd be ashamed to appear in its presence, she said.

That faithful old lid has stuck to me without a murmur when my best friends looked at me askance, perhaps for that very reason, pop said. Anyway, do you expect me to cast it aside now like a worn out hat? he said, and ma said, You couldn't cast it aside like anything more appropriate, I assure you, bee bee.

Meaning that was just what it was, and pop said, But just stop and think a moment. If I wear a new hat down to the office now after all this time, all the clerks will think I'm showing off and they'll stop looking up to me as a plain simple man amongst plain simple men. Or worse still, they mite think I was trying to set them an example, and the ones that could afford it would rush out and buy themselves a new hat and the offices would be filled with jellasy and resentiment, and the natural result would be that some of the poorest payed but most sensitive clerks would steal money to buy a hat and keep up appearances, and when that sort of thing is once started it always goes from bad to worse and they'd soon be stealing money for shoes to go with the hat, and so on till they'd be held up in a restaurant's hands, pop said.



I've spoken my last word on the subject, I'm sayed, and pop said, Well, what must it be then, I suppose, shall I get a blue or a brown?

Get a gray, ma said.

Gray it is then, pop said, coming home in his old coze as usual.

WINS GOLF CROWN

ALFRED PERRY

Shooting a sensational 71-hole total of 283, equalling the all-time record for championship plays on both sides of the Atlantic, Perry, until now a obscure British Professional, won the British Open golf championship. Perry defeated the cream of Britain's and America's golfers. Here he is seen in action.

California as Seen by a Resident of Michigan

Vivid Description of The Beauties of The Golden State

MOUNTAIN DRIVES

EDITOR'S NOTE:—Below is a letter written to Mr. E. R. Clarke, Detroit, niece of Mrs. W. A. Benson, Picton, who is now in California. The letter appeared last week in the Picton Times and gives such a excellent description of California that we are reproducing it for the benefit of Ontario Intelligencer readers.

821 S. Hena Ave., Redondo Beach, Calif., June 17, 1935.

We have been away on a motor trip to Yosemite Valley and just returned yesterday afternoon. I had intended writing you a description of our trip but my niece, Mrs. Ritchie Green of Detroit, is here and I thought her letter which she wrote last evening by her daughter was so good I asked her to let me copy it for you. Anyhow it will be a change from what I write you and you will see that I am not the only one in the family that can do things and tell the story afterward. Here is her letter and see if it's good of it? You are having no children of my own I am thrilled just like an old hen with one chicken and she happens to be the CHICK.

This letter is to say that we arrived back in Redondo safe and sound. I travelled 776 miles that day and looked and looked until it was just hard work but any reader of scenery everywhere and such beauties of it as I did. The 12th did the trader Sunday, just gulp and go to it!!

We left here Monday at 2 p.m. which was a very late start. We motored up through Los Angeles and Hollywood then north arriving at Bakersfield about 9 p.m., passing over the mountains and famous "Grapevine Route" on the way. Over the night at a tourist motor camp where he had nice accommodations. In fact all the camps at which we stopped were nicely furnished with showers, hot and cold water, etc. We would make my letter too long were I to attempt to tell all the beauties of the yards, walnut and fruit orchards we passed. Things are done on a big scale here in this land of California. Tuesday night we spent in Anderson's Auto Camp at Merced at the gateway to the Yosemite. The cabins are built on the order of that Aunt Nellie said it was so attractive and cosy and we did not mind having one like it for herself and Uncle Curtis to live in and that would have to get rid of a lot of stuff she has accumulated. Some cabins on the way we passed the Del Monte peach orchard, consisting of 1,000 acres, the largest peach canning corporation in the world. The main road was beautiful with such a pretty lawn, brilliant oleanders, and Aunt Nellie said all the time that was a real landscaping had been obeyed, and I just take her word for it. Wednesday morning we entered Yosemite Valley at the mountain pass through Arch Rock and skirting El Capitan, a smooth faced mountain which towers up according to the picture post card which I bought, 3,000 feet above the valley floor, twice the size of Gibraltar and presenting an area of more than 400 acres at the summit. Merced River which runs through the valley is very high; perhaps not more so than Niagara but because of the mountains it looks more than background it looked more lovely. The water rushing around great boulders is certainly a wonderful sight and no writer can do justice in trying to describe it. Incidentally the Bridal Veil Falls came within our vision as we drove the road let on to Santa Barbara and the large Lima bean farms. These bean fields also climbed side hills and I thought of how Prince Edward farmers would think they had thoughts if their farms were that steep. Perhaps the reason I like these cities so much is because the streets are laid out with the hills at the sides and express an individuality that appeals to my artistic imagination. Between Santa Barbara and Los Angeles is Ventura, actually in the Pacific, and pumping oil too. This is said to be the only city where oil is actually successfully drilled in the ocean. The road from Los Angeles to Pasadena through Santa Monica, Venice-Hermosa Beach, etc., is a beautiful drive after six and a half days of continuous driving.

Now I can understand why Aunt Nettie is contented to come back to her little bungalow. The yard and flower garden is as lovely as any I have seen. Of course the view of this place is the most beautiful of any I have seen.

Yours with love,

Nellie Jewell Green.

Point which has an altitude of 6818 feet, and, from that point we could see all over the Yosemite Valley. There were snow flowers growing in this section which are not to be seen anywhere else, and did not seem to grow below the 5000 foot level. They were shaped like a buttonhole and were a red all of their own, not exactly red but that color treated. Little tiny leaves frosted were sprinkled around the flower and even the stocks were red. We used a magnifying glass to examine them and they were exquisite. The Indians call it "Red Mist" and you do not wonder at the name among the Big Trees.

Leaving this place the road was cement, gravel and just plain bumpy, but still well kept. Fresno. I never saw two silvery looking water towers in my entire life which looked to be about two miles away and looked at the speedometer to see how far we would go before we came to them. It was eleven miles.

We stayed all night at Tulare as we did not want Uncle Portie to get too tired, Saturday morning we drove south to Famosa and then straight west through the Antelope Valley and great cattle country. We passed one ranch on which 7000 head of cattle were pasturing. These had been brought from Arizona to be fattened. We stopped at Shale Hill for gas and water and the plain looked so dry and brown. I asked if it were ever lovely in the spring and was told that the flowers on the Mayerone trees were knee high and in different shading of blue, pink, mauve and yellow. The rains this year had made them especially lovely and people had been motoring from every state in the Union and from five foreign countries. Oh, I forgot to tell you, broadcast and moving pictures had been taken.

Driving through the coast range we saw great expanses of fields of barley and oats being harvested. This had been planted in valleys and up the sides and sometimes on the tops of the lower mountains. What a thrill of seeing the top of a mountain waving in the breeze. Near Paso Robles immense orchards of cherries interspersed the fields of grain and invariably the ranch houses were set in grazing land, dotted trees with groves of tanbark oaks and the mountain ranges surrounded them. This valley is the most beautiful to have traversed full of any, with the mountains on the east for protection and great fertility. We left Paso Robles Saturday night was spent at Santa Maria to store motor camp which we had yet visited. Motorest Lodge, Santa Maria, Calif., Route 1. The road let on to Santa Barbara and the large Lima bean farms. These bean fields also climbed side hills and I thought of how Prince Edward farmers would think they had thoughts if their farms were that steep. Perhaps the reason I like these cities so much is because the streets are laid out with the hills at the sides and express an individuality that appeals to my artistic imagination. Between Santa Barbara and Los Angeles is Ventura, actually in the Pacific, and pumping oil too. This is said to be the only city where oil is actually successfully drilled in the ocean. Miss Marie Meiklejohn of Belleville, spent the week-end at her home for the holidays.

Miss Florence Blaney, Grace Houston of the Staff of Tweed Consolidated School have returned to their own homes for the holidays. Miss Campbell will attend Summer School.

Mr. Thos. Calnan, B.A., Misses Dorothy Stuart, B.A., and Hazel Grindell, B.A., of the High School staff have gone to their homes for the summer vacation.

Mr. Bill McGee of Peterborough spent the holiday at his home.

Mr. and Mrs. Clare Barnett and family of Toronto are camping at Arden. They spent Old Home Week end in Tweed.

Mr. Robt. Elliott of Toronto, was in town for the holiday, Mr. Elliott has just recently moved to his family from North Bay to Toronto.

Miss Ethel Kerr of Toronto, was at home for the week-end.

Services appropriate to Dominion Day were held at the United Church on Sunday, June 30th. Pastor 72 was read responsively, the pastor noting that it was from Hymns A—The Canadian Hymnal also from sea to sea, and from the river unto the ends of the lands—or that the name Dominion of Canada was derived. The suggestion emanated from Sir Leonard Tilley one of the chief Fathers of Confederation and the leading statesman of New Brunswick during the Confederation period. Rev. Nicholson in his discourse based on St. Matthew chapter 8 and verse 10, "Thy kingdom come", drew attention to conditions as they exist in the world and went on to say that are the cause of so much unrest and distress. Mesdames Ed. Deles and S. H. Connor sang most acceptably the beautiful hymn "darkly and tenderly Jesus is calling Me". At the conclusion of the service the congregation sang "The National Anthem".

At a meeting of the Official Board of the United Church held following the morning service on Sunday, June 30th, a motion was passed to withdraw the evening services during July and August.

Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Houston and Margaret and Gerland of Belleville, spent the holiday at their cottage on Stoco Lake.

Mrs. R. O. Mallory of Plainfield, spent a few days last week with her daughter, Mrs. R. H. Connor.

The Mission Band of Tweed United Church held their annual picnic at Memorial Park, Wednesday, June 26th, with their leaders Mrs. S. G. Way and Mrs. W. J. McCutcheon, they spent an afternoon playing and a game of ball. A picnic supper to which the hungry young sters did ample justice was served at six o'clock. Mrs. W. H. Hicks assisted the leaders.

Rider of Plains Has Hankering For Bounding Wave, He Says

Harrison Wade Tells Scribe of Learning to Fish

Harrison Wade, lale of Texas and points south, with a complexion resembling that of a well worn saddle, and twinkling grey eyes adapted to a wide-brimmed sombrero, teetered up Front Street Saturday morning in springhalt fashion on the end of inspection tour of the city during a stopover on a trip east to the Pacific coast. Under conditions and a job.

Although the high-heeled riding boots of the plains had been replaced by a more comfortable pair of shoes suitable for the paved trails of the highways and the alleyed ways of occasional auto cars, the mincing gait was still evident, and the realized that he had become accustomed to his former calling.

Within who observed the circuay stranger looked for the horse. But he was not according to his own statement had been left behind.

"Ah've been ridin' a hoss all mah life," he said in a drawl. "Been too busy travelin' to learn to swim in the slow crawl of the range.

Terms to Open

Wade, professedly one of the best aerial breakers and herders on the range, left home early, tired of the branding iron and the bawling of cattle-hungry calves a few months a few years ago. He folded up his rope, turned the horse and saddle in on some ready cash and struck the open road, eventually becoming landlocked. Unused to his forced mode of travel at first the first few months of his disconcerting. But the gold was tough. Blisters formed on his saddle softened into callouses, from the speeding cars and the dust of the roads choked him. The rose of the city made him homesick, and many a time on his journey he longed for the curling smoke of an open fire and the rating of peas from the chuck wagon as the cookee prepared the morning flap jacks. By easy stages, however, and working part of the time as he went along, Wade crossed the border in the west and since then he has forged steadily ahead, establishing his home in old game.

Hankering for Sea

Although born on the unfenced boundaries, with the acrid smoke of the burning cactus and the acrid tang of the springtime his only memories, Wade has developed a hankering for the sea. Up to the present the largest body of water he has seen has been part of a pond, but the curling combers of the open ocean and the beam and pitch of the deck of some coastal tramp has beckoned him. At Montreal, or further afield, he hopes to get a berth, cattle boat preferred, with South America his hoped-for destination. He has yet to learn that there is any boat larger than a skiff he once paddled on the Rio Grande.

People out west are more confidences and kindly than those of the east, Wade, whose unconscious teetering walk is the result of constant use of the wide heels of the cowboy, has found. They are more apt to give you a lift in their cars on the highway. They don't ask as many questions in the west; they don't stare at guys who wear sombreros, because they have become used to them and like the shade they afford the eyes. Even a meal is served over and then is not so hard to get out west.

CHILD IN CARRIAGE BURNED AS HOUSE TAKES FIRE

NEWS BRIEFS AND ODDITIES

Washington, July 3 (CP)—The higher the thermometer goes, the more popular Rep. Charles O'Day, New York member of the United States Congress, becomes with his colleagues.

Here's why.

The new member had a meeting. The room was sultry. Mrs. O'Day only wanted among them, suggested all the men take off their coats. They did.

Pembroke, Ont., July 3 (CP)—Police Chief William McKee of Pembroke was committed for trial, charge of malfeasance in office which formed the basis of an investigation had last week by Judge John T. Mulcahy, whose findings were read to town council last night.

Ottawa, July 3 (CP)—Abe Ellentin and Lorne Johnson will remain with Ottawa Rough Riders of the Interprovincial Rugby Football Union this fall, it was announced following an executive meeting. Both players will pass up activities with the St. Lawrence Rosehill League, now operating independently of the American Athletic Union of Canada, to retain their amateur status.

Victoria, July 3 (CP)— Five bridges were washed out, Kamloops temporarily isolated and extensive damages done to buildings and gardens by a heavy 24-hour rain.

Ottawa, July 3 (CP)—With a number "13" tag strapped to the stalk, the body of John Sargeson, six-pound calf, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sargeson, Ottawa, has reserved from the Toronto Exhibition style swimming pool in the Sixth River, Ont., last night. He got the tag when checking his clothes to swim.

Chicago, July 3 (CP)—Violet Heming, Canadian actress, who said her dress caught fire while she was trying to answer a traffic signal, was granted a decree in a trial of the complainant against him wasn't grounds for divorce. Miss Heming, who made stage note for Sally Rand, fan dancer, in the Century of Progress Exposition, testified driving and driving a truck without a tail light was cruelty.

Hollywood, Calif., July 3 (AP) —Out of the $1,250 Shirley Temple earns a week, the highest salary ever paid a child star, she receives but $4.25 to spend herself, she disclosed today. The sum she places $1.50 a week in her leg brace. Mom is free to spend her $4.25 last week:

Daddy, 25 cents—and she is not permitted to spend more than this for sweets—fruit, 40 cents; soda pop, 15 cents; lunch, 25 cents; dry cleaner, 95, and 25 for the Sunday school collection.

Auburn, Mass., July 3 (CP)— Lost in a storm since she left her home Monday night to bring home the cows, Mary Kidd, 13-year-old farmer's daughter, was found today, found after a night through desolate bush country all night she found refuge at a farm with cottage 13 miles from her home.

Oakland, Calif., July 3 (AP)— Deserting the old custom of "tossing a dollar" to help her decide which of two men she wanted to marry, 19-year-old Mary Lou Hall has decided to take a three-day 240 mile automobile trip with each of her suitors, hunted for drunkenness.

The girl said today the three inscribed term cents coins discovered in a simple wall at 57 of the Chaldees were memorial tablets buried there centuries ago by the King, Libbi-Iahtar, fifth ruler of the Isin dynasty, who reigned about 2975 B.C.

Included in the cemeterem inscriptions were references to several early cities, mentioned in the Bible, Dr. Langdon declared. Langdon said their existence, based on the Biblical references, was never considered seriously by scholars.

The fourteenth chapter of Genesis gives Ur as the birthplace of Abraham, presumably during the reign of Hammurabi of Hammurabi, 2000 to 1900 B.C.

Chicago, July 3 (AP)—A "freedom of the press" movement is afoot among newspapermen of the nation to free editors of criminal libel laws, it was announced today.

Designed to protect editors and reporters in disclosing sources of confidential information, is gaining support in the United States.

The idea started by a survey made after the Illinois Legislature recently voted for a bill by F. W. Lewis, Robinson, Ill., publisher, specifically exempting newspapermen from being forced to tell courts the source of their sources of confidential information. Gov. Henry Horner has not yet signed the measure.

PREMIER BENNETT DETERMINED TO PRESERVE LAW

Says Riot at Regina Attributed to Communism

REPORT IS SOUGHT

Remove Cause by Gainful Employment Says Stevens

OTTAWA, July 3—(CP)—Threats of revolution and disturbances at Regina hovered in the background today as Parliament speeded up debate to bring its session to an early end. Yesterday's sitting was devoted almost entirely to a review of the clash at Regina Monday night, when one policeman lost his life and two were gravely injured.

Prime Minister R. B. Bennett declared he had been saddened by the occurrence in the Saskatchewan capital and affirmed his determination to preserve law and order in the face of what he described as an organized, carefully planned attempt on the part of International Communism to overthrow constituted authority in Canada.

Today the House holds its first morning sitting—until midnight—at 11 o'clock for the balance of the session.

The strike debate was participated in by two labor members J. S. Woodsworth of Winnipeg North Centre and Angus MacInnis of Vancouver South. Mr. Bennett agreed a discussion was desirable.

Many Led Into Strife

The unfortunate part of the whole Relief Camp strike, said Mr. Woodsworth, was that many young men who had been happy and couldn't help themselves, were made to believe Relief Camps had been led into the movement by Communist agitators and now could not withdraw. They were the men, who were in the centre of the disturbance at Regina while their leaders kept at a safe distance.

Mr. Bennett and Minister of Justice Hon. Guthrie gave an outline of the disturbance based on reports from officials. The strikers and onlookers attacked the Regina City police after Royal Canadian Mounted police had arrested one of their leaders. Shots were fired both by the strikers and the police, bullets but none of the men of the mounted had any ammunition in their persons, it was stated.

Mr. Woodsworth dig off with a plea for the elimination of conditions, which had brought the strike about. Young men, he said, could not be expected to be content for months on end with 20 cents a day with no hope of improvement. It was the duty of the government, he said, to order the economic machinery of Canada as to make possible a decent standard of living and a fair return for these men.

Italians Make Chemical To Sprinkle on Ground

Preparation Can be Sprinkled by Tanks and Might be Used Against Barefoot Abyssinians in Event of War

ROME, July 3—(AP)—Based upon the fact most Ethiopian soldiers go barefooted, the Italian army has prepared a type of chemical which, sprinkled on the ground, will burn through even shoe leather. The chemical can be sprinkled by tanks.

Rome, July 3 (Havas)—Premier Benito Mussolini today called an extraordinary session the Navy War Council of Admirals for an important conference on the Italian fleet.

In other quarters the belief was expressed the step would be another phase of the mobilization for what has come to be called Premier Mussolini's "Ethiopian Adventure".

The Council of Admirals is the supreme consultative body in Italy on naval matters. The announcement said merely it had been convoked in extraordinary session "to study important problems concerning the Italian fleet".

BASKET OF ROSES GREETS PREMIER

Liberal Leader Offers Best Wishes on Birthday

Ottawa, July 3 (CP)—To mark his 61st birthday, a basket of red roses was placed before Premier R. B. Bennett's desk in the House of Commons today.

Liberal Leader Mackenzie King extended best wishes and the hope the new year would see the Prime Minister's health restored so he could give many more years of service to his country.

In thanking the Liberal Leader and the members of the House, Mr. Bennett said: "These five birthdays had not brought him much joy. They are added with a wide grin on is face "if the high proclamations of the opposite (the Liberals) are realized, perhaps my next will be much happier."

Mr. Bennett said yesterday he was reminded forcibly his heart trouble did not permit him to indulge in political rough and tumble debate by his grandson's birthday present. He hoped to be able to render more service to Canada, which had done so well of him.

104 JAPANESE LOST AS CRAFTS COLLIDE

Osaka, Japan, July 3.—(AP)—A Japanese steamer was in collision today with a freighter today on the fog-bound Japanese Inland Sea, casualties estimated by police counting officials at 104.

KNIGHTS OF BATH ARE INSTALLED BY ROYAL DUKE

Noble Revival of Chivalry in Henry Seventh Chapel

OATH ADMINISTERED

21 New Knights of Grand Cross Are Admitted

(By Thomas T. Champion)
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

LONDON, July 3.—(CP Cable)— A ceremony redolent of the chivalry of old and performed only twice during the last 70 years, took place in the noble Henry the Seventh Chapel of Westminster Abbey today as the Duke of Connaught, Great Master of the Order of the Bath, installed 21 Knights of the Grand Cross.

Having its origin in Saxon days the installation was once directly associated with the symbolic act of bathing. New Knights were generally appointed at a Sovereign's Coronation or creation of the Prince of Wales. At the Coronation of Edward VII. many new knights were made at the Tower of London when the Knights "had to bath all together except for a linnen beach".

Sweeping Mantles Worn

Habited in sweeping mantles the Grand Crosses, the Great Officers of the Grand Cross and officers of the Order went in procession today from the Chapter House headed by the King's Almoner, trumpeters and clergy, through the sanctuary, by the cloisters to the Presbytery where the knights received the insignia.

The Great Master with his retinue, then moved to the door of Henry the Seventh's Chapel. The King of Arms of the Bath knocked. "Who knocks?" demanded Master Tapper, surveyor of the Abbey from without.

"In the name of the King, His Royal Highness, Great Master of the Most Honorable Order of the Bath, demands entrance into the Chapel of the Order," replied the King of arms.

The Chapel

The doors were thereupon opened and the Great Master, followed, entered.

The chapel with its wonderful fan tracery ceiling, is regarded as the most perfect example of late Gothic architecture in England.

Those Knights who had already been installed, Sir Henry Lucas and new Knights seconded allotted stalls. The remainder were then extended by the Dean of Westminster the Great Master proceeded to the stall of the Senior Knight.

Oath Administered

The Dean administered the oath of the order to every other new Knight. Each knelt before him. "You shall honor God above all things. You shall be steadfast in faith in Christ. You shall love the King, and bear true faith and his right to defend to your power. You shall defend maidens, widows and orphans in their right. You shall suffer no extortion as far as you may prevail it. You shall be courteous to be this order unto you as ever it was to any of your progenitors or others."

Following this the newly made Knights remounted the body of the chapel and made offerings at the altar during which the banners which they offered to the Dean. Only the banner of the Senior Knight was placing on the altar. Meanwhile his fellows laid their banners on the altar with the hilt toward the altar.

Sword Returned

The Senior Knight received his sword from the hand of the Dean, the admonition: "I exhort and admonish you to use your sword to the glory of God and the people, the ooooooooooooo ffae

Protection of your Sovereign's right and honor and equity and justice in the utmost of your power."

The procession reformed and with the dedicating hymns returned to the Chapter House.

"FORD OF FRANCE" DIES OF SORROW

Andre Citroen, Worth 2,000 Million Francs

By JOHN EVANS
Associated Press Staff Writer

Paris, July 3—(AP)—Andre-Gustave Citroen, 57, "Henry Ford of France," weakened by grief over difficulties of his business, died in a hospital today after a lingering illness.

Citroen's vast automobile plant, once estimated to be worth 2,000,000,000 francs, was forced into receivership December 21, 1934, and its founder was finally forced out of any active management of his companies.

The short, dapper engineer tried to remain as a technical adviser but as financial investigation by auditors aroused such opposition from stockholders and creditors Citroen finally disappeared.

He started a way under worry and went to the hospital several weeks ago—too late for an expected operation on his stomach. He weighed only 70 pounds—half his normal weight—when he succumbed.

Mourning over the recent death of a daughter also weakened his resistance.

A gambler who had risked a fistful of banknotes on the turn of a card, he was little known personally to the average Frenchman.

Before he began developing small automobiles after the war, Citroen was an obscure engineer, born in Paris, February 5, 1878, of a Dutch mond family.

WILBUR ELLIOTT FATHER OF BABY SUFFERS BURNS

CHILDREN GIVE ALARM

Dead Body is Recovered From Burning Home

Helen, nine months old baby of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Elliott, Plainfield, was burned to death in her carriage at her home shortly after six o'clock last evening, when the house caught fire from some unknown cause. The parents were burned both at the barn at the time and after the alarm was raised by two other children in the family, Walter, 4, and Isobel, 6. The father rushed into the flaming home and made desperately to rescue his child but was driven back by the intense heat and flames. He was seriously burned about the face and upper part of his body and is now in Belleville General hospital under the care of Dr. Welsh of Roslin, and in a precarious condition. The home was owned by Mrs. Elliott's father and his loss will be in the neighborhood of $3,000, which is only partially covered by insurance.

ADVENTISTS ARE AGAINST WAR

Admit Duty to Serve Country At All Times

Oshawa, Ont., July 3 (CP) — Delegates and delegates attending the youth congress of the Seventh Day Adventist Church here went on record as being opposed to wearing of shorts by girls, considered the indecidability of mixed bathing, but decided it might be permissible "provided the bathing suits are adequate," and voted against bathing part in any war.

Delegates will take up arms in war members were unanimous they should be whisked away from their country at all times, even in the most menial tasks.

In the matter of mixed bathing, the assembly agreed with the expressed opinion that "many suits are worn there is no more harm in bathing together than in walking on the opposite sex skating together."

The meeting also opposed smoking, drinking, dancing and theatres.

LIQUOR SALE OFF $59,406 IN MONTH

Deputy Can Not State Comparison With June Sales

Toronto, July 3.—(CP)—Sales in stores of the Ontario Liquor Control Board showed a decrease of $59,406 in May, compared with May, Arnold Smith, Deputy Chief Commissioner, announced today.

Mr. Smith did not give out total sales for the month and he could not state how much more June of this year compared with the same month last year.

Asked the reason for the decrease he doubted whether it was due to reduced liquor prices following reduction in federal taxes.

Islands in Amur River Stir Jap-Soviet Feeling

(By Glenn Babb)
(Copyright, 1935, by The Associated Press)

Tokyo, July 2.—Japanese military ambitions to gain important islands in the Amur river—and Russia's determination to frustrate them—were given today by a Soviet explanation of the reasons behind the latest spurt in the three-year old Japan-Russian dispute over the Siberian frontier.

The Japanese Government continued to show an inclination to dismiss lightly a Soviet warning "grave consequences" are likely to ensue if Japanese troops and Manchukuoan gunboats penetrate islands in what Moscow insists is Soviet territory.

A Soviet official asserted the Amur River Islands are coveted by the Japanese because of their strategic importance and because many are believed to be reputed to be rich in alluvial gold.

CIRCUS CROWDS WELL HANDLED

Only Minor Road Mishaps Reported Though Traffic Heavy

Despite the increased traffic in this city yesterday during and following the circus, motor accidents were at their minimum, only two minor accidents being reported to the authorities.

The local police were assisted in directing traffic by Provincial and motorcycle officers as well as Traffic Officer Gordon Huffman of Trenton. Everything was fine, no person was reported injured and traffic moved along nicely all day. Immediately after the big, the full-cast measure with the officers and despite the fact that there was some little congestion of traffic, generally speaking however, circus day was a success from a police angle, no trouble or serious accidents being reported," stated Chief Kidd today.

CIRCUS EXCELLENT IN PERFORMANCE

Fifteen Thousand People Witness Cole Brothers' Circus

With eight thousand people comfortably seated in the 13,000 seat top of the Cole Brothers Circus on Tuesday afternoon and another large attendance at the night performance, this district turned out in wholehearted support of the big exhibition last night.

Every phase of the exhibition pleased, with the Cole Beatty performance with the lions and tigers, the work of sheppard on the trapeze the fine performance of the boy tight-wire walker, the excellence of the performance of the horses and elephants, the dancing Spanish ring-master, the menagerie and the musicians and the clowns were the whole bag of new tricks all themselves.

Something which the patrons of the big show were also admired was the fence which prevented spectators crowding around the ring-side.

The night attendance was the largest seen here in very many years, according to those who had witnessed circuses throughout Belleville.

Seating arrangements were of the best for the comfort of the people.

The entire performance under the big tent was clean, wholesome entertainment and the morning street parade proved most attractive and created the desire to complete the day's activities by witnessing the entire proceedings. A goodly number of citizens watched the circus unload at the G.N.R. station last night.

POLICE COURT

Two local residents who had imbibed not wisely but too well, pleaded guilty to charges of intoxication in Magistrate E. J. Bullen's local court today. One was given 24 hours to raise the necessary $10 fine and costs, while the other took the "ten days on the bill."

MANY PICNICS HELD WEDNESDAY

The Wednesday half holiday was largely responsible for the many who were privileged to enjoy it. Whether conditions were such that many visited the nearby lake and other inland waters to either partake in the fishing or enjoy the balmy breeze which prevailed. The city during the afternoon was virtually deserted. Two Sunday School picnics were held attended by old and young alike. Christ Church picnic was held at Wellington Beach on the Marysburgh Road and was held at Twelve O'Clock Point. Many cars were utilized for the transport all who desired to attend the delightful Summer resort.

Serve Dinner in Police Building Erected as Market 100 Years Ago
Mr. W. C. Mikel Suggests Celebration of Centennial
The following is a copy of a letter which W. C. Mikel, has sent to the City Council.
"His Worship Mayor Geo. O. Tice, and Aldermen of the City Council, Gentlemen:
"On the 20th of April 1836, a Statute was passed by the Legislature of Upper Canada making provision for the election of members of the Corporation of the Town of Belleville. Following this, the first Council of Belleville was elected, on that on this date next year Belleville's Council will have been in continuous existence for one hundred years.
"It might afford Belleville some useful publicity if you were to make arrangements to commemorate this important event. You might invite the heads of cities, and some others to a dinner to be held in the City Hall and on the ladies and sons of the churches or societies in Belleville would be glad of the opportunity to put on a dinner at 50c a person, similar to what has been put on for the Masonic Grand Master and on other occasions.
"You might mention that the Statutes authorized the issue of debentures for £1,000 to establish a market and public buildings in addition to the election of the Council.
"On the 31th of July of the same year, 1836, the Village Council passed a by-law to establish a public market. Following this and the issue of the debentures, I believe the building now used for the Police Department was erected for the purpose of public market, fire department, and village hall.
"It would be very, interesting to have the dinner served in this old building which is one hundred years old.
"If the Council approves of this proposal, I feel quite sure that Belleville will receive publicity of the kind as worth of useful publicity. No place can become any greater than its own people and any place can become just as great and influential as its own people are capable of making it.
"All citizens of Belleville of two or three generations ago built their homes, and still reside on some of the most attractive business streets in the province. Of the four thousand odd buildings in Belleville two-thirds of them were built a couple of generations ago.
"If this generation shows as much enterprise as its predecessors, Belleville will before long become the chief City in Eastern Ontario.
Yours sincerely,
W. C. Mikel."
Chinese Insult To "Son of Heaven" Stirs Japanese
Shanghai, July 3 (AP)— The Chinese government considered today a new series of demands submitted by Japanese Ambassador Akira Ariyoshi following what was termed a Chinese insult to the Japanese Emperor.
The insult allegedly consisted of publication by the Chinese magazine "New Life Weekly," of an article reflecting unfavorably on Japan's "Son of Heaven."
The demands were said to include insistence on a government apology and punishment for persons responsible.

Vesuvius Erupts, Piece of Crater Cone Blown Off

Naples, July 3.—(AP)—Mount Vesuvius erupted with a tremendous explosion early today, blowing a piece of its cone from the crater high into the air. The explosion opened a fissure in the cone from which lava was flowing copiously.

Soon afterward, another opening appeared at the base of the cone. The Vesuvius Observatory issued a statement maintaining the danger of the eruption.

Today's was the first eruptive activity of Vesuvius since June, 1933.

PICTON REGATTA DOMINION DAY A REAL SUCCESS

Boats From South End Make Clean-up in Yacht Races

WELL HANDLED

Entire Program Under Perfect Arrangements by Committee

Picton, July 3 (Special)— The third annual regatta held at Van Dusen's Cove on Dominion Day, with perfect weather, brilliant sunshine, and sufficient breeze, under the auspices of Prince Edward Yacht Club furnished a programme of beauty, excitement and interest. Power boat, and sailing races, were run simultaneously over the triangular courses each two miles in length, with three laps to each course. Several hundred spectators on the shore, and many in private craft had a fine view of the entire course. The announcement of heat winners was plainly heard through the loud speakers. Officials of the club spared no effort to make the latter a success. On the beautiful launch "Pru-Jo," owned by Mr. Stamford Warrington of Verona, judge of the events, was the ambassador George H. Carver, Marshall Palmer was starter. Some forty racing yachts from Belleville and Kingston competed. These arrived on Sunday and their crew were furnished tents and provisions by the local club. Yvera's confectionery had a booth at the cove, and did a rushing business.

A special feature of the afternoon was the driving of eight year old "Bill Cooper" of four heats, two in the Hacker Sea Pup class, and two in 151-Cubic Inch Power boat class making second and third place but the little lad, son of Buff Cooper, afterwards spoke over the microphone. The power boat winners were:

121 Cubic Inch Power Boats

151 Cubic Inch Power Boats

Round Bottom, K. M. Young-Trophy

Hacker Sea Pups

1 "Wimpy"; Harold Rutlan, Picton; 2 "Dona Marie", Buff Cooper, Picton.

Free For All, Bay of Quinte

Matched Race

MERRY FARMERY

Money troubles and not the usual romantic complications brought Merry Parliery-Parker-Pickering-Hamer of Oak Park, Ill., back into the headlines. The heiress to patent medicine millions sought to have voided documents which she signed waiving her share of the $1,000,000 estate left by her late uncle. She told the court she had been induced to sign to obtain $30,000 in cash offered her.

A.C.B.L. liner ran aground late Monday evening just outside Picton harbor. With two boats to be loaded with canned goods on Tuesday morning, some agitation from the 'strikers" of Saturday is expected.

Sailing Results

The South End Athletic Club of Belleville sent thirty sailing craft to Picton Regatta, held on Dominion Day; Kingston sent eleven sailing boats; Napanee, three; and Trenton, two. Below had a few entries. The results follow:

"A" Class

1. Anne C., owned by H. Semark; 2. After U, owned by M. Callaghan; 3. Joka, owned by "Duke" Smith, all of Belleville.

Flying Scot Class—B. I. owned by Reg. Hinchey, of Belleville,

"B" Class

1. Dorothy, Rushlow Bros.; Let's Go, Ed Kellaway.

"D" Class

1. Ronnedo, D. Rowe, owner; 2. Ron Wallace, W. Williamson.

16 Ft. Class

1. Scotella, Rushlow Bros., owners; 2. Spray, R. Hay, owner.

Snipe Class

1. Eagle, driven by Bill Flagler; 2. Wanda, driven by W. Bishop.

Sharpe Class

1. No. 8, Napanee owner.

"C" Class

1. Toots, owned by T. Green, Belleville.

Cat-Rigged Dinghies — Mac Wright, Kingston.

The C.S.L. "Beaverton" was able to leave the place just below Picton Harbor at seven o'clock Tuesday morning, where she grounded Monday night and proceeded to the dock in the harbor. There were two boats to be loaded with canned goods Tuesday morning. The management could only secure a few men to work for 30c per hour, and were forced to pay 40c an hour to meet the demand of the regular loaders who went on strike Saturday.

PREMIER BENNETT DETERMINED TO PRESERVE LAW

Remove Cause Says Stevens

Hon. H. H. Stevens, former Minister of Trade and Commerce, had both criticism and commendation for the Government. In the matter of preserving order the government had done its duty and should be supported, he said. But the best way of preventing sedition was to remove the cause. He urged a gigantic program of road-building and reforestation, which would absorb these men in gainful employment to be financed by the use of national credit.

Responsibility for the riot was laid at the door of the government by Miss Agnes Macphail. She said Prime Minister R. B. Bennett had done more to promote communism in Canada than any other ten men, including Tim Buck and any other Communist leaders who might be named.

A full investigation into the Regina clash will be held, Mr. Bennett told the House. He said a coroner's jury would have to hold an inquest into the police officer's death and he would not anticipate its finding by indicating the form a Governmental investigation would take.

Right is Questioned

The Federal Government's right to interfere in the administration of law and the maintenance of order in Saskatchewan was questioned by Liberal Leader Mackenzie King, who asked for the tabling of all correspondence with the Saskatchewan Government. At the same time Mr. King urged for a full investigation and urged it be made jointly by the Provincial and Federal Governments as both authorities were interested and a probe at the instance of only one would be unsatisfactory.

The Grain Board Bill as revised in the special committee, which studied it comes again before the House today. It is now proposed the Board shall provide fixed minimum price to the farmers for their wheat and permit the grain trade to operate as before. The changes are expected to make it more acceptable to the opposition.

Before the session ends the House will be asked to set its approval anew on the empire trade agreements. On instruction Prime Minister R. B. Bennett and over the opposition of the United Liberal and Farmer-Labor forces a resolution standing all season the name of J. M. Harris (Cons. Toronto-Scarborough) was placed under the heading of Government orders for immediate consideration. It calls for approval of the operation of the trade pacts.

Second Offer Sent

A second offer to the Regina rioters to return to relief camps or their homes was sent yesterday, Minister of Justice Hugh Guthrie announced. The men, he said, would be given food, transportation and clothing but would not be moved en bloc as they demanded—suggested late last week. In describing the clash he said the crowd of strikers and onlookers, armed with clubs and rocks attacked the Regina city police. Shots were fired at the police by the strikers and the police were returned the fire. The Mounted came o the assistance of city police but used only batons, he said.

They would not go "as an organized revolutionary force" he disputed among the camps that seemed appropriate," said Mr. Minister in announcing the offer to have the men removed.

A large proportion of the 2,000 men in Regina never were in a relief camp, Mr. Guthrie maintained. Mr. Guthrie denied an order had been given prohibiting gifts of money, clothing or food to Regina relief camp strikers. A camp had been opened at Lumsden, near Regina, where food and shelter were available for the marchers. Few went at first, recently more and yesterday about 150.

Baggage Seized

These men were prevented by a strict picket line maintained by their "so-called leaders." Their baggage has been seized. In the strike raider there were many "C" leaders in charge of as many groups.

J. S. Woodsworth, C.C.F. leader, predicted there would be more clashes and more lives lost if the government maintained its present policy.

The C.C.F. leader said he had received eye-witness accounts from Regina which differed from reports read by the Minister of Justice. He was informed the men met peacefully in Regina and there was no disturbance until the police forces "ruthlessly drove in on them."

Mr. Woodsworth said he would like to know how many of the strike leaders "are governmental agents." He claimed espionage was one of the chief functions of the R.C.M.P. citing the evidence of Sergt. Leopold that sent eight Communists to Kingston penitentiary. Liberal leader King wanted to know what instructions were given the police. There should be no secret orders. Every person in Canada was represented in parliament and it was in the interests of all that full details be given to the public.

In answer to Mr. King's question Mr. Guthrie said no instructions had been issued to police to protect persons assisting the strikers so far as he knew.

Telegram Read

Mr. King read a telegram from Premier J. G. Gardiner of Saskatchewan which, he said, showed a difference of view between the two governments. The telegram said the strikers offered to disband and while further delegates were conferring with the Premier the police raided the Regina meeting. It also said if the men were not fed and dispersed a worse riot would ensue. The telegram asked the Dominion government to keep out of the administration of law and order in Saskatchewan. The Liberal Leader also read a telegram from T. C. Davis, Attorney-General of Saskatchewan, protesting against federal interference in law administration and demanding the R.C.M.P. be instructed to take orders from him and not from Ottawa.

"I would like to know from the Prime Minister," said Mr. King, "whether he has abandoned the view that the provinces are responsible for law and order, and if he has not, how he justifies the action that has been taken."

His office had been flooded by letters and telegrams protesting against the government's actions. They came openly from Communist organizations not only in Canada but in Paris and New York, he replied Mr. Bennett.

He emphasized the Regina policeman was "killed by those who challenged authority and government." Then he turned and faced Mr. Woodsworth if he "ever thought of the implied approval" his remarks in the speeches he has made in the actions of those men."

The men had been misled and misguided, Mr. Bennett said, claiming the Vancouver Mayor "led the parade one day and the police the next . . . not actually on that day."

When governments used their authority to encourage disturbances what more could be expected?" asked Mr. Bennett. Every day the men became bolder because of the inaction. They received from those they thought their friends. The men in the camps believed they had a grievance and were spurred on by an international organization with sinister ends.

Tuesday attending the circus and immediately after the performance left for their home near Plainfield.

The father went to the pasture to bring up the cattle, while the mother busied herself about the house and before leaving the home to assist in the milking, lit a fire in the kitchen stove. After she went to the barn, milking was commenced and soon the two children mentioned rushed down to the barn informing the father and mother, that the house was on fire. The father rushed to the home about 98 yards distant and in opening the door found the interior of the home enveloped in flames. The baby had been left in the carriage by the other children, who rushed out to save their own lives.

Rushes Into House

Mr. Elliott with no thought of his own safety rushed heading into the house and attempted to rescue his child but to no avail. The child was finally taken from the burning home but life was extinct. Friends and neighbors were soon on the scene and every effort was made to save the home but the flames had gained too much headway. Mr. Elliott was attended at the scene of the fire by Dr. Welsh and then rushed to the hospital for Kingston where he and both the children were taken to the home of a neighbor where the mother became quite hysterical and broken in spirits from the loss of her little one. Today her condition is not much improved.

Provincial Police of Belleville headquarters investigating the fatality but have not completed the same. B. G. Donnan K.C., Crown Attorney stated today, that he did not see the necessity of an inquest but would consider the case known in that community and the of the little child.

The cost of living, which reached its peak in 1920, has declined; but on the 1913 basis it is still much higher than the price of gasoline. In 1934 the cost of living was 20.7 per cent. higher but the price of gasoline was 28.4 per cent lower than in 1913. The data for the graph are based on figures published by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

LIVING COSTS MORE BUT GASOLINE COSTS LESS

THE cost of living in Canada in 1934 was approximately 21 per cent. higher and the price of gasoline 28 per cent. lower than in 1913. The price of gasoline never rose to as high a peak as did the cost of living. Since 1920 gasoline prices have declined almost continuously to the present low level.

Imperial Oil has always sought for economical ways of doing business and has always passed on to the consumer the benefits of such economies. Imperial Oil operates on a very small profit and in 1934 earned an average of slightly more than one-half of one cent per gallon on gasoline.

Not only is gasoline cheaper than ever—it is better than ever. Imperial Oil research laboratories played a leading part in developing fuels for modern motors. Imperial gasoline of 1935 is a far better gasoline than that of 1913 yet it sells at a price considerably lower.

PRESERVATION OF ORDER

Whether there is discontent or not, at all times law and order must be preserved and the authorities are to be commended on the highly sensible manner in which they have preserved peace, and prevented outbreaks.

Now at Regina, a plainclothesman, Detective Charles Miller, was pommelled to death in a wild melee of 3,000 men, it being reported that men kept pounding him over the head until he fell to the street, dead.

Such a condition cannot go unpunished. Law and order must be maintained and those men who fought the Mounted Police and the city constables with stones and sticks in the streets have broken the law and if convicted will be punished. That is the only manner in which to treat those who under cover of excitement get so out of control and hostile to those who are preserving order as to cause a peace officer's death.

Much is being done all over Canada for relief by the Governments who feel the duty of being their brother's keeper just as the same humanitarian spirit manifests itself in social legislation of the day.

There are ways of protest against conditions if they are felt to be unfavourable but those ways are not by violence to life and limb. Such a dire result as the death of an officer cannot but cause widespread indignation and the loss of sympathy.

IN NEW YORK PULPITS

Cynics in religion were chided by Rev. Dr. Berg of Piermont, N. Y., as misled, in a sermon at Fort Washington Reformed Church, New York. It is nonsense to contended that religion is an escape from life. He explained: "People today use the same attitude toward religion as did Pharaoh in his day when he told Moses that the Jehovah in the wilderness could fool the peasants but could not fool him. This is typical of a certain cynical philosophy. These same people have the belief that religion is a myth. The death of Jesus Christ is a myth built up by men after the death of Christ, they say. If the resurrection of Christ is a myth, then it is a wonderful connection of men who were not very bright. But for the exception of Peter, how men of this calibre could ever make up such a thing is a complete mystery to me.

"Modern philosophers think that religion is an escape from life. To be religiously inclined, according to them, is all wrong. You are taking an easy way out of life in believing the Bible has many wonderful moral stories, they intimate."

Again Dr. Berg said: "Men, according to my interpretation of Pharaoh's words ("Lay more work on the men") should work together and have faith in one another. Their faith in Christ will be strengthened by their faith in one another."

Rev. R. E. Woods in St. Patrick's Cathedral denied the charge that Roman Catholics are motivated by fear, saying that their motive is love, in the practice of their religion. He added criticism of the church was that Catholics are "under the thumb of ecclesiastical martinets, priest-ridden, and constricted on every side by laws to conform to the great commandment of Christ upon which His church is founded,—'Thou shalt love the Lord with thy whole heart, thy whole soul, and thy whole mind' and "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself."

The spirit of Catholicism is to be found he said, not in the laws of the church but "in the hearts of those who are its exponents, the saints and martyrs, and in the teachings of its Founder. Let us ask why Catholics throng the churches on Sunday, make sacrifices of their own time and pleasure to attend mass and do other things people are amazed at. Do we do them because we have the prospect of a hell-fire before us? I daresay we never thing of it. When Sunday comes around and we waken feeling tired and wanting to stay in bed, we drag ourselves out and go off to church because we love God, not because we fear the loss of our soul."

Heaven is placed in the north, said Rev. J. H. McComb at Broadway Presbyterian Church. "From Isaiah it appears that this heaven of the saved is located to the north among the stars."

"We should have peace because all men are brothers, because all men are Christians, and naturally men tend to get along together," remarked Prof. Roland, Bainton of Yale Divinity School, preaching at Madison Avenue Presbyterian Church. "We cannot hope that a spirit of harmony can be built out of a mutual hate."

Youth does not know deep joy but only thrills, Dr. J. C. Bacon of Newcastle-on-Tyne, England, said at the Collegiate Church of St. Nicholas. "The deepest joy of life is built out of the common experiences. The best wine is made out of water. When the wine fails some turn sour and bitter but in the story of Jesus a guide is offered to them to a new supply of wine. Jesus wanted people to be happy and have a guide to obtain from life the highest possible happiness."

THE TRAVELLER RETURNS

Although the traveler may return, to pace
The village street like any yokel there,
As though his eyes had never glimpsed the face
Of changeful seas and mist-wreathed mountains fair;
Still safely shrined within his memory
Lie beauty's treasures, stored to muse upon:
The Alps by moonlight, fields of Picardy,
Old Cairo, with its camel-trains at dawn.

So I, since once within Love's land I dwelt,
Find life holds nothing commonplace or stark;
Before a lample then my spirit knelt,
And light which shone there still dispels all dark.
I am a traveller to dim ways returning;
But I have seen a shrine with white stars burning!

THERE ARE NO EMPTY HOUSES IN STURGEON FALLS, the Northern Ontario community where an investigation by the government into relief payments) uncovered a degree of careless handling of government money that was astonishing. No wonder there are no empty houses—how you gonna keep 'em down on the farm after they've seen how easy is life on the banks of Minnehaha Bay, as the wards of a good kind, paternal government.

BRUNO HAUPTMANN, sentenced to be executed in the electric chair 1st April in New Jersey for the murder of Baby Lindbergh, is still in the land of the living while his lawyers battle for a new trial, or for anything which will delay the execution. A large sum of money has been raised for the defence of Hauptmann, mainly among his German compatriots, and in view of the flexibility of the law in the United States it is quite probable that Hauptmann will live as long as the money lasts.

CHAIN MONEY LETTERS which sprang into being in a night, flourished for a very brief spell and died, leaving many mourners and a few winners, furnished the idea for the chain telegram idea which has resulted in the Western Union Telegraph Company of the United States being sued for $,600,000 in Supreme Court on the ground that it violated gambling laws by sending chain telegrams. The suit was brought under the gambling laws of 1877 whereby "The common informer" gets one half the fine and the county the other half. It is charged the Western Union accepted 200 chain telegrams a day at Camden, New Jersey, every day from June 7 to 18, which makes the company liable to a fine of $2,000 for each offense or $3,600,000 in all.

ROMANCE IN THE GREAT LONE LAND, the land of the Gentlemen Adventurers of the Hudson Bay Company, monarchs of all they surveyed and more, until their title was disputed by the hardy adventurers of the Northwest Company, is the inspiration of an author who in his way now to the far north to catch the local atmosphere and weave his story with romantic threads of the bitter struggle of the Hudson Bay Company with would-be rivals who sought to divide the rich fur trade with the Gentlemen Adventurers. Alan Sullivan, Canadian born, but resident now of Kent, England, and author of several volumes of historical fiction, paused in Montreal a day or two on his way north to the Mackenzie River where the scene of his new story is to be laid. He is the author of "The Track of Destiny" now running serially in MacLean's Magazine, being a novel built around the construction of the Canadian Pacific Railway, and considering all the outstanding events of that wonderful achievement in the face of so many difficulties and opposition, political and financial. History is not taught correctly in the schools, according to Mr. Sullivan, it shouldn't be a matter only of dates and events, but could be taught much better through historical romantic fiction.

by T. E. LAWRENCE

We feigned a deafness, as manners commanded; at last we heard him, and looked surprised at one another, each surging his fellow to move first; till Nadir rose coyly, and after him we all came forward to sink on one knee round the tray, wedging in and quickening up till the twenty-two for whom there was barely space were grouped around the food. We turned back our right sleeves to the elbow, and, taking lead from Nadir with a low "In the name of God the merciful, the loving-kind," we dipped together.

The first dip, for me, at least, was always cautious, since the liquid fat was so hot that my unaccustomed fingers could seldom bear it: and so I would lay with an exposed and cooling lump of meat till others' excavations had drained my rice-pool a bit. We would knead between the fingers (not soiling the palm), neat balls of rice and fat and liver and meat cemented by gentle pressure, and project them by tossings of the head from the crooked forefinger into the mouth. With the right trick and the right consistence the little lump held together and came clean off the hand: but when sugary butter and odd fragments clung, cooling, to the fingers, they had to be licked carefully to wait for the effort slip easier away.

Our host stood by the circle, encouraging the appetite with pious ejaculations. At top speed we twisted, torn, rent and stuffed: never pausing, since conversation would insult a meal's quality; though it was proper to smile thanks when an intimate guest passed a select fragment, or when Mohammed el Dheilan gravely handed over a huge burrow-bone with a blessing. On such occasion I would return the compliment with some handsome, impossible lump of guk, a slippery which rejected the Nowaital, but which the gracious, aristocratic Nadir saw with disapproval.

At length some of us were nearly filled, and began to play and pick; glancing sideways at the rest till they too grew slow, and in the ceased eating, elbow on knee, the hand hanging down from the wrist over the tray edge to drip, while the fat, butter and scattered grains of rice cooled into a stiff white grease which gummed the fingers together. When all had stopped, Nadir meaningly cleared his throat, and we rose up together in haste with an explosive "God requite it you, O host," to group ourselves outside among the tent-ropes while the next twenty guests inherited our leavings.

Those of us who were nice would go to the end of the tent where the flap of the roof-cloth, beyond the last poles, drooped down as an end curtain, and on this rain handkerchief (whose coarse goat-hair mesh was mine inland and glossy with much use), would scrape the thickets of the fat from the hands. Then we would make back to our seats, and retake them slightingly; while the slaves, hasting aside their portion the skulls of the sheep, would come round our rank with a wooden bowl of water, and a coffee-cup as dipper, to splash over our fingers, while we rubbed them with the tribal soap-cake.

Meantime the second and third sittings by the dish were finishing their turn, and then there would be one more cup of coffee, or a glass of syrup-like tea; and at last the horses would be brought and we would slip out to them, and mount with a quiet blessing to the hosts as we passed by. When our backs were turned the children would run in disorder upon the ravaged dish, tear our gnawed bones from one another, and escape into the open with valuable fragments in the fat secured in security behind some distant bush: while the watch dogs of all the camps prowled round moaning, and the master of the tent piled the choicest offal to his greyhound.

We feasted on the first day once, on the second twice, on the third twice; at Isawiya: and then, on the fourth day, at Abu Markha. Dhellan rode easily for three hours, past an old sanded lava field to a valley in which nestled a town of the Howeitat, brackish water lay all about us. The first time I was spectator from the midst of an Arab tribe, and easier in the position of its march.

It was strangely unlike the usual visitor-circumstance. All day the hot green expanse of stones and bushes shimmered like a mirage with the movement of men on foot; and horsemen; men on camels; camels bearing the tanned black tent-cloths; camels, swaying curiously, like butterflies, under the winged and fringed howdahs of the women; camels trailed like birds with the cocked or dragging tent-poles of silvery poplar. There was no order nor control nor routine of march, other than the wide front, the self-contained parties, the simultaneous start, which the insecurity of countless generations had made instinctive. The difference was that the desert, whose daily spareness gave value to every man, today seemed with their numbers suddenly to overflow it.

The pace was easy; and we, who had been guarding our own lives for weeks, found it a relaxation beyond feeling to know ourselves expected as to share the light liability or danger with a host. Even our more solemn orders let themselves go a little, and the wilder ones became fantastical first amongst them, of course, were Farraj and Daud, my two imps, whose spirits not all the discipline of the world had quelled for a moment. About their riding places in our line of march centred two constant swirls of activity or of accident, according as their quenchless mischief found it worse or better provision. On my dry patience they played a little, because the plague of snakes which had been with us since our first entry into Sirhan, by night was now passing bright, and became a terror. In ordinary times, as the Arabs said, snakes were little seen here than were lizards at last we found it necessary to walk with sticks beating the bushes each side while we stepped by night through our host's address, cobras and black snakes. . . . . GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BY-GONE YEARS

July 3rd 1915

A valuable brown spaniel dog, the property of Mr. Alfred Ellis, of Foxboro, was killed when run over by an automobile on Mill street last evening.

Capt. Bottum and Mr. Dan Hubbell recently caught a fine muskoon Lake where they will spend some time fishing.

Rev. G. C. Smith, pastor of the Baptist Church, is spending his holidays in Toronto, during the month of July Mr. Smith will occupy the pulpit of the Parkdale Baptist Church.

The Rillside School of this city under the direction of Prof. Johnstone furnished a fine programme at a lawn social in the township of Huntingdon last evening.

On Dominion Day a baseball match was played at Mrs. Bridge Street Methodist Church Sunday School picnic at Twelve O'Clock Point between Holloway Street Church and Bridge Street Church. The former team won the score being 10 to 5. Some good work was done by the Bridge Street fielders, especially McCullough the centre fielder who did a grand stand act by catching a fly which had a most awkward fly. Lynch, Bridge Street's pitcher, did some fancy twisting which got their opponents goat. Holloway Street's star was easily to be seen, was W. Ross "Micky" making the long warm after he had landed a couple of dandy hits. He also did some fine pitching, Cecil Holloway catching for him. Percy Gilford, who refereed the game announced to be fair to both sides, neither getting any partiality from Percy. The following team composed the teams: Holloway Street —W. Ross, C. Holloway, R. Hagerty, A. Dueseberry, R. Woodley, R. Rust, H. Woodley, R. Bowen, E. Hay. Bridge Street—G. Lynch, H. Atkins, E. Wheeler, L. Wells, E. Barlow, G. French, R. Foster, McCullough, F. Ross.

R.C.M.P. PATROL EMBARKS ON TWO YEAR ARCTIC VIGIL

BY Central Press Canadian

Vancouver, July 3—Two officers and nine men of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police have sailed from Vancouver on the famous Arctic patrol—an assignment which will keep them away from civilization for at least two years.

The R.C.M.P. schooner St. Roch, (shown RIGHT), constructed to withstand the pressure of the frozen north, will make her way to Canadian Bay, Victoria Island, carrying supplies and ammunition for the scattered posts of law and order within the Arctic.

After she has made all her visits the St. Roch will freeze in for the winter and become a detachment.

Capt. H. A. Larson of Vancouver is skipper of the ship but when the St. Roch becomes a fixed station O. McKinnon will take charge of the unit.

Sergeant Roch will pass Dutch Harbor and proceed through Bering Strait to Point Barrow, northern Alaska, where she will visit with the breakup which commences in the latter part of June.

L.O.L. ATTENDS DIVINE SERVICE

Stockdale Kiltie Pipe Band is in Attendance

Frankford—The Frankford L. O. L. accompanied by the L. O. B. A. with the Stockdale Kiltie pipe band, headings, paraded to the United Church on Sunday afternoon June 30th to attend Divine Service. There was a good turn out of members of both lodges as well as visitors from nearby towns.

Rev. J. F. Lane, pastor, delivered a stirring and forceful address upon taking his text from Ephesians 1V verse 29 as his theme the first verse "Therefore.....beseech you that ye walk worthy of the vocation, where with ye are called".

Mr. Lane said that to be a follower of Christ was a real privilege. It pays to be a Christian as the promise is given of Eternal Life as well as the best things of life now and in the life to come. Professing Christians should walk worthy of their profession, worthily of their calling with humility, meekness and Wisdom and should avoid the very appearance of evil by the way they live. Those who do not read the Bible as the world's Bible, a sharp sickness.

Two anthems were given by the choir and during the service hymns 510, 511 and 514 were sung closing with the National Anthem.

Trustees Frank Reid and A. M. attended Trinity church for Divine Service on Sunday evening June 30th.

The Lodge was welcomed by the Rector Rev. A. E. McConnell B.A., LL. and his address which following was appropriate as well as inspiring and helpful to everyone. The text was taken from Ephesians 2nd chapter 19 to 16: "The City Lists Four Square". Mr. McConnell explained how the buildings of the city of Jerusalem the gentlemen used pretended the people dwelled in walls. This could be applied to building a character, using the virtues, temperance, love and faith as materials for the four walls.

During the service Mr. L. Orton sang in a pleasing voice "I Give Myself to Thee". The Lord's Scripture lesson was read by W. L. Simmons, the second lesson by J. Rogers.

Slain Attorney Dines, Drinks With Killers

DETROIT, July 3—(AP)—Howard Carter Dickinson, prominent young Attorney, dined and drank with his killers and paid their dinner check a few hours before he was shot to death in a robbery, it was disclosed today by the state's chief of confessions made by William Lee Ferris and his three "petite girls" companions.

Early this morning prosecutor Duncan C. McCrea reported he had fitted together the last pieces of the puzzle surrounding Dickinson's murder, drawing from three screaming, half hysterical girls the admission "we decided to kill him" because "dead men tell no tales".

The prosecutor, author of fiction which police questioners reported as search material, refused to discuss the case until it came forth from Ferris and his companions, Loretta and Florence Jobbin, brunette dancers, and Joan Miller, blonde.

The story that Dickinson, well groomed, wealthy appearing counsellor, was taken for a "sucker" and killed for his money, came from the Miller girl. Sobbing out her hysteria through hours of questioning, Prosecutor McCrea said, she finally blurted out Ferris killed for their victim and the girls rifled his pockets for money.

Ferris Spoke Down

Confronted with her admission, McCrea said Ferris broke down and told what had happened after he thought was the "whole story".

But it was Florence Jobbin, the girl that McCrea reported obtaining the facts of the intrigue which he said linked the quartet in the murder.

"Loretta, Bill and myself talked about talking Dickinson out when we were in Bill's room Tuesday night," McCrea quoted her as saying in her statement.

"We all agreed Dickinson had a lot of money and we ought to get a few dollars from him. Loretta and I suggested rolling him, but Bill said it might be a hard thing to do. He was against it because he was afraid Dickinson knew him. We then suggested knocking him out, but Bill said that was too dangerous because he would be able to talk, when he came to and would be able to identify us.

"He thought the only thing for us to do would be to kill him. There was some argument about that but we finally decided to kill him to get him and we'd take him."

"We decided to kill him."

Trace Origin Of Painting

Ottawa, July 3—(CP)—An oil painting found in the home of Alex Guire, unemployed carpenter, at an address he gave as 69 cents may be worth many times the purchase price, it was learned today.

McGuire said he had received an offer of $100 for the painting entitled "the sands by the sea", by Charles Warren Eaton, United States artist, which he has valued in the meantime he is endeavoring to trace the origin of the picture and have it valued.

JAPAN'S FINANCES WEIGHT HIS SHOULDERS

One of the most important men in Japanese finance to-day is Yejo Watai, former Japanese army and navy minister at the London economic conference and newly-appointed president of the Bank of Japan. He is pictured at his private residence in native dress. Finance Minister Korekiyo Takahashi has just warned Japan that she has been borrowing too much internally, to meet the budget, and must curtail her spending. He stated further that the entire financial structure might tumble if the Bank of Japan, his pictured, floated. Thus Fukai, with financial influence becomes a power in the government of Japan.

Rawdon, July 3—On Friday evening, June 28th a large number of the members of Mount Pleasant Young People's Society gathered at the church hall to honor their pastor Rev. F. C. Jobbin and to offer to close the year's work.

The President opened with "Jesus Saviour Pilot Me" and prayer. Devotional talk was based on the subject "Reading Which Makes a Vacation Worth-while". It was suggested that during the holidays the young people read their Bible Study the S. S. lesson, read a good book and keep their minds on the things that are worth-while.

All joined in "Let Me Call You Sweetheart" and "Auld Lang Syne". Roll call was answered by a verse from Paul's 13th chapter of 1st Corinthians.

Miss Margarette White presented Rev. Jobbin with two group photos of the choir and younger groups of Mount Pleasant Young People's Society.

Rev. Jobbin although taken by surprise replied, thanking the young friends for their kind remembrance. He told of the growth of the Mount Pleasant Young People's Society and said one of his greatest pleasures was to minister to league members and to enjoy their friendship and good-will. In the spirit of the Master he gave as his closing message that "All would remain loyal to the call of their life and to remember that your best friend is Jesus." After looking at the photos, he said, nothing could have given him greater pleasure than to be able to look into the faces of his many friends at Mount Pleasant. He said he would be with the society in spirit when they opened next fall for another term. Just here the audience sang "Should Mr. Jobbin be forget and never more remembered by mine, We'll tell the world right on this spot, we think he's mighty fine, Should Mr. Jobbin be forget, Lord, your hearts or mine.

We'll tell the world right on this spot, we think he's mighty fine. Let's clap our hands and make a row. That we will ever hold dear. The memory of this friendship now.

So warmly wielded here.

The President reminded Rev. Jobbin that he will always be a welcome guest at anytime that he can attend a Y.P.S. meeting and closed with "Onward Ever Upward." This will close the year's work and in the fall the society will reorganize for service.

Have you found the SUNNY PACKAGE on your grocer's shelf?

It's a delicious ready-to-eat cereal. Millions of Canadians have found Kellogg's All-Bran a safe, effective means of correcting common constipation—the kind caused by lack of "bulk" in the diet.

Laboratory measurements show that All-Bran provides "bulk" to aid elimination. All-Bran also supplies vitamin B and iron.

The fact that this tempting cereal is more effective than that found in fruits and vegetables is due to its more digestible better. Within the body, it absorbs moisture, and forms a soft mass. Gently this closes out the intestinal waste.

Let All-Bran be your safeguard against constipation! Two tablespoonfuls of All-Bran daily are usually sufficient. Chronic cases with each meal. If this fails to give relief, see your doctor.

Enjoy All-Bran as a cereal, or cook into appetizing recipes. Kellogg's All-Bran contains much more needed "bulk" than bran flakes, processed. In the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg's in London, Ontario.

JONES—FAIR

On Thursday morning June twenty-seventh a pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Robert Fair when her daughter Gertrude was united in marriage to Mr. Thomas Jones of Madoc, son of Mr. and Mrs. Maudock, Wales. The ceremony was performed by Rev. G. Rivers. The bride, who was given away by her uncle Mr. Robert Wickham looked charming in her travelling suit of matte crepe with white lingerie jacket and corsage accessories and carried gardenia roses. Only immediate friends were present and after a buffet luncheon the bride and groom left on a motor trip to Peterboro. Travels and points west.

A large group of about thirty teen-age boys from Harrisville West Virginia, passed through Madoc on Monday night to take possession of the Tamworth Camp for two weeks holidays.

The June meeting of the Madoc Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. George West on Friday evening June twenty-eighth with an attendance of 35. Mrs. Bridgeland, assisted by the Community singing and the Institute Ode opened the meeting. After the business period the roll call was answered by a Canadian wild flower and a very capable given by Mrs. Jas. Aylesworth, Mrs. W. Stevens and Mrs. D. Hendershot. Mrs. Abbott gave a monologue "The Land of Might-Have-Been" accompanied by Mrs. Jennie Pinnock. Mrs. Walter Kincaid gave a very fine paper on Canadian Industries, stressing the importance of developing our natural resources and the part that the Institute trade of Canada also can take. Canada's greatest industry today is agriculture. Canada standing fourth as a wheat producing country. She leads in the production of pulp wood as where the hoe, scythe and sickle were used in the early pioneer day sulky, plows, tractors and threshing outfits; also the privileges of the farmers' telephone and electric light, radio, telephone etc. She closed by pointing out the fact that Canada's place in the world today lies with the young people's folk and the youth of the day. A solo by Mrs. Blanche Alexander "All For You" was much enjoyed. Mrs. Pinnock gave an instrumental selection "Prelude" by Rachmaninoff. A vote of thanks was tendered the ladies and the singing of the National Anthem closed the meeting after which a very pleasant social hour was spent.

THE RED TIGER

CHAPTER EIGHTEEN

TEA FOR TWO

Judith stared, momentarily startled.

The butler saw at once that his disguise had not concealed his identity from that sharp-eyed girl.

"Don't give me away, Miss!" The man's eyes widened from the corner of twisted lips. "Don't let on you ever saw me before, please!"

Judith nodded assent. This man was a crook but he had done her a good turn; she could not do anything to harm him! He was probably hiding from from the lawless ways and earn an honest living in menial service, and would be an ingrate to interfere in that humble purpose. So her mind ran as "Tom Dip" in the role of fashionable lady's butler scurried out of the dressing-room.

"Miss Madison will be down in a minute," he said in a tone of polite servility that fitted his green livery. "She is expecting you. You are to make yourself comfortable." Then his manner changed with his voice; one eye closed in an almost imperceptible wink, and from the corner of twisted lips came a whisper. "Good luck, Miss, and—and for Gawd's sake don't give me away!"

Judith was startled afresh. Those repeated, mysterious warnings to keep from giving away a secret were widely different and antagonistic to Police Inspector Bellamy and Dick the Dip were disconcerting. What was the meaning of the presence here in the Madison home, whom, in spite of his ruffianly record, she knew to be a gentleman at heart?

She was about to speak, to question this man, but he raised his hand for silence and winked again impressively. Then, as the butler hurriedly resumed the stolid impassiveness of the trained butler when the door of a wooden room opened in the doorway and Judith was gazing for the first time on Miss Dorothea Alden Madison wealthy society leader and affianced bride of the man she loved.

"You may bring the tea, Tom," said the woman with a slight nod to the butler as she came forward. "Miss Judith Bates?" with ceremonious stiffness and slipped away.

"Yes, I am Judith Bates," Judith Bates," said the hostess pleasantly, "and you are my guest. There was no pretense of friendliness in the greeting. She was a tall girl with a very fine figure which might be termed regal. Very black hair and eyes of the same color she wore bobbed, but her eyes, in strange contrast to her hair, were of a gorgeous blue that somehow suggested cruelty. That suggestion was heightened by the thin, cruel lips, very red lips, the faultless chiselling of her nostrils and the high, pale, rather voice, crisp and emotionless. Her girl eventually was dressed with the more modest apparel of youth and set off her magnificent figure to a very great advantage.

The butler wheeled in the tea things and departed, closing the door behind him.

"You are Judith Richard," she said. "We are not to be disturbed on any pretext."

Dick the Dip, in his green livery and white wig, inclined his head and smirked respectfully as the woman poured the tea.

"I apologize, no doubt, why I sent for you." Miss Madison began with a pleasant smile. "Sugar, Miss Bates?"

"No," said Judith, slightly piqued. "I have not given it much thought."

"The matter is very simple, really. We may as well be perfectly frank with each other. You are engaged for either of us to dissimulate—for Mr. Madison or myself.

"I have nothing to dissimulate," said Judith haughtily.

"Not even your love for the affianced husband of another woman?" Miss Madison spoke as casually as though she were making some commonplace remark about the weather, and followed it up with a listless: "Do you take cream?"

"No," said Judith, slightly piqued. "I have not given it much thought."

"The matter is very simple, really. We may as well be perfectly frank with each other. You are engaged for either of us to dissimulate—for Mr. Madison or myself.

"I have nothing to dissimulate," said Judith haughtily.

"Not even your love for the affianced husband of another woman?" Miss Madison spoke as casually as though she were making some commonplace remark about the weather, and followed it up with a listless: "Do you take cream?"

"No, thank you." These little words Miss Bates. They are really quite good."

Judith waved the cakes aside and looked sparingly into the cold blue eyes of the woman across the table from her.

"I repeat I have nothing to conceal. I am sorry if my love for Randall Richard annoys you, but I shall not deny it."

A slight frown corrugated the white brow of the mistress of the house for a minute, then smoothed away. She spoke still in the same cold, emotionless voice:

"What if I should tell you that Randall Spencer is not only my affianced husband but is already married?"

Judith sat still for a moment with a look of incredulous amazement, finally she found her voice:

"You—you lie, but I should not believe it unless I had it from his own lips."

The mirthless laugh came again from the cruelly thin mouth across the table.

"You are fascinated. Indeed. It is needless to say that your believe the charges against my—against Mr. Spencer. You are quite illustrious and highly imaginative child."

"No, I do not believe them," Judith asserted stoutly.

"Because I have his word that they are not true."

The woman smiled—sardonically, it seemed to Judith.

"I did not think that such faith and trust were to be found nowadays. But you are an unusual girl—I will concede it. You have been the victim of interesting circumstantial—and Nanny is just that. All the same I do not feel that—"

Weddings

HENNESSEY—QUACKENBUSH

Carrying Place—(Special)—A quiet June wedding took place at the Anglican Rectory here on Friday, June 28th, when Margaret Irene Quackenbush, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Quackenbush of this community, became the bride of Ross David Hennessey, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Hennessey, also of Carrying Place. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Arthur Strother, the local rector.

The bride wore a beautiful gown of white satin and her silk net veil was caught at the head with a bandeau of orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of white roses and baby's breath fern.

She was attended by Miss Nora Hennessey, sister of the groom, wearing a gown of pink silk crepe with white accessories and carrying a bouquet of pink roses with fern. The groom was attended by the bride's brother, Mr. Richard Quackenbush. After a motor trip to the north the happy young couple will reside in Trenton.

WALDRON—BALYK

At St. Thomas' Chapel last evening, a pretty wedding took place when Betty, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Balyk, 73 Lingham Street, became the bride of Mr. Robert Waldron, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. Waldron, of Trenton. The ceremony was performed at eight o'clock by Rev. A. Beauchamp Parry.

The bride wore a graceful frock of shell pink crepe with shirred cape, and white hat and accessories. She carried red roses. Miss Melvin Johnson, Trenton, sister of the groom, was matron of honor and wore pale blue silk crepe with matching hat. Her bouquet was of pink roses. Mr. Melvin Johnson was groomsman.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the bride's home and was attended by about seventy-five guests. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Waldron left for their new home in Trenton, the bride travelling in a yellow suit with sergeant coat, worn with white hat and accessories.

HEAD OF UGLY COSMETIC SKIN?

Not Now
I'm removing cosmetics the Hollywood way

How clever Ruth learned to prevent Choked Pores ... to guard against COSMETIC SKIN

"Frankly, I do use quite a lot of cosmetics and I used to think I removed them thoroughly.

"But of course I don't want to risk getting unattractive Cosmetic Skin. I don't want my pores choked up with stale cosmetics—making my skin dull and coarse, causing little blemishes and even blackheads. So I'm removing cosmetics thoroughly the way 846 out of 857 English and Hollywood Stars do—with Lux Toilet Soap.

Every night, and always before I put on fresh makeup during the day, I use this pure, white soap. There's no excuse for Cosmetic Skin now that Lux Toilet Soap is so economical.

Now—MAKE GORGEOUS JAMS AND JELLIES

IT'S HERE! Jam and jelly-making time and what a cupboard you can have when next winter rolls around—if you use Certo. For with Certo it's just no job at all!

Now, mark what Certo will do for you. First, it gives you delicious jellies even from fruits like strawberries or pineapple . . . fruits that never "jellied" successfully before. Then, with the Certo short-boil method you boil jellies and jams only a minute or two. (Certo recipes tell the exact time for each fruit.) Then, Certo gives you half as much again at less cost per jar because no fruit juice has time to boil away. And this Certo short-boiling method retains all the natural, fresh-fruit flavour . . . rich flavour of the ripe fruit itself. Follow carefully the recipes found in the booklet (containing 75 recipes) under the label on every Certo bottle.

TORONTO LEAFS TIE FOR FIRST

Chalk Seventh Straight in Defeating Bisons 8 to 5

By The Canadian Press

The sensational surge of the Toronto Maple Leafs has carried them into a first place tie with the Baltimore Orioles.

Toronto chalked up its seventh straight victory last night, defeating the Buffalo Bisons 8-3 to break a tie with Montreal for second place and move up abreast of the leaders. Buffalo, which for a month had led the league, lost its fifth consecutive game, all at the hands of Toronto, and slipped down into fourth place.

The Bisons started off well in last night's game, getting a single and Barnes for four runs in the first inning. The runs were scored on two hits, two walks and an error. Barnes settled down however and allowed a total of 13 safeties—before being yanked in the seventh when he lost control again and walked three batters. Tom Bell relanded on Hod Lisenbee in the fifth inning to score all runs and see up the game.

Baltimore assisted the Leafs in coming into the first place position with them by dropping a night game to Rochester 11 to 4.

A total of 30 players appeared in the lineups as the game grew more and in a battle that lasted three hours. There were four wild pitches and three batters hit by pitched balls.

Three Albany errors and two Syracuse hits in the last of the ninth enabled the Chiefs to overhaul the Senators and pull out with a 5-4 win. Both pitchers went the route in the game.

Jack Wilson, starting in the box for Syracuse made 13 STARTS with but threehits, but buried in the ninth inning after Wilson was yanked for a pinch hitter, was given credit for the victory.

Alabama Pitts made two singles in three times at bat and made four putouts.

3 MAIN BOUTS AT FINAL SHOW

Kiwanis Club Putting on All-Star Cast on Friday

Featuring three main bouts each over the one hour limit, the Kiwanis Club wrestling promoters announced their program for their final wrestling show of the season to be staged in the Belleville arena on Friday night. Every bout will be of the three fall haloye over the 90 minute route and will offer the cream of available wrestling talent all featuring one night of excitement. From the opening bout when Nick Mercurio and Jack Pearl actively from Michigan football fields, will start the evening of wrestling wars and tangle with Jack Pearl. Mercurio is of about the same proportions as Pearl and the fans should witness a fast and furious tangle as both opponents are agile and fast afoot.

The final bout of the evening sees the continuation of the unsatisfactory ending of last week's main bout when Walter Parnell and George Richards, the Jewish lad, will resume hostilities. The latter will also be of the three fall nature over the hour limit.

The main bout of the night is an ultra feature attraction as it brings together that local bated grappler, Al Dunlop, in the same ring with Elmo Snidero, French Canadian Dutchman, who has not met with defeat in his local ring in three appearances. The main bout in undoubtedly the best attraction of the season and should see the local arena jammed to the rafters. Extra reserve seats have been added to accommodate the crowd expected.

CANADA BUDS WIN BY 6 TO 2

Kipling Farm Dairy Team of Toronto Are Victims

TRENTON, July 3.—(Special)—Dominion Day was quietly celebrated in Trenton. The weather found many enoying the cool waters of the lake on the excursion to Rochester, N.Y., from Cobourg. Others motored to their favourite spot near the water and were satisfied with a little swim and a picnic. Lovers of boating took in the regatta at Picton and many just stayed around the house enjoying the hot sun as it made them extremely lazy as a holiday is really made for. Hundreds of the younger people swam all day in the waters of the Trent River at the Government and the Cold Storage docks. Only feature of the day in the sport field was the softball game at Bayside Park in the afternoon when the unbeaten entry in the Trenton Softball League, the Canada Buds, defeated the Kipling Farm Dairy of the Lake Shore League in New Toronto. The game was a dandy. The first two to bat for the visitors scored and that was all that crossed the plate during the nine innings. The Buds crossed the count in the seventh when Harold Long stepped to bat and crashed a homer over the ball. Long singled and Doc Johnson's double scored Wesen. Neither scored and k counter until the homesters big assault. Rosenpile singled but was forced out at second on Doc Johnson's hit. Les Johnson and Bowden Wesen ran on errors by Cronker and Martin and the sacks were loaded when Will Miller singled to the plate and drifted a long fly over the left fielder's head for a homer and four runs. The game ended 6-3 for the own Canada Bud team.

Herm Chambers allowed the visitors only five scattered hits, while Crowe was touched for ten in victory. To show the snappy ball played by the locals they completed three double plays.

TORONTO MINING CLOSE

Toronto, July 3—(CP)—The Mining Section of the Toronto exchange worked up some action in a few gold stocks this afternoon following a dull morning but the closing price level was a shade higher than Tuesday's final prices. San Antonio was an afternoon feature as it climbed from 3c to 3.25. Base Metal shares were slow and firm and the Silvers a bit soft.

Mining dealers had plenty of time on their hands today as orders dwindled to a few odd lots.

McWatters was the outstanding soft spot, selling down to 1.14 for a loss of 11 cents. It recovered to 1.16.

Dome came out at $39 up 5 cents and Lake Shore and McIntyre were up a few cents each. Teck Hughes improved five cents.

Eldorado and Beaver were the only active issues in the Silver group, Bear holding slightly higher and Eldorado showing a loss of 3 cents at 1.82. Premier sagged 3 cents.

Base Metals were developed no changes except for a gain of 25 cents per Noranda. Sudbury Basin at 1.35 was steady. The olls were lifeless. Alba at 3.4 was off 2 cents and Libbey came out at 22.96 for a gain of 36 cents.

Trading on the Mining Section was decidedly dull with prices a bit soft in general. Metals and Sudbury Gold shares were quiet, Silvers mix with a falling in Elder-Fenaco and Castle and narrow price concessions and the Secondary Gold group held quite steady.

Exceptions to the note of stickiness in the chosen golds was McWatters which weakened to 1.14 off 11 cents. It recovered a few cents by early afternoon. Gunnar, Sisco and Central Patricia also eased down and Sylvanite gained a few cents.

WALL STREET

New York, July 3 (AP)—3726 Stock Market showed no important changes from its indefinite forenoon trend during late trading today.

With the exception of a slight pickup in trading activity in Steels, most of which reflected forward rationality, leaders continued to back and fill in narrow area.

At the beginning of the final hour shares selling higher included General Motors, American Rolling Mills, Briggs, Electric Auto-Lite, American Tobacco "B", U. S. Leather and Bethlehem. Losses were shown by Coca Cola, Radio Pathe preferred, Santa Fe, United Pacific, Chrysler, Cerro De Pasco and Anaconda. The late issues were irregular. Sales approximated 970,000 shares.

Silver-thought on the Public Utility situation left some confusion in the folloswing trading in these shares.

Canadian stocks were generally inactive on the Big Board and mixed on the curb. Hiram Walker was a trifle lower on the latter exchange while Lake Shore Mines was higher. Canadian issues were unchanged at 99 21-32 cents and Dominion Bonds showed little activity.

Among the eighty issues traded, mostly for less than a point, were Continental Can, Timken Roller Bearing, Commonwealth and Southern Pfd., American Telephone and Consolidated Gas.

Those holding even or tilting backward in little included American Can, Westinghouse, Chrysler, Santa Fe, Union Pacific, Standard Oil of N.J., Kennecott, Anaconda, Public Service of New Jersey, Cerro De Pasco and American Tobacco "B".

TORONTO INDUSTRIALS CLOSE

Toronto, July 3—(CP)—Stocks again shaped up today as the market leaders on the Toronto Industrial share list and gains predominated in the group. A few declines were recorded but the general trade action with minor losses showing in the final sales. Over the board trade and losses about balanced. Steel and miscellaneous shares were mainly steady with a majority of cases and the foods displayed some firmness.

Toronto, July 3 (CP)—The industrial section of Toronto exchange kicked a definite trend today and the turnover was of rather liberal volume, with a good slight edge on losses.

The pace of this Imperial and International Petroleum firmed to the extent of 1 each, the former to 16 3-4 and the latter to 34 3-4.

Industrial Alcohol A was slightly off at 8 3-4. Distillers Seagrams weakened 1-4 to 19 3-8 and Walkers common also eased 1-4, however stocks traded at unchanged prices.

Price gains in the utilities were half point pairs for Bell Telephone and United Fuel pfd. Gains showed for the Steel of Canada stocks and Canadian Car pfd.

Food prices were firm and in the miscellaneous group the strong spots were Beaty Bros., Canada Malting, Kelvinator, Humberstone and Wrexbound Box.

The sluggish morning market for industrial stock developed a little more action in the afternoon session and prices firmed lightly. Oil shares had the main interest among the rest of the group, including Imperial Oil and International Petroleum in up about 1-4 point. Gains were the majority in the afternoon.

Rest of Canada was one of the afternoon strong spots, showing an advance of a full point to 27 3-4. C.P.R. remained unchanged and Brazilian was slightly stronger. Metals were quiet with Steels unchanged and International Nickel off 1-4.

Steels and utilities displayed general strength.

Board Room Gossip

As supplied to Riggs and Crawford by Jamieson Bone & Co.

The stock has been an active feature of the Street market, of late, and has now established above the $3.00 mark. An announcement is expected shortly of the company's intention to step up production to 450 tons daily. The ore reserves now in sight are reported treating 200 tons every twenty-four hours and when the second unit is added, production should be at a rate of over 500 tons a day.

Under the impetus of the utility stocks, New York recorded a sharp advance yesterday. The rebuffing by the House in Washington of President Roosevelt's proposed bill that would have meant the "death knell" for the utility holding companies, Wall Street was quick to strued in a most optimistic light. The Republican Wall Street Board fits counterpart in some of the local utilities. Although the gain here was not very pronounced.

Harrison and Ostiger in their market letter state that although speculative activity remains negligible, there is improvement in basic confidence which has already been demonstrated by advancing stock prices. A mid-summer spurt is not to be expected this year, of course, be contrary to seasoned precedent just as an advancing stock market in the early part of August would be rather out of the ordinary course of events.

In the near analysis, stocks advanced in July and August according to the trend of their earnings. Consequently, anyone buying a security that is showing increased earnings with every prospect of this continuing that can expect to see at time the market will discount this favorable factor.

Distillers-Seagrams is an issue in the category. It will be recalled that the stock gave a large paper account of itself as soon as some of the litigation matters were cleared up. Earnings were known to be exceptionally good but is is also now that the market is beginning to reflect them. Those close to the company feel that this is a laggard or comparatively short time before shareholders will be receiving dividends.

The outlook for the Canadian Car and Foundry Company is the best that it has been in any time during the last five years. This is due to the fact that the company will participate in some fair-sized contracts as a result of the legislation passed at the Parliament providing for federal assistance for the C. P. R. and the C. N. R. for new equipment. It is hardly likely that the effect of this new business will be shown in Canadian Car's fiscal year which closes on September 30th. Eventually, however, such orders should mean big earnings and bring back into black figures once more.

MINING CHIEFS VISIT SUDBURY

Sudbury, Ont., July 3 (CP)—Mining executives from all sections of the Province arrived here today for the annual meeting this morning. The executives will visit the plant of the Ontario Refining Company of Copper Cliff.

The annual banquet of the Association will be held this evening, Thursday will be given over to sight-seeing. In the morning the delegates will go underground to the Frood Mine and in the afternoon will inspect the concentrator and smelter of International Nickel at Copper Cliff.

1-1-4 CENT BONUS PAID UPON MILK

Bonus For Cheese in July Will Prevent Switching

Ottawa, July 3 (CP)—For the month of July a bonus of 1¼ cents a pound will be paid all farmers who ship milk to cheese factories, Minister of Agriculture Robert Weir announced today.

The money will come from a fund of $1,000,000 which the House considered today as a means of equalizing dairy prices. The primary reason for the cheese bonus was to prevent farmers switching production from cheese to butter and forcing down prices to world figures. Mr. Weir said it was not contemplated to tax producers of fluid milk or any farmers in the dairy industry to make up the bonus.

First bonuses will be paid in July, the Minister said, because the cheese factories. It would be at least 1¼ cents a pound and might run 1½ cents.

Butter Market

Any considerable increase in butter production due to a transfer of milk from cheese factories would force Canada off the export market for butter and force Canadian farmers to sell their butter, said Mr. Weir. By reason of tariffs and the fact Canada was on the export butter market prices in Canada were higher than they otherwise have been. The embargoing would be lost.

When butter prices fell it would be probable that producers would turn to cheese production but their foreign markets for cheese in the meantime factories would be closed and equipment, obsolete. The whole dairy industry would become disorganized. Another factor was the higher return for the quality of butter now received for cheese exported to the United Kingdom markets than for butter. The substantial cheese exports to the United Kingdom would also be prevented there in its agricultural plans. The British were now embarrassed by a glut of butter on the market from which was a good demand for cheese.

"This 1¼ per pound is some made," said Hon. W. D. Euler (Lib, Waterloo North). He said once bonuses were started there was no way of stopping them. If cheese were bonused and butter not there would be a great demand for cheese. The result would be that producers would be bonused and their products as well.

Bonus Supported

J. H. Ross (Prince Kings) said he believed the bonus was a good thing although he was opposed to bonuses as a general rule. The dairy industry was the backbone of agriculture and if it could be stabilized it would be of great assistance to all farmers.

Frank Boyes (Cons. East Middlesex) said bonuses were necessary to the farmers could not be overdone. The present government had done more for the farmer than any government and was now making a start to put the country on a dairy industry.

The fund of $1,000,000 Mr. Weir said, would be sufficient to pay 1 1-4 cents a pound on all cheese produced between July 1 and the end of October.

It was a belated date to introduce a bonus system, Mr. Fraser said. Prices in the United States had gone up three or four year. It looked to him like a political pork-barrel, a bait for farm votes.

Dr. F. H. Pickel (Cons. Bronse-Mississauga) said Canadian cheese ranked first in the world and its production should be encouraged.

J. F. Poulin (Lib. Temiscouata) suggested the country would be better off if the bonus were raised to $35,000 which could be used in an advertising campaign to foster the sale of cheese.

Livestock

Toronto, July 3—(CP)—Trading on the stock yards section of the market of the Toronto livestock market today was slow with prices generally unchanged except a slight fresh supply and 900 holdovers. Calves and lambs opened steady while hogs, as usual, were unsettled and sheep slow.

Receipts reported by the Dominion Livestock Branch were: Cattle 430; calves 200... hogs 550; sheep and lambs 200.

A few common to medium butchers sold at $3.00 to $5.75 while cows in more active movement, brought $4.00 to $4.25 for most good and $4.50 for some choice. Light butcher steers brought $3.50 to $4.00 and bologna sold at $2.50. Good fed calves were at $6.75 to $7.00.

The calf division was steady at $5.00 to $6.50 for good vealers and up to $7.00 for tops. Thin kinds sold at $4.00 to $5.00 for most and culls at $3.00 to $3.50.

Hogs were unsettled with prices for a steady settlement of $9.60 off truck and $10.00 off car.

Lambs opened steady to strong at $8.50 for good ewes and wethers and at $6.50 to $6.75 for heavies and culls. Sheep were slow at 1.00 to $2.00 cwt.

HOGS

TORONTO, July 3.—(CP)—Stratford and Kitchener bacon hogs sold ten cents lower today while supplies at all other reporting points were unchanged as Tuesday's prices.

Chatham $9.00; Kitchener $9.35; Stratford $9.25; Peterboro $9.25; Barrie $9.25; Brantford $9.50; Hull $9.65.

Prices and Stocks Butter, Cheese, Eggs

Toronto, July 3 — With storage stocks of butter for Toronto more generally than a year ago at this time the undertones to the butter market yesterday was steady to firm, although trading on the whole reflected post-holiday apathy. No heavy selling effort developed. The Canada Weekly Bulletin of July 3 says:

Cheese also was firm with Toronto at the first of the month were estimated at 45,940 boxes, compared with 79,351 a year ago at this time. These comparative figures, according to trade opinion, were more favorable than a year ago, indicated, although this was offset, to a certain extent, by the increase in storage stocks at Montreal and Winnipeg, which were not as favorable as Toronto. The Montreal stocks showing locally was due, in part, to the fact that the cheese factories in Quebec were higher than for the same month last year. Comparative Montreal stock figures follow:

Montreal July 3—Butter, cheese and eggs unchanged on the local wholesale markets yesterday, while eggs and poultry were slightly easier.

The butter market was 19¼c to 19¾c per lb. for No. 1 in carlots or 1-cl. lots, unchanged from the day before. Receipts, 12 boxes. Small lots of No. 2 were 19c to 19¼c. Local prices for solids and 21¼c to 22c for prints, as quoted by jobbing houses.

The cheese market was fractionally higher. No. 1 Ontarios became 19¾c to 19¾c while No. 1 Quebecs were 19¼ to 19½c. Receipts 743 boxes.

The egg market ruled steady, with graded shipments arriving in carlots or 1-cl. lots at 22 3/4c to 23c; extra for A-medium, 19½c to 20 c for B, and 17½c to 18c for C. Receipts, 740 cases.

Berry Surplus Will be Marketed

Ottawa, July 3—A marketing scheme designed to stabilize the strawberry market and to aid growers from the results of an apparently bumper crop received the approval of the Dominion Government, Minister of Agriculture Robert Weir announced today. The scheme goes into operation immediately.

To Use Surplus

This year the jam manufacturers' contracts with the canneries at seven cents a quart. Recent favorable weather conditions, however, resulted in a larger crop than anticipated. This created the danger of a glutted market unless the fresh berry market with a consequent drop in prices. To prevent this, the marketing scheme requires canneries to purchase that surplus which cannot be sold for processing and export.

FALSE PHONE CALL BRINGS $25 FINE

Toronto Man Said He Wanted to Make Police Work

Toronto, July 3—(CP)— Motorcycle police roared to the home of Robert Sheard early last night in response to a telephone call telling that Sheard had shot his wife and maid, at 66 Elm St. Police found Sheard and found Sheard drinking in his den.

"Did you telephone the station?" they asked.

"Sure," Sheard said, "I called up and said I shot my wife and maid. I wanted to give you fellows something to do because I pay $15,000 taxes a year."

Sheard was fined $25 and costs or 10 days in jail in police court today, prosecution being laid under the Criminal law of England and the offence described as a "public mischief."

Regina Quiet After Riots in Which Officer is Killed

PROPOSALS MADE

Likely to Send Men to Their Respective Homes

Regina, July 3—(CP)—Definite ending of the trek of 2,000 strikers relief camp workers to Ottawa and their removal either to the camps in British Columbia, Alberta and Saskatchewan from which they came or to their homes was being effected in Regina today.

A delegation of strikers went into conference with Premier J. G. Gardiner of Saskatchewan to complete details for removal of the strikers from the city. The strikers have already accepted main points of the proposals and, Premier Gardiner said, negotiations are expected to be completed early.

A telegram from Prime Minister R. B. Bennett pointed out many of the men with the striking relief camp workers were not from the camps. While he would not concede to removal of the men on strike Prime Minister Bennett's telegram to Premier Gardiner stated:

"We have no intention of interfering with any action you may decide to take in dealing with these men in violation of the laws of the country."

By SAM G. BOSS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Regina, July 3—(CP)—The Saskatchewan Government today received word from the Federal Government and the striking relief camp workers to propose the removal of the strikers on their way to their homes.

With this word, and order prevailing after Monday night's riotings and clashes in which one man, Charles Millar, injury to 100 others and arrest of about 100 strikers, the Government declared the proposals was expected in official circles.

The proposals, announced by Premier J. G. Gardiner of Saskatchewan with a view to definitely end the trek of the relief camp workers to Ottawa and bring peace again, were:

1. The men will be fed here three meals a day and provided with sleeping accommodation in the premises now occupied by the strikers.

2. Clothing and transportation will be provided to transport the men for the men to the points from which they took trains to Regina or their homes.

3. Any man who has to face trial in the Province will be tried by the regularly constituted courts under direction of the Attorney-General of Saskatchewan and will be assured a fair trial.

4. The Government would require the opening of a registration office to get complete particulars so arrangements could be made at once for transportation.

One question which it was expected there would have to be some definite agreement is whether the men would be transported in groups from Regina or moved en bloc. It was believed the point would be settled shortly

Evacuation by Saturday

It was hoped in official circles the job of evacuating the strikers from the city, stationed here since June 14 from their trek to Ottawa was halted, would be completed by Saturday.

Relief was refused Alfred Evans, leader of the strikers, and George Black when they were arraigned in R.C.M.P. court on charges of being members and officers of an unlawful association, the Relief Camp Workers Union, under Section 98 of the Criminal Code.

The same charges face Jack Cosgrove, another leader, and 46 strikers, arrested along with four others when the attempt was made to resume the on-to-Ottawa trek yesterday morning.

Evans and Black, arrested at the start of Monday night's disorders, entered not guilty pleas. Evans was arraigned also were remanded without plea. Ahead of others facing charges of unlawful assembly, rioting, carrying concealed weapons and assault are in custody of Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

In all cases remands until July 8 were given.

The strikers spent all day preparing at the Exhibition grounds, quarters of Royal Canadian Mounted Police with rifles. It was estimated about 1,500 were in the camp. Another band 500 of the original 2,000 having left the city by freight train or moved to Lumsden Camp, 30 miles north of here.

CHARGES DENIED OVER SUBMARINE

Admiralty First Lord Speaks on Lloyd George Charges

(By George Hambleton)
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

LONDON, July 3.—(CP Cable)—The British Government has met with denials charges that Premier Lloyd George with a political-blank deal.

Before the Council of Action for Peace and Reconstruction yesterday George asked whether it was true in Anglo-German conversations the Government agreed to abolish submarines but Great Britain refused to agree as other nations were unwilling.

In the Commons today a Conservative member asked whether Lloyd George's statement was correct.

Sir Bolton Eyres Monsell, First Lord of the Admiralty replied, he stated by the German Chancellor, May 21, Germany was ready to abolish submarines provided other nations did the same. Her willingness to do so was reaffirmed by a German representative at the recent Geneva talks. As is well known this country long ago took the lead in endeavouring to secure a general agreement on the abolition of submarines and has over and over again declared its desire to see such possible occasion from the Washington Conference onwards. The German representatives were reminded of these facts when the change). Unfortunately it is not shared by other countries. It must be clear, therefore, the reported statement of Lloyd George at the Peace and Reconstruction Conference yesterday is absolutely without foundation.

The House was in a hubbub as Major Owen, a member of Parliament, asked Lloyd George groups asked was it not a fact Germany was in favor of total abolition of submarines and France was the only country.

At this outburst there was laughter. The First Lord declined reply.

Questioned by another member Sir Bolton Eyres-Monsell said there were not yet ready to abolish submarines, Japan being among them.

Daily Short Story

"LOST RUBY"

(Copyright 1935 King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

They were facing each other across the dimly lit table in the cabaret as is the fashion with many a young romantic couple. Liz Barton placed her hand midway across. Bob Worth took it gently in his larger hand.

He noticed a small ruby set old-fashionedly in a gold band. Its glitter was not quite as bright as a ruby could be. Still, there issued from it a warm, mellow gleam.

"That's the kind of girl I ought to propose to," said Bob, semi-jestingly, "a girl who's rich enough to have rubies."

"Oh, you don't know the half of it," countered Liz.

"What do you mean?"

"That ring is an heirloom," she added, "it probably isn't worth it. But to us—my family—it's priceless."

"How so?"

"Well, there are all kinds of superstitions connected with it. Very charming superstitions."

"Such as?"

"Well, that would be telling," laughed Liz. "I really can't tell you them. How about a dance?"

Bob knew that last remark closed the subject as far as the ruby was concerned. They rose and whirled into the floor where the throbbing notes of the orchestra soon made them forget everything but the moment.

They spent another hour in the cabaret, alternately talking and dancing. Then they leaned forth, stepped into a taxicab and were driven to her home. Late all young couples, they lingered at the entrance long after the taxi had driven away.

The Girl

Bob stretched out his hand for a good-night. "Ruby or no ruby," he said as a parting shot. "I still think you're the girl I ought to propose to."

Liz shrieked out her hand and suddenly uttered a scream. Bob looked at her flagura. The ring was gone.

"You must have lost it in the cab," said Bob.

The next week Bob spent every night looking for the lost. The chaes were alm indeed. Previously he had called up the police, the taxi services had, searched the lost and found advertisements in the daily press. All to no avail.

So he continued looking for a trak. He did not know the license number of even one of the cab driver looked. And the sole hope he had of finding it was to hang around the cabaret and question the drivers. Of course, he knew he could hardly expect any cabbie to remember driving but one fare in a week. They drove too many couples nightly. But he figured maybe the driver would remember the address.

In addition to that he was embarressed in his questioning of the drivers because he was afraid to reveal the motive and they go looking themselves for the ruby and dispose of it.

However, persistence generally trains his end and after four nights of questioning—success crowned his efforts. Yes, there was the driver who remembered driving a young couple to the address that was Liz' home. He recalled with the time they had been driven home.

The cabby thought him a little unbalanced when he suggested that he drive around for an hour alone in the cab. But a $10 bill paid in advance was sufficient inducement. He didn't know there was method to Bob's madness.

The Ruby

Bob undertook a complete search of every possible nook and cranny where the ruby might have slipped. After 15 minutes of feeling about the cushions and the body he discovered what he was after. Wedged into the right hand corner where Liz last sat was the ring. In order not to arouse suspicion he finished the hour.

It didn't take him long to reach Liz's home after that. She greeted him with the same cheerfulness with which she always met him.

"Aren't you worried about the ring?" he asked.

"Why, to be sure," she replied, "are you still looking for it?"

"No," answered Bob. Liz looked at him a moment and understood. He drew the ring out of the pocket and handed it to her with a flourish. She took it from him, placed it on her engagement finger and then threw her arms about him and kissed him.

"What's the idea?" he inquired. "Oh, that's connected with the superstition," she replied.

"And may I know now what that superstition is?"

"Well, it's a long story," answered Liz. "But you might as well know it. You see, my grandmother had lost the ring—and the man who found it became her husband. And now I lost the ring—and that's the superstition."

"I see" answered Bob, "well then I have to blame it on fate. Nevertheless, I still think you're the girl I ought to propose to..."

"In that case," said Liz, "try me another ring...."

Little Benny's Note Book

I was tawking to Mr. Riley the bookin ladder driver around at the firehouse and I said, Did you ever have to go to a fire in a awful fearse fog where you couldn't hardly find your way, Mr. Riley?

I'm glad you asked me that, because it reminds me of the terrible fog of 96, Mr. Riley said, and I said, At what?

Eighteen 96, Mr. Riley said. A lot of people will tell you there was a big blizzard that year, but it really was a fog. And what a fog. Why soop was like lemonnade in comparison, he said, and I said, Do you mean you couldn't see your hand in front of your face?

Not only that, but nobody else couldn't see your face back of your hand, Mr. Riley said. And of course an alarm had to come in rite in the thick of it, and when I say thick of it I'm not picking my words at random. I've heard of fogs you could cut with a knife, but I couldn't hardly cut this one with my broken ladder, I said, and I said, How did you find the fire?

With difficulty to say the least, Mr. Riley said. We had a compass, but we couldn't even see the compass. Finely we thawt we had it, but we was fooled, because it was a gathering of 5000 boy scouts from all parts of the country rubbing sticks together in their annual fire fighting contest. So after several hours more of cruising around in circles at an average speed of fifteen quarter a mile per hour we was sure we'd found it, but we was fooled again and it was only a million glow worms celebrating the occasion. Imagine what a thrill they must of had being able to line up several hours ahead of time, Mr. Riley said, and I said, And didn't you ever finely find it?

The fire? Mr. Riley said. We found it, but it was out. I contend that any fire will go out if you leave it to itself long enough. Come and see me again some time, he said.

Which I will.

And "Escape Me Never" on Exceptional Twin-Bill

Elizabeth Bergner, the brilliant young star, who has been hailed by critics and public as the greatest actress of our day and the peer of Bernhard and Duse, comes to the Belle Theatre tomorrow, and Friday matinee and evening, in "Escape Me Never", a film version of the Margaret Kennedy play in which she scored a sensational success on the New York and London stage.

Many of the principals of the original New York cast, including Hugh Sinclair, Leon Quartermaine, Griffith Jones and many others, are to be seen in Miss Bergner's support in this production which Paul Czinner, the actress' brilliant director-husband, produced.

Carl Zuckmayer is credited with the screen play which presents Elizabeth Bergner in her greatest and best loved characterization as Gemma Jones, the little waif adrift in Venice with her infant son, who is sheltered by the caddish young composer, Sebastian Sanger.

Great Dramatic Climax

When Sebastian develops a infatuation for his brother Carly's aristocratic fiance, Frenda McLean, Gemma runs away and returns to London. Sebastian follows and marries her. Despite all his efforts to end it, he continues his clandestine romance with Frenda. Gemma works as a slave to support Sebastian while he works on the ballet he is completing for Anna Clendon at the Opera House and, due to neglect, her baby falls ill.

The story reaches a great dramatic climax with the death of the child and the later reunion of Sebastian and Gemma who plan to return to Venice and start all over again.

Irene Vanbrugh, Penelope Dudley Ward, Lyn Harding and Basil Rathbone Fuller are also prominent in the cast.

"Brewster's Millions" Funny

The hilarious adventures encountered by one young man in his frantic efforts to get rid of a fortune comes to the Belle Theatre, tomorrow, as the 2nd sparkling hit on the same program teamed with its internationally famous stars, Jack Buchanan and Lili Damita a number of tuneful song hits and lavish dance numbers, not to mention a hundred and a half or so of gorgeous girls.

The Herbert Wilcox production of the famous Winchell Smith-Byron Ongley play opens with the personable but penniless young Jack Brewster learning of his inheritance provided he get rid of the first fortune within a year and remains romantically uninvolved.

There follows a frantically spending spree, but Brewster's money merely multiplies. He establishes the firm of "Brewster and Co."; dedicated solely to the business of squandering money. He backs a show which promises to be a sure flop but turns out to be a sensation. His goes to the racetrack and rank outsiders turn into so many Aescots the moment Brewster smacks down a small fortune on their noses. He cruises to Monte Carlo with a yacht load of dancing beauties, where he breaks the bank but manages to drop a few paltry dollars by backing a huge fiesta.

All Ends Well

In the eleventh hour, however, his broker absconds with his money, while an infringement of copyright enables him to sign away his interest in the show. So by the time his lawyer arrives to check up his books Brewster is entirely free of assets and eligible to come into the huge bequest and marry the girl of his

AT THE CAPITOL

"La Cucaracha"

Long-Awaited Mexican Musical Starts Tomorrow

While well-filled houses are in attendance upon the two features that are winding up a three day engagement at the Capitol, major interest among movie goers seems to centre upon the forthcoming engagement of Warner Bros. Mexican musical "La Cucaracha."

Not since the enterprising Warner Bros. produced the Johnson-Keeley cinema, "Do Inio Your Dance", has there been a more pretentious musical comedy turned out from their studios than this lovely musical heat-wave "La Cucaracha", that stars Dolores Del Rio, Pat O'Brien, Edward Everett Horton and Leo Carrillo.

First of all it contains a real plot, is replete with humor, action and romance, and introduces several musical numbers that spectators acclaim as outstripping anything that Busby Berkely has yet treated.

The action takes place in Agua Caliente, that made-to-order Mexican resort near the California border, and concerns the adventures of Pat O'Brien, who is lately of the U.S. military service, and who in the role of a hard-boiled magazine editor is kidnapped and taken to the resort on a sobering up expedition by his publisher, Edward Everett Horton. There he runs into Dolores Del Rio, a Spanish dancer, who claims him away from Glenda Farrell, again portraying a blonde hussy.

Leo Carrillo has the role of Miss Del Rio's rascally uncle who tries to cash in on her charms. Others in the cast who do excellent work are Phillip Regan, Dorothy Dare, Winifred Shaw, Luis Alberni and a host of others.

The picture has caught the spirit and the tempo of the gay resort for which it is named and assures a most entertaining evening.

Tonight concludes the three day engagement of "The Marines are Coming" which features William Haines and Esther Ralston, and "The Case of the Curious Bride" in which Warren William and Margaret Lindsay.

BONUS ON MILK TO HELP CHEESE IS DISCUSSED

Liberals Suggest Bonus is "Pork Barrel" Scheme

FISHERMEN'S LOANS

Hon. Robert Weir Speaks of Stabilization of Dairy Industry

Ottawa, July 4 (CP)—Canadian dairy farmers will be encouraged to "produce cheese rather than butter under a vote of $1,000,000 for a cheese bonus approved in the House of Commons yesterday. A concentrated Liberal attack on the bonus scheme and the Natural Products Marketing Act in general occupied most of yesterday's sitting and put an end to earlier hopes of concluding the session today.

Opponents of the bonus described it as "a pork barrel," designed to buy votes of the farmers and predicted it would lead to an endless succession of bonuses to producers of all sorts of commodities.

Minister of Agriculture Robert Weir explained the money would be used under the Marketing Act to establish a stabilization scheme for the dairy industry. Canadian cheese production was falling off although cheese commanded a better price in the export market than butter.

On the other hand, butter production was increasing because no butter was exported and the domestic price was above world levels. This could not continue long and when better had to be exported the price would drop to the world low the cost of production.

It was proposed to pay a bonus of ¼ cents a pound on cheese in order to keep farmers out of butter production and that present butter prices from being forced down. At the same time it would keep up the supply of Canadian cheese moving to the British market and preserve that market. It would also help in with the Agricultural policy of the British Government and the butter market in that country was glutted and prices were low.

Yesterday the House passed the bill to provide for loans to fishermen and set up the Canada-U.S. trade treaty with Poland was presented by Prime Minister R. B. Bennett. It provided for mutual tariff concessions. The House will be asked to ratify it.

2 HELENS MEET FOR THIRD TIME

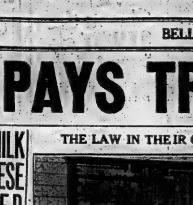
Both Play Sparkling Tennis in The Semi-Finals

WIMBLEDON, England, July 4. (AP)—For the third time since 1929 Helen Jacobs and Mrs. Helen Moody today battled their way into the finals round of the all-England Tennis Championships.

Mrs. Moody played some of the finest tennis of her career to eliminate the 2 to 1 favorite, Hilda Krahwinkel Sperling of Germany, 6-3, 6-0, while Mrs. Moody, six-times winner of the All England Crown, swept aside Joan Hartigan, top ranking Australian, 6-3, 6-3.

Mrs. Moody playing in her first major tournament since a back injury forced her to default to Miss Jacobs in the third set of the Wightman Cup Championship finals of 1933, this gained the Wimbledon final round for the seventh time in her career.

TWO FISH ON A HOOK



Campbellford, July 4 (Special)—The "two fish on one hook at one time" story happened here yesterday. Relations of Young Folk Healthier More Natural Than 20 Years Ago

BY THOMAS T. CHAMPION
Canadian Press Staff Writer

London, July 4—(CP)—Women drink stout more than six-sometimes adding gin to it while their husbands are not looking.

This is one of the discoveries made by the research workers who have contributed to the ninth final volume of the view survey of London life and labour.

The survey was undertaken by the London School of Economics and directed by Professor Llewellyn Smith. It has occupied seven years.

Some interesting remarks on the movies are contained in the section devoted to popular amusements. "Women mainly attend the afternoon performances. It is no uncommon sight to see women slipping into the cinema for an hour, after they have finished their shopping and before the children come home from school.

It is estimated 70 per cent of the weekly audience consists of girls and women. Men tend to go only when they have nothing better to do or when they have a girl friend to take out.

The survey indicates the space occupied by films in the ordinary work people by religious observance, as in the sense of attendance at places of public worship, is even less today than 40 years ago, though this does not necessarily imply a weakening of religious interest in the wider sense of the term. Among adults the predominant attitude is one of indifference.

The survey of the drink problem is largely based on information obtained by visits to over 600 public-houses and among conclusions reached are:

There are fewer women to be seen in public houses than before the war and the average age of the customers in a typical London public-house is higher (probably 10 years higher than in 1913-14.

Drunkenness has steadily decreased and is steadily decreasing year by year.

On the whole, it is considered, relationships between young people of different sexes are healthier and more natural than they were 20 or 30 years ago. But since the war there has been an increase in "the proportion of girls who indulged in 'sex adventure' of a non-commercial nature." The change in social behaviour has been less marked in the working-class than in the middle-class.

REGINA JOBLESS ASSERT PROTEST

Efforts Made at Valcartier to Settle Strike of 1900 Men

By The Canadian Press

With 1,500 relief camp strikers at Regina preparing to leave for their homes, developments in the relief camp situation occurred at Winnipeg where Manitoba jobless re-affirmed their protests and at Valcartier, Que., where it was learned a member of the Dominion government would attempt to settle the strike of 1,500 there.

Meanwhile Premier J. G. Gardiner of Saskatchewan negotiated for a special train to leave the city either today or tomorrow to take 1,000 men to their homes or, if they had no homes to the relief camps from where they came.

The strikers announced readiness to leave.

About 25 injured in the rioting were still in hospital and 113 were in custody of Royal Canadian Mounted Police and Regina city police on charges of vagrancy, rioting, unlawful assembly, carrying concealed weapons an dassault.

UNITED STATES CELEBRATE "4TH"

'Grand And Glorious' Independence Day is Observed

Washington, July 4.—(CP)—The United States today was a bunting-draped nation of parade watchers, picnickers, motorists, oratory listeners or simply only-day vacationists with a share of fireworks as the fillip for a "grand and glorious Fourth of July".

Automobile thoroughfares were packed with lines of cars. Trains, steamships, boats, buses and planes caught part of the press.

HOUSE, VERANDAH SAIL DOWN RIVER IN N. MANITOBA

Flood Waters Show Signs of Abating, Say Reports

ROADS WASH OUT

Heavy Crop Damage is Reported in Western Parts

Winnipeg, July 4 (CP)—A mad summer storm and floods which for three days have gripped scattered areas through the West, showed signs of abating today. Relief was in sight for the flood-stricken Peace River and Okanagan Valley, in Alberta and British Columbia, but in Northwest Manitoba the populace looked with fear to the lands and highways with apprehension.

Fed by heavy rains in Northwestern Manitoba flood waters are still sweeping out over farmlands in the Grandview district. Hundreds of poultry and livestock were reported drowned and small buildings carried away in a storm that left in its wake precipitation measured as 1-2 inches.

The town of Peace River resembled a vast lake. Residents on Heart River were cut off from the town's business section except for an improvised ferry service.

A house complete with veranda and furniture sailed down the Peace on Wednesday. Scores of people have vacated homes and piled their furniture on rafts.

Henry Grange was reported near Dauphin, Manitoba, where a cyclone toppled farm buildings, pipelined a powerhouse and swept away a dam protecting the town's supply of water.

No trace was found of two-year-old Arthur Grodzinski of Portage, town, lost in the storm which struck the district last Saturday.

Bessborough is Honored By House of Commons

Retires Before End of Term on Account of Health of Countess

TENURE OF OFFICE

Premier Bennett and Liberal Leader Extol Governor General

Ottawa, July 4 (CP)—An address of respect and appreciation to the Governor-General, the Earl of Bessborough, was paid unanimously by the House of Commons today. It expressed regret at his coming retirement and thanks for his services to Canada during his term of office. It was moved by Prime Minister R. B. Bennett and seconded by Liberal Leader Mackenzie King.

Mr. Bennett said appointment of the Earl of Bessborough in 1931 had presented difficulties because Lord Willingdon, retiring Governor-General, had been summoned to be Viceroy of India before the end of his term. The appointment had to be made in six weeks under the new procedure.

Names were submitted to the King and when he indicated those who would be acceptable, the men were approached. Lord Bessborough accepted out of a sense of public duty and on very short notice. He had served in this unconventional time of the year.

Countess Has Retinued

As the health of the Countess of Bessborough made it undesirable for her to spend another winter in Canada, and as his Excellency thought it a good thing to return to the practice of having a new Governor-General arrive in the fall, he had asked permission to retire before the end of his term. His successor, Lord Tweedsmuir, would arrive in the fall shortly after the departure of Lord Bessborough.

A rumor had got abroad, said Mr. Bennett, Lord Bessborough was retiring because of differences with the Prime Minister and the government. Nothing could be further from the truth. During the whole term of his office he had been on terms of close friendship with Lord Bessborough and the latter's good judgment and wide knowledge of public affairs had enabled him to give valuable advice on a number of occasions. He had also used his personal connections with the business life of London to correct misapprehension as to events in Canada and in this way rendered useful service.

Office's Importance

Mr. King said the importance of the office of Governor-General could not be exaggerated.

Since his arrival in Canada Lord Bessborough had scrupulously maintained a position of impartiality between the political parties, said Mr. King. Moreover on one or two occasions a wise word of conciliation from him had helped to smooth a difficult and embarrassing situation.

Pending the commendation of the Governor-General's interest in dramatic art in his address was endorsed by Mr. King. A national theatre were established in the future, as Mr. King hoped, it would be due to the efforts of Lord Bessborough in promoting the Little Theatre movement.

Royal Comeback in Austria Seen; Estates are Restored

By ALVIN J. SIEDKOFF
(Associated Press Foreign Staff)

Vienna, July 4 (AP)—The ancient Hapsburg monarchy took a long strides on the restoration road today after the Austrian Cabinet ruled to restore properties of the old royal family.

Monarchists were jubilant and set afoot numerous schemes to further the move for assumption of the throne by young Archduke Otto I.

Several royalist leaders hastened for Starhemberg Castle in Belgium where the 21-year-old Archduke Otto of Hapsburg, pretender to the Austrian throne, is living with his family.

Czechoslovakian objections were believed to be weakening while the monarchists maintained the great lowers were tolerant of their movement although there remained a possibility that Austrian Socialists and Nazis might put a damper on the royal comeback.

The Hapsburg family is estimated to number about 80 persons but about 30 have been removed from the family rolls and would be excluded from a share in the valuable castles, forests, farms and business properties. They were required to file an allegiance to the present government.

Hereditary years of banishment from Austrian soil for the Imperial House of Hapsburg was ended by unanimous vote of the Federal Council.

The members of the 800-year-old dynasty were declared free to return to the country they once ruled and their former properties were restored to them.

ANTI-WAR EFFORT

French Co-operation is Sought in Peace Move

By GEORGE HAMBLETON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

London, July 4—(CP)—From both sides of the Commons members battered the government today on proposed cession of a strip of British Somaliland to preserve the peace between Italy and Ethiopia.

Anthony Eden, British Minister for League of Nations affairs, made a "tentative proposal" of cession during his conversations with Benito Mussolini at Rome. In return for the concession also made from Ethiopia was to receive a corridor to the sea through British Somaliland.

Great Britain is making strenuous efforts to stop war between Italy and Ethiopia.

Sir George Russell Clerk, British Ambassador to France, who saw Premier Laval yesterday, is to have further conversations today. The objective is to secure French co-operation in a peace move but France is still disturbed over the Anglo-German naval agreement.

League And Italy

British ministers are reported to be unanimous in a decision to uphold the League of Nations but disagree upon a resort to sanctions should Italy declare war.

"The existence of the League is at stake," says the Daily Herald. "If the League stands by, it is dead."

"The League" comments the Daily Telegraph, "must endeavor to abandon any rashness or lack of resolution to stop Italy by economic or military pressure."

Ethiopian Protest

Rome, July 4—(CP-Havas)—Ethiopia today delivered a protest to Italy through its charge d'affaires, denouncing as false charges of defamation which, it is alleged, the Italian press has launched against the Emperor Haile Selassie.

Italian newspapers have recorded the arrival in Rome of Emil Arsenian Dr. Garabedian who accused the Emperor of attacking his mother-in-law.

ADDIS ABABA, July 4—(AP)—Ethiopia, it was revealed today, has asked the United States to consider the war of peacemaker Italy to observe its commitments under the Kellogg Anti-War Pact.

The appeal was contained in a note handed last week to William P. Geoge, United States Chargé d'Affaires, which contained lengthy protests of the Ethiopian dispute.

125 Metal Elephants, Big Game Taken At St. Thomas Fete

St. Thomas, Ont., July 4—(CP)—St. Thomas Old Home Week celebrants are big game hunters. For the first time local sleuths were placed on light standards in the business section as part of the decorative scheme and also in commemoration of the death of Barnum's big elephant, Jumbo, killed here by a railway train 50 years ago.

Tuesday 22 had disappeared, Wednesday a few more were gone. The mystery had an elephant was in sight. The celebrants had climbed up the poles and carried them off as souvenirs.

False Pretence Charge Laid Against Man

A man giving his name as James Bennett, Prince Edward County, was arrested by the Provincial police in the town of Lindsay on a charge of obtaining money under false pretences. The charge was laid by Tweed residents to Chief Constable Thyne of that village, the latter turning the matter over to the O.P.P. Bennett appeared in today's police court, held in Magistrate Boller's office, and was remanded in custody for one week. According to information given out by Chief Hayes, Bennett is alleged to have represented himself as a stockyard salesman after taking orders, to have failed to deliver the goods, deposits of one dollar in each case having been made.

Boys, 15-18—Bill Hales, Bill Stephenson.

Girls 15-18—Helen Smith, Doris Washburn.

The race run for the cup for the winner of the Young Men's race was won by Bill Hales, with Rev. A. G. Sinclair second. In the Young Women's race, Rose Doolittle came in first closely followed by her sister Marjorie Doolittle.

Married Women— Mrs. Soules, Mrs. Stirling.

Married Men—Rev. Mr. Gray, Mr. Davis.

Spinsters' race—Rose Doolittle, Mary Cook.

Married Men—Allan Hales, Osborne Hales.

After the numerous races somebody announced the words "peanut Scramble". Immediately there was a mad rush and scurrying of feet. Shouts went up as toes and fingers were trampled upon but nothing could daunt the enthused youngsters as another "peanut Scramble" crackled through the air. Another plunge was made. Faces of the tiny tots were covered with a film of sand and dirt as they quickly picked themselves up, but what did a little dirt matter when their pockets and hands were filled with candy kisses.

After the luncheon a game of softball was played between a pick-up team of men present with Rev. A. C. Sinclair coaching the first home run. Another dip in the cool refreshing lake waters brought the picnic to a close.

St. Andrew's Picnic

A happy throng visited Twelve O'Clock Point yesterday afternoon when the annual Sunday School Picnic of St Andrew's Church was held at this popular resort. A large crowd of children and adults attended, buses and cars conveying them to the Point. A full sports program engaged the attention of young and old during the afternoon, concluding with two baseball games. The Elders defeated the Managers after much effort, the score being 8-3 and the Girls' Club routed the Men's Club in an amusing game in which the latter secured four runs and the men didn't even score after the sports the visitors enjoyed picnic lunches, returning to the city in the early evening.

SOUTH END CLUB HEARS SPEAKERS

Club Crowded Despite Prevailing Hot Weather

Despite warm weather prevailing last evening there was a large attendance of Lady and Gent. Club in South End Yacht Club's new building situated at the end of the South Front street. The early part of the evening was spent in indulged in, for which prizes were awarded to the successful competitors. At the conclusion of these speech-making was in order. This part of the program was ably taken over by Mr. Thomas Mason, Mr. Charles A. Sidney, Liberal-Labour candidate for South Hastings in the Federal election was the chief speaker and also Mr. Sidney Township Liberal Association, Mr. Wm. Fairburn, president of the Belleville Association and Mr. John Coleman of Trenton.

All were attentively listened to and applauded during their remarks. At the close refreshments were served. It was in many respects the most successful event ever held by the Club.

POLICE COURT

Four cases were presenting in today's speed traffic court held by Magistrate K. J. Butler, three being disposed of and the fourth was enlarged.

Oliver Bailey, Donald street, pleaded guilty to a charge of reckless driving and was fined ten dollars and costs while his driver's permit was automatically cancelled for a period of three months. Bailey summoned into court following a recent accident on the Bleecker crossing, and Bridge street intersection, where the automobile which he was driving collided with another automobile after allegedly not stopping at the intersection of the street, and when one passenger was injured. The matter was reported by Sergeant Boutin, who investigated. After accepting Bailey's plea of guilty Magistrate Butler clearly pointed out that he had received instructions from the Provincial General's Department that where reckless drivers are convicted in future courts the operator's individual drivers' licences will be cancelled without formality.

Two motorists pleading guilty to operating motor vehicles without the proper brakes in good working order, the minimum fine of which case was imposed and paid. A charge of reckless driving was enlarged for 32 days at the request of the defendant after His Worship had intimated that driver's licences would be revoked under such charges. Local police will be represented by the Highway Traffic Department were heard.

MOTORCYCLE COP IS APPOINTED

John Truaisch Will Patrol City Streets For The Summer

Belleville streets are to be patrolled by a motorcycle traffic officer for the remainder of the summer season, the local police commission, announced today. John Truaisch, ex-Provincial policeman and son of the late Sergeant Detective Jack Truaisch, was appointed by the Commission and took over the duties as Traffic Officer to patrol local streets today. Officer Truaisch will ride his city's special motorcycle and will be in charge of all traffic in the city.

Commenting on the appointment today Chief Kidd said—"There is a paramount need for a traffic officer in Belleville, more especially to curb speeders and also patrol the streets endeavouring to minimize the number of accidents due to motorists failing to stop at local stop streets. This last practice will be severely dealt with by the new traffic officer on duty, Chief Kidd intimated. The local motorcycle patrolman will be on duty at night as well as in the daytime, it was announced.

LAWN BOWLERS

Lawn bowlers from many parts of Central Ontario met in the annual Provincial District lawn bowling tournaments staged on the spacious Belleville Lawn Bowling Club's greens, with the Kingston players taking off the lion's share of the day's honors, as they won the rink's match while Bob Wilson of Kingston defeated Whitby and Belleville in the singles finals. The Whitby-Belleville rink was won by the Solmes-Whitty rink of Stirling defeating the Meyers-Warden rink of Belleville, the match being concluded at 2.30 a.m. today.

The results of the final matches were:

Singles: Wilson, Kingston, won from Mailborn, Belleville 19-17.

The tournament was under the supervision of Kingston Lawn Bowlers and played on the Belleville greens. Future tournaments of a similar nature will follow at Kingston and Peterboro. A number of local bowlers participated in the day's activities.

WADS OF GUM SEEN ON FIXTURES

About five dollars worth of gum lay thickly on a section of the pedestrian eye on Front street this morning before the sweepers' staff was placed on the job this afternoon. Fixtures of a now defunct restaurant were being taken off and the table and seats were placed on the sidewalk. Hundreds of wads of gum, big wads containing several sticks, small wads lay in full view on the under part of the tables. It goes to show Belleville has quite a gum chewing population.

FARMER MANAGER PROVES HEROIC

Crosses Flooded Creek Twice And Saves Three Lives

Kamloops, B.C., July 4—(CP)—One life was believed lost and three others, a mother and her two children, were saved only after an heroic rescue by a farm manager as two dams near the headquarters of Tranquille Creek burst and turned the usually quiet stream into a roaring torrent. An unidentified aged prospector is believed to have perished.

Mrs. C. Scott and her two small children were rescued from almost certain death when R. L. Davis, farm manager at Tranquille Sanatarium, risked his life to cross the turbulent stream twice and bring the trio to safety.

Races to Bedside Of Her Dying Son

Halifax, July 4.—(CP)—A Halifax mother raced with death today to reach the bedside of her son, believed dying in a Cambridge, Mass., hospital after an automobile accident.

Struck by a car, Patrick A. Sherlock, 26, was still unconscious after seven days. Word he was near death sent his mother, Mrs. J. S. Sherlock, from Halifax toward the New England City. Sherlock had lain in hospital a full day before being identified.

Opens Coastal Shipping Season in Hudson Bay

Churchill, Man., July 4 (CP) — Locked with a full cargo, the M. S. Fort Severn fought through windriven floe ice in Hudson Bay all day and headed north through Gray Water to Rankin Point, successfully inaugurating the 1935 coastal shipping season here. The Severn, under command of Capt. D. S. Morris and sailed from here yesterday.

The S. S. Ocean Eagle sailed today from Coates, Nottingham Islands and the north-east shore of Hudson Bay.

$90,513 SPENT FOR BRITISH PUBLICITY

Ottawa, July 4 (CP)—Cost of publicity and advertising in United Kingdom during the fiscal year 1933-34 was $90,513. None was spent in other European countries. Figures were given in a return tabled in the House today.

CALLES WEDDED THIRD TIME

Mexico City, July 4.—(AP)—Private advices from Culiacan said today former President Plutarco Elias Calles has been married for the third time.

Calles' first wife left him eight children when she died and his second wife who died three years ago, left him two boys.

The great Elizabeth Bergner appearing in the film version of her New York and London stage triumph "Escape Me Never" now on the Belle screen.

PFEIFFER LEAVES FRENCH RADICALS

PARIS, July 4.—(CP)—Charging the radical socialists had rallied to their mission by linking themselves with communists and socialists—particularly in agreeing to march behind the Red Flag on Bastille Day, July 14—Edouard Pfeiffer, vice president of the powerful French Radical and Radical Socialist party, resigned today.

13 Million Copies Of British Rules Printed For Motorists

London, July 4—(CP Cable)—Thirteen million copies of the Ministry of Transport's new highway code containing rules of conduct for pedestrians and motorists will be distributed to the households of Great Britain in a few days.

This will be the biggest distribution of government literature ever attempted.

Since the Great War no less than nine hundred million sterling has been spent on road reconstruction in the United Kingdom, including 400 miles of new roads. The Ministry of Transport is therefore proceeding with a further five year program of road construction.

FAIRBAIRN WINS AT NEWMARKET

Adept is Second and Black Devil Third in Stakes

Newmarket, England, July 4 (CP Cable)—Lt.-Col. G. Loder's Fairbairn at 5 to 2 handily won the Princess of Wales Stakes here today. Lord Astor's Adept was second and W. Woodward's Black Devil, third.

Adept ran at 8 to 1 and Black Devil 10 to 1. Nine ran.

Circus Tents Ripped During Windstorm

Rainy River, Ont., July 4—(CP)—So as not to disappoint the children who came to see the lions, tigers n'everything, employees of a visiting circus labored today to restore order out of chaos after a terrific wind had wrecked tents and equipment.

The storm ripped the tents to shreds and snapped 50-foot masts and supports. Several workers were slightly injured.

$50,000 Blind Vote Is Not "Pension"

Ottawa, July 4—(CP)—The $50,000 vote for the Canadian National Institute For The Blind was not in any sense a substitute for a system of pension, Finance Minister E. N. Rhodes said today in the House of Commons when that item was under review. The money was to be applied to a "heavy overdraft" incurred due to diminution of private contributions and to enable the institute to carry on its work.

Captain R. A. Baker, M.G., and Richard Myers, representing the institute, had urged on the government more than a year ago the need for a grant to reduce its overdraft.

Sex, Marriage Called Extraneous in Business

Calgary, July 4—(CP)— Ability should be the only measuring rod in filling a position, Miss S. S. Shannon of St. Catharines, Ont., told delegates at the convention of the Canadian Business and Professional Women's Clubs.

Sex, marriage and nationality were extraneous considerations in filling a position, she said, "in no office does a man work as hard as a woman in the same position, yet the woman is the object of unfair discrimination in many cases."

AIR FUTURE

The Royal Air Force has caused the world to stop for a moment in this day of rapid advance of models and inventions upon models and inventions. There is the robot ship, which can be guided ten miles from its base, and there is the 31-ton flying boat. The robot plane is of supreme value in war in the eyes of some, while others think it will not earn so great a place.

The giant flying boat is thought by many to be capable of such developments as may in a few years reap the harvest of the best of the ocean traffic. In fact this to some heralds the flying liner. Six engines, each cabin of development up to 930 horsepower can make the boat fly 150 miles an hour. The Sarafand weathers fifty-mile gales and has a full load range of 1,450 miles.

Such an invention opens the way to predicting the water-air craft of the future. Invention will not stop with this and where the end will come, who can say. Time has a great many things to tell and this will be one of them.

SCIENCE BRINGS PROOF

Those who once thought that science would forever dampen and darken the spirit life made the greatest mistake in their lives. Whatever of error creeps into science disappears in the nature of science for science implies truth and truth has the faculty of removing the false. Truth will make you free."

It must have been a pseudo-science which could ever have shut people's eyes to the progress there is in science and knowledge.

The past few weeks have seen numbers of articles appear on finds made in the Orient in substantiation of the basic history as related in the Pentateuch. Especially in the Book of Genesis are records of ancient cities, which would have remained unknown up to the present time were there no literal and interesting point about these discoveries which are substantiating Genesis is that science is spreading the light and making possible the fuller understanding of the pre-Mosaic days.

The men who dared the criticism and scorn of those who decried research in its application to and of the Scriptures forgetting that the Sacred Writings must be studied in the light of every fact that can be gleaned, deserve the undying praise of all men. Of the result of that study few persons remain who are still fearful that science is an enemy of faith.

DON'T FORGET THE PETS

When the home is left for the summer camp, the dog fares well, being generally accepted as a member of any and every picnic and vacation party, but the cat does not fare so well. The cat which looks for supreme comfort all year round, has not by the time that summer comes around wormed her way into the good graces of the master and mistress with entire success for the cat won't hang around as the dog does as the party is ready to leave. Consequently when the dog gets a holiday in the wilds, the family cat is not really thought of in the same way at all. And house cats at summer resorts would be evidently out of place.

But the citizen who moves to a camp does not want to leave his cat to steal its meals, to have to prey incessantly upon the birds, and to make of itself a sneak. So it is his duty to find a temporary home for the feline.

Birds are household dwellers which must not be forgotten. It is just possible in the rush to clear out from home to forget the singers. If forgotten what the poor creatures would suffer without food and water for cleansing and drinking can only be guessed and no one wants to have to face so awful a crime as that of neglecting to provide for them. The birds fortunately can be taken to summer cottages or sent to other homes for safekeeping.

It may seem strange that people will forget their pets but it is really possible as reports from a large city show a large number of complaints about forgotten pets. One writer says: "It is inconceivable that anyone who cares for a cat or a dog or a bird sufficiently to look after it all through the winter and spring would deliberately abandon it when summer comes. Only thoughtfulness can explain why so many forget."

One moment's thought and preparation for the keep of pets during the vacation may save from regret should a pet suffer through carelessness.

TWO CITIES

Edinburgh

In golden light the city stands
With tall spires starting to the skies;
Beyond, the mirrored water lies
Unbroken, on its silver sands.

The distant sun and hills join hands,
Hushed are the raptured song-birds' cries:
In golden light the city stands
With tall spires starting to the skies.

Over the sunset's molten strands
On amber wings the evening flies;
While far away wan shadows rise
And hover o'er the fading lands,
In golden light the city stands.

Montreal

Deep in this mountain's shady breast I lie
O'erwhelmed by Summer's miracle of green,
When, of a sudden, magically seen
The blue aloofness of a mystic sky
Through wind-breaks in a myriad leaves that cry
Like subtle sorcerers of sound and scene
The mind's vibrant drugs, from this sylvan scene
To shouting waves and a wild coast's reply.

Below, the city of the Royal Mount,
Serene and calm, a shining gracious one,
With sheering spires incredible of count,
Lies glittering in the jewels of the sun.

And turbulent from the rapids of Lachine

BEING IN THE MONEY', as a sporting saying has it, is one thing, and decidedly pleasant, being out of the money is another thing, and decidedly unpleasant. One, James J. Braddock, a recent graduate from the relief ranks, is now 'in the money' in a big way. Recently he accepted $10,000 for the use of his name in connection with an advertised product. "That's a laugh," said Braddock's manager, Joe Gould. "Why a year ago if we had walked up Broadway with placards on our backs we'd have been lucky to get $3.00." And that is just one of the crumbs coming to this rich man's table. All because he took the pugilistic championship away from one Max Baer, who has clowned his way through life so successfully that he risked his championship status for his clowning and found that James J. Braddock apparently has even more of humor but a first belief that he could punch his way into the money and even the championship if he just kept on punching. As usual, history has thrown the laugh—laugh! clown! laugh! Braddock expects to make $200,000 in the next year without having to fight. He has vaudeville engagements in which he will appear in a skit with his wife which will net him a nice sum of money, besides other sources of income.

WITH ONE BRANCH of his family trying to make an Irishman out of Jimmy Braddock and another branch proving he is an Englishman, Jimmy says that being born in New York might make him a Manhattan.

SMALL BOYS who had never seen an elephant before had their eyes full circus day with twenty-four of the pachyderms. Elephants are a drug on the market, according to circus men who state that with the circus no larger operations of the past few years a number of tent shows have been withdrawn from circulation, leaving a surplus of elephants which are not in heavy demand as yet. However, there is a tradition that a circus is known by its elephants,—if it has only a few elephants it is a small, mediocre show, but if it has a herd approaching twenty it is a Big Show—and no circus wants to be known as anything but a Big Show.

The inquisitive woman was worrying the gardener. She asked a lot of meaningless questions.

"What stage do you take with caterpillars?" she asked.

"Well, mum," said the exasperated gardener, "I takes half-a-dozen steps into our nearest field and turns the caterpillars round three times so that they gets giddy and don't know their way back."

REVOLT IN THE DESERT
by T. E. LAWRENCE

A strange thing was the snakes' habit, at night, of lying beside us, probably the warmth, under or on the blanket. When we learned this our rising was with infinite care, and the first up would search round his fellows with a stick till he could pronounce them unencumbered. Our party of fifty men killed perhaps twenty snakes daily; at last they got so on our nerves that the boldest of us feared to touch ground; while those who, like myself, had a shuddering horror of all reptiles, longed tha' our stay in Sirhan might end.

Not so Farraj and Daud. To them this was a new and splendid game. They troubled us continually with alarms, and furious beatings upon the head of every harmless twig or root which caught their fancy. At last, in our noon-halt, I charged them strictly not to let the cry of snake again pass their lips aloud: and then, sitting by our tracks upon the sand, we had peace. To live on the floor, whence it was so far to arise and walk, disposed to inaction, and there was much to think about: so that it may have been an hour afterwards before I noticed the offending pair smiling and nudging one another. My eyes followed their eyes to the neighbouring bush under which a brown snake lay coiled, glittering at me.

Quickly I moved myself and cried to All, who jumped in with his leaping-cane and settled it. I told him to give the two boys a swinging blow apiece each, to teach them not again to be literal at my expense. Nafi', slumbering behind me, heard and with joy shouted to add six from himself. Wesh responded him, and then Zaki, and then fat Dghelthir, till half the men were clamouring for revenge. The culprits were abashed when they saw that all the blades and all the sticks in the party would hardly expiate their accounts; however, I saved them the weight of it, and instead we proclaimed them moral bankrupts, and set them under the women to gather wood and draw water for the tents.

We were very weary of Sirhan. The landscape was of a hopelessness and sadness deeper than all the open deserts we had crossed. Sand, or flint, or a desert of bare rocks was exciting sometimes, and to certain lights had the monstrous beauty of sterile desolation: but this was something sinister, something actively evil in this snake-covered Sirhan, profiferous of all snakes but barren palms, and bushes which served neither for grazing nor for firewood.

Accordingly we marched one day, and another, beyond Ghuttl, whose weak well was nearly sweet. When we got near Agrida, we saw that it was held by many tents, and presently a troop came out to meet us. They were Auda abu Tayi, safely back from Nuri Shaalan, with the one-eyed Nuri ibn Dughmi, our old guest at Wejh. His presence proved Nuri's favour, as did their strong escort of Rualla horse; who, bareheaded and yelling, welcomed us to Nuri's empty home with a great show of spears and wild firing of rifles and revolvers at full gallop through the dust.

Affairs looked well, and we met three men to make coffee for the visitors, who came in to Nasir one by one or group by group, swearing allegiance to Feisal and to the Arab Movement, in the Wejh formula; and promising to obey Nasir, and to follow after him with their contingents. Besides their formal presents, each new party deposited on our carpet their puny accidental gift of loot; and long before sunset Nasir and I were in a fever, with relay after relay of fruitless alarms. I had a stiff arm, the effect of an old wound in the low joint, and we could not scratch all of himself; but experience had taught him a few of the tricks. He borrowed camel-stick up his left sleeve and scratching it round and round inside against his rib, which method seemed to relieve his itch more than did we did soon.

CHAPTER X

Nomads and Nomad Life

We were now five weeks out from Wejh; we had spent nearly all the money we had brought with us, and had eaten all the Howeitat sheep: we had rested or replaced all our old camels: nothing hindered the start. The freshness of the adventure in hand consoled us for everything; and Auda, importing more men than we wanted, was the greatest of the whole series, in his huge tent the eve before we started hundreds were present, and the hills off the great tray were eaten up relay as fast as they were cooked and carried in.

Sunset came down, delightfully cool, and after the feast the whole party lay round the outside coffee hearth, leaning lazily over the stars, while Auda and others told us stories. In a pause I remarked casually that I had looked for Mohammed el Dheilan in his tent that afternoon. Auda took him for the noble camel he had given me but had not found him. Auda shouted for joy, till everybody looked at him, and them, in the silence which fell that they might learn the facts, he pointed to Mohammed sitting dismally beside the coffee mortar, and said in his huge voice:—

"Hof Shall I tell why Mohammed for fifteen days has not slept in his tent?" Everybody chuckled with delight, and conversation stopped: all the crowd could see from out the ground, chins in hands, prepared to take the good points of the story which they had heard perhaps 70 time. The women, Auda's three wives, Zaali's wife, and some of Mohammed's, who had been cooking, came across, straddling their bellies in the billowy walk which came of carrying burdens on their heads, till they were near the partition-curtain; and there they listened like the rest while Auda told at length how Mohammed had bought publicity in the bazaar at Wejh a costly string of pearls, and had not given it to any of his wives, and so they were all of odds, except in their common rejection of him.

YANKEES CARRY ON SWIFT PACE, ATHLETICS LOSE

Yanks Three Games in Front, Giants Eight and Half

WESTERN MATCHES

Red Sox in Fighting Mood Slash Out Fifteen Hits

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.

Associated Press Sports Writer

The current battle between Detroit Tigers and Cleveland Indians offers a golden—or at least gilded—opportunity for Yankees to build up a lead in the American League race that resembles the one the Yankees, Giants, already have acquired in the National.

At the traditional turning point of the season Yanks are only three games in front compared to Giants' 8 1-2 but if Tigers and Indians can best each other into submission the margin should grow rapidly. Just now those two look like the only real rivals for the McCarthymen with Detroit the stronger of the two.

Yanks continued their rapid pace yesterday when they turned back the Athletics 2 to 0 in a brilliant pitching duel between Johnny Allen and Roy Mahaffey but Tigers kept pace with their third straight triumph over Cleveland, 11-7.

The western teams staged a highly promising slugging as Indians belted Vic Sorrell out in two innings only to have the Tigers come back with a four-run burst that sent Oral Hildebrand to the showers and it remained thereafter until after Cleveland had tied the score with three counters in the seventh, but Detroit's continued heavy hitting plus the last two of Roy Hughes' four errors made it easy at the finish.

Between them Yanks and Athletics made only nine hits, the odd one going to Philadelphia, but one Yankee blow was a homer by Lou Gehrig and another was combined with a hit batsman, a pass and an infield play to produce the second tally while Allen kept out of difficulty with eight strikeouts.

Chicago's White Sox cut Cleveland's third place margin to one game by bowling over the Browns 9-2 as Ray Phelps got his first batting and a pre-holiday celebration in the form of a homer by George Washington.

The Red Sox in a hitting mood, slashed out 15 hits and a 14-7 decision over Washington.

Phillies outlasted Giants in a 10-inning pitching and home run hitting duel 4-3 while Reds went the same distance to even back the second place Cubs by the same count.

Each game was decided by a homerun. Curt Davis of Phils won his own game with a boundary belt off Carl Hubbell after Dolph Camilli had smashed his 18th of the season and Hank Leiber had hit his 11th to tie the score. Ernie Lombardi turned the trick for Cincinnati to render Van Mungo's three-hit hurling effective and give the pitcher his 11th victory.

Van Mungo of Brooklyn also won his 11th as Dodgers crashed out 18 hits to beat Braves 13-4 but he retired after gaining a big lead in the innings to line up for a shot at Giants later this week.

GIBBARDS DOWNED 10-7 BY PICTON

Picton, July 4.—Picton intermediates showing a smart reversal of form, defeated Napanee Gibbards in a scheduled Bay of Quinte League game here yesterday afternoon by a 10-to-7 score. Pointer Napanee ace left-hander, was knocked out of the box in the fifth, after allowing eight hits and eight runs. Blandditch relieved him. Ron Church started for Picton, but was relieved in the box by Bishop who allowed nine hits, struck out five and walked four. Bob Greer, local catcher, drove out two home-runs each time with two men on. Blandditch grabbed Napanee batting honors with a homer, a double and two singles. Picton started in the field. Napanee rallied on three occasions with three double-plays.

CLEVELAND OUTFIELDER BADLY INJURED

A firecracker explosion which crippled Earl Averill's right hand at a picnic put him in a Cleveland hospital for a week and will keep him out of the Cleveland Indian line-up for three to six weeks. Averill suffered severe lacerations on two of his fingers on his right hand and the bone of his right thumb was cracked when a firecracker he had ignited for his son's entertainment exploded in his hand. His injury is regarded as a serious blow to Cleveland's pennant chances.

Orioles Lose Opportunity to Snatch First Place

SYRACUSE WINS

Ray Fritz Given Fine Support in Game With Bisons

By The Associated Press

Toronto Maple Leafs still shared first place in the International League standings today but it was with Montreal Royals and not the Baltimore Orioles with whom they occupied the top.

While Leafs were idle yesterday, Orioles lost an opportunity to take undisputed possession of first place when they dropped an 8-3 decision to Newark Bears. At the same time Royals hung up their fourth straight victory, turning back the erstwhile leaders, Buffalo Bisons, 7-3 to tie Baltimore. Syracuse Chiefs moved into fifth, the Bears held fourth and the Orioles, third.

Led by Roy Schalk and George McQuinn, who connected with three hits each while Marvin Duke was batting nine-hit ball, Bears had little trouble whipping the Orioles for the second straight day. Richardson and May also contributed home runs to the Bears' 13-hit attack.

Ray Fritz was his hard by the Bisons but he was given fine support as Royals took a 5-3 lead in the first three innings and then counted twice more in the final frame. Jimmy Ripple twice came to Fritz's aid by making brilliant catches in deep center of hits labelled as triples. Ben Sankey, Montreal shortstop, had a perfect day at bat with three singles, a sacrifice and a walk, to lead the Royals' offense.

Harold Vandenburg, back from Boston Red Sox where he failed to make the grade, held the Senators to four hits to give the Chiefs a shutout. With Jim Moore and Henry Oana hitting home runs early in the game, the Chiefs piled up a 4-0 lead at the end of three innings and never were in danger.

SOFTBALL

St. Paul's A.O. moved into a tie for third position in the local senior softball loop last evening after defeating the Alemites by the score of 9 to 6 at Central Park. Chuck Barriage was on the hilltop for the Paulist Ward nine and was afforded an early game lead which, coupled with excellent fielding on the part of his mates and good pitching in the pinches, proved a comfortable rock on the Alemites. Ridley went the route for the losers.

Only in the sixth did the Alemites threaten seriously, getting three runs on the same number of hits, all other members being on the single run nature. The St. Paul's aggregation heaped a brace of counters in the initial frame and added three more in the third to stay out in front for the remainder of the contest.

3 MAIN BOUTS FRIDAY NIGHT

Kiwanis Sign Six Main Attraction Performers

Presenting the cream of their available wrestling the local Kiwanis Club promoters are staging their season's main gladiatorial show of the season at the Belleville Arena on Friday night when six outstanding wrestlers are to appear in three main bouts all of the one hour limit nature. Such a galaxy of mat celebrities has seldom been shown any place in Ontario while never in the history of the local mat game have so many outstanding performers been included on the same card. From the opening preliminary bout to the third and final attraction of the evening, every bout carries a main bout atmosphere.

One of the features is the return to the local ring of Rick Mercurio, self-styled Italian bedman, who has taken onto himself a moustache and has just returned from six months' successful wrestling tour of Michigan, Illinois and Ohio. Mercurio has appeared in some of the largest cities in these states and has also added considerable weight since his last appearance here last autumn. Mercurio meets Jack Pearl, the agile Toronto youth, in the curtain-raiser.

The semi-final bout of the evening sees the continuation of last week's unsatisfactory main bout, when George Richards and Walter Parnell resume activities. These two battled to a draw in an abbreviated match last week, which terminated too abruptly, officials say. The main bout of the evening is undoubtedly the best attraction to have been signed by the Kiwanis promoters since the inception of their wrestling activities as the match brings together Elmo Sniderc the 230 pound Dutch adonis who threw two opponents in one night recently, and Al "Bunny" Dunlop, that pugnacious Cleveland, Ohio, villian of the mat. No pre-show ballyhoo is needed for a bout the calibre of the Sniderc-Dunlop scrap, as it is a realtrat.

The Kiwanis promoters are making no additional charge for this all-star bout, but are adding more ringside seats as the pre-sale of tickets is the largest of the season. Kiwanis charity wrestling always pleases.

CANNIFTON WINS 7-0 OVER MELROSE

In a regular scheduled South Hastings League baseball game played at Cannifton last night the home team defeating the Melrose nine by the score of 7 to 0. Jack Bush was on the mound for the winning Cannifton team and kept the Melrose hits well scattered, applying the white-wash brush as his team mates blasted two Melrose hurlers for seven runs.

Pascoe started on the Melrose hillock, but was derricked in favour of Johnnie Bawden after the homesters had scored five runs in the third stanza.

O'Mahoney Takes London Boys' Wrestling Crown

Dannie O'Mahoney, the picturesque Irish grappler, shown after clamping a hammerlock and wristlock, on then-champion Jim Londos during their title match at Fenway Park, Boston. After one hour and sixteen minutes of tumbling, O'Mahoney finally pinned the champ's shoulders to the mat, thereby winning Londos' title, it was the fifth consecutive victory in North America for the Irishman.

Weddings

SEDGER—EGGLETON

Stirling (Special).—A quiet and pretty summer wedding was solemnized in the presence of relatives and friends of the family, on the lawns at the home of Mrs. Herb Eggleton, mother of the bride, when Florence Eggleton, daughter of Mrs. Eggleton and the late Mr. Herb Eggleton Stirling, became the bride of Stephen Russell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Sedger of Northcouldy, Ontario. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Beech of Frankford.

The bride who was given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. George Eggleton, was gowned in a beautiful gown of ivory satin made in princess lines and worn a halo veil of deisies with a long silk net veil and carried a bouquet of pink roses, baby breath and maiden hair fern. Her attendant was Miss John Hunt, sister of the groom, who wore a lovely frock of pink crepe with printed satin cape to match, and carried a bouquet of white carnations. Mr. Harold Duby of Stirling, cousin of the bride, acted as best man. Wedding music was provided by Mrs. Bessie Ashbrooth, cousin of the bride, who played the wedding march from Lohengrin.

After the ceremony an informal buffet lunch was served, the table being with the tables artistically decorated in a color scheme of yellow and white, Mrs. R. Eggleton, mother of the bride, and Mrs. Stephen Sedger, mother of the groom, were gowned in white crepe with hats and shoes to match. After the luncheon the happy couple left on an extended trip in the northern part of the province and plan on their return to leave for Western Canada where they will take up permanent residence.

TEACHER FETED BY COMMUNITY

Miss A. F. Bell Honored by Wooler Parents and Schools

Wooler—A most pleasing event in the way of a surprise party to the retiring teacher of Union School, Miss A. F. Bell, who for four years has been the hostess of the children, especially those w\ho began school from four years ago, and who by now keenly when they heard their teacher had resigned. On Thursday evening the school house was packed. Robert Spencer, chairman of the evening opened the meeting by community singing of "The Maple Leaf Forever" and recitations and readings by the children of Ann Edith Valentine gave a synopsis of the Convention Ce O. S. A. in Toronto, emphasizing the importance of music instruction in the school, and she made mention of the following class, and manual training in the school, drawing the attention to the display of work, especially the door stops and book ends so beautifully made by the pupils of Stone School.

The new teacher Arthur Darling was introduced. Then Wesley Down read the address:

Dear Miss Bell:

We, your pupils and friends, have heard of your contemplated departure from our midst with regret.

We shall miss your genial companionship and charming personality, but the truths of your work in our school and community will remain a pleasing memory and profitable experience to us all.

Your dignity, patience and tolerance and other virtues which have been an inspiration to us all. Your friendly and willing helpfulness in the community have not passed unnoticed and we have derived both pleasure and profit from your associations.

As a tangible expression of our esteem and appreciation of your work we ask you to accept this Club Rug together with our best wishes for a happy and successful future.

Signed, N. Waite, E. Strong, H. Darling.

Miss Bell replied in a few words of appreciation of not only the gift but friends she was leaving in the school section.

HOW TO KEEP YOUNG AT 65

Elsie de Wolfe, wife of Sir Charles Mendl, attache at the British embassy in Paris, continues an active life and is firm in her decision never to grow old. She indulges in a program of calisthenics that would make many a younger girl fearful of over exertion. She never misses those morning exercises which she executes on a folding mattress. She can stand on her head, legs straight up (left) and move them backwards and forwards for five minutes. She learned to swim at 60 and now at 65 she is quite proficient in the aquatic sport. She can do cart-wheels and walk on her hands. At the RIGHT she is doing her medicine ball exercise. Lady Mendl has other recipes for perpetual youth. She never mixes her food and suits her breakfast to the type of work she intends doing during the day.

of appreciation to those who helped in the service.

Rev. A. Poulter closed the service. Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Smith attended the "Farrington" picnic at Presqu'Ile Pt. on Monday.

The concert in the Town Hall on Friday evening was largely attended and an excellent program presented by the pupils of the schools in Murray township. The proceeds to be donated to the fund to provide medical attention (tonsil clinic) for the needy children. Dr. J. S. Morgan, M.O.H. for Murray is deserving of their co-operation in his effort to raise the health standard of the pupils.

RELIEVE OBSTETE MAY RETIRE

Toronto, July 4—Early retirement from the chairmanship of the Ontario Liquor Board was rumored yesterday at Queen's Park.

Members of the Hepburn cabinet are inclined to scout the idea suggestion, but present indications are that when Mr. Odette returns from the European tour he will find the authority he once enjoyed in the liquor control board has been vested in Arnold M. Smith de-puty commissioner.

FINANCIAL MARKETS
NEW YORK - TORONTO - WINNIPEG

NO SESSION ON WEST STREET

New York stock exchange was closed today, July 4th, Independence Day.

TORONTO INDUSTRIAL SHARES

Toronto, July 4 (CP)—The trade was heavy in the new preferred shares of C.P.R. today with the price 1-8 higher at 53 1-8 in the early session of the Toronto Industrial section today.

Consolidated Smelters opposed the general line, selling down to 167 while Nickel moved upward a half point. Distillers gained 2-8 to 19 7-8, the strong Canadian stocks were up 1-8 to 3-8 and Canada Bud advanced 1-4 and Walkerville gained 2-8.

Brazilian weakened 1-8. Utility shares traded slowly and in the heavy industrials there was a loss of 1-8 to 1-4 for National Steel. The food had gains for Weston, Loblaw and Canada Bread and for Canners issues and Canada Bread A. Oil issues showed no changes at noon except for a small gain for Canadian Oil common.

The industrial section displayed a generally firm tone with the turnover low in Model Goodyear Tire pfd. and some of the oils and liquors in the early session but the afternoon tempo was down with prices less stable. Nickel lost a gain of 3-4 point at one period and Smelters weakened 3 to 157.

Mining, in the listings was concentrated in Distillers-Seagrams which held at 19 7-8 from a gain of 2-8. Brewery stocks were strong, Canada Bud adding 1-4 and the Brewing Corporation, Consol. 1-8, 1-4. Fund A, Brazilian and C.P.R. were unchanged or slightly off this afternoon.

Trading was reduced to a small total, the holiday south of the Border indirectly reducing the buying demand.

TORONTO MINING SHARES

Toronto July 4—(CP)—The mining markets barely wiggled along today, dragging out scattered sales with long runs of quotations in between the New York market holiday helped to slow down trade.

Braldorne gold advanced 15 cents to 4.90, Hollinger, Wright Hargreaves and Teck Hughes were about steady. Sylvanite, Kirk and Lake Shore Patricia and Macassa were unchanged.

In the base metal group Mining Corporation had a gain of 10 cents to 1.40 and Noranda recovered a small early decline, finishing the day was a bit soft at 14.50.

Only gains among the silvers, was a gain of 2 cents to 1.84 for Eldorado.

Only about half a dozen issues appeared in quantity in today's trade in the mining section, although the general list moved sluggishly prices were maintained and gains were more numerous than losses by early afternoon.

Pickle Crow moved up about 13 cents to 3.23 on good turnover and in the base metals Mining Corporation took the lead on a gain of 10 cents to 1.40. Other strong spots were Sudbury Basin, Noranda, Read-Authier and Afton. San Antonio, Howey and Bobjo were mildly weak.

Silver shares were in slow trade but prices were a little stronger. Bear and Eldorado were quoted at gains of 1 to 3 cents.

STOCKS

Toronto, July 4 (CP)—Losses of 25 to 50 cents were registered on Canadian pring prices today, Chatham and Mull showing the 50-cent loss while Canadaborro supplies lost fully 50 cents. Other representative market points held unchanged. Prices:

Chatham, $4.75; Peterboro, $4.75; Hollinger, $2.35; Stratford, $8.25; Barrie, $9.25; Hull, $6.40.

FRUIT

Toronto, July 4 (CP)—Following changes in fruit and vegetable prices were reported by Wilson and Co today:

Canadian strawberries, quart 7c to 11c; Canadian wax beans, 11-quart basket, $1.50 to $2.

With hot weather prevailing, market officials reported heavy buying on lemons with the price raised to $4.50 a case for Californian and $6.50 for Vedillas.

London Times Attacks Lloyd George's Charge

London, July 4—(CP-Havas)—The Times today characterized David Lloyd George's charge Britain had rejected a German offer to abolish submarines as "mischief-making."

"It is deplorable," the Times said in an editorial, "that one who once played so great a part in public affairs should merit so stinging a rebuke."

Board Room Gossip

As supplied to Nigger and Crawford by Financial Service.

Stadacona.

Authorized capital 5,000,000 shares. Property located a few miles from Rouyn, Que. Mines opened up on 150 and 300 ft. level with some 100,000 tons of ore drifted on the 300-ft. level, ore averaging 3 oz. across 10 ft. Underground diamond drilling has indicated that the ore body may be expected to carry to a depth of at least 1000 ft. The new levels recently opened up at 450 and 600 feet below surface. Drifting to the vein is proceeding on both levels and the ore should be encountered in the course of a week or so. If results on the two bottom levels prove the downward extension of the orebodies exposed on the 300-ft. level, the management seems to have in hand of a capacity of 200 tons daily.

Wayside.

Authorized capital 5,000,000 shares of which about 4,000,000 shares are issued. Property in Bridge River district. Claims opened up by four adit tunnels and a three shaft sunk from the lower tunnel. In June 1934 a permissive working report recommended that no further work be done, no commercial tonnages have been indicated in the area where the latest development was carried. In September 1934 company decided to install a small mill and resume development. In March ore crushed was found in a raise between the second level and surface. Some two months ago it was announced that the rich ore shoot had been drifted on for a distance of 75 feet on the 250-foot level. There has been no underground development since the strike in the direction mentioned. The management has decided to erect a 100-ton mill which should be ready in September or October. No estimate is made as to when dividends will be paid but the management feels that the installation of the 100-ton mill is justified.

Basic conditions continue strong, and recent market irregularity gives no indication of any material change in orable tendencies. Available new funds should be promptly employed, using care to select securities representing well situated industries. Profit taking should be definitely favorable. —Brookmire Counselor.

The Trader in Barron's has been one of the more successful market forecasters of the depression. In the latest issue of that journal he points out that the market is not fundamentally an investment proposition. As he puts it, "Earnings given out but the management feels that the installation of the 100-ton mill is justified."

Montreal Butter Market is Stronger

Montreal, July 4—Butter prices were fractionally higher at Montreal yesterday. At the noon auction, 1,- 000 boxes of No. 1 Quebec butter sold at 19¾c. The market on Tuesday ranged from 19¼c to 19¾c, mostly quoted at 19¼c. In the afternoon the range was 19¼c to 20c per lb. with most sales reported within those extremes. Smaller stocks, late production and the end of the week accounted for the firmness. Offerings were light.

Basic conditions continue strong, and recent market irregularity gives no indication of any material change in orable tendencies. Available new funds should be promptly employed, using care to select securities representing well situated industries. Profit taking should be definitely favorable. —Brookmire Counselor.

CARTRIDGE STORY STIRS FRANCE

French Official Circles Disclaim Knowledge

Paris, July 4—(AP)— French officials said today they had no knowledge of a report 5,000,000 cartridges from Belgium intended for Abyssinia had been held at Djibouti, French Somaliland.

They said such an action would be contrary to French policy.

Rome, July 4—(CP-Havas)— An Italian newspaper attempted to interpret Britain's offer to cede a strip of territory to Ethiopia as an indication the London government recognizes Italy's charges against the land of Emperor Haile Selassie.

Tevere, officially inspired journal, remarked Britain's offer, made through Anthony Eden to Premier Benito Mussolini, was a recognition of "the existence of an Ethiopian debt to Italy." Tevere then qualified Britain's proposals as "extravagant."

Addis Ababa, July 4.—(AP)— Unconfirmed reports of Italian cavalry sallies had been sustained in a battle between Italian and Ethiopian forces on the frontier of Eritrea. No details were immediately available.

London, July 4.—(CP Cable)—The British government, it is authoritatively understood, has not approached any other governments represented on the Council of the League of Nations with a view to possible application of economic sanctions, should she declare war on Abyssinia.

Your Boy or Girl will need ENO

CHANGE of food, water and climate almost always bring on irregularity. When your youngsters on their holidays, be sure they take along a good, big bottle of Eno's 'Fruit Salt'. This will keep them regular—and well. You can be sure they'll take their "daily dash of Eno in a glass of water" because it tastes good and they like it.

Camp directors recommend Eno and take it themselves.

Sold at all druggists—Handy size, 50c, Household size, 85c

ROY WILL REMAIN AS AMBASSADOR

Ottawa, July 4—Hon. Philippe Roy, Canadian Minister in France, does not wish to retire, and the Government does not intend to ask for his retirement, Prime Minister King told the House of Commons today. At the same time a vote of $1,000 in the supplementary estimate as a retiring allowance for Mr. Roy was withdrawn.

Both Liberal Leader Mackenzie King and Hon. Ernest Lapointe (Liberal, Quebec East) served notice on any new Minister appointed would be expected to follow the Liberal some into office. Mr. Lapointe said a new appointee would be well advised to buy a return ticket.

Sooner or later, said Mr. Bennett, there would have to be an understanding as to the retiring age in the Civil Service. Mr. Roy is 72, but, as he did not wish to retire and there was no rule, he would remain at his post.

Mr. Bennett said he had always taken the view Ministers to foreign countries were in a different category from the High Commissioners in London. The former were representatives of the Sovereign, while the latter represented the Government. For this reason the Government had not recalled Mr. Roy or the Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey, Minister in Japan who were formerly strong Liberals and had been appointed by a Liberal Government.

All three speakers joined in paying tribute to the service rendered by Mr. Roy in Paris.

FINGERPRINTING BARES SLAYING

Merton Goodrich Confesses Killing of Girl in September

New York, July 4.—Trapped by a tell-tale fingerprint record, Merton Ward Goodrich today confessed late yesterday to the slaying of 11-year-old Lillian Gallagher of Detroit last September and voiced readiness to return to Michigan with Detroit authorities who rushed here by airplane.

The sallow-faced, 27-year-old trap drummer, whose police record shows three separate incarcerations in an Ohio institution for the criminal insane, was arrested Tuesday on a disorderly conduct charge in name of Raymond Johnson while acting indecently at a children's playground.

While waiting to be remanded to jail, police discovered his fingerprints tallied with those of Goodrich. The confession followed swiftly, and his immediate return to Detroit was ordered.

Goodrich's 26-year-old wife, who fled with him to Canada after the Gallagher child's body was identified by detectives, according to officials, admitted her identity. She was charged by Detroit police on the basis of an indictment reported returned against her there.

Confessed to Wife

A brunette, tastefully dressed in a white silk crepe outfit, she acknowledged to detectives that Goodrich murdered Lillian to death to her, but that she stayed with him because "I loved him."

Goodrich was indicted for murder in Detroit when it was discovered he had suddenly disappeared without taking even personal effects, after the body was discovered jammed in a trunk in his apartment.

The law worked swiftly after a check of police fingerprint records told the story. A few hours in the district attorney's office had Goodrich's confession. According to the detectives, Goodrich said he enticed the girl to his rooms on the plea of helping him take some books to the library.

Then, he was quoted saying, he attempted to attack the child but she became frightened and ran for the stairs. In flight she tripped and fell, hitting her head and becoming unconscious. Goodrich said, according to his confession, he then gagged the child, put her in bath tub and finally jammed her body in a trunk.

"WATCH YOUR STEP"

CHAPTER TWENTY

Sally Foster thoroughly enjoyed dinner in the great and glittering dining room of the Metropolitan Hotel. Sally liked crowds and music and all the outer trappings of prosperity. The staring of curious persons could not have annoyed her in the least, but as she duly complained to Judith, people simply stare at her. She was just an ordinary good-looking young girl, not an unusually beautiful one suddenly lifted from poverty to riches by the legacy of an eccentric man who had met a violent death. How could fully understand why people stared at Judith, and could enjoy their curiosity vicariously as she enjoyed Judith's new wealth.

After dinner Sally strolled about in the lobby of the hotel as long as she considered it discreet to do so, then went to the news stand, bought the latest copy of the Evening Dispatch, and a magazine of love stories and took the clevator back upstairs to Judith's apartment.

It was lonesome without Judith. Sally wondered how she was getting along with Miss Madison, and speculated vaguely on the reason behind the sudden invitation to tea. "Mostly curiousity, probably," she thought. "The Madison woman has heard in some way of Judith's crush on Randall Spencer and wants to size up her rival." Sally glanced at her wrist watch. The tea was lasting a long time—why Judith Joan Bennett woman made it a dinner invitation? Sally was vaguely uneasy as she turned the pages of the evening paper, listlessly.

The Stokes murder sensation had died out—just a brief story on an inside page. The police were still searching for Randall Spencer, and Captain McMahon was certain they would locate him in a few days. The Red Tiger roadhouse had been raided and padlocked. The police had conclusive evidence that much of the crime which had startled the city during the past year had been hatched and planned in the notorious resort.

Sally yawned and turned to the comic section. Captain McMahon's solemn utterances ought to be put there, by rights, she thought, with a grin. She waded through the adventures and mishaps of all the comic strip characters with a fair degree and unappreciation wholly foreign to her usual keen enjoyment of all kinds of fun. She dropped the paper and paced the room nervously. Of course Judith could take care of herself, and it was only a little after nine. It was positively silly of Sally to be this way. She lit a cigarette and forced herself to curl up in one of the great, soft chairs and deal with the book of love stories. She wondered if she could find a red-headed hero in it, like her Bobbie, the old dear. The cigarette didn't taste so good. She crushed it out in the ash tray at her elbow and tried to interest herself in the heart-rending adventures of a girl whose lover misunderstood her . . .

Sally woke with a start and a feeling that something was wrong. It was after 12 o'clock. Could Judith have slipped in noiselessly and gone to bed without waking Sally asleep in the big chair? No, that wasn't like Judith and even if she had done so she would have turned out the lights. With a heart beating like a trip-hammer, Sally ran to their joint bedroom. Of course Judith wasn't there.

Certainly Sally had been joking when she had warned Judith against her rival and had declared that if Judith wasn't home by midnight she would notify the police, but it was a nervously shaking and almost sobbing Sally who reached for the telephone. She knew the operator could hear the tremor in her voice as she called for the Morning Sun editorial office. "If Bob isn't in, I'll scream" she thought. Fortunately, Bob answered the call himself.

"Come to the hotel at once," she said, almost hysterically. "I know something terrible has happened to Judith. She went to that Madison woman's house, and she hasn't come home. Bob, hurry!"

"Watch your step! Watch your step! Watch your step!"

The humorous silly words seemed to ring in Judith's head as she sat back in the soft cushions of the big Cadillac and heard the door slam. The dome light made the inside of the car lighter than day but intensified the blackness outside. Judith wondered if she could see if she switched the dome light off. She tried it. It didn't make much difference. It was a velvety black night, Judith shuddered and let her head rest against the back of the car was under way. She could not see anything as she pressed her face to the window, but she could hear the purring of the car as they passed out of the Madison estate, and the glare of the headlights in turning gave her momentary glimpses of the house and grounds across the street. Then, going straight, the lights illuminated only the road ahead of them. On both sides was opaque, mysterious darkness.

Judith looked at her watch, nervously. It lacked a few minutes of eight. Sally, sitting alone and lonely, with a keen appreciation of all the good things on the menu, would probably just about have finished. Well, she would be home in ten minutes, at most, and after it, Sally would be full of curiosity about her visit to Miss Madison and what they had talked about. Should she tell her all about it? It ought to mention the strange fact that Miss Madison knew who was no other than Dick the Dip, the friendly thief who had been good to her in the "Red Tiger" adventure! Should she speak of the warning, twice repeated, "Watch your step!"

Judith shuddered and switched on the dome light again to look at her watch . . . The car was suddenly filled with the blackness of the night's darkness. Judith could not remember this turn, but she had paid little attention. She was working herself into a state of nervousness that was positively silly. It was all on account of that mysterious butler. "Watch your step! Watch your step!" Judith mused. He had not said that. How could he know which her step? What could she do? She was virtually a prisoner in this big car—at the mercy of that black man at the wheel. He was probably all right—an inoffensive, unusually dark negro, who would be amazed if he knew what was passing through her mind. There could be no danger. They were in the city, though it seemed to be strangely few lights. There was one just ahead, though—a street light at a corner. Judith trained her eyes to see. She did not remember passing this corner before—it looked, somehow, very suburban. The light was gone now, and impenetrable darkness again surrounded her.

Judith tried to calm herself. She would be back in her apartment at the Metropolitan in a few minutes and Sally mustn't see her in this state of nervousness. She and Sally would have a good laugh over their fears and trepidations when she told them. Should she tell them?

She wondered why Miss Madison had left her alone for nearly two minutes after she had told the butler to call the car. Had she gone out to give Sam the chauffeur some strangely black man at the wheel—special instructions? Nonsense! She was chargining because Judith had refused to give Randall Spencer up and had left her alone because of her anger.

The woman certainly loved Spencer—or was it really love? Somehow Judith couldn't associate love with the cold, cruel woman she conceived Harriet Allen Madison to be. At any rate, the woman was determining to retain possession of Randall Spencer. That story of a secret marriage—well, Judith wouldn't believe that unless Randall told it to her with his own lips. Judith had said as much to Miss Madison, and it had enraged her. She was a dangerous woman, Judith could see plainly enough. What was she had said? "You have chosen war—and it will be . . . I always win

But Jr . . . had not chosen war. She was d no trouble with anybody. S.... she would fight for Randall Spencer—just if necessary to the death. Because she believed in him. Because she loved him, and would she see him again? When would this nightmare of unjust accusation and persecution end?

It seemed to Judith that the car was climbing a hill. There had been no hills between the Metropolitan Hotel and the Madison house—or that Judith was certain. "Watch your step! Watch your step!" There was something wrong about this return trip. They ought to be in the heart of the city by now. There were no lights anywhere. All outside was blackness. Unquestionably the car was climbing a steep hill.

Judith half rose to her feet, her hand on the handle of the car door. She would jump. But car's speed was accelerating now. They were no longer climbing a hill. The speed was too great. To jump would mean almost sure injury. Judith did still she would be in the power of that black chauffeur. She must stop the car and come back for her. She was trapped.

The speed diminished. The car slowed down gently—stopped. Judith's heart was in her mouth. What was coming now?

The chauffeur looked back at her.

"Excuse me, Miss. Something wrong. It'll take a minute to fix it."

He got out. Judith could hear the gentle throb of the engine. But above it, she imagined, could be heard the pounding of her own frightened heart. Again she switched on the dome light.

In a minute the front door nearest the steering wheel opened and a black hand reached for the emergency brake. The hand was black, but the wrist and arm stretched out of the inverted sleeve were white . . .

The black hand and monstrous white wrist and arm were withdrawn, the door slammed. The big car started to move slowly at first, then with considerable accelerating speed.

Judith, sprang to her feet with her hand on the door handle. It came to her in flash—the car was being driven by a white man inside!

She opened the door and jumped out blindly. She fell a sharp pain. Then—then—a great, black darkness as though she were being lulled to sleep.

13TH EXPEDITION SE TS OUT TO CONQUER MT. WADDINGTON

The thirteenth attempt to vale Mount Waddington's uncouquered 13,260 foot peak is under way, a party of eight members of the Sierra Club of California having left Vancouver by seaplane for the ardu- climb. Led by Bestor Robinson and Richard M. Leonard, Oakland attorneys, the party is the best equipped group to tackle the coast range peak. All are experienced rock and ice climbers, and they carry 125 pitons, steel rock spikes which have not been extensively used in North American mountaineering. The party will traverse the 30 miles of the glacier at the base of Mount Waddington. There, at 10,000 feet, a camp will be established from which the ascent of the peak will be undertaken whenever the weather conditions permit. The Expedition leader Robinson and Mount Waddington are shown above.

DOMINION DAY MARKED AT TWEED

Interesting Celebration is Attended by Large Crowd From District

AT TWEED

Tweed, July 5—Perfect weather, an interesting programme of sports and other entertainment, and an ideal setting, Memorial Park on the shores of beautiful Stoco Lake, combined to make possible a Dominion Day celebration that sent everyone of a record crowd of a thousand or more people home thoroughly happy. The bright blue sky, and cool breezes blowing from the lake all day offset the intense heat of the summer sun. The well-ordered park with its beds of flowers, closely clipped lawns, pleasant shade trees and sparkling waters of the lake drew many exclamations of pleasure and congratulations from frequent visitors and more particularly from those old residents of Tweed some of whom attended Old Home Week and after an absence of many years having moved from Tweed long before the improvements on the lake front were begun.

The several men in charge of arrangements for the day left nothing undone to insure a continuous and successful programme throughout the day. From twenty-thirty in the morning until long after midnight something was doing every minute to interest old and young.

Softball Games

At six o'clock the winners of the two previous games played off for the honors. Gordon Steel Works went into the lead in the third innings when ten runs were scored and six runs came in on five hits, errors and a walk. The locals counted to victory although Copeland Shore's score into them in the eighth when they scored five runs on three hits and two errors. They added one more in the sixth to make their total seven. The visitors added two in the fifth and one each of the sixth and eighth to bring their score to ten. Myers pounded out a homer. Tummon a double and a single, and Gowsell, McCrea and Orr two singles each. Gowsell retired six batters, strikes allowed six and five bases on balls. White pitched five innings for Kingston, and was relieved by Tullen in the sixth. The latter struck out two men and let loose five of the thirteen hits. Mulholland: McKee and Whitehead for the visitors and McCrea, Marsden, McCutcheon for the locals fielded well.

Parade

One of the most interesting features of the day's entertainment was the parade which formed at the park at one-thirty, leaving the south entrance, proceeding up Main street to the Bridge Street and returning by way of Victoria Street to the park again. Interested spectators lined the route. Tweed-Sulphide band led the procession, followed by some of the "city fathers"—Reeve W. H. Sayers and Councillors E. Hayes and J. W. Kingston. Behind them came the floats, decorated in comic fashion, comic band, etc. A great deal of time and care had been devoted to the preparation of some of the floats. The Gordon Steel Works entry showed a number of the products produced at the plant, tanks, iron rollers, etc. Jos Rashotte's entry carried a work bench equipped with tools, and various articles such as cans, dover, etc. manufactured at his planing mill. Tweed Creamery entry consisted of two trucks. On the first was a dairy cow, and on the second a churn, a staff of butter-makers and a display of butter. The judges were Rev. Dean J. F. Sinclair, Rev. R. R. Nicholson and Rev. W. G. Swayze, and the three first prize entries in the above order. Other splendid floats were entered by Dominion Foundries, Tweed Hardware, Rigs Drinkwater, Thos. Whalen, Slan Shoe Store, George Lemonde.

Several very attractive decorated cars followed, some belonging to private individuals and others representing the merchants and other places of business. Among the former was one entered by Les Morrison and Newton Foster received the sign of approval from the judges. LeGage's Motor Sales had the most attractively decorated car in the parade. Other cars were entered by Trudeau's Motor Sales, Mr. A. S. Allen (Royal Bank), and Mr. Kitchen.

The amusing entries in the comic section were made by Slim Roley and Russell Terry and Mr. Harry Myles who appeared dressed as a lady and pushing in pre-year-old daughter in a perambulator of ancient vintage. Albert Maynes' truck contained "the wild man from Borneo", (Benny Sinclair). The oldest car in the parade was a Ford runabout 1904 model, with Alex Simpson and Sam Curry aboard (Just Married).

The comic band created a great deal of amusement. Conspicuous among its members were Ed. Way, Tweed's comedian extraordinary as "Moon Mullins" of comic-strip fame, and his inseparable old pal Ronald as "Kayo." Pigskin Peters (Charlie Stevens) was also on hand. Other members of the band were Ronald Sayers, Roger Rose, Francis Thompson, Charles Elliott, Jack Morrison, Mike Moon, Jim Cullen, Chas. Tupper, Bert Shannon, H. Thompson, Howard Lang, Cecil Rodgers.

The old fire engine with Bill Courtney, H. Trumpour and L. A. McDougal brought up the rear.

Water Sports

A varied and extensive program of water sports, consisting of swimming, diving, canoe and motor boat contests, was held and was watched by an interested crowd. Some excellent diving was done by Frenchy Leal of Tweed and Keller Madoc, and Ross Woodcock, both of these events:

Men's tandem canoe: Arthur Kerr and Davison Boyd, Herb Leal and Sid Arber.

Mixed tandem canoe: Miss Nellie Allan and Arthur Kerr, Miss Blissbett Ketcheson and Davison Boyd, Miss Isabel Sills and Jack Arber.

Crab race: Arthur Kerr, Alton Foster.

Motor boat canoe race, 100 yards: Shannon Lafountaine, Dawson Boyd, Alton Foster.

Swimming, boys 100 yards, 12 and under; Raymond Welsh, Vincent Price, Harry Arber and Harold Way.

Motor boat race: Bob Sayers, Cecil Rhorey, Ed Way with his powerful eight horse power motor also entered this race, but not as a contestant, and finished in the lead, travelling at a speed of approximately 35 miles an hour.

Band Concert

Tweed-Sulphide band under the leadership of Bandmaster Walter Clark, gave a splendid concert in the evening. They played the following selections which received prolonged applause:

March—The Envoy.
Serenade—Pyrus and Flowers.
Hymn—Abide With Me.
Waltz—Silver Cascade.
March—Royal Dragoons.
Overture—Pantheon.
Hymn—Lead Kindly Light Saviour).
Waltz—Jasmine.
March—Crevalier.
God Save the King.

Boots

The public library booths did a land-office business throughout the day in hot dogs, sandwiches, coffee, ice cream, etc., which in this progress receipts of approximately one hundred and fifty dollars.

The "Bingo" games attracted the usual crowd of devotees and drew in a fair number of dimes and quarters.

Dance

The dance in the evening in the pavilion was well patronized and the large crowd enjoyed themselves to the excellent music furnished by the "Five." The receipts were only slightly above that in the evening night of the 1933 season.

Over the border, into the sun kissed Mexican paradise of gira, laughter and song, go Dolores Del Rio, Pat O'Brien, Edward Everett Horton and a score more in "La Cucaracha" now at the Capitol theatre.

SUSPECT HELD IN MURDER CASE

New York Police Probe Into Murder of Child

New York, July 4—(AP)—A man giving the name of Raymond Johnson, 27, who pleaded guilty to a disorderly conduct charge yesterday, was being questioned by detectives as the suspected slayer of 11-year-old Lillian Gallaher in Detroit last September.

The man was arrested in Central Park by a patrolman who said he was acting indecently while watching children swim in a playground pool.

On his plea of guilty to that charge he was remanded to jail by Magistrate Adolph Stern to be sentenced Friday.

Police found the mutilated body of 11-year-old Lillian Gallaher Sept. 26, 1934, in an apartment which had been occupied by Morton Ward Goodrich, drug drummer, and his wife, Florence Harding Goodrich.

The body was found six days after Gallaher disappeared while selling chances on a pinchboard for a parochial school benefit. Police were called to the apartment house by the caretaker several days after Goodrich and his wife left hastily, abandoning their personal belongings.

The girl had been choked to death and the body stuffed in a trunk. A towel was knotted around her throat. The pinchboard, showing only one slip, was found in a clothes closet, mute evidence Lillian was lured to her death by promise of a consolation.

Police described Goodrich as a sadist but were unable to explain Mrs. Goodrich's apparent knowledge of and perhaps active part in the slaying of Lillian Gallaher.

MONTH IN CRIME PAIR SENT TO PEN

Hamilton, July 4—(CP)—For their brief career of crime, beginning May 16 and lasting a month, youthful Harold Bastman and Harold Rosher were given three years in Kingston Penitentiary by Magistrate H. A. Burbridge, Shop-breaking and theft, unlawful possession of firearms and theft of an auto were a few of the charges, made against them. They pleaded guilty to eleven charges.

PRIME MINISTER HONORS CENTENARIAN

Born two years before the great Queen Victoria ascended the throne of Britain, Thomas Scantleburg, now resident in the Protestant Home for the Aged, Ottawa, celebrated the 100th anniversary of his birth in Cornwall, England. Prime Minister Bennett, Sir George H. Perley, Mayor Nolan of Ottawa and a large gathering of friends joined in congratulating Mr. Scantleburg on his birthday. The centenarian cut a large birthday cake with 100 candles on it. His diet features Indian cake the good health he enjoys, and as he has been a laborer all his life, he attends another striking example of the old claim that "hard work never killed anybody". Mr. Scantleburg is shown here with Prime Minister Bennett.

Daily Short Story

"REMORSE"

(Copyright 1935 King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

The other day, in Brooklyn, a young man committed suicide. The story, as it appeared in one or two newspapers, mentioned the fact that he was using two names. If it hadn't been for that, the daily crisis of important matters would have kept it from any news column.

The names, George Snyder and Gerald Gray, were in a way, rather intriguing. When you hear the name George Snyder you don't look to see the same man you look to see when the name Gerald Gray is called. While names don't make the man, they often do have some control over existence.

Now, the story passing over the copy desk, held no glimmer of romantic interest. He—the self-named young man—had left one note, it being unimportant, was deleted from the story. The note said: "Father, it was my mistake. I'm following my advice now."

The worst of names like Snyder and Gray is that they are not sufficiently unusual to attach themselves to a person's mind...except for the strange coincidence that there were once a Ruth Snyder and a Judd Gray. That, however, was dismissed immediately. The police reporter had checked the man up as a routine matter. The man had come from the South, Tennessee or Alabama.

In a moment of leisure, between editions the copyreader who handled the story sent down to the reference room for "clips," asking right off that the notorious Snyder and Gray clips be laid out. He received a dozen clips and waded through them. Nothing of importance was found, and the copyreader leaned back with a feeling of obvious satisfaction. At least he had done everything in his power to make a story, if a story was to be made. He mentioned casually at the desk and was rewarded with a grin.

A Hook-Up

"Funny though," the copyreader said, "there is something in that name, and case, that makes me remember something. Of course it wouldn't be much anyway, but there's a hook-up between suicide and another story."

Ordinarily that would have been the end of the discussion—and the young man would have been allowed to continue his long journey into the void without another pause of curiosity but another copyreader snorted.

"Easier to kill time chasing rainbows than reading copy," this one said, bantering.

That didn't set off the first copyreader—let's give him a name—John Smith, 38th victim of wrath, pointed out that the paper would have looked silly if they scooped on a thing like that. However, even to John Smith this wasn't much of a comeback. He cared, anyway!

However, the Gray-Snyder suicide persisted in John Smith's mind. On his day off he wound up his flivver and went to Brooklyn and the police station. He found his paper's police reporter and took him into his confidence.

"I want to show up those mugs on the copy desk," he said. "I've got a hunch there's a tieup between that suicide and something else. It's faint in my mind."

The reporter gave Smith the address of the rooming house in which Gray-Snyder killed himself. Smith went there. The woman of the house, somewhat surly, answered Smith's questions as briefly as she could.

"He never had any friends—no girl!"

"Now, he'd just sit in his room and brood."

"Brood?"

"And walk the floor at night. Talked to himself most of the time. Sometimes, though, he seemed to be speaking to someone."

"You never knew to whom?"

"Course not."

"Never peeked in?"

Peeked Once

"Once over the transom, but nobody was there. He just talked to an empty chair."

"And what did he say?"

"Father forgive me....I didn't know....I'm sorry."

"Praying?"

"No, he was speaking to his flesh-and-blood father, I suppose. Although there wasn't anyone there."

"Did he leave any papers?"

"Naw, just the letter the police got."

"No newspaper clippings?"

"Some but I threw them down in the basement."

With a gasp Smith demanded to be taken there. The woman led the way, muttering.

"He made me lose two roomers, him acting that way," she said. "The people in front said he drove them crazy with his talk. And a girl, cross the hall from him, gave me notice the day after he came. Said he saw ghosts."

By that time they were at the foot of the basement stairs and John Smith started sorting out the dirt. The landlady contemptuously watched.

At last John Smith eagerly shook the dirt from a much faded clipping. He read:

"George Grayder, bankrupt capitalist, today was found shot to death in a modest rooming house. Beside him, on the floor was a letter from his son, which began: 'You're broke, and I've got to quit school. Seems there is only one way out for you' The date line was over a year old. The boy had spent that year—in reform."

Little Benny's Note Book

We was eating breakfist and me said to pop, How Wilyum for goodness sakes let today be the final anniversaly of that greasly old hat that you've been clinging to like a drowning man to his last straw. If I see it coming up the front street one more time in all his disgracefull glory I shall declare I shall scream with mortification she said.

I only come in through the back gate, pop said. This hat has stuck to me in fair weather and foul, and through thick and thin. It has protected me from the elements rains and has ever left my side, I mean my top, in the most violent winds, and shall it desert me now in the hour of infirmity? Nay, a thousand times nay. I'll come home by way of the book alley rather than be faile to my principals, he said.

You'll do nothing of the kind or anything like it, the ideer, ma said, and pop said, Suppose I take it off as I terra the corner and start to fan myself with it. That aint to get me by all through the hot weather at least, and when winter comes around again we'll see, he said.

We'll see nite now for land sakes, ma said. Next winter, the ideer, I believe you would, she said, and pop said, Here's another ideer, I mite blow a polecoman's whissle or fire a few revolver shots down at the corner and cause a big commodion, and then quickly run around the block and unobstruisively wawk down the other way while everybody's attention was still centered down at the far end of the street.

Never mind any more ideers, let's compermise on a new hat, and remember there's no time like the present and you never miss it till it's past, ma said.

TARZAN THE UNTAMED—

(Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service)

The Red spy and Roger turned quickly, seeing a devil-faced cat charging rapidly toward them. As Tarzan sprang through the air, the panther with rising anger saw him. Sheeta's instinct told him this giant Tarmangani was about to rob him of his prey.

Sheeta was hungry; he had no intention of being thus easily robbed of the flesh he already considered his own. The girl stifled an involuntary scream as she saw the clenches of the fanged fury bearing down upon them. Unarmed as he was, Roger pushed her behind him.

Shielding her with his body, Roger stood squarely in the face of the panther's charge. Tarzan noted the act, and, though accustomed as he was to acts of courage, he experienced a thrill from the hopeless and futile bravery. The charging panther moved rapidly.

The distance between Sheeta and his prey was not great. In a few seconds the strong-limbed cat could have covered the distance and made the kill. Yet Sheeta was quick, quick too was Tarzan. The Red-Fish lieutenant saw the ape-man flash by him like the wind!

THREE LOSE LIVES IN YACHT RACE

The 50-foot yacht Hamrah (Pictured), has been brought into Sydney, Nova Scotia, a battered wreck, after encountering heavy storms in mid-Atlantic, during which Robert Russell Ames, socially prominent Boston realtor, and his two sons, Richard Glover Ames and Henry Russell Ames, were drowned. The boat was taking part in the trans-Atlantic yacht race from Newport, R.I. to Norway. Robert Weed of Milton, Mass.; Sheldon Ware, of Boston, and Charles F. Tillinghast, of Providence, R.I., the three surviving members of the boat's amateur crew, brought the storm-battered boat into Sydney. Mr. Ames and his son Richard are shown (inset).

ROEBUCK REPLIES ON BUCK CHARGE

Says Premier Bennett May Arrest Him if He Likes

Toronto, July 4.—(CP)—A remark by Prime Minister R. B. Bennett in the House of Commons yesterday that Attorney-General Arthur W. Roebuck of Ontario failed to take action against Tim Buck when Buck openly said he was a Communist, drew a reply from Mr. Roebuck.

"If Mr. Bennett wants Mr. Buck arrested he has an armed force sufficient to carry out his wishes, however arbitrary they may be," said the Attorney-General. He added:

"Buck is on ticket of leave from Kingston Penitentiary which is a federal, not a provincial institution, and the parole was granted in the first place and is now continued by authority of the government over which Mr. Bennett himself presides. The provincial government had absolutely no authority in the matter and I have nothing whatever to do with it."

COUNSEL'S FEES STIR UP MEMBER

Ottawa, July 4—William Golding (Lib. South Huron) yesterday protested in the Commons against Norman Somerville of Toronto, commission counsel, being paid a daily fee of $150 and $15 expenses a day on the Mass Buying Probe. He said Somerville was paid for 196 days although the commission only sat 124. The remaining 72 days were occupied with Somerville "schooling and preparing witnesses," consulting auditors and investigators, although "my own opinion," he said "is more witnesses should have come without any interference whatever."

The South Huron member said one witness from the west was on the stand only a few minutes one day although his bill was $1440.50. An ordinary three-cent stamp represented the value of his evidence. Another witness cost over $150 to suggest farmers be stopped from selling produce on their farms and urging rail-grading for hogs.

The government had no control over fees, Mr. Hanson said. The Commission paid its own accounts.

McGee of Trenton. The funeral services were conducted on Sunday afternoon at her late residence, interment was made in the North Sprauls cemetery.

POLISH TREATY SIGNED

Ottawa, July 4.—After long negotiations the commercial convention with Poland, forecast in the Speech from the Throne when Parliament assembled, was completed and signed Wednesday, it was laid on the table of the House of Commons by Prime Minister R. B. Bennett.

It gives mutually most-favoured-nation treatment to the products of both countries, plus special tariff rates on selected groups of commodities. It is expected the convention will be introduced later.

UNITED STATES TO BURY ITS GOLD HOARD FOR PROTECTION

A few months ago nearly three billion dollars worth of U. S. gold was shipped from San Francisco to Philadelphia, a new cantonment was built at Fort Knox, near Louisville, Ky., where all gold from New York and Philadelphia will be guarded by the U.S. army's motorized cavalry. Those moves mean that the monetary base of the United States, the nation with more gold than any other, will be shifted from foreign invasion, by the Rocky Mountains on one coast and the Appalachians on the other.

Marriages Increase, Births, Deaths Down

Ottawa, July 4—A slight increase was shown in the number of marriages during 1934 as compared with the preceding year, while live births and deaths showed decreases, according to a report issued by the Dominion bureau of statistics.

Live births during 1934 totalled 230,632 a rate of 20.4 per 1,000 population compared with 223,868 and a rate of 20.9 in the previous year, while deaths numbered 101,466, a rate of 9.4 against 101,968, and a rate of 9.5 in 1933. Marriages during 1934 totalled 79,023, a rate of 6.7 in comparison with 63,865 and a rate of 6.0 in the preceding year.

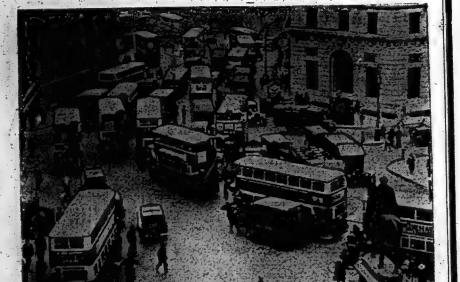
Denton Massey Rumored As Possible Candidate

Toronto, July 4. — Well-founded rumors that Denton Massey, provincial Conservative organizer, is being pressed to accept the party nomination for the Riding of Greenwood in the federal election were being discussed in political circles last night. Because of Mr. Massey's absence from the city no confirmation or denial of the report could be obtained.

For the past week, however, Mr. Massey has been considering the invitation, it was stated definitely, and his acceptance is anticipated by officers of the riding association. His acceptance would, also bring the Conservative nominations in the Toronto district almost to a close, nine of the 11 candidates already being in the field and the tenth to be completed within the next few days.

WILL CHALLENGE CAMPBELL

New York, July 4.—John Cobb, wealthy London broker and big bonds dare-devil of the British race tracks, announced plans to challenge Sir Malcolm Campbell's world automobile speed record.



After offering the first challenge to confront Britain's bulleting knight since the speedboat death of Sir Henry Segrave in 1930, Cobb and his entourage of seven entrants for the Bandora rail bowl at Daytona Beach here he hopes to "usher in a new era of land speed".

ERRORS WHICH COST SOUTH AFRICAN CRICKETERS 149 RUNS

Rain forced exhibition of the first cricket test match of the season after England had piled up a long lead of runs and seemed headed for victory. The delay gave the visiting South Africans a draw. They could not stop the English batsmen who were hitting lustily. Fielding slips also helped; a serious mistake (COP), allowing Wyatt, English Captain to register a fine innings. Tomlinson of the South Africans fails to hold his share and when he had scored only three runs. He went on to total 149 runs before he was dismissed. Again it was Tomlinson vs. Wyatt (LOWER) and again Wyatt won. The visitor threw himself full length in an effort to take Wyatt's dashing hit, but failed, the match was played at Trent Bridge.

Current Attractions at Local Theatres

What Local Theatre Managers Have to Say About Current Offerings

AT THE CAPITOL

"In Caliente"

A Sparkling Musical With a Host of Stars

"In Caliente", the latest musical offering with Dolores Del Rio and Pat O'Brien in the stellar roles now showing at the Capitol Theatre in Busby Berkely, famous creator of screen spectacles, has staged three big song and dance numbers entitled, "In Caliente" "Lady In Red", and "Muchacha". In the latter number Phil Regan as the bandit chief, does the singing while Dolores Del Rio is featured in a dancing number.

Pat O'Brien portrays an ultra sophisticated magazine editor who is brilliant but inebriated a large part of the time. He gets mixed up with a chiseling blonde, so his employer, kidnaps him and takes him to Caliente to try to sober him up.

There he meets Miss Del Rio, in the role of a famous dancer, and falls for both herself and her dancing, forgetting that he had once written a vicious review about the girl.

Glenda Farrell, who plays the role of the blonde menace, will not give Pat up, until she discovers that his employer, played by Edward Everett Horton, has more money. Leo Carrillo is the rascally uncle of Miss Del Rio, who tries to profit by the entire transaction.

Others in the cast besides Phil Regan and Winifred Shaw, include Dorothy Dare, Lois Alberni, William Davidson and a host of others.

Besides this gorgeous musical the management offers the popular Andy Clyde in his latest comedy entitled "Cig Sawbones", a fantoon called "The Great Deprivment" and the Fox Movietone News that brings you the last minute topical events from every corner of the earth.

AT THE BELLE

"Escape Me Never"

Berger's Success, "Brewster's Millions" Riotous Comedy

How would you set about spending one million dollars in one year with tight restrictions placed upon how it must be spent?

This is the problem faced by Jack Buchanan in the title role of "Brewster's Millions", the lavish and lively musical farce which began a two-day run at the Belle Theatre today (Thursday), matinee and evening.

Youngs Brewster throws himself vigorously into the job, but in spite of colossal extravagance, he finds it not so easy as it looks.

At the race track he puts a small fortune on rank outsiders only to see them romp home first. He backs a show which promises to be the worst flop in the history of the theatre, but it becomes a howling success as a burlesque. His master stroke, however, is the establishment of the firm known as "Brewster and Co." whose sole business is to squander money, and employees who are sufficiently foresighted to leave the electric lights burning when they leave at night, are fired....and rehired at double their original salaries.

Damita Helps Him Spend

The beautiful Lil Damita aids and abets Jack in the business of spending one inheritance so that he may come into a much larger one and it is not until he has taken a boat load of beautiful girls on a yachting cruise to Monte Carlo and financed a huge fiesta there that Brewster manages to drop a few dollars.

Finally everything works out his way and he wins his huge inheritance and the girl as well.

The song hits are the work of the popular Ray Noble and Douglas Furber and the dance ensembles including the spectacular "Carnegie" number, which introduces the new dance sensation, were arranged by Buddy Bradley. Thornton Freeland, who directed "Whoopee" and "Flying Down to Rio", handled the megaphone.

"Escape Me Never", Gripping

"Escape Me Never," the latest starring vehicle of Elisabeth Bergner, the internationally acclaimed actress, last seen in "Catherine the Great" is the second select feature offering on the same program.

Miss Bergner recently enjoyed tremendous success on both the New York and London stages in the Margaret Kennedy play from which her current screen hit is adapted and many of the principals of the stage cast, including Hugh Sinclair, Griffith Jones and Leon Quartermaine are seen in their original roles in this faithful filmization. "Escape Me Never" will hold the interest of the spectator from the first inch of the film to the final footfall. "Switzerland" a beautiful Pittsfatrick Travelialk in full beautiful Technicolor will be exhibited on the same program. "Brewster's Millions" start daily at 1.45, 7.20 and 9.50 p.m. "Escape Me Never" starts at 2.40 and 5.30 p.m.

New Westminster, B.C., July 5 (CP)—Police today investigated a report a fiery cross had been erected in front of a strike-breaking longshoreman's home and a warning given to his wife to "get her husband off the docks." The warning handed to the man's wife, police said, was signed with the initials "K.K.K."

Windsor, Ont., July 5 (CP) — An erection of green bows placed . five-year-old Bernard Mason in Hotel Dieu Hospital today with the prospects of an operation for appendicitis.

The youngster's appendix was ruptured by the berries and his condition is serious, doctors announced a blood transfusion was probable.

Detroit, July 5 (CP)—Life to Mayor Frank Cosgrove of Detroit is just one million dollars. Son of an millionaire, Canadian-born United States Senator James Couzens, he figured $1 more than per cent of his time is devoted to his mayoralty duties, remainder to buying tickets in field-days, clam bakes, fish fries and house tabings.

The city statistician figured if he continued to devote his time in the same rate for the balance of his term he'll be "broke" but would finish up with exactly $1.00 knit out of his salary.

San Jose, Calif., July 5 (AP)—The exploding star, Nova Herculis, last night blew up again. It was discovered by Professor George Pi Felger of Lick Observatory. The parts are nearly of the same brightness and are only 2-10 second of arc apart, he reported.

Because it takes light about 1,000 years to travel to the earth from Nova Hercules, the division of the nova into two actually occurred some 10 centuries ago.

Paris, July 5 (AP)—Si swelled an amorous ribbinois nothing to protest in court he bit off his Egyptian mouthpiece during a fervid demonstration of affection.

The defendant was Jean Williams Halle, law student at the University of Geneva, was sentenced to five years in prison for the bite. He said the girl's Mussulman father objected to her marrying a Christian and he resorted to it as a last resort. A lawyer sought to prove by historical documents, is part of his brief's argu.

Ottawa, July 5 (CP)—Customs excise and income tax revenue collected during June, amounted to $23,333,000, Hon. Charles A. Dunning, Minister of Finance announced today. This was $94,546 collected in June last year, a net increase of $1,238,454. According to a statement issued today by Minister of National Revenue C. Matthews.

New York, July 5 (AP)—Manufacturers of yacht clubs on Long Island's north shore have appealed to Nassau county officials to restore a motor boat patrol to break up piracy by gangs. More than a dozen yachts have been looted recently by bandits who use canoes plying in the area when Captain Kidd once hit away.

New York, July 5 (AP)— The New York law journal says in an editorial the United States Supreme Court decision on the NRA has raised some question on the constitutionality of the Lindbergh kidnapping law in defining the term "Interstate Commerce" was formed, the journal said.

The Lindbergh law is based upon the interstate clause of the United States constitution making it a crime to transport "in interstate or foreign commerce any person, money, or to transmit in "interstate or foreign commerce a demand for ransom or reward for the release of the seized person.

Chicago, July 5 (CP)—J. E. Stewart 36, admitted to officials a bad cheque racket had yielded him $32,000 in 1934.

"My racket was almost unbeatable," detectives quoted him. "I wrote pay cheques and cashed them with persons who couldn't spend the loot. Then what for? Persons? I bought 200 worth of furniture, gave the dealer my cheque for $116 and took his cheque for $84 in change. The next day I went to a loop store to cash his cheque. The store called him to verify the signature.

"But he was a low suspicious fellow. He had tried to cash my cheque.

3 KNOWN DEAD IN WEST FLOODS, LOSS IS HEAVY

Northern Alberta Suffers Heavily, Houses Washed Out

HAIL KILLS POULTRY

Flood Waters Are Abating And Work of Relief Begins

By The Canadian Press)

Scattered portions of the west today see about the worst of relief and rehabilitation as the stench of floods diminished. Devastation in British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba left a list of dead numbering three and losses estimated in thousands of dollars. Some towns were still isolated in northern Alberta Peace River district and transportation crawled at a snail's pace in the Pacific coast province but relief was in sight as flood waters lessened.

Northern Alberta was hardest hit. Rising waters there swirled down overflooded tributaries of the Lesser Slave Lake washed out houses in the towns of Slave Lake, Wabasca and Peace River.

Railroad travel was moving again in British Columbia. Public works officials said it would take a month to rebuild bridges washed out when Chase Creek went on the rampage. Buildings were swept away Wednesday.

Damage was still unestimated in Eastern, Saskatchewan and northwestern Manitoba, where a slashing gale howled over farm buildings and flattened crops. Hail which followed killed poultry, and smashed windows.

1,500 STRIKERS WILL BOARD TRAIN

Alberta Relief Commission Awaits Arrival of 200 Strikers

(By the Canadian Press)

Fifteen hundred unemployed strikers, who trekked from British Columbia and Alberta to Saskatchewan to see their efforts to march on Ottawa blocked in a relief riot, today were scheduled to board a train back to their homes.

Premier James Gardiner, Charles Millar, who met his death in the brawl with the unemployed, will be buried.

From Ottawa a delegation of five including a member of the Dominion Legislature, was coming to Regina today to conduct which identifications of the 200 of the Regina riot. Six hundred striking unemployed awaited their return in Manitoba's capital.

The Alberta Relief Commission was awaiting arrival of 200 of the Regina strikers who claimed Calgary as their home. The commission announced they would be sent to Calgary. Yesterday in Manitoba, Manitoba youths reached Calgary to report they had taken unwilling part in the Regina "party." The battle from Regina to escape arrest, they asserted, left parts of the streets in Vancouver for "the fun of it, but there wasn't much fun."

27 Pound 'Lunge Caught in Moira Lake

By Mrs. J.D. O'Flynn

Last evening while fishing at Moira Lake, Dan. J. D. O'Flynn hooked the prize fish of the season so far, a twenty-seven pound lunge. The husky fish put up a strenuous fight and was only landed after half an hour's struggle, as there was no gaff available. The fish was hooked about eight o'clock, after a few minutes fishing around the point. The lunge was brought into the city with the party and today it was viewed with a great deal of envy by fishermen of the district.

This Butler Still Bit of Snob When Cockeyed with Drink

New York, July 5 (CP)— Thomas Wolfe, America's champion heavyweight novelist, got home from England last night with a yarn about a butler.

"I gave him so many whiskies and sodas I got cockeyed with him. He wouldn't sit down or relax but just stood there tossing off the drinks without a change in his tone, manner or posture.

"Finally I said, 'can't you humans and talk for once like a human being?' and what do you think this guy said, without changing his dead pan expression? 'Begging your pardon sir, but here in England we're all a bit of a snob.' So that was that."

The militant United church minister of Regina, and a young relief camp worker, one of the organizers of the trek, managed to evade the R.C.M.P. cordon in Regina and are at 24 years old, is one of their leaders.

Heat Sends Mercury to 86 And Population Sizzles

Promise of Thunderstorms is Held Out

UNUSUAL WARMTH

Soaring until it reached its peak for 1935 the mercury touched 86 in the shade at the pump-house early this afternoon for the official temperature. Citizens about the city, however, declare the mercury being seen well over the 90 mark while exposed in the noonday sun.

Heat, heat and yet more heat!

For the past few days Belleville residents have been sweltering and even steaming under a broiling sun and hot breezes that seem to be flame-laden. Yesterday was warm but today is even hotter. The mercury registered 85 at 11.30 daylight time. The mercury will no doubt soar several degrees higher before the end of the day. The only sign of relief seems to be that the weather forecaster has promised welcome thunder showers. Today is much hotter than a year ago, according to official reports from the pumphouse. Last year the mercury reached 76 degrees high and 56 low, a decided low from today's readings.

Sound sleep was almost an impossibility last night. Many residents stayed out on their porches until the early hours of the morning, trying to catch all the cool and refreshing breezes that came along. Some of the residences, especially where the ceilings are low a deep heat that clings to one, bringing out heavy beads of perspiration, prevents the rooms.

The pumphouse registered a decided increase in water consumption yesterday and especially in the early evening hours. Not only a great deal of water was consumed by heat-weary residents but a full force of garden hose were brought into play and the trees well watered.

Drive To Escape Heat

A few of the local service station men who were interviewed said that a decided increase in gasoline was being made since the heat wave has settled sharply that many people are trying to get away from the heat by taking the attraction of motor cars. Several motor cars were noticed parked along the Bridge Street approach during the twilight hours last night. A good steady breeze, refreshing and cool, from blowing over the bay waters, made the heat problem vanish.

Yesterday was the rush hour attraction yesterday and no doubt will be today too. All the swimming spots known around the city were besieged by the young folk and the working class at evening who were trying to cool their bodies and take off some of the clinging perspiration.

Although the heat has been intense no heat prostrations as yet have been reported at the hospital and police station.

By The Canadian Press

While meteorologists termed the weather "most extraordinary" Ontario and Eastern Quebec today perspired in the second day of the season's real hot spell.

In Toronto the temperature mounted to 86 degrees with the humidity at 88 per cent. The mercury crept up to the highest so far this year and continued to advance.

Weather Bureau officials predicted a continuance of the warm weather with "a little more probability of storms tonight."

Northern Ontario, yesterday's hot section, was slightly cooler today.

DOUBLE DROWNING OCCURS AT DOCK IN WELLINGTON

Carl Smith, Farm Worker, In Difficulty While Swimming

PLIGHT IS NOTICED

Ernest Callow, 18, Wellington Loses Life in Rescue Effort

Carl Smith, 27, Toronto, and Ernie Callow, 18, Wellington, were drowned last evening at Wellington after the latter made an unsuccessful attempt to rescue Smith who was having difficulties in swimming. Carl Smith whose home is in Toronto, was employed on a farm owned on the farm of Arnold Vandervoort, near Wellington, were swimming at the "short" dock at Wellington, a seven-thirty last evening. Almost immediately it was noticed by spectators that he was in trouble and Ernie Callow, son of Mr. Wilfrid Callow, of the Front Road, near Wellington hurried to his save him.

The drowning man, however, obtained such powerful grip on his rescuer that both were drawn under.

Fred Vandervoort, a local farmer, plunged in fully clothed but was unable to drag the bodies from the bottom. With the assistance of Cecil Boyce, however, the bodies were finally brought to the surface. Although the men were in but a short sight difficulties before taken out, the efforts of Dr. Ferguson, coroner, and Dr. Anderson, both of Wellington, who worked until seven-thirty, failed to resuscitate the men. There will be no inquest.

Immediately upon the recovery of the bodies official at Wellington communicated with the Ontario Hydro Electric Commission at Belleville requesting the services of a pulmotor, but were informed that no pulmotor was retained by the Hydro Commission at Belleville nowadays.

The Hydro operator on duty advised that the nearest attendants be requested to rush to Wellington to assist in possible artificial resuscitation. Though men experienced in resuscitation methods laboured long, their work was ineffective.

Provincial Constables John Bird and Wm. McBrine of the Belleville detachment went to the scene and investigated.

FIVE FIREMEN CLING TO LADDER

Lightning Fire in Storage Plant Endangers Fire-Fighters

Windsor, Ont., July 5.—(CP)— Lightning was blamed today for the $100,000 blaze which gutted the interior of the huge cement storage plant on the premises of the Windsor Salt Co. Coal, cement, salt and canned damage estimated at $100,000 resulted.

The blaze, which broke out last night at the height of a thunderstorm, resulted in narrow escapes from serious injury and possible death for five firemen.

Five of the firefighters, including Captain Hyslop, Lieutenant Fred Ward, barely gained the safety of a ladder when the roof upon which they were working collapsed and plunged into the inferno below.

Later, with Captain Hyslop in the van, a group of firemen made a 35-year-old aerial ladder as it was being hoisted to position where a pin on the rotary platform which holds the ladder in place, worked. With the five men clinging tightly to the rungs the ladder swung around a full circle. Only a window sill before coming to a stop.

BORSTAL SYSTEM SOON INSTALLED

Young Prisoners May be Segregated in Penitentiaries

Ottawa, July 5 (CP)—After studying in detail application and operation of the borstal system in six English prisons, General D. M. Ormond, superintendent of Canadian Penitentiaries, has reported to the Dominion Government his opinion that similar training and treatment of youthful offenders can and ought to be put into effect in Canada.

Minister of Justice Hugh Guthrie tabled General Ormond's report in the House of Commons today and declared the system would be made effective in Canada within 60 days.

He hoped no extra money vote would be necessary but there would be some staff additions and extra buildings needed.

The Borstal System, forecast for Canada in the Speech from the Throne at Parliament's opening in January, is a "combination of educational, physical and industrial training of a strenuous kind," for convicts under the age of 21 years.

Selected penitentiary inmates under the age of 21 would be housed separately and made the subject of this training with a view to correcting criminal instincts and preparing the youth for useful effort on discharge.

"Two or more supervisors would be placed in charge of a party or camp of the Borstal trainees and a chief supervisor, under guardianship for the unexpired term of their sentences on discharge, and a year additional.

On June 17 last there were 368 youthful convicts in the seven penitentiaries, distributed as follows: Kingston, 42; St. Vincent de Paul, Montreal, 72; Dorchester, 43; Manitoba, 23; British Columbia, 19; Saskatchewan, 23, and Collins Bay 12. First steps would be to classify these youths in preparation for the work of the supervisors who will be appointed as quickly as possible. Members of the youths would be consulted wherever possible.

PERRY OF BRITAIN DEFEATS GERMAN IN TENNIS TITLE

Von Cramm Battles Britton Every Inch of Way

PERRY'S FINE SHOTS

Champion Lives up to Record of World's Best Amateur

Wimbledon, England, July 5 — (AP)—Fred Perry, dashing British star on the courts, captured the all-England tennis championship for the second successive year today, defeating Baron Gottfried Von Cramm of Germany, 6-3, 6-4, 6-4, in the final round.

Although Von Cramm battled the British world's best amateur, he never had a chance against the black-haired champion. At every every vital point, Perry had the shots he needed to win and Von Cramm consistently was caught and fooled by the Briton's smashing drives.

Perry lived up to his reputation as the world's greatest amateur. He dominated the match throughout and never looked like anything but a certain winner.

Von Cramm, first German to reach the finals since Otto Froitzheim was beaten by the great Australian, Norman Brookes, in the 1914 championship round, definitely was outclassed.

OTTO'S RETURN IS PREDICTED

Royalist Friend of Arch-Duke Expects Early Return to Austria

Brussels, July 5—(AP)—A Royalist close to young Archduke Otto of Hapsburg, pretender to the Austrian throne, predicted today early restoration of the monarchy. The Royalist said no obstacles to prompt restoration have been cleared, but one—the opposition of Premier Von Starhemberg.

The Royalist who said he was in touch with Otto, added:

"We count on his return to Austria within a few weeks after the anti-Hapsburg laws are abolished. After Otto's return the restoration of the throne itself may not be a matter of more than a couple days."

Starhemberg wishes for a period of regency with himself at the head of the State while preparing the country for Otto's return, he said.

Great Britain's support of the League of Nations in efforts to avert war in East Africa is motivated by a desire to screen her own colonial interests, the semi-official newspaper Giornale D'Italia declared.

LIBERALS OPPOSE NATIONAL GOV'T IDEA, SAYS KING

Leader Says Sponsors Are Making Last Effort

BENNETT SILENT

Question Has Not Been Discussed at Caucus

Ottawa, July 5 (CP)—When asked the attitude of the Liberal party to the formation of a National government in Canada, Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King, Liberal leader, made the following statement:

"You may be sure the people of Canada are in no mood to continue any Tory government in office, regardless of the name by which it may seek to conceal its identity. Those who are the sponsors of National government today are making a last desperate effort to place a new Conservative administration in office under another name. The Liberal party will have nothing to do with any manoeuvres of the kind."

Premier R. B. Bennett declined to comment when asked the attitude of the Conservative party. The question had not been discussed at today's caucus of Conservative members and Senators.

LEADER R. S. GOUDY GOES TO WINNIPEG

Squadron Leader R. S. Goudy, O.B.E., has been transferred from the Royal Canadian Air Force Station at Trenton, Ont., to R.C.A.F. station at Winnipeg, the Department of National Defence announced last night Pilot Officer D. G. Price has been transferred from R.C.A.F. station, Ottawa, to No. 8 Squadron at Dartmouth, N.S.

WEED CUTTING IS TO BE STARTED

This week is Dominion wide weed week. Up to the present owners of property where weeds have been flourishing have been allowed to do what they please with them, but now city engineer Charles Mead has issued orders to the employees of the public works department to eradicate all weeds on any property that they think is being allowed to grow without any thought as to their eradication.

CITY'S PUMPER HERE IN AUGUST

"Belleville's new fire pumper will not be here until around the middle of August," declared Fire Chief Lynch today. The fire pumper that went through the city last night which caused many months' of interested citizens as to whether it was Belleville's new pumper was really a fire pumper going to Quebec and is the exact replica of the one which will be the property of this city.

Educated in Belleville Mrs. R. Jones is 91 Today

Mrs. Jones, widow of Dr. Richard Jones of Cobourg is today receiving congratulations of relatives, and friends upon attaining her 91st birthday. Mrs. Jones is a daughter of the late John Mallory, Q.C., M.P., descendant who settled in 1810 near Cobourg. The fact that it was necessary to drive to Cobourg for mail and pay toll made a deep impact a lumpy, Miss Mallory attended school in Cobourg and Belleville Mrs. Jones is a student of the language. She is also a lover of music and was the owner of one of the first pianos in the district. She had a remarkable memory and can recount very many interesting events of bygone days. One of a family of seven children born to the late Mr. and Mrs. Caleb A. Mallory, she and one brother are only survive, Mr. David Mallory, Toronto.

CAR, TRANSPORT IN COLLISION

What might have resulted in a more serious motor accident was seen at the intersection of Pinnacle and St. Paul Sts. shortly before noon today when a motor car, driven by Mrs. Geo. Delina, 150 Front St., collided with a large transport, driven by H. W. Jeffery of Trenton. Sergeant Booth investigated and was informed that Mrs. Delina had stopped her automobile at the intersection to allow a freight train to pass. Immediately following the passing of the train Mrs. Delina started her car and proceeded across the railway tracks and headed eastward on St. Paul St. just as the transport was crossing the intersection at right angles, travelling south on Pinnacle St. The vehicles collided causing radiator damage to the motor car and body damage to the truck. The matter is still in the hands of the police for further investigation.

HIGH WATERS TROUBLE FISHING

According to a local resident who was on a fishing trip in the northern part of the county last week-end the lakes are very high there for this time of the year. One northern lake is at least three feet higher this year. The height of water, in August fish usually like scarcity of good fishing until the middle of next month. The fish are now seeking shallow places and there are not so many spots now on account of the new depth of water. In August fish usually like deep water and until then the fishermen think the week-end fishing trips will not bring the required results.

Obituary

BARUCH HOARD

Stirling, July 5—On Thursday morning July 4th there passed away in the village of Stirling a highly respected and well known citizen in the person of Baruch Hoard in his 86th year after a lengthy illness. The deceased was the son of the late Manford Hoard and Eliza Woodbeck.

The late Mr. Hoard was a member of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church where he attended services with marked regularity. Until recent years he resided on his farm on the Oak Hills, when because of failing health he moved to the village to Stirling.

Left to mourn his passing are his widow Ethel (McGee) Hoard, three brothers Walter, of Sanford, Man.; Percy, Erk., Point, Alta.; Salem of Campbellford and two sisters Mrs. W. Roberts of Tweed and Mrs. S. A. Hatton of Stirling.

The funeral service will be conducted by Rev. J. A. Koffend in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Stirling on Saturday afternoon, July 6th at 2.30 p.m. Interment in Stirling cemetery.

DAVID TUCKER

Rawdon (Special) July 5—Mr. David Tucker, a lifelong and highly esteemed resident of the township of Rawdon passed away at his home sixth concession, early Thursday morning, June 27th at the advanced age of nearly 83 years. He had been in ill health for some time and he and his wife spent the winter months with their daughter in New York and just recently returned to Rawdon.

He leaves to mourn his loss, his widow (who is also very ill) and one son R. C. Tucker at home. Two daughters, Mrs. H. W. Marks, Alberta and Mrs. Charls S. Green, New York. Another daughter, Mrs. John Green of Bethel passed to the great beyond a few years ago. The funeral was held at Bethel United Church on Saturday afternoon.

TWO LARGE BARNS ARE DESTROYED

Neighbor Gives Alarm of Fire West of Rednersville

Two large barns, a hen house and their contents, on the farm of Owen Kehoe, three miles west of Rednersville, near Centre Church, were totally destroyed by fire which broke out about ten thirty this morning. Mr. Kehoe was in Shannonville at the time, and Mrs. Kehoe who was alone at home was informed by a neighbour that the barn was on fire.

One hundred men of the community gathered at once to help fight the fire, but with the brisk wind fanning the flames it was impossible to get them under control. The heat was terrific. Fortunately the house which is about three hundred feet from the other buildings was out of danger because of the direction of the wind.

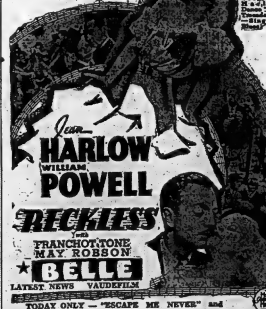
It is thought that a team of horses was destroyed by the flames as well as part of the machinery. The farm is known as the John Kehoe farm, and includes the buildings which were in good condition would cost about five thousand dollars, it is estimated.

BENNETT STAYS AS HEALTH LASTS

Premier Reviews Promise to Followers in House

Ottawa, July 5—(CP)— Prime Minister R. B. Bennett today renewed his promise to his followers in the House of Commons he would remain as their leader so long as his health permitted. The announcement was received with cheers which could be heard outside the chamber in which the caucus was held.

When he left the caucus chamber, Mr. Bennett told reporters he proposed to lead the party through the campaign as he had planned it attained and he had so informed his followers.



Following the general caucus western members remained for a private session but the nature of their deliberations was not divulged. It was the last caucus of the session and the third to be held by the government since before the Prime Minister was taken ill late in February.

It was understood Mr. Bennett would take a long rest as soon as he can get away with Rt. Hon. Sir George Perley taking over as Acting Prime Minister in his absence. With the general election not ordered until September and probably not in that month, there would be ample opportunity for the Prime Minister to take two or three weeks rest.

4 Year Old Boy Looks Over City

Nonchalantly enjoying the sights of the city, far from his home, little Bobby Smith, age four years, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Smith, South George Street, was found wandering on Front Street by a local lady this morning. The little lad was apparently lost and could give no information as to his home address. Later, he was turned over to the authorities, who in turn took him to the police station after buying him an ice cream cone. Once in the police station all little Bobby could inform the police was the fact his name was "Bobby" and he lived "over the tracks." Later Traffic Officer Trudeau placed the little fellow in the police car and started to tour the city in hopes that Bobby would be able to locate his home surroundings. Fortunately the little fellow knew exactly where he resided as he directed the constable directly to the door of his home. His parents had not missed him and were surprised when little Bobby arrived home in time for luncheon, in the police car. The little lad became quite a favourite at Oak Lake tomorrow, July 8th. Some families are also expected from Kingston. Over seventy families are expected to be present. The trip out to the lake will begin between ten and eleven o'clock a.m.

16 QUALIFIERS START TOURNEY

Ontario Golf Title Tourney Opens at Toronto on 71-Par Course

Toronto, July 5—(CP)—With only six of 16 qualifiers having had previous experiences in title tourneys, the Ontario Amateur Golf Championship goes into its first round today on the 6,423 yard, 71-par course of the Summit Club today.

Lee Ryan, Lambton, came home yesterday in a brilliant 33 to nose out Gordon Taylor, Jr., Summit, runner-up for the Canadian amateur title, to win the medal. Ryan's score on the last nine brought him par for the 18 holes.

There were 11 players with scores of 76 or better. This left five places open. Nine who had 77 played off for these positions. Fred Hobilitzel, Lambton; Stanley Thompson, Mississaga; Douglas Jones, Hamilton; and Jim Hopper and John Holden, Summit, won their right to compete.

Taylor came home in 72. Archie Grimsditch, Islington, and Jim Bolcolh of Royal York tied for third with 74. Phil Farley, Cedarbrook, defending champion made the round in 75.

Two 18-hole match rounds will be played today, with the semi-finals and final Saturday. The first round today follows:

GENII OF LAMP OUTDONE BY GENII OF GROUND FILL

What was once a hole in the ground and a very unsightly hole at that on Cannifton Road, just off Station Street, has sprung into being as a new business enterprise with a modern building and grounds very prettily designed and certainly a big improvement to the landscape. The Genii who inspired this transformation was Mr. R. C. Bourk—(popularly known as Roy), of Belleville, well known in the Belleville and district automotive trade having represented for some years leading dealers automobile accessories. Mr. Bourk is well known and popular with the trade and has made a close study of the various departments of the automobile business with a view to better service to his many patrons. He has taken a franchise of the garage ignition business. Hence the birth of this new business enterprise, under the firm name of R. C. Bourk, Carburetor and Ignition Specialist.

Associated with Mr. Bourk in the business is Mr. Percy Hart, well-known Belleville motor mechanic, with years of experience with all makes of cars to his credit, in addition to a technical course in ignition at an electric school in Toronto. Also on the staff is Mr. Jack Beare, salesman, well and favorably known to motorists in Belleville and district.

The building is entirely new, unique and attractive in style, and stands on new-made ground, thousands of yards of fill being necessary to bring the property up to street level. All the necessary machinery of the latest design for Carburetor and Ignition testing has been installed and the equipment is most complete.

Designer of the building, which is very attractive, was Mr. W. A. Watson, architect, of Belleville.

Police News

The temptation of stealing podded peas proved too great for a number of teen-aged children on Station street, this morning and resulted in the police authorities having to disperse a group. During the progress of today's police court complaints were received by the authorities relative to small boys and girls following behind loads of peas being transported to the Belleville Canneries for canning purposes, and stealing large armsful of podded peas. The kiddies were not satisfied with taking the peas for personal consumption only, but were destroying the peas by tossing them into the street. Local police authorities visited the scene of the pilfering and warned the children in regards to the discontinuation of this practice. The complaints were received from the officials at the canning factory.

MANITOBA RELIEF STRIKERS ORGANIZE IN WINNIPEG FOR DEMONSTRATIONS

While the situation in Regina, carrying demonstrations before provincial and civic government. No attempt will be made it is reported to move out of Regina. It is reported that the strikers number more than 1,000. Layout shows (TOP) some of the young men in Princess Patricia Drill where they succeed fully held out for relief meals. LOWER LEFT, a young striker with his kitten and a bottle of milk to feed it. LOWER RIGHT, a demonstration in front of civic administration. Below, a group of repatriated strikers have deported themselves in the same orderly fashion that characterized the trek to Regina.

WILBUR ELLIOTT IN HOSPITAL

The condition of Mr. W. Elliott, Plainfield farmer, who was badly burned while bravely attempting to save his infant daughter from the burning inferno of their home last Tuesday evening, is still in the Belleville General Hospital suffering from the result of the burns received when his efforts proved fruitless. Attendants at the hospital stated today that Mr. Elliott's condition was still uncomfortable, but he was apparently making slight progress. The burns sustained by Mr. Elliott were of the most painful nature, hospital officials stated. He was burned about the arms, shoulders and face.

POLICE COURT

Another motorist had his individual operator's permit automatically cancelled by Magistrate E. J. Butler, K.C., today after pleading guilty to a charge of reckless driving. Merritt Edwards, Toronto motorist, pleaded guilty to a charge of the reckless operation of a motor car near the western extremity of the city. This, with ten dollar fine plus the costs of the court, was imposed while Edwards' driver's permit was cancelled.

John Crawley and James Allen, two transients, were picked up on Front street today, and after being apprehended by local police in the act of panhandling, they allege. When charged with vagrancy in today's court, however, both men pleaded not guilty and were remanded in custody until Monday's proceedings.

Fred W. Jones, Trurlow, faced a charge of peddling without first having procured a licence so to do, contrary to a county by-law. The case was a brief hearing and after the submission of the evidence Magistrate Butler reserved judgment in order to consider the evidence and the by-law under which the charge was laid. The prosecution pointed out the case was purely a test hearing and Mr. Jones is a well known and highly respected citizen. He was charged with selling meat throughout the county without the necessary licence from the county officials. Judgment will be given on Monday.

Activities were at a rather low ebb in local police circles during the past 24 hours only minor details taking up the duties of the officers. Owing to the intense heat wave only six transients applying at the police station for a night's lodging last night.

Francher Tone, Joan Harlow and William Powell in the musical melodramatic hit "Reckless", coming to the Belle tomorrow and Monday.

What Local Theatre Managers Have to Say About Current Offerings

AT THE CAPITOL
"In Caliente"

Mexico, with all its haunting music, beauty and color, and exciting drama and romance, is depicted today, when the latest Warner Bros. musical production, "In Caliente" was shown for the first time in Belleville.

"In Caliente" is a musical with a real plot, replete with humor, action and romance, and introduces several production numbers that most spectators will agree excel any of the previous Busby Berkley efforts, who staged the dances for this picture as well as for most of the Warner Bros. musicals preceding it.

The action takes place in Agua Caliente, that made-to-order Mexican resort near the California border and concerns the adventures of Pat O'Brien, who, in the role of a magazine editor is kidnapped by his employer and taken to Caliente in an effort to sober him up. There he comes upon Dolores Del Rio, a Spanish dancer, who dances him away from Glenda Farrell, who again portrays a blonde menace.

The scenes between O'Brien and his employer, Edward Everett Horton, as the publisher, are gems of humor and provide oodles of laughs throughout the drama.

There are three outstanding musical numbers now popular over the radio, foremost being, "The Lady in Red," which is sung by Winnifred Shaw and entails a sumptuous production in itself.

Dolores Del Rio dances not only with her portrayal of a Spanish dancing role, but wears some gorgeous gowns and does a bit of fancy diving in a swimming pool that should entitle her to Olympic consideration.

Besides the elaborate "In Caliente" there is an excellent supplementary program consisting of an Andy Clyde comedy, called "Old Rawhouse," that is good for many resounding guffaws. An animated cartoon entitled, "The Great Experiment," and the engrossing Movietone Newsreel with news from all over the world completes the bill.

The Capitol management announces that beginning Monday, July 8th, the theatre will open its doors for the evening performance at 6.45 instead of 6.30 p.m.

AT THE BELLE
"Reckless"

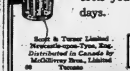
Joan Harlow and William Powell in Film That Has Everything

The two most talked of stars in Hollywood come to the screen as a new co-starring team in the picture "Reckless", coming to the Belle tomorrow and Monday, matinee and evening. And those two stars are Jean Harlow and William Powell.

The picture is one of the most thrilling and colorful ones in recent months. It is the story of a beautiful blonde dancer who rises from a back-country chorus girl dancer to the gold lights of Broadway, a dancing star who becomes a nation-wide sensation, who marries a playboy with millions, who captures society by her charm.

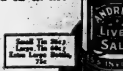
It is the story of a girl who becomes tangled in front page scandals through the suicide of her husband, who fights for her honour, for her child . . . a story of her bravery and devotion, her courage and her hope, with one man in the background who has always loved her and understood her and who comes to her rescue.

Miss Harlow plays her best role since "Red-Headed Woman" as the blonde songstress and dancer, Mona Leslie. You, she appears for the first time as a singer and dancing star, appearing in the stupendous production numbers written by a host of well known composers, headed by Jerome Kern.



William Powell plays the role of Ned Riley, the promoter of everything from prize fights to hundred wrestler, as only Powell can play it.

The music and the dance numbers that serve as a background for the thrilling story are contributed by such musical czars as Jerome Kern, Oscar Hammerstein II, Con Conrad, Herbert Magidson and Harold Adamson, and assuredly will become some of the outstanding song hits of 1935.



Francher Tone again comes to us as the millionaire playboy who later wins Miss Harlow's heart, and whose suicidal act drags her from the pedestal of fame into the mud of scandal.

Like a whole "Reckless" is crowded with plenty of color, life, beauty music and gayety.

In it are included such dependable players as May Robson, that Grand Old Lady of stage and screen, who plays Miss Harlow's grandmother; Ted Healey and Nat Pendleton, who supply the majority of the humor as Powell's constant companions; Rosalind Russell, little Mickey Rooney and Henry Stephenson, who portrays Powell's father. The picture introduces four lively musical numbers, in all of which Miss Harlow appears as a singer or dancer. These are "Reckless" and Diddle Dee Dum", "Everything's been done before" and "Hear What Hay's Been Saying", each number presented in a beautiful chorus setting. "Along Flirtation Walk" a screen oddity in beautiful technicolor and the Belle latest News of the World. On Saturday afternoon, Next and Ma Tin Tun appear in "Law of the Wild".

DANGERS OF HOME

'Home Sweet Home' is not as safe as the poet said it was, or thought it was. It has dangers.

Insurance men can prove that there are as many accidents about the home as on the highways, or perhaps more. This does not mean merely fatalities but non-fatal accidents as well. Home accidents in the United States last year totalled 4,800,000 of the non-fatal type as against 1,350,000 industrial accidents. 33,000 persons were killed in home accidents as against 15,000 in industrial plants. The total of 33,000 fatalities is almost as great as or perhaps greater than the death toll of motor cars in the year.

This no doubt surprises the average man whose home to him has always been his castle but like all castles, even those not attacked by fire as ancient castles used be, it has its dangers—falls down stairways or into basements, slipping on floors, accidental burns or scalds, and so on. Even when the list is dimmed by statistics, yet the statement is only too true.

These facts can serve a good purpose if they cause anyone to stop, and look, and think to prevent home accidents.

LACK OF IMAGINATION AND CRIME

A writer in the New York Times, discussing the arrest of several persons and their reported confession to having taken part in a conversation in which the murder of a professional man was discussed for the money on him, comments: "It is hard to say whether one is more struck by the moral obtuseness or the intellectual obtuseness of the act." The writer went on to infer that none of them seemed to have given a thought in advance to the immense disproportion between the probable penalty as well as the likelihood that they would be quickly found out. One asserted according to the confession that after the murder she received only nine dollars.

Commenting on criminals the editor refers to "the lack of imagination which prevents many criminals from having the slightest feeling for their victims which is often merely part of a much broader lack of imagination which prevents them from recognizing even the material consequences of the act for themselves."

How individuals reach that dull and unimaginative state in which they lose feeling and sense of values is one of the puzzles of life.

WHICH 'SHORTS'?

Speaking of 'shorts' what is meant by the word? Gamblers 'short' in wheat or the article of apparel, short which as much is said today in way of criticism and of praise.

Today the average person using the word would mean the abbreviated clothing that a portion of the population is wearing, not the stock market crowd.

So do words take on the tinge of the age in which they are used.

The short clothing worn by athletes have done one thing—it has seized and confiscated the word which stock market folk used to control.

A CELESTIAL NOBODY

A tiny speck in the heavens, hitherto identified only by a number, has turned out to be a quite important member of the comic royal family of island universes. This Arabian Nights' tale in the sky begins away back forty years ago, when a faint nebular nucleus, seemingly only of the twelfth magnitude, was first noted by an English amateur observer of comets and shooting stars. The object was marked down in the nebulae and clusters catalogue and became known as I.C. 342. After masquerading for four decades as a "beggar" in the heavens, the once faint nucleus aroused the curiosity of astronomers and some of the world's most powerful telescopes were turned on it. Photographic plates revealed spiral arms, and the end of the story is that I.C. 342 is, in fact, the third largest spiral nebula now known, with a linear diameter of 10,000 light years. The celestial Haroun-Al-Raschid, says the New York Times, is the nearest to the earth of all the island universes, being only about a million light years away. The G-men of th skies are certainly on their job, rounding up the stragglers, identifying them, and unmasking them. And what fun they must be having behind those big telescopes.—New Outlook.

A face that cannot smile is like a bud that cannot blossom which dries up on the stalk.—Henry Ward Beecher.

A beautiful smile is to the female face what the sunbeam is to the landscape; it embellishes an inferior face and redeems an ugly one.—Lavater.

Put off thy cares with thy clothes; so shall thy rest strengthen thy labor; and so shall thy labor sweeten thy rest.—Quarles.

Sleep, to the homeless thou art home; the friendless find in thee a friend.—Ebenezer Elliott.

PHANTASY

In deep distress in a dark hour, it seemed
I needed you and called you vainly there;
I could not know 'twas phantasy I dreamed
Engulfed within a mist of dark despair.

I called aloud: My cry echoed to me
With meaning changed into another tone
As though vague shadows chanted somberely
"Some needs there are that each must walk alone."

The wave of sound flowed slowly, drearily
Its weight of woe upon my soul to pour:
Like sluggish waters murm'ring wearily
In sibilant whispers on a sullen shore.
Then suddenly upon the oppressive night,

A clock rang out a distant chime of bells.
And I awakened to the faint grey light
That always promise of new dawn foretells.

You were still lost in slumber unaware
Of my dark fear that struck its fangs so deep;
I gazed at you awhile, sighed, kissed your hair,
And, comforted of soul, resumed my sleep.
—W. J. King.

IT MAY BE THE HEAT and it may be the humidity, but there is very little humility abroad, these days—plenty of short tempers, however, which can be, generally speaking, blamed on the weather.

RETURN OF THE CIRCUS PARADE seems to prove that circus magnates made a boner when they eliminated this form of circus entertainment and advertising. With the elimination of the circus parade the big feature of circus folk seemed to diminish. Th circus in Belleville this week advertised a street parade, a mile long, glittering, glistering, stupendous, with wild men, wild women, wild beasts, many bands, many horses, "elefants, n'everything" as Skinnay would say, and people came to town in thousands to view the parade, which was really a very creditable presentation, and many remained to see the show despite the high cost of admission, one dollar, and the equally high cost of reserved seats, 75 cents. The circus management claim that the high cost of admission was caused by the high cost of a civic license to show here, which was as always, that 'the home folks pay, not the circus.

WORKERS ON RELIEF PROJECTS in British Columbia, dissatisfied with pay and conditions, started a trek for Ottawa to lay their grievances before the government. They crossed the Rocky Mountains on freight trains, descended into Alberta, held tag days in different communities and managed to cover three miles in a day with a comfortable place to sleep at night. The government at Ottawa was apprized of the trek and the alleged grievances long before the thousand odd strikers had crossed the Rockies, and the forces of law and order from Winnipeg west were ordered to prevent the trek from coming no further east. In the meantime a delegation of the relief strikers was given transportation to Ottawa and heard by the government. Another bunch of malcontents at Winnipeg, numbering 1,600 or more, are threatening a march on Ottawa —which means commandeering freight and possibly passenger trains and living on the country en route. The Royal Canadian Mounted Police say "They shall not pass" either from Winnipeg or farther west. The whole thing creates a dangerous situation for large bodies of workless men swayed by hotheads are capable of serious trouble.

HAVE YOU HEARD THESE?

The fortune-teller said to the young man: "It's useless to pretend that you have a long life before you. This age of clubs bumps you off early. At the age of thirty-nine you will die.

"And this evil card," she continued, "means that you'll marry at the age of thirty-sight and have sixteen children."

"Sixteen children?" said the young man. "But how can that be when I'm to die a year later—at thirty-nine?"

The fortune- teller turned red. Then her face cleared and she smiled and said, smoothly: "You'll marry a widow with fifteen children."

Brown and his wife were at a local concert, and Mrs. Brown loudly applauded one of the singers.

"Why are you clapping for an encore? Her singing was terrible," said Brown, irritably.

"I know it," replied the wife, "but I want to have another good look at her frock."

REVOLT IN THE DESERT

by

T. E. LAWRENCE

The story was, of course, a pure invention— Auda's stylish humour heightened by the contrast with the veil—and the luckless Mohammed, who had dragged through the fortnight's questing carefully with no other of the tribesmen, called upon God for mercy, and upon me for confusion that Auda lied. I cleared my throat solemnly, Auda asked for silence, and began me to confirm his words.

I began with the introducing phrase of a formal tale: "In the name of God the merciful, the lovegiving-kind. We were all of the Beni Sheth. There were Auda, and Mohammed, and Zaal, Omaira el Shhiri, Mufadhi el and the poor man (myself); and one night just before dawn, Auda said, 'Let us make a raid against the markaz.' And we said 'in the name of God.' And we rode, Auda in a white robe and a red headcloth, and Kasim sandals of plaited leather; Mohammed in a silken tunic of 'seven kings' and barefoot; Zaal, in forget Zaal. Omaira, my cousin, and Mufadhi was in silk or blue stripes with an embroidered headcloth. Your servant's was as your servant."

My pause was still with astonishment. This was a close parody of Auda's epic style, and I could almost also his wave of the hand; his round voice, and the rising and falling cadence which emphasised the points, or what he thought were the points of his priceless stories. Old Howeitat sat silent as death, twisting their full bodies inside their camel-saddlecloths for joy at hearing unsparingly at Auda; for they all recognised the original, and Auda only was a new art to them and to him. The corpse man, Mufadhi, a debonair refugee from the plains of blood, himself a character, forgot to pay fresh thorns, at his fire for fixity of listening to the tale.

I told how we left the tents, with a blast of the tents, how we walked down towards the village, describing every camel and horse we saw, and all the passers-by, and the object "all here of grazing, for by God that country was barren. And we marched; and after we had reached the time of a smoked pipe Auda, we heard something, and winds stopped and said, 'Zaal, hear something.' And Mohammed stopped and said 'Lads, I hear something.' And Zaal, 'By God you are right.' And we stopped to listen, and there was nothing, and the poor man said, 'By God I hear nothing.' And Zaal said, 'By God, I hear nothing.' And Auda said, 'By God, you are right.'

"And we marched and we marched, and the land was barren, and we heard nothing. And on our right hand came a man, a negro on a camel, a white donkey and grey, with black ears, and one black foot, and on its shoulder was a brand like this" (a scrabble in the air). And its tail moved and its legs: Auda says it, and said, 'By God, a donkey.' And Mohammed said, 'By the very God a donkey and a slave.' And we marched, and there was a ridge: and it was a great ridge, but a ridge as great from the here to the whatdo-you-call-it (ill bityeh el hob) that is yonder: and we marched to this ridge: and we knew. That land is barren: barren: barren.

"And we marched: and beyond the what-do-you-call-it there was a what-there-is as far as hereby from thence, and there was a ridge: and we came to that ridge, and went up that ridge: it was barren, all that land was barren: and as we came up that ridge, and were by the head of this ridge, and were by the head of the head of that ridge, by God, by God, by God, there was plenty in it.

It ended the session. Every one had heard that sunrise twenty times before, and had helped to add piled up of linked phrases, repeated and repeated with infinite variety of treatment by Auda to carry over for hours the thrill of a thing already in which nothing happened; and the trivial rest of it was exaggerated the degree that made it like one of Auda's tales; and yet, also, the history of the way to market at Wejh which many of us had taken. The tribe was in waves of laughter on the ground.

Auda laughed the loudest and longest, for he loved a just opus himself. The raisonneur of my epic had shown him his town sure mastery of the storytelling art. He embraced Mohammed, and confessed him the owner of the necklace. The gratified Mohammed invited the camp to breakfast with him in his tent regained the morrow, an hour before we started for the swoop on Akaba. We should have a sucking camel-calf boiled in sour milk by his wives: famous cooks, and a banquet they did!

We started an hour before, noon on June 19, 1917. Nearir led us, riding his Chaalu—a camel vaulted and hugs-ribbed as an antique ship; towering a good foot above the rest of our animals, and yet perfectly proportioned, with it stride like an electric train. Nasir, nobler and best bred of the Howeitat camels, a female or nine remembered dams. Auda was beside him, and I admitted about their gravities on Nasima, the 'hag-ostrich,' a racing camel and my last purchase. Behind me rode my Agayl, with Mohammed the clumsy, Mahmoud, me now accompanied by Ahmed, another personal attendant, as to the issue of our enterprise. We felt it was a rice-night, and the chiefs of the Abu Tayi came to sup with us. Afterwards, with the embers of our coffee fire pleasantly red between us against the cool of this upland north-country, we sat about on the carpet chatting discursively of this remote thing and that.

Mr. John Bell, K.C., one of Belleville's oldest and most highly respected citizens passed away at an early hour this morning at his residence at the corner of George and Queen Streets. He was born in Strabane, County of Tyrone, Ireland, in the year 1823. When he was three months old his parents left Ireland and settled in New York City and Mr. Bell attended school in that city. He came to Canada in 1843 he became a Clerk in the office of Gilbert at Victoria College. In 1844 he commenced the study of law in Bytown, now Ottawa. In 1846 he was admitted as an attorney and solicitor and immediately after he entered into partnership with the late Hon. John Ross to take duty under the firm name of Ross & Bell. In the early part of 1847 Mr. Bell was called to the bar. In 1853 upon the organization of the Grand Trunk Railway Company he was appointed its general counsel, which office he retained until Dec. 31st. 1904 when owing to failing health he retired from active work and became the company's consulting general counsel. For the offices of the Grand Trunk Railway were located in Belleville for many years). At the first election of Members of the Legislature, Mr. Bell was elected one and he was re-elected each year. He was a member of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

PROROGATION EXPECTED TODAY

Wheat Marketing Plan is Placed Before The Senate

Ottawa, July 5.—(CP)—Canada's new wheat marketing plan is before the Senate with the approval of all parties in the House of Commons, and parliament is prepared to end its session today. The bill to empower the House of Commons was cleared last night of almost all hasty or contentious measures. If nothing intervenes prorogation will be early this afternoon.

The wheat board bill as finally passed provides for payment of a fixed minimum price for the Western farmer's chief product and for no interference with the existing grain trade except in case of its failure to function in the interests of the country.

Passage of the measure means no change in the wheat policy hitherto followed by the Canadian Co-operative Wheat Producers under the direction of John I. McFarland, Prime Minister R. B. Bennett assured the Senate the Wheat Board will be under control of the government and he declared the government would not permit a "raw deal" of the 238,000,000 bushels now held by the McFarland organization which will be taken over by the board. Neither will this surplus be sold in competition with the new crop of this year.

Factors in Price

Cost of production, world wheat production, world demand and exchange rates will be factors taken into consideration in fixing the minimum price, Mr. Bennett stated. No price could not be inserted in the bill but the government would use its power to see it was not too low.

Evidence adduced before the special committee on the Wheat Board Bill was a vindication of the policy of the wheat pools in the dark days of 1929 when wheat prices crashed. Canada had a bumper crop to sell and the pools had to go to the provincial and later the federal governments for assistance, Mr. Bennett told the House. The pools had been charged with using Chaff for high prices. Actually they offered it for sale each day at prices below those asked for Argentine wheat but the Argentine price was always brought lower.

Butter Bonus Suggested

Eusebe Roberge, Liberal member for Megantic, proposed an amendment to the bill to provide a bonus for butter, cheese, potatoes, maple sugar and other farm products of Western Canada to compensate the east for the assistance given the wheat farmer. It was ruled out of order without discussion.

It took the House only a few minutes to pass a supported on a trade treaty with Poland, signed only yesterday by representatives of the two countries. The treaty provides for mutual tariff concessions.

19-YEAR-OLDS HEAD
U. S. CRIME CASES

Washington, July 5.—Nineteen was a dangerous age in the United States during the month of May. Data compiled by the Federal Bureau of Investigation disclosed that 19-year-old boys formed the largest age group among the 34,061 persons whose fingerprints were received by the bureau during May. Among the muggers, 30-year-olds were most numerous.

THE BRIDE OF THE PRECIPICE

CHAPTER TWENTY-ONE

Ten minutes after Sally's almost hysterical summons, Bob Hargrave was in the apartment trying to calm a sobbing girl and get a coherent story from her. Whatever had happened and what she feared.

"Nonsense, Sally!" he said finally when some idea of the thought troubling Judith's roommate had percolated to his mind through the mass and mist of tearful tears and incoherencies. "Judith is all right. She's finding her visit to Miss Madison more pleasant than she anticipated. Miss Madison is a very cultured woman, and is probably entertaining her so royally they've both forgotten the passage of time.

. . . But just to quiet your foolish fears I'll call up the house. Why, you could have done that yourself, little goose, if you had thought of it, instead of disrupting the publication of a great newspaper by getting out in the middle of the night at the midnight rush hour."

Bob spoke lightly for the soothing effect on Sally, but was a little disturbed in his own mind, once it was an established fact that something to bring worry or care upon another, an inexplicable occurrence on the return trip to the hotel from Miss Madison's estate, had overtaken Judith.

"Miss Madison's house," he said when the connection was made over the wire. "The butler speaking? Miss Madison has retired."

"She has not!" Bob quickly. "Then how long has Miss Bates been gone?"

There was an apparent hesitancy in answering. "Why, the end of the line, then the inquiry:

"Who is talking, please?"

"Bob Hargrave, . . . Morning Sun," said Bob impatiently. "Quick man, this is an emergency."

"I just know something dreadful has happened!" wailed Sally.

"I think Miss Bates left some time ago, sir," said the butler, as though in doubt whether to report on any details of the goings and comings in the quiet household of Miss Madison.

"But I think you had better talk with Miss Madison herself."

"Get her to the phone then, quick," said Bob in imperative tones.

"Just a minute, sir, I'll ring her extension phone and you can talk with her in person. She is a rather sound sleeper, sir, and I may have to ring a while. That is the extension."

"Damn!" said Bob under his breath, and the hand holding the instrument to his ear trembled a little.

"Oh, Bob, what is it?" cried Sally. "What has happened?"

Bob put one hand over the transmitter and answered Sally:

"The butler thinks she left some time ago, but he isn't sure. I'm ringing Miss Madison's extension phone. We'll get her on the wire in a minute. I'm sure everything is all right, honey. For pity's sakes, calm yourself. . . . Will that wench an never answer her phone?"

"I'm ringing sir," said the butler. "I certainly hope nothing has happened to the young lady, and his tone had a note of real concern which did not add to the assurance of the impudent reporter.

After an interval which seemed an hour to Bob and Sally, though it was really but a matter of minutes another voice came over the wire, a clear, cultured voice, uttering the one word:

"Well?"

"Miss Madison?"

"Yes."

"This is Mr. Harley of the Morning Sun, Miss Madison. Miss Bates, your guest this evening, is a friend of mine. Her roommate, Miss Sally Powell, is somewhat alarmed at her delay in returning to the hotel. She has left your house some time ago. Bob tried to speak with a calmness which would disarm his own excitement, but with indifferent success.

"Miss Bates?" said the calm, even voice. "Why, she left hours ago."

"Hours ago?" Bob almost shouted. "At exactly what time, Miss Madison?"

"I couldn't say," said the provokingly unruffled voice. "I took no notice. She was here but a short time. We had tea and talked a bit and then she said she must go. I'm sure it wasn't later than eight o'clock."

"She left in your car, did she not?" Bob tried to speak calmly, but his voice broke, "Is the car back?"

"Why, I suppose so, of course. My chauffeur is not here at present. Wait a minute, Mr Howard did you say?—and I'll have the butler see if Sam has returned."

There was silence at the other end of the line for several minutes, while Sally went and Bob swore to himself. Then, finally, the same voice:

"Mr. Howard? It is very strange if cou't understand it— but my chauffeur has not returned with my car. I don't care about the car, but I do hope nothing has happened to Miss Bates. You will inform me will you not, as soon as you have any news? Really, I shall be very worried."

Bob heard the click of a hanging-up receiver on the other end of the line. Savagely he rang the operator then:

"Central police station—and for God's sake hurry!"

With a sudden start as though awaking from a troubled sleep, Judith came to her senses. For a moment she thought she had been asleep and dreaming a terrible nightmare. But a movement of one cramped limb told her that it was no dream. Instead, it was the direct contact with dewy grass instead of the soft pillow and sudden realization of what she had been through that called upon her.

How long she had lain there unconscious she had no means of knowing, for her wrist watch had been jammed and broken in her struggle from the car, and must have been some time, though, Judith reasoned, for a belated moon was palely through a clog film above which relieved the pit blackness into which she had leaped. Shivering, Judith sat up and looked around her.

Judith scrambled painfully to her feet, but a sharp twinge in one ankle caused her to sink down again. Finally, convinced that no bones were broken, though she felt sore and shaken all through, she knew Judith made a few cautious steps and found herself standing directly in the very edge of a precipice.

The leap from the car had not been a moment too soon. Somewhere down in the black depths below her lay the car and the mangled ruins of Miss Madison's beautiful limousine.

Way down there somewhere, in fact, was a glow of fire—the embers of the wreck, which must have become a flaming torch as the fleeing lighted.

Judith drew back almost unconscious at the thought. She had had no narrowly escaped, and frightful as was the certainty in her mind that her killing had been deliberately planned, and this was the woman that Randall Spencer was to have married! What a fiend incarnate must hide within that beautiful face and figure! Trembled in her first sudden alarmed, would she give up and acknowledge herself conquered in that moment that came back to Judith: "War it will be! I always will!" She sent again the baleful look in the cold blue eyes, the flash of hateful anger that suffused the pale, beautiful face, and she shivered in the realization that nothing would stop this evil woman in the accomplishment of any purpose, fair or foul.

And then, for the first time since they had confessed their mutual love, a faint, but sickening doubt of Randall Spencer assailed Judith. Could it be possible, after all, that her trust in him was misplaced? Did he really love this beautiful woman, or was he in her power in some mysterious way that made him a helpless tool of evil purposes? Was it true, after all, that Captain Lobkovitz's account of him were well founded—that he was the "Red Tiger" and that the "Tiger" gang? Could it be possible that, in the back of a quarrel with Cossman Stokes, he had stabbed the poor old man to death with the paper knife?

As these questions poured through her mind against her will Judith regretted for a moment that she had ignored Vernon ere he bore her, if the answer was "yes", that she had gone over the cliff with the sedan and escaped the agony of heart and soul that disillusionment would bring to her.

But only for a moment did doubt and terror sway her. Then she declared to herself. "It isn't true." And she deliberately shut her mind to any further consideration of the possibility that she had been deceived in Randall Spencer.

She was, indeed, keenly alive to the necessity of giving consideration to her own plight. Where she was and how she was to get back to friends and safety were urgent matters for immediate attention.

If he had been kidnaped by his mistress to send the car over this precipice with her in it, she was unwilling to follow out her murderous instructions, there was nothing at stake for her in keeping silent. Evidently he had not seen her jump from the car the moment before it went over the cliff, or he would have manifested some surprise now and probably thrown her over after it. Yet he might still be in the vicinity. Judith could not account for the present unquestionably were dead for. The fiend must have stood coldly out from behind the veiling cloud and fired the fatal bullet upon the scene.

Judith almost stopped breathing. A figure loomed in the narrow road a stone's throw from her.

It was a man, tall, and—it seemed to Judith—burly, like the negro chauffeur.

Judith tried to hide—but there was nothing to conceal her. Not a tree, a bush or a rock nearby, she crouched down on the ground and waited, breathless, for the assault.

But it was no foe. The man had seen her—was approaching.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Brown, who are awaiting more keenly than the rest of the people of the Dominion the arrival of Lord Tweedsmuir, the incoming Governor-General, a second cousin of Mr. Brown.

Judith jumped to her feet in a panic of fear. But there was no way of escape. In front of her the cliff and the yawning abyss knew—behind her the narrow road and beyond, for a belated moonlight palely through a clog film above which relieved the pit blackness into which she had leaped. Shivering. Judith sat up and looked around her.

Judith scrambled painfully to her feet, but a sharp twinge in one ankle caused her to sink down again. Quick Relief for Women

Women read not endure periodic pains and headaches. They can spare themselves this suffering by taking ZUTOO TABLETS. Mrs. Allen Wright, of Fulford, who was relieved in 30 minutes of severe pain and headache, wrote saying: "Every woman in the land should know about ZUTOO TABLETS and what they will do." Just try the tablets and know for yourself how quickly they stop the pain.

HOW TO MAKE ICED TEA

Infuse six heaping teaspoons of Salada Black Tea in a pint of fresh boiling water. After six minutes strain through into two-quart container. While hot, add 1½ cups of granulated sugar and the juice of 3 lemons. Stir well until sugar is dissolved. Fill container with cold water. Do not allow tea to stand before adding the cold water, otherwise liquid will become cloudy. Serve with chipped ice.

DURHAM
CORN STARCH
for Cool, Delicious Desserts

NO KITCHEN is complete without Durham Corn Starch on the cupboard shelf—a brand of pure, time-tested Corn Starch—famous in Canadian homes for three generations. Cooking very little, Durham Corn Starch will improve and brighten your daily menu in hundreds of ways—in delicious, cool summer desserts and as a clear, delicate thickening agent for gravies, chilled fruit juices, puddings, fruit pies, pie and cake fillings and egg mixtures.

For less than 15 cents you can serve six people liberally with the delicious easily prepared recipe given below. Be sure to use Durham Corn Starch—a leader in quality—for the best results.

How to Make and Serve

SNOW PUDDING

2 cups boiling water; 2 heaping tablespoons Durham Corn Starch; 1 cup granulated sugar; ½ teaspoon salt; juice of 1 lemon; whites of 2 eggs. Dissolve the corn starch with a little cold water. Add to the boiling water, sugar, salt and lemon juice. Cook in double boiler until thickened, stirring constantly. When cold, add stiffly beaten egg whites and pile high in sherbet glasses leaving a space around the edge of the glass for custard sauce.

CUSTARD SAUCE

2 cups milk; ½ cup sugar; yolks of 2 eggs; 1 tablespoon Durham Corn Starch; ½ teaspoon vanilla. Mix together sugar, corn starch and eggs. Add to scalded milk and cook in double boiler until thickened. Add vanilla. Pour over cake, pudding and chill. Serves six people liberally.

RAINBOW FOAM

A delightful variation is made by making two or three drops of cremine coloring as you add the last cup of boiling water to the cooked mixture, one color only—not mixed. Each color will be a pastel shade—one will be a foamy mass of pale pink, green and white in rainbow effect.

BROTHER THINKS SISTER LIVING

Woman Died of Natural Causes Several Weeks Ago

Spring Lake, N.J., July 5 (AP)—For thirty years the sequestered life of Miss Ethel A. McChesney, 67, and her apparently deranged brother, John, 63, was a mystery to their neighbors.

Yesterday George Powers, solicitor for a laundry firm, came to the plain, weather-beaten house where the couple lived. He beat on the door a few times, then went to the police to report.

Detectives Russell Hurdon entered the unlocked door and found Miss McChesney's body on a bed in an upstairs room. In the next room they found McCloskey, apparently suffering from insanities.

"How is your sister?" Hurdon asked.

"Oh, fine," McCloskey replied. "I go in and see her every night."

Dr. Harvey W. Hartman, country physician, said the woman died of natural causes between two and three weeks ago.

TORONTO INDUSTRIALS

Toronto, July 5.—(CP)—A little investment buying in Goodyear This Pfd. and in Imperial Oil was the main display of interest in the industrial section of Toronto Exchange today.

Dustless Seagrams added on a minor fraction but dropped it. Bakery Commons gained a point. Walkers Pfd. was active and unchanged at 18. Industrial Alcohol added 1-4. Brewery stocks were unchanged.

Imperial showed the big end of the oil trade. British American added 1-8. Imperial the same fraction and Canadian Oil Companies 1-8 to 35 1-2.

In the foods Laura Secord and Watsons had gains against a small loss in Dominion Stores. Higher prices ruled for Goodyear Pfd. and Imperial Tobacco and Dominion Tobacco were unchanged.

While Consolidated Smelters added 1-4, International Nickel dropped 3-8. Ford, A and C. P. R. were a bit stronger.

Prices stiffened on the industrial section this afternoon, on good sales in the Gold Pfd. A and some of the liquors. The improved tone reflected the strength appearing in the late trade in Toronto Exchange pivotals.

Walkers Common and Distillers Seagrams at 30 1-8 was unchanged. Brewery shares moved quietly at unchanged prices.

Gains up to a half point developed in the oil leaders and Ford A. making at 7 3-4 had a gain of 3-8. International Nickel higher. Base metal consolidated Smelters picked up 1 1-2.

WALL STREET CLOSE

New York, July 5.—(AP)— The steels and scattered specialties pushed ahead 1 to 2 more points today while other groups were content to mark about steady.

Trading was not at a fast pace, however, as many brokerage customers extended their Independence Day holiday over the week-end. Orders were weak, along with European gold currencies.

Among outstanding share gainers were U.S. and Bethlehem Common and Preferred, Chrysler, Vanadium, Steel, Republic, Jone and Laughlin, American Can, Allied Chemical, Case, Corn Products, Johns Manville, Telephone, Westinghouse, Chrysler and Foster-Wheeler. Time sale issues firm. Transfers approximated 875,000 shares.

TORONTO MINING SHARES

Toronto, July 5 (CP)—Mining section of Toronto Exchange strung out a fractional gain today which was again hovering around the year's low figures. Mining Corporation touch a new bid but the close lowered before noon.

Hollinger Crow was shaded a few cents, Macassa also lost 2 cents and McWatters two cents.

In the Senior Golds, Teck Hughes was strong at 4.20 and Bralorne dropped 20 points to 4.75.

Sheritt Gordon weakened two cents and Noranda also lost a point. 27.25. Sudbury Basin also dropped a couple of cents.

Strong issues of the penny group were Afton, J. M. Consolidated and Red Lake, all of which moved. Tashota, Read Authier and St. Anthony.

Although the Mining section displayed firmness through the early trading today, volume was small. In all groups, a few individual issues only, including Mining Corporation and Pickle Crow trading in fair volume. The average price level was little changed at the day's closing.

Mining Corporation advanced about 5 cents and Normetal 3 cents while other base metals were unchanged. The silvers were slow and slightly soft. In the golds prices were up narrowly for Sylvanite, McWatters, Bicroft and Gunnar. Howey touched a new loan for the year at 72.

NEW TAX MAY HIT MIDDLE INCOMES

Washington, July 5.—(AP)—New deal circles are studying the advisability of broadening the United States tax-the-wealth program to reach into the middle income brackets as well as the $1,000,000-a-year class.

Some legislators and experts are known to feel if the new taxes are levied only on the very wealthiest persons, the revenue resulting would not live up to expectations.

WAGNER BILL BECOMES LAW

Board Room Gossip

As supplied to Biggar and Cromwell by Financial Service.

Important ore developments in the north country centre at the Lake Shore subsidiary Mines in the vicinity of Woman Lake in the Kirkland Lake district of northwestern Ontario are beginning to reach the point where official estimates of ore reserves, sufficient of milling on a larger scale than initially operated, are worked out last year on a 30-ton daily basis, according to The Northern Miner. The projected 100 ton unit would require that an operation powered by electricity and the company has made representations to the Hydro-Electric Commission for a delivery of 500 horsepower.

Mr. John W. Shaw, consulting engineer estimates ore blocked out to approximate 45,000 tons of $11 grade. This, however, is only the ore indicated but not yet finally blocked out in the north workings, it is reported, would give a tonnage of 60,000 and apply at the 100 ton daily rate.

The consensus in the street is that the stock market is now in the first period of a lethargic affair until after the Canadian elections which are about Oct. 14th. Some time for a forward movement of more than ordinary proportions is then due, since this fact is lending itself to confidence, namely, that the leading meritorious investments are not due for reaction very much, as they are all holding very close to their record highs.

Barron's, the well known American financial weekly, has announced the next large, 11th annual investment contest on current investment policy Contestants from 39 states, 4 provinces of Canada, and Hawaii submitted their answers to the following questions: Is this a time for safety (security (securities) for recovery or inflation from the viewpoint of the business or financial leaders you deal with? All of the ten winners are residents of the United States.

Virtually every Contestant was convinced that prices of industrial common stocks will attain to go up and all the manuscripts submitted were opposed to the New Deal. A study of the 10 winning lists received the highest grading shows that the dominant industry has captured the imagination of most of the contestants, with Du Pont far at the head of the list and Radio running second, and other chemical enterprises, such as Dow Chemical recommended. Another to win many places is International Nickel, and then such leaders as General Motors of New Jersey, General Electric, American Telephone and Telegraph and Continental Can.

SERVICE STATIONS BUSINESS GOOD

The annual invasion of Canada by United States tourists is fast gaining momentum. The traffic on number 2 highway is becoming very dense. Last week-end and on Dominion Day there was the heaviest traffic in some years. Local service stations report that they had run out of the usual supplies and the tourist traffic reached a peak a few years ago.

RESORT COTTAGES ARE FILLING UP

Now that the holidays are on and the examinations over for the school students, Belleville residents are preparing to leave for their summer cottages. Camping weather up to the present has not been very inviting due to the wet and cold weather but the last two days has brought a return of warmth suitable for outdoors.

Our holiday tournament was a decided success. Thirty-six teams took part in our own rinks and fifteen out of town.

Two Belleville rinks were successful. D. Fisher and Carl Palmer and John Houston and Terry Scanlan.

Wednesday the Provincial games were played here Kingston won the rinks and singles and Stirling the doubles. There were some very exciting games. Charlie Sutton's team were defeated by Kingston after twenty-four ends by one shot.

Whitby and Solmes of Stirling beat the Campbellford team on an extra end by one rink. This shows how keen the competition.

We welcome to our club Rev. Wright, who has come back to reside in Belleville. We have in our club now three ministers, Rev. Walker, Rev. Naylor and Rev. Wright. We would suggest a three reverend gentlemen that they sign up the Reverend Newman, who is an old bowler. This would be a good rink on or off the greens.

Some fifty members have not paid their dues yet. Are you one of them. We need the money.

Your scribe got a great kick watching the new members of our club in Monday's tournament. They certainly put up a wonderful fight. Old members watch out next year.

On Monday night next, July 8th, we will have a second jitney it is the intention of the club to endeavor to play Sheers every Monday and Friday night. Monday mixed. Friday for men so be on hand.

There are three outside games on Wednesday. We should be there representing at each of these games.

The hostesses at the Ladies' club day yesterday were Mrs. Robson, Mrs. MacDonald and Mrs. Walkin.

The winning rink was Mrs. Tanner, Mrs. ...aw, Mrs. Thompson and Miss Conroy, skip.

We wish to thank the ladies who helped to make our tournament such a success on Monday.

CURRENT SPORT
DAY BY DAY

Having returned from a big game hunt in the wilds of Prince Edward County, we find ourselves back in the midst of the local sport realm once again. The "wolves" thirsty populating the county in our immediate south, causing a hasty retreat to more amicable climes. At any rate activities in the local sporting circles have taken a turn for the better of late, except for the torrid weather conditions.

One thing we note is the fine assortment of wrestlers who are to appear at the Arena tonight as the Kiwanis Club's weekly all-star card. It was not until after considerable urging on the part of the local promoters and the elevation of guarantees, that the three one-hour limit bouts were eventually agreed upon. Local wrestling fans have been waiting for nearly a month to see Elmo Sanders, the herculean 239 pound Dutchman, in the same ring with Al "Bunny" Dunlop. Strange as it may seem neither of these boys has tasted defeat in a ring, as it looks as if one of them will be eliminated tonight at eleven.

What interests many, however, is the return to local grappling wars of Frank Mercurio, the agile Italian, incidentally Marmaduke Sinclair returned to Canada after a successful tour of the Northland and while he has taken onto himself a large sized black moustache, at least he was hiding behind the brush when he turned up in Toronto to sign the contract, tendered by the Kiwanis promoters, to meet Jack Pearl. Some dispatches are to the effect that Mercurio has taken on a Corsican complex and is a villain of the first school these days. He will be a welcome welcome when he appears in the local squared circle tonight. (Maybe.) Coming—to the finish—in what we see that pugnacious, villainous Walter Farnell resuming his hostilities against George Richards, whom he nearly severed in twain before last week's bout so abruptly terminated. The fans will welcome Gabi return bout as last week's performance left the gladiators any anything but satisfactory ending. Taking all into consideration the Kiwanis Club can truthfully say—"This show is stupendous, colossal; yes even gargantuan."

The local junior Kiwanis baseball club swung into action yesterday by electing their officers. Chief, Kidd, head of the local constabulary, was the club's choice as President, while Kiwanian George Lee is to be manager with Allan Meagher named as the coach of the 1935 Belleville Kiwanis junior baseball team. The club will apply to the Hastings County junior league for affiliation, and There have been numerous efforts put forth by the heads of the Hastings County junior loop to encourage junior baseball in other centres throughout the Bay of Quinte district, but without avail until the Kiwanis Club recently decided to give the local kids a break and sponsor a Belleville junior baseball team. This news should be received with open arms by the aspiring young aged boys who are desirous of participating in the diamond game. Practice will be called immediately and efforts are being put forth to play a number of exhibition games as soon as possible. Under the Hastings County League executive proper, other clubs are being canvassed, the local Kiwanis juniors will naturally be given a bye into the O.B.A.A. play-downs.

Over in Picton the baseball club has removed the fences in centre field in order to save their desirocation at the hands of Bob Greer, their slugging catcher. Bob crashed two homers and another extra base hit to end the sojourn of Tommy Pohlen of the Napanee nocturne when the homesters won a heetic ball game over the Elmcart-Greer crew on Wednesday. Incidentally the Picton cricketers removed the fence in centre field during a heavy gale that blew but the wind seemed to grow in the direction of the suitable place to play hide-and-go-seek with the visiting nine. Especially when a visiting batter happens to hit a ball in the midst of the fences. Even if the Gibbards did come down on the short end of the score, they still top the list of the Quinte standing, but doubtlessly Wednesday's game with the Kiwanis gang will be the tit-bit morsel of baseball piety that they'll have this season. In the meantime the local interests are holding their own and expect to finish in a playoff berth.

All's well Jack Williams hurled the Bowart-Wetmore to a beautiful 2 to 1 victory over the Peics on the holiday, the Bastion dig not put much ground, as the Peules are finding it hard to get on the scoring leadership berth. The Peterboro sport scribe scoffed at the wee suggestion of Williams being able to ball the "slugging Peics", but alas Jack did just that. Williams was always on top and is still a threat in the old O.B.A.A. much to the discomfort of all other teams concerned. The Bulls are scheduled to appear in Cobalt on Saturday in which time Art Calhoun will naturally get the hurling assignment of the day, following his 5 to 0 victory over the Motor City two weeks ago. At present only one O.B.A.A. game appears to be booked and the league leading Peules, who appear in Peterboro tomorrow. Th s May shroud but leaves the C.O.B.L. are having just one more hot game among the cellar position Pcics from the garret-placed Peules.

Gothamites Forecast All-New York World Series

YANKS, GIANTS LEAD

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.

Going on the time-honored though often disproved theory that teams which have survived the rigors of the first half of the Major League season to hold the lead after July 4 are the ones likely to be on top at the finish, New York fans still can look forward to their ideal of a world series on a five-cent fare. But Yankees apparently will have quite a battle to bring it about.

Events of the Independence Day doubleheaders made Yanks' hold on the American league lead look rather shaky as they had to work their hardest to gain an even break with the fifth place Boston Red Sox while the rampant Detroit Tigers slammed their way to two more victories over Cleveland and cut New York's lead to two games.

In contrast to the Yankees-Olivets' National League lead stretched out to nine games—the longest so far—as they trimmed Braves twice while Cardinals routed Cubs to climb back into second place and drop Chicago to fourth. Pirates moved into third place by splitting their bargain bill with Cincinnati.

Yankees had a bit of a struggle in the opener when Boston bowler Chris Castleman over with a five-run fifth inning but they rallied for ten runs in the end went on to hammer out a 12 to 3 decision that gave Hal Schumacher his tenth straight mound victory. Hank Leiber helped out with a homer in each game.

Yarmouth, N.S., July 5 (CP)—Boston Braves of the National League will be asked to play an exhibition game with the Gaspereaux, Nova Scotia amateur baseball champions.

New York, July 5 (CP)—Herbert Olson has the easiest job in New York. He is lifeguard for the floating hospital, the boat that makes daily trips down New York harbor with children for a day of sunshine and fresh air.

Olson sits in the boat tied to the stern of the vessel to be handy if one of the children falls overboard. He hasn't had to make a rescue yet because the children are under heavy precautions. For recreation he gets into a rowboat and rows around the harbor.

Royals Win in Doubleheader To Top Toronto in Int. League As Leafs Split Two Games

Pace Tightens up as Four Teams Battle For Leadership

By The Associated Press

Lead in the International League is getting to be just about as difficult to hang on to as a red hot coal.

Buffalo Bisons moved into the top spot on Monday and have remained in the leadership for exactly one game. Then Baltimore Orioles took it over and two days later dropped into a tie for first place with the Toronto Maple Leafs. On July 3 Orioles slipped to third place and Rochester Royals advanced to tie Toronto for top-honors.

Yesterday, Royals, as the result of winning a doubleheader from Buffalo, while Toronto split another twin bill with the Rochester Red Wings, moved into sole ownership of the driver seat. Baltimore Orioles went a half game behind into second place skinning Newark Bears twice.

Royals registered both victories over Bisons in a sensational manner. Both games were won with four-run rallies in the last inning. The scores were 8 to 6 and 4 to 3, while second game called in the eighth inning to allow Bisons to catch a train.

After dropping the first game, 9 to 2, Toronto Leafs came back to trounce Rochester Red Wings in the night cap, 7 to 2. Jimmy Brown's ninth inning single with Mills on first base broke up the first game which was a tight pitching duel between Three Rochester Spencer, Leafs shelled pitchers Johnny Sagorski and Ray Harrell for five runs in the second inning of the second game to put it on ice.

SOFTBALL

Two games of softball were played in the local Senior loop last evening when the Asimacs defeated the Young Canadas 12 to 8 at the old Albert College Field, while on the Central Park diamond the St. Paul A.C. continued their winning ways by defeating the Gordon fleet of Tweed by the score of 17 to 11. Both games proved free hitting contests and saw plenty of extra base clouts.

At Central Park the St. Pauls A. C. moved into third position and bettered their league standing with their win. Belleville's veteran ballster, Jim "Cap" Smith was manager Harry Knott's choice as the starting pitcher for the Foster Ward nine. His team mates garnered eight runs in the third as Smith settled away to pitch steady ball until he tired in the seventh, Chuck Barriage relieving him in the eighth. Smith was only in trouble the one inning and continually forced the visitors popping the ball to the infielders. His control was excellent.

Gowsell, the Tweed roundsman, was not afforded the support his opponent received and was hit freely.

Murney Green with two homers, Chas. Barriage and Tummon were the four base pawsmen, while Caulfield, Pulker, Smith and Rushlow starred at the Tweed—Meraw, Rollins, Tumlson, Orr, Gowsell, McCutcheon, Sinclair and Mancher and Brownell.

Score by innings:
Tweed ..... 012 003 500—11
St. Paul ..... 038 060 01x—17
Umpires—Wilson, Tweed; R. Pinkney, Belleville.

Up at the College Field the Asimacs returned to winning ways over by taking the Young Canadas into camp by the score of 12 to 8. The victory put them only two game advantage at the top of the Senior League standings. C. Cockburn, Young Canada hurler, was credited with the victory over his team mates as he buried fairly good ball for six innings, weakening slightly in the seventh and being replaced by Jackie Bawden in the eighth. Jenkinson limited the homesters to six hits and one run in six frames, but was nicked for five hits and the same number of runs in the two succeeding frames. Eddie Schrieder was Manager Lazenby's choice for hurling duties, but his deliveries proved no mystery to the slugging Asimacs as they collected 15 hits for 13 runs. Four base clouts were registered by Andy Gray, Rusty Clark, Reid and Cy Barriage.

The line-ups:

Asimacs—Turtle, Gray, Kiser, Ethier, Bawden, Clarke, Hanna, J. Bawden Jenkinson and O'Brien.
Young Canadas—Schrieder, Cy Barriage, Brown, Reid, J. Murray, Alexander, Robinson, Latchford and Schrieder.

Score by innings:
Asimacs ..... 000 241 003—12 15 2
Young Canada 100 003 200— 6 10 6

TWEED VICTORS ON EARLY SCORING

Rednerswille Loses to Gordon Steel Works Team 15-7

TWEED—Spotting their opponents five runs in the first inning, when ten men went to bat, Rednerswille was strictly out of the picture in a league softball game on the Memorial diamond on Wednesday evening. The final score of 15 to 5 fairly represents the difference between the two teams. Gordon Steel scored in five innings, adding one in the second inning threes in the fourth, four in the fifth and two in the third as Smith settled down to pitch steady ball until he tired in the seventh, Chuck Barriage relieving him in the eighth. Smith was only in trouble the one inning and continually forced the visitors popping the ball to the infielders. His control was excellent.

Daily Short Story

THE LAST WILL

(Copyright 1935 King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

If you had been walking down Deserted Elm St., fined with comfortable homes, you probably would have remarked that the residents were absolutely law-abiding and went to bed early.

You could also have noted that every house was dark except one, and that had but one light burning. The light would have attracted your attention, for not only was it the one home light visible on the street, it also betrayed the figure of a man hunched over a desk seemingly engaged in deep thought.

A resident of that street would have been mildly surprised, for the home of William Lawson was more than average, but back of a wall, it keeps lawn, it exuded an air of prosperous content. But the surprise would have been greater if he saw the thing that kept Lawson up past his usual hour. He saw the hatred that distorted his features. The hate was a reflection of his written words and the writ- words composed his last will- and was one of those strange things that some men leave behind them, in which they have the pleasure of laughing after death at their heirs.

Most people that do that have the pleasure of living as long as nature intended them to, building up false hopes in their heirs, and then die, happy in the knowledge that many realizations will be later, for reasons best known to themselves.

A Broker

The story of the Lawsons was typical. They lived in the suburbs of the mighty city where the homes are not too much alike. William Lawson was a broker, and like many of the brokers in the flush times, he made more money than he should have made. His wife had been very happy together. They had built their home and reared the two children to good schools.

Two things happened to the Lawson family that happened to a good many others. First came the financial let-down and the consequent lower standard of living. These two, which nearly ruin together in most families, caused a strain in the family ties.

No need to luxuries was Lawson that it was impossible for him to cut down. His wife with a woman's comprehension for things as they are, tried unsuccessfully to cut down his extreme expenditures. Everything they owned was mortgaged.

What Mrs. Lawson did not know was the directions in which her husband speculated what little he had, and quite a bit of other people's money, in an effort to regain.

"Complacent, fool," Lawson, as he pen scratched on. He could hear her steady breathing in the next room, as he remembered their last conversation.

Pity had been on her face. Well she'd have plenty of pitying to do next week when they found his body. The thought of committing suicide had been boiling in his mind for weeks. He decided on it that day, for there was nothing else to do. The stock market had gone lower, wiping out his last chance, and when the creditors called he would be ruined for life.

"No Bill," he remembered her saying, "it's all we have. If you lose the savings account of mine and borrow on the insurance the children will have no security."

Yes, security for the children. Putting them before her husband who provided for all of them. The half-insanity of the gambler who has played his last hand gnawed at his mind. An informed kindness of a faithful wife seemed another move to defeat him.

Well, she said, let her suffer with her "savings." He offered her nothing when he turned it down. Now she could have nothing. Yes, suicide is cowardly- be anything else. But his property, why should she have it? The house was hers. It was deeded to her when they were married. Well, let her keep it; there was no market for houses.

The insurance! That was it! The $50,000 policy wasn't bad. It was drawn up so that he couldn't touch it. She saw to that.

He wondered how they would take it. His family didn't worry him, but his mother- she was pretty old. That's it, his mother. She never got along with his wife, said she stole her only son but as she could get a meal ticket.

His Will

....."To my mother I leave the interest on my insurance for life. At her death $5,000 will go for a monument to her memory."

..He laughed at this. His wife couldn't touch that.

....."The balance to pay my funeral expenses and business creditors and to my wife the residue in her entirety."

Lawson signed it leaving room for the notary's seal. Every provision had been made. Tomorrow he would take it to the notary and then deposit it in the vault. It would be found on his person.

At four o'clock he went to bed surprised that sleep came so easily. The next morning his wife called him at 7.30.

"You look terribly tired, Bill. Why don't you forget everything and take a rest?"

He gave a faint smile. "I've been planning on that."

The breakfast was mechanically consumed. Lawson glanced at with proper intervals, and his wife saw him to the door at the regular time. The stupidity of his existence nauseated him. "How can I do these things forever," he thought to himself.

"Hurry dear, or you'll miss the train," his wife called. She said that every morning. Force of habit made him run when he heard the warning whistle of the train, three blocks away.

Two blocks and he was winded, fatigue wet his eyes. That was why he rushed past the last block across the last intersection. He never saw the shrieking mass of steel and rubber that crushed him when he dodged between the parked cars. The brakes, raking down the street was a hurtling death, but for his eyes to register it ground him into a blood-soaked mass. That was why they never could read the document in his pocket.

"Reckless driving" was the verdict of the coroner. The company that owned the truck was wealthy, but Mrs. Lawson never felt that the $50,000 damages she easily collected could make up for the loss of her husband.

Sid Hunt and Glasses Magee the famous explorers walked to get some experience exploring antiques in Glasses Magee's shop they decided to write a book about their adventures on the subject, so Saitday morning they went down Sid's office and tried to climb into the counter of the furnace, which seem. extinct about 6 weeks, but they each got stuck half way through and had to pull each other out, and it took them about a half hour to get the lava out of their hair and off their clothes.

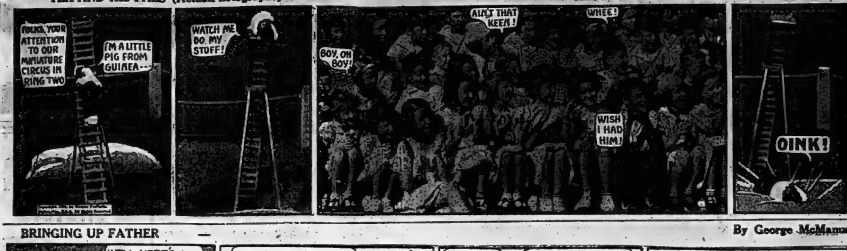
The ladies of the Women's Association gathered on Wednesday last week at the home of Mrs. Percy Boulton to spend an afternoon with her before she left the district. Mrs. Boulton was presented with a silver pyrex pie plate, for which she suitably replied inviting everyone to visit them in their new home.

Quinte View school closed on Friday after a most successful year. The pupils were sorry to hear that their teacher Miss Vivian Cecil of St. Thomas would not be back for another year. In the year that she has been with them she has won the love and respect of all the pupils. In token of their esteem an address was read by Norman Fair on behalf of the pupils and Miss Jean Wilson presented Miss Olde with a dainty sugar and cream set. Miss Olde later treated the pupils at Mr. Park's candy store.



SHIPWRECKED SON RETURNS

Vancouver, July 4 (CP)—A slender, fair-haired youth came home to his overjoyed mother today but too near collapse to tell of his three-shattering experience when the seine boat in which he and six companions were enroute to Vancouver capsized in fishing waters exploded, sending four of the party to their deaths.

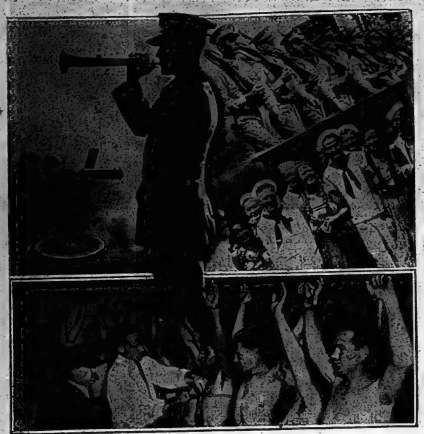
TARZAN THE UNTAMED—

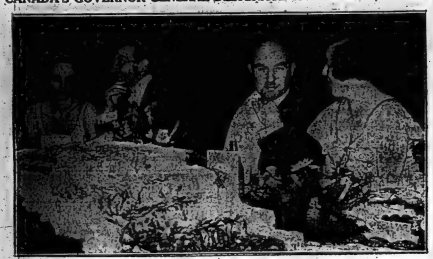
(Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service)



Roger saw the great cat veer in his charge as tho' to elude the naked savage rushing to meet it. Sheeta's intention was of make good his kill before attempting to protect it from Tarzan. Then, with increasing wonder, the British Lieutenant saw the ape-man swerve!

He saw him leap for the spotted cat as a football player leaps for a runner. He saw the strong brown arms encircle the beast's body. With the impact, the two rolled over and over upon the turf. He heard the snarls and growls of bestial combat.

Horror-struck, he realized that the sounds coming from the man could scarce be distinguished from those of the panther. . . . "Can't we help him before that beasts KILLS him?" cried Ojo. A thought came to her and the Red spy ran toward the hut.



Roger saw the raking talons of the panther searching for the man's flesh. . . The man used every article to keep his body out of their range. The muscles of his arms knotted under the brown skin. The veins stood out upon his neck and forehead. He looked so for the knife.

INJURED IN CYCLONE

Lampman, Sask., July 5.—Donald Salsted, 18 months, died in the hospital here from injuries suffered when the Salsted farm home in the Benson district was wrecked by cyclonic winds late Monday.

A brother, Edward, four, and Miss Ruby Smales, a visitor in the Salsted home when it smashed, are in critical condition in the hospital. Edward has a broken arm, severe scalp wounds and internal injuries. Miss Smale had her leg broken.

BABE STOLEN FROM CRIB

Chicago, July 4 (AP)—While Mrs. Lucille Rendola was taking a walk her year-old daughter, Dolores, was taken from her crib early today.

Neighbors told her they saw a man carry a bundle out the front door which had been left open. Mrs. Rendola asked police to search for a man whose attentions she said she had rejected.

BABY BOY EATS TABLETS WHICH CAUSE DEATH

Windsor, Mills. Que. July 5.—Strychnine tablets prescribed by a physician for Mrs. Joseph Pelletier killed her two-year-old son, Jean, yesterday. While Mrs. Pelletier was in another part of the house the baby got the box of pills and swallowed 13 of them. He was violently ill when she found him and called a doctor. The child was dead, however, when the doctor arrived.

KEEL MAY BE REMAINS OF SHIP USED IN 1812

Midland, Ont., July 4 (CP)—With the finding of a fire blackened oak keel near the mouth of Sarrick's Creek at Woodland Beach here, it is believed the remains of a sister ship to the historic Nancy, flagship of the British Fleet in Canadian waters in the war of 1812, has been discovered.

FOXBORO W.M.S.

The regular monthly meeting of the W.M.S. and Ladies' Aid was held in the S.S. room of the United Church on Wednesday, July 3rd. Mrs. W. E. Wickett was in the chair. The meeting opened by repeating the Watchword in unison. Hymn 293 was sung and Mrs. Wickett led in prayer. The Scripture Lesson was by four guests read by Mrs. Price, Mrs. Daniels, Mrs. Spencer and Mrs. Clarke. Miss Amelia Clarke gave a reading. Minutes of last meeting were read and adopted. It was decided to entertain the Minden Band at the next meeting and a literary committee was appointed. The theme of the meeting was medical missions and several readings were given on the work of several medical missionaries. These readings were given by Mrs. W. E. Wickett, Miss A. Clarke, Mrs. Ewart Sills, Mrs. M. Reynolds, Mrs. P. Kilpatrick, Mrs. Coulter, Mrs. Priest and Mrs. Dachler. Miss Faye Bamber sang a solo "Jesus Saviour Pilot Me", which was enjoyed by all. The meeting closed by singing one verse of a hymn and prayer by Mrs. Wickett. Seventeen were present.

Toronto, July 3.— Reductions in prices of automobile tires became effective yesterday in Ontario and Quebec, as the result, rubber manufacturers stated, here, of increased demand, lowered production costs and United States competition. VICEROY'S THANKS

Disputing Powers of Senate and Commons Cause Delay

OTTAWA, July 6.—(CP)—Political strife in the halls of Parliament is stilled for the week-end shortly on scores of platforms across Canada in a general election campaign. The final session of the 17th Parliament of Canada came to an end yesterday to the tune of booming guns and cheers for the stately ritual with which British Parliaments are won to assemble and prorogue.

While the corridors on Parliament Hill are empty today, yesterday they were the scene of scores of friendly gatherings as members who have decided to retire or whose return depends on the result of the election said their farewells to colleagues.

The Earl of Bessborough made his last appearance in Parliament as Governor-General. He will retire this fall and his term has almost exactly coincided with the term of late Right Honourable as he arrived in the Spring of 1931.

Ring to Free Time

Last minute differences of opinion between the Commons and Senate, necessitating compromise on both sides prolonged the final hours of the session. While messages passed to and fro between the two houses adjusting the terms of new laws the members of the Commons and in their seats read and chatted popular songs and the Senators took frequent adjournments.

Finally all was agreed upon and the Governor-General mounted the throne in the Senate Chamber to give his closing speech and give the Royal assent to the last of the most extensive body of legislation passed at a single session of Parliament for many years.

The bill to establish a wheat board was one of the last to be settled. It passed the House of Commons Thursday night and a couple of minor amendments were made in the Senate yesterday which the Commons speedily adopted.

Presbyteral W. M. S. Meets Reports Show Progress

21st Birthday of Presbyterial Will be Observed

Presbyterial ... beRaFP mloBruig

The summer meeting of Kingston Presbyterial W.M.S. of the Presbyterian church in Canada was held in the Church of the Redeemer, Deseronto, on Thursday, July 4th.

The President, Mrs. Hunter of Madoc, occupied the chair and gave the Call to Worship after which devotional exercises were conducted by Mrs. Herbert of Pudsons Mills, Mrs. Allum of Deseronto, extended a very cordial welcome to the delegates and Mrs. Scott of Picton, replied.

After the reading of minutes by the Recording Secretary, Miss Mowers, very complimentary report of the Ontario Provincial meeting was given by Mrs. Batson of Belleville. This organization comprises 1265 branches with membership totalling $110,770 in 1934. Five Presbyterials met their allocation and several increased their givings over 1933. The practice of holding Sectional meetings in conversing districts was highly recommended.

The Roll Call of auxiliaries was answered by special items of interest which proved very beneficial. One particularly worthy of note was the observation of Deseronto Auxiliary of its fiftieth anniversary in April, 1934. The President urged the use of more missionary books in study classes and suggested that each Auxiliary strive to accumulate a library of missionary books.

Dinner was served at high noon by members of the Deseronto Church.

Mrs. Darling of Gananoque, took charge of the afternoon devotions after which the following items of business were dealt with. An executive meeting will be held in December at the same time and place as the regular meeting of Presbytery. The annual meeting will take place in Trenton in March and the Summer Presbyterial in September. An invitation was accepted from Port Hope for this meeting. Mrs. Dutcher was appointed to attend the October Board meeting as substitute for the president if necessary. Miss Ella Roslin, was elected Glad Tidings Secretary.

As the year 1935, is the twenty-first anniversary of the Ontario Provincial work a fee for membership asked to contribute twenty-one cents during the months of July and August in commemoration of the event.

Several interesting Departmental reports were heard and Mrs. Seymour of Belleville, led in discussion. The Treasurer, Miss Fowler reported the sum of $813.90 having been received to date which amount compared favorably with the giving of 1934 Miss Druce Presbyterial Mission Band secretary presented the banner to Stirling Mission Band, this organization having attained the highest number of points for its year's work. An increase in the membership to Glad Tidings is urgently desired 356 being the lowest number since 1925. Reports were requested in the Welfare Dept., Social Service and Young Women's Auxiliary.

A very fine address was given by Mrs. J. A. Koffend of Stirling, on Evangelistic work among the women and children of Manchuria. Mrs. Koffend having spent some time in this field was able to speak authoritatively on the work being carried on by the Church and W.M.S.

A letter of greeting and best wishes was forwarded to Mrs. Reid of Belleville, a former President also a resolution of thanks to the organist and choir of Deseronto and all others who contributed to the success and pleasure of the meeting.

Mrs. Duff of Kingston, closed the session with prayer.

(SENATOR BURNS 79)

Calgary, July 5—(CP)—Senator Patrick Burns of Calgary today received congratulations from all parts of the world on his 79th birthday, Born in Oshawa, Ont., July 6th, 1856, Senator Burns came to Western Canada in 1879. He is recovering from an illness which at one stage threatened to become critical.

COOLER SUNDAY, STORM FORECAST

Usual Consumption

"That is usual" said Manager E. A. Austin today. "Every time it goes with the weather. If we get a cool spell the use of water will fall off quickly."

Several reports have come in to Mr. Michael, Dominion Seed Inspector concerning the rapid growth of the aphid insect, that thrives on the pea plant. "The hot weather is ideal for the growth of the aphid" declared Mr. Michael. "I didn't think there would be a great growth of them this year on account of the wet cold weather that dominated until late spring." The aphid usually works in the low lying fields where the pea plant hasn't attained a great height. Here they go to work and strip the plant of all the leaves which is very essential to the development of the pods. No outstanding damage can be done to the plants that are to be sent to the canneries as most of these have already been out and many have been sent to the canning factories.

The intense heat that has prevailed this week will have no serious effect on the crops said a local farmer in an interview with the press this morning, in answer to a question as to whether the scorching sun would burn the crops. Those fields that have been cultivated and in the soil will not be harmed on the contrary they will benefit greatly from the heat. The only ones that will be effected are the plants that have been transplanted. Another thing that is now needed is a heavy fall of rain.

One of the first questions asked by fellow employees this morning was "Did you sleep well last night. The majority who were asked this replied "Yes" Several residents found cooler comfort downstairs and not a few lay on the floor all night in improvised beds.

On the Lawns

Lawns were again well watered last evening. Children gurgled and splashed in the water from the garden hose and found comfort. Others open at the neck and no ties in the order of the day for the men. In the offices where the heat is suffocating the least amount of clothing is being worn. Factories where machinery running continually by electricity or steam, the heat almost unbearable for the employees. Quitting time never comes too soon these days.

The only cooling thought is the fact that the heat has not reached the record, but not even hovered near the mark that was made 4 years ago that is will be cooler for Sunday.

Reports Throughout Ontario

(By the Canadian Press)

For the fourth day Canadians were blistering under a searing sun that shot the thermometer up to the highest officially recorded mark to 92 degrees yesterday,and caused one death.

In Ontario also a second death, an accident case, was attributed indirectly to the heat, the first that it was somewhat cooler, Montreal had seven cases of heat prostration. One of them, an unidentified man who collapsed on the street was still unconscious.

In Cobalt, Lorenzo Lavigne, died in the hospital from sunstroke. Dandy O'Connell, 50, was killed when his truck went off the highway into the ditch. He was believed to have fallen asleep owing to the heat.

Sault Ste. Marie and Windsor were the hottest cities in the Dominion with readings of 92, Huntsville in the Muskoka District registered under 91 degrees. Unofficial readings placed Toronto at 88 degrees in St.-ford and .94 at Brantford.

A few thunderstorms in Ontario gave promise of impending relief. At Brantford lightning, accompanying a severe storm, set fire to a home but the blaze was quickly put out.

An indication of the heat wave was seen at Toronto where water consumption rose from 83,000,000 gallons Tuesday to 89,000,000 Wednesday with the temperature 80; 87,000,000, Thursday with the temperature 84. Yesterday this was estimated Thursday's mark would be passed.

FIFTY REGISTER FOR FREE SWIM

Hearty Acceptance of The Offer Made by The Y.M.C.A.

To date over fifty boys have registered at the Y.M.C.A. for the free swimming lessons campaign which commences on Monday. The majority of the boys are of 10 and 11 years in age with a fair number 12, 13 and 14 year olds. All instruction will be under the direction of the physical director assisted by several members of the "Y" Swim Club. Classes will be held at the "Y" every morning with the exception of Saturday. On Monday, Wednesday and Friday the boys will come in at 9.30 and 11.30 while on Tuesday and Thursday they will come at 9.30 and 10.30. All boys who have registered and been accepted for instruction have been notified through the mail, at what hour to attend for their instruction.

Club Members Take Further Test.

Three members of the "Y" Swim Club were successful in passing another test in their life saving examination in the Bonnells dock yesterday evening. Misses Grace Sheppard and Margaret Griffin passed the junior and Carl Gruber the senior water test. Each candidate was required to demonstrate four or six methods of release from a drowning person from the subject from at least sixty feet out, into shore. In addition the senior candidate had to swim a distance of 300 yards using three strokes, breast, back and side. Junior candidates were required to do half this distance. Other club members were present but deferred taking their test until a later date.

Mere Campers to Make Lake.

Several additional campers have been booked for the Canadian Girls Lake and several more intimated their intention of joining the campers within the next few days.

Kiwanis Terminate Season With Three Rousing Bouts Which See Many Thrills

Dunlop, Parnell and Pearl Win After Hectic Struggles

THREE MAIN BOUTS

Three rousing wrestling bouts were staged by the Kiwanis Club promoters at the Belleville Arena last night, each one being of main bout calibre and literally holding every fan spell-bound in their seat until long after the midnight hour. Each bout was over the one hour limit, the last two falls out of three while the night's program was packed with thrills, spills and excitement, receiving the stamp of approval from over six hundred fans who swelled and under the intense heat conditions. The main bout of the evening saw the contest of matched strength that resulted in that defeated badman, Al Dunlop, winning the odd fall over Khan Sinders, the 230 pound Dutch adonis. The semi-final match saw the return to local wrestling circles of that super-showman, Mick Mercurio, the Italian crowd-baiter, who was disqualified for continued fouling of Jack Pearl in the third round. Referee Jack Wells continually warned the villainous Mercurio that the rules of the unorthodox manner of attack and finally disqualified him for illegal kicking. The preliminary bout on the night practically stole the show as Walter Parnell, the magnificent Canadian, won the odd fall over Johnnie Gyroffy, the lithe 205 pound Hungarian. Each bout was of real entertainure while the entire card was the finest staged by the Kiwanian Club promoters and would bear repeating.

The opening bout of the night between Walter Parnell, 211, of St. Catharines, and Johnny Gyroffy, 205, Hungary, opened with speed and action. The first round saw more action than any previous preliminary bout ever staged in Belleville. After some sparring for an opening grappling Parnell finally were Gyroffy down and pinned his shoulders with a body press. Gyroffy returned in his mad rush for the scalp of the heavier Parnell, say "muffit". After a short rest Parnell returned to the ring and resorted to roughneck attacks and unorthodox holds that brought the wrath of the fans upon his and Referee Wells' head, but Parnell continued his rampage and finally won the day with a series of hard body slams terminated with a body press after 8 minutes and twenty seconds of real interesting wrestling.

The second main bout saw the return to the ring of that crowd-baiter and natural showman, Mick Mercurio, the 200 pound Italian villain plus his very accomplished mustache. Despite the fact that Mercurio repeatedly incited the crowd and finally brought the wrath of Referee Wells upon his head and was disqualified, he literally carried the show with his pugnacious attacks and rather shady tactics. Mercurio won the initial fall when Pearl conceded the round as the Italian applied a punishing body scissors hold. Pearl returned to the canvas for the second round with the ring and win the admiration of the fans. Throw the 196-pounder Toronto lad picked Mercurio up and crashed him bodily to the mat to win the second fall in eight and a half minutes. After seven minutes of wrestling, biting and kicking, Referee Wells suddenly stepped in and disqualified Mercurio for fouling. As Pearl lay prostrate on the mat unable to continue following centred fouling at the hands of Italian, who was escorted to his dressing.

The main bout of the night proved a demonstration of brute strength as Al Dunlop, 218-pound Cleveland villain, finally bested Elmo Sinders, the 230-pound Dutchman, after one of the most gruelling bouts ever witnessed locally. Dunlop tried to resort to his unorthodox methods of attack, but the lithe Dutchman beat him at every turn to win the initial fall following a series of punishing, flying cradle holds in a little over 14 minutes. Sinders, as instructed by Referee Bert Wells, Walter Parnell was called into the ring to act as referee in the fall and for the night. His work proved most satisfactory. As the grapplers returned for the second round of the main bout Dunlop resorted to pugnacious and got Sinders in a difficult position with a scrapiane spin. Referee Parnell became entangled in the form of writhing bodies on the mat and a merry time was had before the official finally regained his feet. Dunlop won the second round after a series of hard body slams that were Sinders down until he was unable to do himself justice in the final round and Dunlop won it also by 2 falls.

SOFTBALL

Winning their third consecutive game this week the St. Pauls A.C. softball team moved into second place in the local Senior softball loop after downing the Redmarville nine by the score of 9 to 4 at Central Park last night. The game was a battle-pitchers' battle between Sager, on the mound for the St. Pauls nine, and Coughlin, the imported Trenton hurler, who pitched for the Prince Edward County aggregation.

Sager hurried three hit ball and was given supernatural support by his teammates, while Coughlin only allowed five hits, including a four base clout by Rigby, local centre fielder. The entire Foster Ward aggregation played errorless ball to win, while even in defeat the Redmarville nine turned in a creditable performance. The game provided the large crowd with continued thrills as the fielding was unusual, catches and stabs in both the infield and the outer garden. Not a single batter on either team collected over one safe blow, as the pitchers gained control of the game time early in the game. One single in the fourth and two in the eighth were all the hits allowed by Sager.

The line-ups:

St. Pauls—Lott, Whitehead, Green, Rigby, Gaulin, Rushlow, Knott, Caddell, Pollitor and Sager.

Redmerville—7, Farley; H. Farley; Cooks; Coughlin; Wesse; Rushton; Thompson; May and Taylor.

The Ontario Intelligencer 'print-ers' moved one game closer to the league leadership of the local Municipalities softball loop after eking out a narrow margin 14 to 11 victory over the Recreations on their Yeomans St. diamond last night.

The "ink-slingers" took an early batting lead and were never headed, although Manager Barrett's "maple knockers" made a determined stand in the eighth, that netted them four runs, but their rally fell short of tying the score. Jimmy Doyle ascended the mound for the Intelligencer nine, only turned constant ball, but wielded the big stick in the night, four hits being credited to him for a perfect batting average. The Recreations used three hurlers, Balyx starting, Carson later taking over the mound duties, only to have Hurley finish the game.

The five seven runs scored by the "printery" in the initial two frames proved too great an obstacle for the Recreations to overcome. The victory elevates the winners into second place in the Municipalities league standing.

The line-ups:

Ont. Intell—Kemp, Doyle; Philp; Robertson; Ling-Lindberg; Oliphant; Hardwick and Harris.

Recreation—Morgan; Robinson; Hurley; Macdonald; Balyx; Carson; Sager; Tapp; Balyx and Carson.

Score by innings:
Ont. Intell ..... 340 014 110—14
Recreation ..... 001 210 001—11

Umpires—Smith and Cook.

CURRENT SPORT

DAY BY DAY

Today the Stewart-Warners are scheduled to play in Oshawa in a very important O.C.B.L. tilt, important because the Radios can move into first place with a victory, that is if the Peter can turn back the Ponies in the Hillock City at the same time. In all probability either Maggie Frisk or Moose Matthews will hurl for the "Brewers" with Lefty Wills in reserve. Coach Mills will doubtlessly trot out Art Calhoun with Jack Williams and Brad Wilkins in reserve. Incidentally the Radios released Big Ernie Smith and Moose Darrah to the intermediates this week taking up Mel Little and Bud Wilkins in their stead. We have been informed that Coach Teddy Saunders of the "beer barons" has thrown up the sponge while a new pilot will guide the Oshawa nine against the Radios this afternoon. Saunders has labored hard with the Oshawa aggregation for two seasons, but apparently has not had the co-operation necessary to produce a winning club. As the four O.C.B.L. teams swing into action today the league race will be a close one, the difference between the league leading Ponies and the tail-end Peter. "Too close for comfort."

Despite the fact the Peter boast of four .300 hitters on their club, Percy Clark, Whalley and Calhoun, they are in the cellar while the Radios, with only a hitter in the cevetted class, are situated safely well in the second berth. Speedy St. Catharines is the leading batsmen in the loop with an average of .374, although Percy Clark is the best local hitter carried by the Radios with a .300 mark. A .300 while Joshua Kerr is next with .286. Greg has had his fling at fitness at last. Art Calhoun, in six games is hitting .313 while the remainder of the Radios are far below the .300 mark. On the other side of the ledger the Ponies are showing a better class of defensive ball as the Stewart-Warners are leading the league in fielding with an average of .959 with Oshawa second .941, Kingston third .937 and the Peter away down. Ray Smith, Sonny Green, Alex Wyse and Jack Williams are playing the best defensive ball for the locals to date. Rumored that the Radios in the league pass Williams and Calhoun are not hitting the pace each having won four and lost two. Calhoun has won two and lost one.

Apparently the Radios and Red Pont racers enjoyed a most successful day's racing at Picton on the holiday, that is judging from the number of trophies brought home by the local yachtsmen. Displayed in Walker's hardware window yesterday were no less than seventeen and a number of other prizes won by the Bridge St. boatmen. The world's point race off Victoria Park will resume on Wednesday next, while on Tuesday night the Red Ont. A.C. home game for the Radios in quite some time will be the centre of sport attraction next Tuesday evening.

The Belleville Arena is receiving a fresh coat of paint both inside and out these days. Incidentally the new sign decorating the front of the arena fills a long vanited feature at the arena. The sign is 14 feet long and 6 feet high and clearly spells the word ARENA.

Besides Jimmie Andrews, Jack Morgan, Wally Hilton (all hit leaders) and Frank O'Neill, Tommy Hyatt also released Big Ernie Smith and Moose Darrah to the intermediates this week taking up Mel Little and Bud Wilkins in their stead. We have been informed that Coach Teddy Saunders of the "beer barons" has thrown up the sponge while a new pilot will guide the Oshawa nine against the Radios this afternoon. Greenburg Sets Out to Prove All-Star Selectors Erred

TIGERS CUT YANKS

Pirates Whitewash Cubs Beating Henshaw Into Cover

Hank Greenberg, who was left out of the reckoning when the squad was picked for the all-star ball game at Cleveland Monday, apparently is out to prove that the selectors made a big mistake. Incidentally he is proving a big help to Tigers in their drive to take the American League away from the Yankees.

Already far ahead in the home run race, Hanely Bank approached Babe Ruth's record yesterday when he belted out his 24th and 25th circuit swats of the year in the double contest with the Browns over St. Louis. That not only gave Hank eight circuit drives nearer rivals but put him right in line at a shot at the Ruthian crown.

At this stage in the 1935 season, when he set the record of 60 homers Babe Ruth had only 26 circuit drives to his credit and he didn't hit a particularly fast clip until september. In addition to his two homerun belts, each with a man on base, Greenberg smacked a pair of singles and converted them into runs, and drew an intentional pass in the fourth inning when Tigers scored five runs to make their eighth straight victory a virtual certainty. Aiding in the triumph were 11 other batsmen, Schoolboy Rowe pitching by Vic Sorrell, who has been in only seven games this season. Sorrell got only one run this day as Greenberg scored twice. The other was scored over the Browns last week when Greenberg hit another pair of homers.

The Tiger triumph reduced Yankees' lead to 1 1-2 games as the New Yorkers' game at Washington was rained out. The Cleveland-Chicago struggle for third place also was washed out, leaving the National League contests to complete the day's program. Philadelphia-Boston games in both circuits and the Red-Cardinals clash previously had been put over for later doubleheaders.

Pittsburg's third-place Pirates, home from a long road trip enjoyed a profitable day at the expense of cut when they whitewashed Cubs 4 to 0, belting their tiny mounds, Roy Henshaw in particular, for 11 league leading Giants took a 14 to 4 drubbing from Brooklyn, while the Bucs only a half game behind Cardinals and nine behind Giants.

Red Pirates, Lucas, held Lucas, found a hot day to his liking and scattered nine singles, including only while the Bucs made most of their sight blows off Henshaw count along with four walks and a wild pitch. Dodgers, who had been taking it on the chin at home, got even at the expense of the league leaders by pounding out 13 safeties to blown in the New York Park while Johnny Babich went the route for the first time since late April.

In the final of a 3 game series between Bob Wray, Bob Dewar vs. Harold Hamilton and Ait Hayworth, the Bob team came out on top by a one point margin. At one time Walters up on points but was unable to hold the lead. The game was a 25 point affair. So you know when the prizes will be presented but your scribe hopes to be there.

In a friendly game of darts between Fisher and Fisher and Watkin and Haldane the Fisher team won 26-18, this makes the games even. This game was played last week.

The teams and rules for the first ever players' cup have been posted in the club house and go into effect on Monday. The winner of these games will receive a pair of Townsend and Clarke bowles. This is a prize worth winning and the result will be watched with great interest. We would ask that no old players interfere or give advice to teams while games are in progress.

Bob Wray, the chairman of the greens informed me this morning that he is going to play on Saturday today, this always helps at this time of the year.

The first time games last night Bob Wray's, and Harry Stock's teams tied. This game will be played over off in the near future.

Don't forget that Monday night mixed Jitney at 7.30 sharp.

Two teams are going to Kingston on Wednesday next. We want one or two to go to Cobourg.

BRITISH PROGRESS

The progress of Britain in these recovery days is the most startling in its steadiness and in its extent. The Chancellor of the Exchequer yesterday spoke of the spirit of reasonable optimism with which the British people and government look out upon the future. For instance he showed that construction has advanced 81 per cent since 1930, and that the value of plans approved increased by twenty-five per cent in the last three months as compared with the same period in 1934.

He pointed out that railway traffic, bank clearings, and retail trade have all risen steadily. Exports are up eighty million dollars in the first five months of the year compared with last year and the imports of raw materials in May were up five million dollars from May of last year.

There are probably many causes underlying this progress towards recovery, but whatever they are, they have been of such a magnitude and of such convincing power that they have given the people confidence in these facts. If other nations were in this happy state, many conditions which are now rampant would not be in existence but would naturally cease.

No one nation can recover alone, neither can she make much progress without inspiring other nations and helping other nations with her power.

May the day soon come when there are a number of nations well advanced to improved general conditions. That this has begun was evidenced by the world's congress of Chambers of Commerce and Boards of Trade held in Paris, who affirmed in no uncertain voice their belief and conviction that the era of prosperity is already here.

NEED OF A CLOWN

Does a person who is widely read or who is not widely read, or really does anybody give adequate praise to the man who makes one laugh till the sides ache and split.

That means the clown for no one else can so be described.

Clowning is the health of life and If some of the serious folk could clown it with the clown, what a happier world it would be! Clowns point out the human weaknesses with a pitiless index finger —they catch your weakness by every move or twitch you make and they do it with so much good nature that most people enjoy it.

There used to be a time when monarchs had their clowns or 'fools'. If anyone would make a king go straight it would be the clown. He was a privileged individual who bared the heart of the king's weaknesses and the king would take the hits as they were made. If kings of old who tried to be dictators could stand to be told their shortcomings, modern rulers and presidents could do the same thing with good results. Those clowns played the part of the critic to a nicety and with much more force because they were human. If a king could allow to have his mistakes exposed, why could not some people allow the same clown to point out their weakness?

What an odd world the clown can create, though not as odd as all men and women though they are in their ordinary make-up of the world. If one laughs at clowns, one can laugh or at least smile at the oddities of social and business life, and it will be well for the individual and society to have a clown show up weaknesses. One often wonders how the clown thinks out so many oddities of character and yet that is but the art of creating types of character. There was a clown in the circus who looked something like a seal, the weakling who was losing his hands forever in his coat sleeves. Doesn't that portrayal draw to mind some persons? Then the good-natured clown who handled the drum and tried to steal the idle moment for loafing without the bandmaster detecting him, but like the human being he was always too soon or too late with the beat. Never see that before in life?

Really if the clowns did not have a human message, one would not pay any attention to them at all, but they appeal to one's laughter and sense of fun because they bring human lessons. He might well be called a fool who cannot take a lesson from a clown.

One has only to look back at the boom days before 1929 to see that while many persons were playing the fool, they had no clowns to show them their folly. And since the depression came everything has been discussed on a serious basis. Perhaps a little forgetting, a little clowning, and some fooling would have been better for everyone.

That day when the clown goes will mark the coming of a time when laughter is dead and buried, but may the clown ever stay!

Talent is the capacity of doing anything that depends on application and industry; it is a voluntary power, while genius is involuntary.—Hazlitt.

THE BOB-O-LINK

Down in the clover meadow,
Lush in the green of June,
Rolyat the Lincoln Bob-o-link,
List to his merry tune!
Nearer and clearer are swelling
The notes of his joyous strain,
As he swings on the swaying grasses,
Cheering our hearts again.

Oh! but his heart is happy,
List to his bubbling song—
A shower of liquid music,
Jubilant, clear and strong.
A welcome to thee, bold singer,
A comrade so bright and gay,
A part of the merry June time,
A sprite of the summer day!

Hope in thy song' is breathing
For the far days to be,
Joy in thy song is welling
And a glad ecstasy!
Oh! deep in the heart may we cherish
The thrills that thy glad notes bring,
With ever the heart and spirit
A part of thy song and spring.

MURDER WILL OUT—Jumbo, P. T. Barnum's biggest elephant on earth, killed by the train, and lost. St. Thomas many years ago, died because a lazy calf boy failed to get a message to the circus boss in time. The calfboy in question, now a grown man, has confessed to London for the Jumbo commemoration and stated that he was sent with a message to the circus boss to refrain from loading—until advised by telegram. The telegram was delayed, unaware of the importance of his message, and the loading commenced with the result that Jumbo fought it out with a moving freight train and lost. It is said that Jumbo sacrificed his life to save a baby elephant which was in the path of the moving freight train. Some doubt has been thrown on this story as press agent's phantasy, but why not give poor old Jumbo the benefit of the doubt. He always was a good scout, the darling of thousands of kiddies in London, England, who mourned his departure when the Mighty Barnum put one over the Londoners. With Jumbo's great love for children it just couldn't see the baby elephant mown down by the snorting steaming monster, rushed to the rescue of the baby pachyderm, tenderly lifted it over the track, and took the impact of the mighty steel monster himself with fatal results.

"LAWRENCE OF ARABIA" claimed that the Allies did not play fair with the Arabs and robbed them of the fruits of their victories. This imbittered the mystery man of the desert and was the primary cause of his refusal of all governmental rewards, decorations, etc., for his services to the Empire. Lawrence regarded promises as sacred from governments as well as individuals.

RICHARD HALIBURTON, that rambling reporter, who once swam the Panama Canal and even played tag with the alligators therein without serious consequences, is now no doubt in Abyssinia, whither he was headed at the date of his last cheerful despatch. His route he touched Arabia and states that all Arabia mourns the passing of "Lawrence of Arabia", their English friend who helped them drive the Turks out of their country. Haliburton says that Lawrence's popular title, "The Uncrowned King of Arabia", fitted him perfectly. Richard hopes to connect with some interesting adventures when Mussolini's men and King Selassie's come to grips on the burning sands of Ethiopia.

by

T. E. LAWRENCE

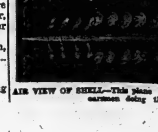
Nasir rolled over on his back, with my glasses, and began to count the stars, counting aloud first one group and then another, crying out with surprise at discovering little lights no noticed by his unaided eye. Auda set up on to take a few sleeps—of the great ones—and of how man in three hundred years had so far advanced from his first essay that now he built giants as long as a tent, through which he conducted thousands of unknown stars. "And the stars—what are they?" We slipped into talk of suns beyond suns, sizes and distance beyond wit. "What will now happen with all knowledge?" asked Mohammed. "We shall set to, and more learned and some clever men together will make glasses as more powerful than ours, as our than Galileo's; and yet more hundreds of astronomers will distinguish and reckon yet more thousands of now unseen stars, mapping them, and giving each one its name. When we see them all, there will be no night in heaven."

"Why are the wise-men always wanting all?" provokingly said Auda. "Behind our few stars we can see God" who is not behind your millions." "We want the secret of God." "But God is God's" complained Zaal, half angry. Mohammed would not have it. Auda turned. "Are there men on these greater worlds?" he asked. God knows." "And has each the Prophet and heaven and hell?" Auda broke in on him. "Lads, there are our districts, our camels, our women. The excuse and the glory are to God. If the end or wisdom is to add star to star our foolishness is pleasing." And then he counted money, and distracted their minds till they all hummed at once. Afterwards he whispered to me that I must get him a wonderful girl from Damascus when he won Arabia.

We marched at dawn, and presently Auda told me he was riding ahead to Bair, and would I come? We went fast, and in two hours came upon the place suddenly, under a knoll. Auda had hurried on to visit the tomb of his son Abtan, who had been waylaid by five of his Motalga, outside the village of Abtan, their champion, slain by Abtan in single combat. Auda told me how Amdad had ridden at them, one against five, and had died as he wished, but it left only Auda disarmed between him and child-murderers. He had brought no sleep to hear him greatly lament his dead.

However, as we rode down towards the grave, we were suddenly abed to see smoke wreathing from the ground about the wells. We changed direction sharply, and warily approached the ruins. It seemed there was no one there; but the thick dungeaks round the well-brink was charred, and the well itself shattered at the top. The ground was torn and blasted as if by an explosion; and when we looked down the shaft we saw its sterring stripped and split, and many blocks thrown down the bore half choking it and the water in the bottom. I sniffed the air and thought the smell was dynamite.

Auda ran to the next well, in the bed of the valley below the graves; and that, too, was ragged about the head and choked with fallen stones. "Trik," said he. "Jazi work." We walked across the valley to the third —the Beni Sakhr—well. It was only a hundred yards. Zaal arrived, panting.



Auda took a leap and, with his unsteady gave strong colour to Auda's theory. We were disconcerted to find the Turks so ready, and began to fear that perhaps they had also opened the least damaged of the other wells. Then in the ruins, about twelve up the turf smouldered. Auda and I went off with Nasir to the fourth well.

An Agrejl brought us an empty petrol tin—a gelignite, evidently the explosive which the Turks had used. From scars in the ground it was plain that seven charges had been fired simultaneously round the well-head and in the shaft. Having down it till our eyes were adjusted to its dark, we suddenly saw many holes cut in the shaft, about twenty feet below. Some were still lamped and had fires hanging down.

Evidently there was a second series of charges, either inefficiently wired, or with a very long time-fuse, which cut in sharply on the buckets' ropes, twined them together, and hung them firmly down the middle of the well from a stout cross-pole, the sides being so tottery that the scraps of a rope that have not lodged their blocks. I then found that the agejl would never be above three pounds each, and had been wired in series with field telephone cable. But something had gone wrong. Either the Turks had scamped their job or their battery had been no coming before they had had time to re-connect.

So we soon had two fit wells, and a clear profit of thirty pounds of water cut in Auda's estimation to stay a week in this fortunate Bair. A third well—to discover the condition of the Jafar well—was now added to our needs for food, and Auda put it into the mind of the tribes between Maan and Akaba, that a man to Jefer. We prepared a little caravan of pack-camels with Howeital brands and sent them across the line to Tafileh with three or four obscure clansmen —people small and never be suspected of association with us. They would buy all the flour they could and bring it back to us in five or six days' time.

The news which was received in this city stating that Col. A. T. H. Williams, M.P., of Port Hope, the popular and heroic commander of the Midland Battalion, had died suddenly on his way home, cast a gloom over the city and flags were hoisted at half staff in token of respect to the memory of the gallant leader of our men in their heroic charge at Batoche, and the kind and considerate commander of the battalion, in which the Belleville and Hastings companies occupy the posts of honor. He died on the 4th inst. on the train near North West, enroute from Fort Pitt to Battleford. Brain fever was the cause of death. He was 46 years of age. His comrades in the North West has been that of a brave and cool leader of men fit for any soldierly enterprise. What adds to the sadness of the event in that Col. Williams was to have been married in the near future.

A despatch from Prince Albert stated that Chief Big Bear was captured on the 6th inst., and taken to Prince Albert. His twelve-year-old son was with him. The capture was made by Sergeant Smart of the Mounted Police near Fort Carleton.

Courage in Advertising

The only shackles retailers wear today are the ones they have fastened on themselves—shackles of fear, of inertia, and of mental laziness, especially in the field of advertising, according to Kenneth Collins, advertising executive and assistant to the president of Gimbel Brothers, in the current Rotarian Magazine.

"I can name only one daring move in the whole field of retail advertising that was the single interesting, exciting experiment," he says in an analysis of what's wrong with retailing. "Advertising, the normal motive power in business, has become all clogged up with dead wood and fears. It's pretty nearly ready for Dr. Freud and—his psycho-analytic brethren. I can name only two or three really outstanding sales-producing campaigns in national advertising. A few years back almost anybody could name hundreds.

"Did these exciting, interesting, daring efforts pay? Of course they did. So has practically every effort with any sparkle in it, no matter how small, that I have seen. For now, especially when the competition of exciting advertising is so negative, a live advertising campaign with anything 'on the ball' stands a huge chance for success. And what I said about the advertising campaign with sparkle, I say of any business plan with punch, with courage. It will have less competition today than in many years. This is the time for the business man with vision, with ideas, to make a clean-up.

"Pretty nearly every manufacturer and retailer with whom I have talked of late," he continues, "had as his 'alibi' for all business lethargy the government." He overlooks the fact that practically every index for retail business has shown an upward trend for two years. Instead of accepting the challenge of the new conditions they must meet, they did not our fathers—we retailers of the '30's have taken them as an excuse for a do-nothing attitude and a conservative approach of complete inertia. Too many of us have been waiting, like Micawber, for something to turn up.

"We are playing the game so defensively that we are doing almost nothing to help in the great work of business recovery. We are afraid to speak out a good ringing 'Yes, let's try it!' to anything different or novel or unusual or experimental. The only thing that is hindering us is lack of courage."

MISS ANNIE MOORE DIES AT TORONTO

Rad Summer—After an illness of some weeks duration Miss Annie Moore passed away on Saturday noon June 29th 1935, aged seventy-three years in the Toronto Hospital, Toronto.

The deceased, the fourth child of Mr. and Mrs. James Moore of Thurlow Township near Frankford came to Campbellford some thirty years ago with her parents and for a time she gave the parochial school at the St. Andrew's Church. She was a teacher of the Primary Class in St. Andrew's S. S. and greatly esteemed by all who were fortunate to know her. The last few years she had made her home with her eldest sister and her two daughters in Toronto. She leaves to mourn her loss a sister Miss Gladys Moore of Frankford and a brother, Rev. John Moore, a former minister of St. Andrew's Church, Bumbrae now of Strathroy. The funeral took place from the family apartment to special service in Campbellford, her pastor Rev. Murray C. Richardson Mills officiating at the grave. There were also Rev. Dr. C. A. Brown (a former pastor of deceased) Chalmers United Church, Kingston; Rev. R. Simpson Black of St. Andrew's Church, Campbellford and Rev. R. B. Neal of the United Campbellford United Church. The pall bearers were: Dr. W. J. Leavens, Messrs. W. H. Ashton, F. C. Denyes, W. W. Armstrong, Jack Smith and G. A. Mackenzie.

Accompanying the body were her brother Rev. John Moore, her two nieces Misses Linda and Mary Nicol and Mrs. Neil H. Thompson (Rev. Barclay and wife from Toronto). Other relatives were present from Belleville and Trenton.

The deceased was a cousin of Mr. and Mrs. Moore, Miss Bessie Moore and Mr. Williams Moore of Belleville.

Obituary

Mrs. Neil H. Thompson of Campbellford succumbed very suddenly on Saturday noon morning to a stroke which she took after doing her Saturday baking and never regained consciousness and died in an hour or so.

Before her marriage to Mr. Thompson she had taught for a number of years in the Campbellford Public school and had always been an indefatigable worker in the church of her choice, St. John's United Church. She leaves her deeply grieved husband, one brother G. B. Williams of Campbellford and a host of friends.

The funeral took place from her late home, Rev. H. R. Neal of St. John's church, officiating at the home and at the grave, assisted by Rev. C. A. Brown of Kingston and Rev. R. Simpson Black of St. Andrew's, Campbellford. The pall bearers were Messrs. Dr. O'Hara, C. H. Davidson, E. A. Maguire, Hilliard Jones, C. W. Jones and Mr. Ellis of Kingston.

The floral tributes were silent witnesses of the esteem in which the deceased was held.

Personals

Mr. Charles Benor of Campbellford suffered a slight stroke on Monday morning. He has been in failing health for some time.

Weddings

OSBORNE—FLEMING

Bridge Street United Church was the scene of a pretty wedding on Saturday afternoon at two o'clock, when Miss Nyleen Fleming, daughter of Mrs. N. Nyleen and the late Mr. Fleming, became the bride of Donald Foster Osborne of Belleville. Dr. James Snyder officiating.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Percy Fleming, of Toronto, looked charming in a white ruffled silk net gown with matching cap, lace mitts, and carried a bouquet of roses and lily-of-the-valley.

The bridesmaid, Miss Jean Hayden, of Woodstock, was very becoming in a mauve net gown, trimmed on the same lines as that of the bride, and wore a mauve leghorn picture hat with mauve mitts and slippers, and carried a shower bouquet of Talisman Roses and baby's breath.

Mr. G. R. Simmers of Toronto acted as groomsman.

ICED TEA MAKES COOLING DRINK

When you feel hot and parched during the summer's heat, try Iced Tea. There is no better thirst quencher. Its cool, delicious flavour will quickly restore you and ease your energy. It is simple and economical to make if you follow this recipe:

ICED TEA—For iced tea, allow two teaspoonfuls to each person. Infuse for five minutes as instructed for hot tea. Place ice cubes in a glass. Pour infused hot tea over them and add lemon and sugar to taste. A delicious variety can be had by adding a few mint leaves instead of lemon.

Library Corner

Two books which shed new light on Great War activities have been published within the last year. The story of the British navy from 1910 to 1915 has been told in "The Naval Memoirs of Admiral of the Fleet, Sir Roger Keyes" while Captain Henry Landau, chief intelligence officer in Holland for the British War Office tells of the work of the British Secret Service behind the lines in his book, "All's Fair."

Sir Roger Keyes, British Admiral of the Fleet (since 1925) was a captain and commodore in charge of the submarines service and chief of the staff of the Eastern Mediterranean squadron during the Dardanelles campaign. In his book he vividly describes the part the destroyers and submarines under his command played during the many excursions into Heligoland Bight. In 1918 he became chief of the staff to the Adgiral commanding the Allied Fleets at the end of the book "These memoirs will be found to be of the greatest value and authoritative testimony upon the momentous events of the war with which they deal."

"All's Fair" is not a highly coloured story of the conventional type rather the story of the entire service. It tells of many of the espionage coups of the War; of the secret organization known as the "White Lady of the Hohenzollerns" of Edith Cavell's activities; of how information was sent out of Germany and despite the high voltage fence and sentries under the noses of the Germans approached the border. Born in South Africa of Boer and English parentage, educated in Germany and France and later at Cambridge, Captain Landau was peculiarly fitted through his knowledge of languages and countries for the espionage work in which he chiefly entrusted with the task of obtaining data on the movements of trains and under his command a train watching service with agents in every important strategic line in Belgium and Northeastern France. Captain Landau's story of his book tell of the secret service in peace-time.

These books on guns as weapons of defense we turn to the use of guns in sport. Captain Percy W. Cornish, Arms and Ammunition Expert, has written a book entitled written in "Guns and Gunning" a book of interest to sportsmen interested in wild fowl and big game shot. The book opens with a brief history of gunpowder and guns, then follows a description of the various types of rifles and shotguns for all uses with detailed instructions for their use. Interwoven are many experiences of Captain Curtis in the field at home and abroad. There are fine photographs illustrate the text.

"Arctic Trader" by Philip H. Godsell, F.R.G.S., is the story of his twenty years of service in the Hudson's Bay Company, starting as an apprentice at seventeen, he has many exciting adventures at various posts and became inspector in charge of large territories. Many of his most important districts was that of the lower Mackenzie River, where he spent seven years on islands in the Arctic Ocean. "The North Land" is written with much beauty and romance," the author maintains, though this is quickly passing and I have tried to depict the real North as I knew it; the North of the Fur Trader, the Mounted Policeman and the Indian."

The sermons of Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick, preached in Riverside Church, New York City, and heard by cast over the radio, are collected in his book "The Secret of Victorious Life." It is his custom to discuss problems and situations of contemporary concern. His topics are always of timely interest as "An Interpretation of Christianity," "The Real Meaning of Power" "A Plea for Goodwill" and "The Cure of Discouragement."—E. C.

BIRD TRAGEDY

In an apricot tree at the home of Mrs. Mary Lica, in Glendale, Calif., is a little home that will never be finished. One day she left her workbasket outdoors, saw a sparrow swoop down, pluck a thread from the basket, and dart back into the tree. Two days later the little feathered home-builder was found, the thread tangled about his neck hanging dead from a leafy branch beside the unfinished nest.

Miss Cook engaged for the coming term. Two classes jr. and Sr. Third who are leaving Mrs. Sine's room made her a purse containing a very useful washable white purse and handkerchief after which Lois Spencer read the following address:

We, your pupils could not let this occasion pass without showing you some way our appreciation of your services to us.

During the two years you have been with us, we have grown to admire your ability, your skill and untiring efforts as a teacher. You have always by your cheerful manner and willing spirit assisted us in every way to further our success in our school work. As a slight token of our esteem we ask you to accept a gift not for its value but because of the loving thoughts that accompany it.

British M. P. Challenged To 'Honorable' Duel

London, July 6.—Because he criticised the war-like attitude of Premier Mussolini while speaking on the Ethiopian question in the House of Commons, Clement Richard Attlee, Deputy Leader of the Labor Opposition, has been challenged to a duel.

The challenger is G. A. Fanelli, editor of Il Secolo Fascista, who further describes himself as a Captain on leave from the Italian Army.

The irate editor insists he was personally offended by Attlee's expressions against the Fascist regime, and that the latter withdraw demands "honorable satisfaction" in a duel.

"I hope," stated Fanelli's letter of challenge, "that your belonging to the English Army will counsel you to agree to this request."

That hope was dashed, however, in Attlee's reply.

"The suppression of free institutions in your own country," he wrote the Fascist editor, "makes execrable your ignorance of the fact that the Speaker of the House of Commons may judge what is admissible in Parliamentary debate.

"The fact of your proving superior in armed combat is quite irrelevant to the issue of the propriety of your Government's action in Ethiopia."

"Reckless"

Jean Harlow, William Powell and Franchot Tone in Film Treat

The musical treat of 1935 has come to the screen in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer musical extravaganza, "Reckless", at the Belle today and Monday.

Of first importance, the picture introduces Jean Harlow and William Powell as co-stars for the first time. The glamorous platinum star is seen as Mona Leslie, a dazzling Broadway dancer who rises to great social and professional height, only to be plunged into the depths of scandal and disgrace by the mad love of a millionaire playboy husband.

Powell is seen as Ned Riley, the jovial sports promoter who walks side by side with Mona through her triumphs and tragedies and finally emerges as "best man".

Tone as Millionaire

Franchot Tone ably handles the role of Bob Harrison, the millionaire husband, and others featured in honorable mention are May Robson, as Granny; Rosalind Russell, as Jo Mercer; Henry Stephenson, as the elder Harrison; Ted Healey and Nat Pendleton as Powell's companions and little Mickey Rooney.

Director Victor Fleming has crowned everything that goes toward making a bang-up entertaining picture in "Reckless." These include four snappy song hits presented in colorful surroundings and bodies of beautiful girls, dazzling settings and with several sensational names participating in them.

As the musical numbers unfold, we see such ace entertainers as Carl Randall, sensational dancing star who appears as Miss Harlow's dancing partner; Allan Jones, the recent singing star in "Bitter Sweet"; Nina Mae McKinney noted colored blues singer who we understand, raced from London to Hollywood to sing in the "Reckless" theme number; and even bearded Man Mountain Dean, the giant hillbilly wrestler.

The settings of the story include Broadway stage life, Vanderbilt country's social elite, race tracks, carnivals, millionaires' penthouses, palatial yachts, etc.

AT THE CAPITOL
"Hooray For Love"

A Lavish Musical Drama with a Gala Mystery Drama Coming Monday

to This Theatre

Singing the season's catchiest tunes, stepping the latest dances, tells the screen's most popular musical, "Hooray For Love" that is coupled with a mystery drama, "Among The Missing", for the Capitol Theatre's offering for the next week.

With the last showing today of that tropical heat-wave, "In Caliente" that stars Dolores Del Rio and slows Edward Everett Horton and Pat Charlton, a little of everything, including night clubs and radio, before Gene Finlay manages to present Ann in his first revue.

Backstage in a New York broadcasting station, the audience gets a peek on "how it's done" as Ann Sothern and Gene Raymond play the leads. A charming story of two ambitious youngsters out to win the loughest game in the world—the radio. Pat Charlton, little of everything, including night clubs and radio, before Gene finally manages to present Ann in his first revue.

"Reckless" is a musical picture well worth seeing.

"Along Flirtation Walk" a delightful offering in full beautiful and third dimension Technicolor, and the Latest World News will be exhibited on the same program.

George Raft and Rosalind Keith in the new Dashiell Hammett's mystery drama "The Glass Key" and Robert Young and Evelyn Venable in "Vagabond Lady". Coms to the Belle Tuesday.

In all "Hooray For Love" should prove one of the outstanding successes of the season.

For those who thrill and delight in mystery drama, the management presents, "Among the Missing" on the same program. This issue drama reveals the youthful, Richard Cromwell in a forceful and splendidly acted role. He is ably supported by the veteran Henrietta Crosman, remarable actress of the speaking stage, also Arthur Hohl, deep dyed villain of many dramas.

The story concerns the regeneration of a young lad who is headed for a life of crime until rescued by the elderly Crosman. Comedy, pathos, drama and exciting action highlight this breath-taking thriller.

The engagement of these two features is for three days, starting on Monday. On that day the Capitol will present to each lady patron a piece of the popular Du Barry china ware.

EARLY ELECTION BENNETT SAYS AT PROROGATION

They would refuse to sign an affidavit, because they were not qualified legal documents. In the end the will of the people prevailed.

Parliament this session had made an important advance in the field of social legislation, premier declared. The measures were of importance because of their bearing on economic conditions throughout the country and because they represent Canada's determination to provide for better and better conditions of labor for men, women and children in keeping with the National obligations under the Treaties of peace and the conventions adopted by the general conference of the International Labor organization."

Thanks of the Governor General for the joint address which the House of Commons and Senate passed in appreciation of his services to Canada, were voiced by His Excellency here today.

The Governor-General's Thanks Speaking in the Senate Chamber at the conclusion of ceremonies proroguing Parliament, His Excellency voiced "deep regret that my term of office as the King's representative in this country should be drawing to a close. When one has made his home in any country for nearly five years, it is no easy matter to leave it, more particularly after experiencing such constant proofs of friendship and goodwill as I have met with on all sides.

"Believing as I do that one of the chief functions of a Governor-General is to maintain personal contact between the King and his subjects, I have endeavoured throughout my tenure of office to travel widely over this great country. In doing so, I have been able to visit repeatedly not only all the great cities that lie between the Atlantic and the Pacific coasts, but also to reach many of the remoter country districts. As a result, I have, at one time and another, met personally a great number of your fellow citizens, old and young, and through them, more than by any other means, I have been able to gain some insight into the many problems with which this parliament is constantly engaged.

$100,000 persons buy newspapers every day in Canada. At least twice that number read them. Consumers who can be reached by other forms of advertising are already—in most instances—daily newspaper readers. This means that your message in a Canadian newspaper is carried intensively to the Canadian consumer is addressed to the consumer at the time when she is shopping, and is delivered to the consumer when she is most receptive to buying suggestions from them.

Virtually all who can read read a daily newspaper and among these are your actual and potential customers. The dealer too is a newspaper reader and very frequently a daily newspaper advertiser.

If you have a product or a service that the Canadian people can use, the daily newspapers place in your hands the power to reach those potential customers. Because of their geographical flexibility the newspapers are able to use both as a primary and as a reminder medium, and to adapt the size of their advertisements, the style of their copy and frequency of insertion to fit every purpose.

Imperial Oil Entertains 120

On Thursday evening, July 4th, Imperial Oil Limited were hosts at the Quinte Golf and Country Club to the Belleville dealers, who were gathered from a territory as far north as Marmora, and including Prince Edward County, Trenton, Madoc, Campbellford, Brighton and Colborne to witness a showing of a talking moving picture entitled "At the Imperial Desk of Sheil," a film especially prepared in the interest of all Imperial oil dealers.

At this meeting were present in addition to the representatives of the Imperial Oil at the various points mentioned above, Mr. A. G. Dennett, Branch Manager for the Toronto Division; Mr. D. H. Piper, Assistant Sales Manager, and Mr. R. W. Ruggles, who is in charge of Atlas Tires, Batteries and Accessories for the same division of the Imperial Oil Limited.

Mr. Dennett welcomed the many guests to this splendid meeting on behalf of the Imperial Oil Limited, and following the showing of the talking pictures gave a very educational and instructive talk on the Company's Products and policies.

Following the dinner served at the meeting refreshments were served by Howard and Stevenson of the club.

Board Room Gossip

As supplied to Bigger and Crawford by Financial Service.

A report from R. J. Farquharson, Dominion Mineral engineer at Gilmour Gold, states that dewatering of No. 1 shaft is well under way on the property. Mr. Farquharson reports that, in the eastern Ontario, and that operations underground are being speeded up. Dewatering will continue to the second level.

At depth of 20 feet the No. 1 vein was located in the shaft, continuing to 85 feet, in which depth the shaft was dewatered at the time of the engineer's report. Mr. Farquharson states that the vein, which has a minimum width of 2 feet, has indications of persisting to unknown depths, and confirms the report of H. J. Johnson, who examined the property in 1916.

Incorporation of a 3,000,000 share company will take place this month, 3,000,000 shares of which will be issued for all properties units in a very near future under a short pooling arrangement, leaving 1,000,000 shares in the treasury, of which the offering of not more than 300,000 shares will be made, it is officially announced.

The listlessness prevalent on the stock exchanges might easily be ascribed to the current heat wave. We are just at the time of year when the great majority of investment traders leave the city for their yearly vacations. That this was not always realized in such markets as this mentioned is proved by the bobbing markets on blistering days which we had on many occasions since the 1929 crash, some of the 10 and about six years ago. A more powerful influence, probably, is the forthcoming election. There are few people that can produce inertia in the business world better than can an election in the offing.

"Public Gives Canned Beer Favorable Reception" states Standard Facts and Forecasts, who say: The public has responded to bottled beers for beer appear rapidly to be emerging from the experimental stage. Trial shipments of bottled beer by one of the big New York brewers are said to have met with an enthusiastic public reception. Orders for 12 additional carloads were placed by one distributor before the initial carload had been sold. Notable among the advantages claimed for the tin can as compared with glass bottle is a 50 per cent reduction in shipping weight, a 63 per cent saving in space, no freight cost for returning empty cans and none of the handling, washing and sterilization expense involved in preparing empty bottles for use. The lacquer which has been developed for coating the inside of beer cans is said not only to prevent the formation of objectionable acids, but also to impart a draught-beer taste to the canned product.

Because of its intimate relationship to basic economic activity in Canada the company's earnings have followed closely the course of general business in Canada, although its strong financial position and capable management combined to moderate the effects of depression a few years ago. During the period of depression the company did not fail to show an operating profit in any year. Net manufacturing profits declined from $3,651,242 in 1929 to $74,592 in 1932 but rose to $1,844,271 in 1934. These earnings were substantially increased in each year by additional net income from securities profits.

Notwithstanding the period of adverse business conditions from 1929 to 1932, the company provided liberal depreciation charges, and working capital amounted to $13,630,268 in 1934 as compared with $13,462,818 in 1929. During the same period the operation of the sinking fund reduced funded debt from $5,058,284 in 1929 to $3,572,313 in 1934. (A. E. Ames and Co.)

BANK MANAGER INJURED

Kingston, July 5 (CP)—S. S. Holmes, manager of the Royal Bank at Bloom, was seriously injured while umpiring a game of baseball there. He was not wearing a mask and was struck on the nose by the ball. It was feared he would bleed to death. He was rushed to the Kingston General Hospital and it was found that he had sustained a fractured jaw. Physicians under-went a blood transfusion and his condition is reported to be fair-able.

Scout Camping Time is here again, and when the local Troops are in camp it will be well worth your time to visit these camps and see what the Belleville Scouts are doing.

The Report of Camping—1934

During the 1934 camping season 454 registered Scouts were camped, held, 101 unregistered and 1,000 short term campers. The total number of boys camping was 12,110, being 310 more than the previous year. This splendid increase was due largely to the ingenuity and enthusiasm of the leaders, who, in spite of financial difficulties and lack of equipment, managed in various ways to get their boys under canvas.

From replies to our annual Camp Questionnaire we find that 61.3 per cent of the Troop Committees helped with the camping problems by providing camp fees for needy boys; providing transportation; in one or many instances having plans for permanent buildings; paying frequent visits to the camps in some instances we were glad to note that when the Scoutmaster was not go to camp, the Chairman of the Group Committee went in his place.

It is also interesting to read of the efforts of the Scouts to improve the camping sites by the erection of cooking season. We find them up-rooting stumps, clearing out brier patches, building temporary bridges, laying plans for planting trees, repairing fences, destroying poison ivy, erecting bird houses, repairing wharves, cleaning out swimming holes, locating pure springs of water and constructing sanitary toilets. Under one camp an open-air chapel for the Sunday services.

The Camp Questionnaire showed that 92.4 per cent. of the Groups either owned their own equipment or with the help of their committees, were able to borrow it without difficulty. Only a few make-shifts deserve comment. The Cubs

Appella, Sask. Troop, unable to procure tents, secured the loan of a garage, a troop in Alix, Alta., unable to afford ground sheets, made use of the 1st Grimsby Troop, Man., bought equipment by money earned by re-binding books. The 22nd Windsor, Ont., owned no equipment, but had money so they joined with the 4th Windsor which had equipment but no money, and both went to camp. Stratford Rover Scouts noting that no tents were available, pitched in and made them. The 4th Moose Jaw, Sask., unable to get tents, camped in bivouac shelters.

3 PARTIES READY FOR ELECTIONS

Many Federal Candidates in Field in This Province

Toronto, July 6.—(CP) — With Parliament prorogued, political organizers in Ontario today began preparations for the forthcoming Dominion elections.

Unlike the practice in Provincial elections throughout Canada, Ontario Liberal have planned headlines in the Dominion campaign. Although the election date has not been decided upon, Ontario Liberals have nominated a number of candidates for the next future they plan to complete their lists of candidates for Ontario's seats in the House of Commons.

Conservatives have also placed candidates in the field to date with several nominations completed in the leaders, when, in spite of financial difficulties and lack of equipment, managed in various ways to get their boys under canvas.

100,000 WORDS DAILY WIRED OUT

Ottawa, July 6 (CP)—Almost 100,000 words were crushed in a hook length novel, go out of Ottawa each day of the parliamentary session by telegraph and automatic printer to the newspapers of Canada, United States and Great Britain. Ottawa includes coverage of debates in the Senate and House of Commons, Committee proceedings and political gossip, sent out by 18 regular public press correspondents of the parliamentary press gallery.

The session ended yesterday lasted 137 days, not including the long prorogation recess, and an approximate estimate places the total news wordage sent out from Ottawa at 13,000,000 words, of which about 1,000,000 was handled by the automated printers of the Canadian Press serving the daily papers in Canada, the associated Press in the United States and Reuters News Agency in England.

WILL RESTORATION BRING RETURN OF AUSTRIA'S PRE-WAR GLORY?

According to reports from Austria that nation, under dictatorship of Prince Ernst von Starhemberg, is about to call Archduke Otto of Hapsburg to the throne. This may be premature, in the eyes of foreign observers, that Austria will seek a return to its pre-war glory. Pre-war Austria had an area of 261,000 square miles and a population of approximately 51,000,000; to-day its area is 32,369 square miles and the population has dwindled to 6,000,000. Will Austria decide in favor of a return to empire, or remain as a buffer state between Italy's Nazi uprising which would swallow Mussolini's troops?

Little Entente by restoring the monarchy? Among the present leaders are Prince Ernst von Starhemberg, leader of the strength of the Heimwehr, combined young and energetic; Chancellor Kurt von Schuschnigg, successor to the slain Engelbert Dollfuss, recognized as able and industrious; President Wilhelm Miklas, who, although he has little real power, has been loved by the people of Austria for many years, Archduke Otto and his mother, Princess Zita who have fought for years for a restoration.

CHAPTER TWENTY-TWO

"Judith!" a voice called—and a few seconds later Judith was in the arms of Randall Spencer, while the moon seemed to beam approval.

Judith for brief, blissful moments forgot all her troubles, worries, and dangers in the ecstasy of lovers' re-union. Randall brought her back to a sudden realisation of reality by the exclamation:

"My God, Judith, you weren't in that car shak's burning down there below were you?

Judith nodded.

Jumped just in time," she said. She could feel a tremor pass through him as he held her in close embrace again.

"You must be badly shaken up. The hut is only a little way from here. Come and rest, and then I'll take you home."

"What time is it?" Judith asked suddenly.

"Ah, I had wished," he said, "I have some liniment that may help it."

He got the bottle from a nearby shelf, and Mr. Spencerwailly though he were taking care of a child, pulled off her stocking and bathed the swollen ankle with liniment.

"Smart?" he asked finally.

"U-hum," she confessed.

"All right, that's enough, then. Now just let me wash this intolerable stuff off my hands."

By the time he had done that she saw was already feeling better, or at least so Judith said. She was pulling her stocking on as he came back from the spring, and the plunger pump where he had washed his hands.

"How about a cup of coffee?" he asked. "I'll brace you up after your harrowing adventure. You must have a fire in a jiffy."

"I'm afraid I can't," Judith murmured, suddenly remembering that she was going to Wellman's that evening. "I'd love coffee as much as a millionaire loves champagne before being wailed on. You see I have to be the newspaper, even in my sylvan seclusion."

"Are you sure?" I accepted the legacy?" Judith asked with concern.

"No; I think it was a very sensible thing to do," Spencer replied. "As a matter of fact I'm glad you did. I'll get up and make the coffee."

"You'll do nothing of the kind," said Spencer. "You're my guest, and an invalid besides, and the best suggestion that you make the coffee is an insult to my prowess as a cook." He laughed. "Besides, you must have turned down a dozen and I jumped from the car. You mustn't, Judith; I'm not so heavy!"

But Randall Spencer had reckoned his arms and his strength. Were a child, and aft- her first mild protest Judith snuggled down with a sigh of contentment, and allowed him to carry her as long as he remained within sight.

"How you must a me go," she said, "I am sure I'm for you to carry my any further. I'm not heavy though," she licked and squirmed playfully, "and I do not bet gently myself."

"You're no weight at all," he protested. "But here's where we have to put our way carefully down the mountainside, and if I stumble with you in my arms, we might both go down to the bottom, breaking our necks. Take hold of my hand, and do as I do."

Randall Spencer went ahead on the narrow path winding down the steep hillside through undergrowth and scrub trees, stumbling slowly and feeling Judith's hand tighten when they emerged at a lower level, from which they could see the cottage below them the smoking twisted ruins of the Maidstone Club, Judith shuddered.

"Were you on the job you must tell me all about it," Spencer. "Just a little further down the hill and we'll be on the level road that you see. I drove through a few miles of it—remember—and then it's only a few steps to my palatial summer home in the bushes."

Presently Judith found herself in his arms again, and when she opened her eyes she was in the cool, dim interior of a log cabin. It was a delightful place, and Judith thought she could be very happy there for her life. The thought startled her, and she struggled to her feet.

"Randall, I must tell you—"

"Not a bit of it," he said. "I'm going to get you a drink of water, and then you're going to lie down and rest. Then I'll have some liniment that may help you—I understand it was dated and that you had a bad time. Somebody must have visited the old gentleman after I had left—and killed him. Whoever it was wrote my initial in the room where he died. I doubt he had been having pleasant dreams. Now, Judith, you're not to move from that chair until I get back with the water."

When I left soon after that he had started to do some writing. That may have been the letter he will they found leaving his fortune to you—I understand it was dated and signed by Cecil Wellman. Somebody must have visited the old gentleman after I had left—and killed him. Whoever it was wrote my initial in the room where he died. I doubt he had been having pleasant dreams. Now, Mr. Holmes and I in agreement and thought the circumstances offered a splendid opportunity to put a little fear into the hearts of the guilty ones. That's all I know about it. Mr. Holmes can tell you the rest."

"I wonder, dear," said Judith thoughtfully, "if you went to Captain Monkton and told him all I have told you, he might believe it. If he wouldn't absolve you from responsibility in the matter, he might be contributed a musical selection, Miss Ruth and Miss Harmonica. The next number was a reading by Mrs. Elliott of Bethel sang two vocal solos, "The Lord's Prayer," "Make a Wife" and "The Man in the Moon," with Miss Holmes as accompanist.

Mrs. John Argyle and Miss Lucille Dracup of Wellman's rendered a piano duet. Miss Faye Andrews of Mount Pleasant favored with a solo with guitar accompaniment "Come Back Paddy Reilly to Ballyjamesduff" then contributed a musical selection, Miss Ruth and harmonica. The next number was a reading by Mrs. Elliott of Bethel sang two vocal solos, "The Lord's Prayer," "Make a Wife" and "The Man in the Moon," with Miss Holmes as accompanist.

Mrs. Harold Elliott of Bethel with Miss M. Elliott as accompanist rendered a duet, "Sweet and Low," "Sweet Song."

Mrs. Roy Rowland of Stirling in his address expressed deep appreciation of the kind invitation to be present and he said he with his colleagues had learned during the years to appreciate the kind hospitality extended to join with him in singing "Pack Up Your Troubles in Your Old Kit Bag and Smile, Smile, Smile." Mrs. Elliott pictured to the audience how easy it was to be happy though poor and spoke of the bond of fellowship between her and Rev. Joblin and of their pastorate and urged the people all to continue their loyalty to the church.

Miss Laurene Scott was heard in two musical numbers on the piano, "The Sixth Rhapsody" by Liszt and by Frans Liszt and "A Classical arrangement of Ditty in the Street."

Mrs. Clifford Chambers and Miss Mount Sharp gave a vocal duet "I Must Have My Own Way," and Mrs. with Miss Frances McKeown accompanist. The Bethel W.M.S. presented Miss Ellis Elliott rendered a vocal duet "We Down by the Mill," Misses Kenneth and Clifford Holmes, and a vocal duets, "There's No Place Like Home" and "Where the Roses Are Smiling". Mrs. John Hagis sang a vocal solo "Just Awearyin' for you", Rev. and Mrs. Joblin were presented with a gift of honor and Mr. & Mrs. Heath of Bethel read the following address:

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Joblin and family:

It seems hardly possible that within a few days, you shall sever your connection with the Bethel circuit.

During the years which you have spent with us, a chain of golden friendships has been forged which will never be broken. You have endeared yourselves to the people by your unselfish devotion to their interests, your sincerity and tactful manner and your ready willingness to help in all the activities of the church. You have endeared yourself won for you a lasting place in our memory. You have been a splendid one of us, sharing our joys and sorrows. Many a time during your cheerful presence at our social, sacred meetings and Christmas concerts as well as your beautiful words at our fowl suppers. We realise now, that those days of fellowship were a success only because of the efficient chairman who presided.

Tonight, we like you, are in a measure. We know that over the years you have spent among us, the thing of how we have benefited by your kindly counsel and helpful sermons. We have always found you willing to do "More than you were supposed to do". This excellent quality has always been appreciated by your associates here. You will be missed. But, we know that in your new home you will find the same willing by the change.

To Mrs. Joblin, we would say, your genial and kindly manner has always been a source of inspiration, we tonight, take this opportunity of conveying to you our deep appreciation of your many kindnesses to us in the past, and pray that God's blessing may follow you in the future.

The family must not be forgotten. The circuit has always taken a keen interest in your welfare and has steadily watched your progress. That keen interest is still alive and our best wishes go with you for prosperity, go with you.

And now tonight as we think of our years of association and you go forth into a life of responsibility in a new field, while we continue our loyalty to a new pastor, one word must come, farewell.

Farewell, a word that must be said, and hath been said by many a one since time began.

Mr. John Hagis, who has been a member of William's Church for the past sixty-five years, read the brought greetings. He spoke of the many accomplishments of the twelve years pastorate and said the pastor had always had as his aim and theme "Peace on earth, goodwill good". He then quoted a suitable poem. "Be smart but not too severe" and in behalf of the entire congregation presented Rev. Joblin with a purse of money, carrying on Sunday at Mount Pleasant.

Mr. C. Reid and Mrs. M. Barr of Bethel spent Sunday in Lindsay as guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Brown and baby of Carmel attended the morning service and spent the day at the old home.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar McKeown and Frances, Mr. and Mrs. Allan Wilson were among those from our burg who attended the service at Bethel on Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Montgomery attended the picnic here on Monday morning and spent the day with Mr. and Mrs. Percy Macmillan.

Mrs. Ernest Hoover spent the week end and holiday with Mrs. H. Sharpe at Wellman's.

Mr. C. B. Sharp, Marie and Audrey, Mrs. H. Miller, Douglas and Bobby spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. R. Seeley at Chatterton.

Farewell Message.

On Sunday morning Mount Pleasant United Church was filled to the door with worshippers, it being Rev. Joblin's last appointment as pastor. Mrs. Frances McKeown presided at the organ and the choir rendered as an anthem "He's My Friend". Miss Marguerite Wilson sang a solo "How Can Grows Sweeter As the Years Roll By."

He chose as his text Acts 20:32 "Now Brethren, I commend you to God and to the word of his grace." Rev. Joblin said "Religion is more an expression of happiness during our days than a preparation for death. The world gives us pleasure and joy but is found in Our Christian faith. God is the source of all love and uniting friendships and the pastor said adieu and again he had found God in his friends.

Mr. Joblin said he wish you was the last words of our Lord, and that was he also had said to his flock all the strenuous moments of our lives. We should have a happy oneness in the love of God and the nearer we shore where good byes are never said. John Wesley said "Religion is common tie of affection and he closed his farewell message commending his people to God, who is able to build up your life and give you eternal inheritance where good-byes are never said.

The pastor looked forward to many happy reunions in the years to come and wished for all the very best in the future.

The service closed with the rendition of "My God, the Spring of My All My Joys", it being the pastor's favorite hymn and was sung at his own request. Benediction was pronounced by Rev. Joblin.

Pastor's Wife.

On Wednesday afternoon the presidents of Women's Institutes and their guests, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sharp, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Johnston of Alberta spent last week at the home of her brother, Mr. Charles Procup, Bethel, and now they are holidaying with other relatives.

Miss Macmillan returned to her home at Springbrook on Friday evening after spending the past three weeks with friends at Mount Pleasant.

Miss L. Denike of New Toronto and her cousin, Miss Mary Telford of Hamilton, visited Bethel friends and now they are camping at Cedar Lake.

Mr. Mowatt Denike and son Jack of New Toronto visited several homes in Bethel over the week-end on the holiday.

Sunday evening at Bethel the choir rendered two anthems, "Calling in His Presence" and "Love Divine". Miss Crandall, Bethel friends and Annie Elliott, Laurette Macmillan and Irene Baker rendered "Any Way is His Way".

PRESENTATION TO MISS CLARKE

At the school of S. S. 4 Tyendinaga, on Wednesday evening June 26, the parents and pupils of their section gathered to bid farewell to their teacher, Miss Clarke. The school was decorated with pinks and white peonies.

Miss Clarke was presented with a pearl toned mirror, basin and comb set by Miss Bernice Ormiston and Miss Ila Robertson read the following address:

Shannonville, Ont.,
June 26, 1935.

Dear Miss Clarke:—

We have gathered here tonight to express our regret at your leaving and to express our keen regret that your connection has been severed with S. S. No. 4 where you have so faithfully and successfully taught four years.

Your kindness and patience will long be remembered by the pupils under us, and our picnics, and entertainments are bright spots in our school life that we will always be remembered.

The short time you gave to the entrance classes both after school and on Saturday, has been much appreciated by the pupils as well as the parents.

We wish to accept the gift as a token of the affection and, high esteem in which we are held by this school section.

Signed on behalf of School Section No. 4:— Mrs. O. Stratton and pupils.

Miss Clarke very fittingly replied expressing thanks and appreciation for the gift.

Lunch was served and a social time enjoyed.

SLAYER OF SHEEP CAUGHT IN TRAP

HAMILTON, Ont., July 1.—(CP)—Dogs during the last month have completely wiped out a flock of 24 sheep owned by Elmer Fletcher, Binbrook farmer.

The last of the animals was slain last night, but the slayer failed to get away. After having been caught in a steel trap during the night in a pen surrounded by boards five feet high, the female police dog weighing 90 pounds got away in a wolf trap, Mr. Fletcher said, the slayer.

Rawdon Circuit To Rev. F. G. Joblin

Rawdon, July 6.—On Monday evening, July 1, over three hundred and fifty people assembled in the grounds of Wellman's, Bethel and Mount Pleasant United Church congregations met. Rain had rendered their parish hall unsafe for the occasion, but the weather proved unavailing, I did just that and I was very thankful that the amount he had lost in the venture was not more than it was, for confidence at any cost. That seemed to convince him. He tore up the check and he and I left—and Bishop would stand his own losses, shook hands with me and said, "I am glad I did."

"When I left soon after that he had started to do some writing. That may have been the letter he will they found leaving his fortune to you—I understand it was dated and signed by Cecil Wellman. Somebody must have visited the old gentleman after I had left—and killed him. Whoever it was wrote my initial in the room where he died. I doubt he had been having pleasant dreams. Now, Mr. Holmes and I in agreement and thought the circumstances offered a splendid opportunity to put a little fear into the hearts of the guilty ones. That's all I know about it. Mr. Holmes can tell you the rest."

"I wonder, dear," said Judith thoughtfully, "if you went to Captain Monkton and told him all I have told you, he might believe it. If he wouldn't absolve you from responsibility in the matter, he might be contributed a musical selection, Miss Ruth and Miss Harmonica. The next number was a reading by Mrs. Elliott of Bethel sang two vocal solos, "The Lord's Prayer," "Make a Wife" and "The Man in the Moon," with Miss Holmes as accompanist.

Mrs. John Argyle and Miss Lucille Dracup of Wellman's rendered a piano duet. Miss Faye Andrews of Mount Pleasant favored with a solo with guitar accompaniment "Come Back Paddy Reilly to Ballyjamesduff" then contributed a musical selection, Miss Ruth and harmonica. The next number was a reading by Mrs. Elliott of Bethel sang two vocal solos, "The Lord's Prayer," "Make a Wife" and "The Man in the Moon," with Miss Holmes as accompanist.

Mrs. Harold Elliott of Bethel with Miss M. Elliott as accompanist rendered a duet, "Sweet and Low," "Sweet Song."

Mrs. Roy Rowland of Stirling in his address expressed deep appreciation of the kind invitation to be present and he said he with his colleagues had learned during the years to appreciate the kind hospitality extended to join with him in singing "Pack Up Your Troubles in Your Old Kit Bag and Smile, Smile, Smile." Mrs. Elliott pictured to the audience how easy it was to be happy though poor and spoke of the bond of fellowship between her and Rev. Joblin and of their pastorate and urged the people all to continue their loyalty to the church.

Miss Laurene Scott was heard in two musical numbers on the piano, "The Sixth Rhapsody" by Liszt and by Frans Liszt and "A Classical arrangement of Ditty in the Street."

Mrs. Clifford Chambers and Miss Mount Sharp gave a vocal duet "I Must Have My Own Way," and Mrs. with Miss Frances McKeown accompanist. The Bethel W.M.S. presented Miss Ellis Elliott rendered a vocal duet "We Down by the Mill," Misses Kenneth and Clifford Holmes, and a vocal duets, "There's No Place Like Home" and "Where the Roses Are Smiling". Mrs. John Hagis sang a vocal solo "Just Awearyin' for you", Rev. and Mrs. Joblin were presented with a gift of honor and Mr. & Mrs. Heath of Bethel read the following address:

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Joblin and family:

It seems hardly possible that within a few days, you shall sever your connection with the Bethel circuit.

During the years which you have spent with us, a chain of golden friendships has been forged which will never be broken. You have endeared yourselves to the people by your unselfish devotion to their interests, your sincerity and tactful manner and your ready willingness to help in all the activities of the church. You have endeared yourself won for you a lasting place in our memory. You have been a splendid one of us, sharing our joys and sorrows. Many a time during your cheerful presence at our social, sacred meetings and Christmas concerts as well as your beautiful words at our fowl suppers. We realise now, that those days of fellowship were a success only because of the efficient chairman who presided.

Tonight, we like you, are in a measure. We know that over the years you have spent among us, the thing of how we have benefited by your kindly counsel and helpful sermons. We have always found you willing to do "More than you were supposed to do". This excellent quality has always been appreciated by your associates here. You will be missed. But, we know that in your new home you will find the same willing by the change.

To Mrs. Joblin, we would say, your genial and kindly manner has always been a source of inspiration, we tonight, take this opportunity of conveying to you our deep appreciation of your many kindnesses to us in the past, and pray that God's blessing may follow you in the future.

The family must not be forgotten. The circuit has always taken a keen interest in your welfare and has steadily watched your progress. That keen interest is still alive and our best wishes go with you for prosperity, go with you.

And now tonight as we think of our years of association and you go forth into a life of responsibility in a new field, while we continue our loyalty to a new pastor, one word must come, farewell.

Farewell, a word that must be said, and hath been said by many a one since time began.

Mr. John Hagis, who has been a member of William's Church for the past sixty-five years, read the brought greetings. He spoke of the many accomplishments of the twelve years pastorate and said the pastor had always had as his aim and theme "Peace on earth, goodwill good". He then quoted a suitable poem. "Be smart but not too severe" and in behalf of the entire congregation presented Rev. Joblin with a purse of money, carrying on

Farewell Joblin and Wife

Rev. Joblin voiced his gratitude upon this, the last Sunday, for the beautiful address and greetings and gifts and felt the unworthy of all this affection and said he felt unworthy the past twelve years he has made a congregation very happy and had sought to bring them the gospel in plain fashion. His first funeral was an infant's and says old age has taken away the five years or 22 years of age.

Mr. Joblin said he had also conducted and 108 young people according on profession of faith and that has been one of the great joys of the ministry.

He has visited the various homes 4,701 times besides making various calls. Although the years have been somewhat strenuous they have brought greater health and vitality as well as wonderful friendships. He said some day when his ministerial work was over he hoped to come back to Rawdon to enjoy the friendships of the people and the beauty of the country.

Mrs. Joblin briefly replied and thanked the friends for their lovely programme, the sincere gift and kindness. She said she appreciated all and will have many more pleasant memories for future days and invited the friends to please all Bridge Island and pay the parsonage a visit. Mrs. Joblin sang in "God Be With You Till We Meet Again" and pronounced benediction a gracious prayer. The young people of Rawdon Epworth then served a delicious lunch.

Mr. and Mrs. Manley Post of Edgewood visited on Sunday with their daughter and husband Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Hoover.

Mr. and Mrs. James Sharp and Mrs. Ellen Sharp were guests on Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Montgomery at Rose Corners on Thursday and Mrs. Sharp remained for a visit. Mrs. Fred Smith and enjoyed a very pleasant afternoon.

Friends were sorry that Mrs. Smith is not gaining as rapidly as they would like to see.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Smith and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Thrasher spent the week end and holiday with Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Curry at Woodlawn, near Arnprior.

Miss Audrey Sharp is holidaying with her aunt, Mrs. Harry Sharp at Chatterton.

Rawdon was well represented at the Cole Bros. Circle Stock Company's performance in Belleville and those attending report a good show.

Miss Faye Andrews spent a few days with her aunt, Mrs. Charmaine Scott.

Mr. W. M. Montgomery and daughter Marie are spending a couple of weeks with Mr. and Mrs. Edward Montgomery.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Johnson of Belleville visited on Sunday with E. Summers and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Millen accompanied her sister Eleanor home on Friday evening to Newburgh where she spent the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Spencer and her cousin, Miss Vera Madden, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Montgomery, Mr. and Mrs. Simpson, Mr. J. Coggins were among those from Mount Pleasant who attended the shower last Friday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bailey in honor of their son Archie and bride. Mr. and Mrs. Herb Black of Toronto, spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Percy Macmillan and on Sunday they were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Macmillan of Bethel and all called on other relatives.

Friends were delighted to see Mrs. Ross Heard at the morning service on Sunday at Mount Pleasant.

Mr. C. Reid and Mrs. M. Barr of Bethel spent Sunday in Lindsay as guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Brown and baby of Carmel attended the morning service and spent the day at the old home.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar McKeown and Frances, Mr. and Mrs. Allan Wilson were among those from our burg who attended the service at Bethel on Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Montgomery attended the picnic here on Monday morning and spent the day with Mr. and Mrs. Percy Macmillan.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Hoover spent the week end and holiday with Mrs. H. Sharpe at Wellman's.

Mr. C. B. Sharp, Marie and Audrey, Mrs. H. Miller, Douglas and Bobby spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. R. Seeley at Chatterton.

Daily Short Story

"FRISKY PHIL"

(Copyright 1935 King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

"I know a fellow who bet on a horse twice and won. The first time that bob fellers bet on a hackhe darned nag won with odds so sparse. That's what started the whole trouble and makes this my story. If it hadn't been for Frisky Phil, the Athens president knew that horses were in watchmaker now, and—

Bob was forever sending me hunches. A peculiar thing; I received the hunches but one time I wasn't that he was "in love" with pretty little Helen Chamberlain, but evenly little Helen Chamberlain was he. "Sid, I honest that she was the one and only one for him. Helen, though, was the sort of girl who wanted a nice home with all the trimmings and Bob knew he couldn't afford it on the grade on his salary.....

Anyway, he calls up and asks for advice on the horses.

"I never heard of a horse bettor dying rich," I advised. "Truth of the matter is that everyone in trying the horses at one time or another. But if you decide on that, I'll tell you what you do—bet on the right ball. Stick to your $30-a-week job and, with the money you've got in the bank, you'll be one of the boys who bet on nags for a living."

Bob told me later he'd just had to try it.....just once. Right off, cash out of him, he picked a horse, he said, just any horse. The name of the nominee at Arlington was Frisky Phil, and didn't think much about it until he bumped into Mr. Smith, the bookkeeper, one morning. His choice, had been Frisky Phil, and Frisky Phil had won. So back went $78.35 for his investment.

Pretty Good

"The minute he told me about it, of course, I said wow, slop, and a good many other things. But he didn't have to. I knew. Bob has a pretty good head. He said he was through.....for keeps. And I believe.

I must admit he was pretty good about it. His worst vice in that direction was something we all do—began by petting. But didn't bet on 'em. Gave his selections to the boys and some of them would stand tips. I know, but it's a fact; his choices won on the nose eight out of ten times. That went on for several times. Every so often, he would send in what he called more serious things; his Hilda next egg or some of his startling amounts for Helen, and the little money he scraped. Then he dropped out of sight for a month. Until last week. When he came in to tell me the end of his story.

It seems that Bob's "hot" picking had come to the ears of a shrewd gambling fraternity at the office, and a pretty exclusive group, got wind of his weekly winnings. He was a certain Vermonter, who didn't want to put his choices on record in their sly way, they found out about their bank account.

Soon enough he gets an invite to the office of one Jake Lewis, a prominent accountant. Only Bob doesn't know about the reputation. Jake sees his man in very inspiring manner.

"Tell ya, Auburn, I wouldn't do this for some small run. But I've heard about those tips of yours and how some of the boys are cashing in on them, and I need so many ya.

"We set for a killing out at Empire next Monday. Got any?"

What a chance! We're slipping in a horse that can't lose. She'll pay 50 to 1. I want ya to bet all you can, heavy! I'll recommend the best books on Broadway to cover your bet.....

On the Nose

Course, Bob didn't know he was being handed a bum horse, didn't see the gimlet eyes then and the bookie. He wasn't interested anyway.....with Jake told him of the name of the horse.

Sure. It was Frisky Phil.

Bob told me later that all he could think of then was Helen.... 50 to 1.....almost a year's salary.....saving money.....

So quit gambling then.....50 to 1!

Sure enough, he scraped out his savings account and paid the cash over to the books and got the Monday's out. Told me he didn't tell his cahoot it because he had a bad about it because he had a Monday proved 'id he an old-fashioned, rainy Monday. Bob went out to the track alone. When he got to Yonkers he bought a program. Got a good grandstand seat. The first two races—Frisky Phil was in the fifth—were dull. Just as the fourth went off his attention was attracted to five horses coming up for the all-important race.

Frisky Phil—well .....uh .....didn't quite look the name; standing out there in the misty rain, homegone, spindle-legged. Not a chance. Spindle-legged. Yet, that was it. Bob looked at his program table nearby. Nope, the crowd was laying off. He looked at the track odds hopefully. Forty to 1. Well, he was getting 50 to 1. His reverie was interrupted by the line-up.

Off! It sounded fateful. He looked vainly for Frisky Phil, strained. No, not frisky today. Not frisky enough to save them. Bob cried, hard armed, carefully saved, dollars. The field bore down on the three and he tried to yell the name. The horses shithered by. The grandstand. Well, he was fourth now. If that could be consolation. He peered through the rain inside to distinguish the horses. There was a stir in the crowd, though, a certain confidentness stir. On the far side of the field a horse fell and two were piled on top.....oh, it couldn't be Spindlelegs..... he ran around. Now the race was between Frisky and that other.....But it was all over now.....Frisky Phil was coming in, in fast, in, in first, an unheard-of racehorse at 50 to 1 shot.....

That's the story. Nothing much to really, except Bob's $28,000, and that he married Helen, and they bought that Westchester place, and that he made a vow he'd never bet again.....and he hasn't because Helen up in their little house, didn't know a thing about it in the place Bob hadn't known you see, that Bob was a hunch player.

Little Benny's Note Book

Saltday before lunch I was sitting on my front steps feeling bum, and Sid Hunt came up and sat down looking as if he felt fine as silk and maybe bummer, me saying. What's a matter? and him saying, Aw look, what's a use?

That's a way I feel, I said, O wonderers, I had a swell friend once like, I could of had 50 thousand rubber bands of all the shapes and sizes ever invented, and 50 20 empty cigar boxes to hold them, and I dressed all the other fellows was so jellis of me they couldn't see straight, and I had my pictures in the papers standing alongside of the 50 cigar boxes with 50 rubber bands on each, and reached to the top of my head pritty near, and it was under-Champeen Rubber Band Saver of the World, I said.

Well O, what's that to feel bum about? Sid said, and I said, Well shit till you hear the rest. I was up still feeling grate, and I went to look at my collection of rubber bands to see how many I really did have for real, and holey smokes where they was gone because they had fell down behind my desk and spilt on the floor! and ooh could that threw them all out because all she knows how to do is sweep up and throw away, gosh darn the luck.

Well wait till you hear what I'm going to do, I said. I did and a sudden liker to wash my dog, so I shampood him and scrubbed him all my nite and then I did it all over again, so as to have him perfect and surprise my mother, and she was surprised all rite, she was so surprised and all it proved I could do a thing thorough if I wanted to, but no one'll ever find out about for exter proof, and I reminded her it was vacation and everything but I had to do it just a same, gott-darn it, he said.

And so there sat there feeling bum till some more of the fellows came around and we got in a game of tagger.

SWIMMER STRUCK BY IRON LEVER

Knocked Unconscious Into Water But Rescued by Chum

Frankford, July 8 (Special)—Cecil Tripp suffered a painful injury on Saturday afternoon which might have proved fatal had it not been for the timely assistance of Damon Cooley.

The two young men had been swimming in the grist mill pond and while reaching on the dam, Tripp was struck on the head by an overhanging iron lever which had become loosened. He fell unconscious into the water and was rescued by Conley who was sitting close by.

After regaining consciousness he was able to walk to the home of Mr. Mullen's surgery where it was necessary to use four stitches in closing the wound.

CAMPAIGN SUCCESSFUL

Name of Political Party To be Headed by Stevens Announced in Few Days

Former Chairman of Mass Buying Probe to Help Youth

TO RUN CANDIDATES

Expect to Place One in Every Canadian Constituency.

Ottawa, July 8—(CP)—Hon. H. H. Stevens today stated he had received during the night and this morning "a large volume of telegraphs of support and congratulations from citizens and organizations, including a prominent Conservative organization". The messages were from "all over Canada."

The former Trade Minister, who last night announced his acceptance of the leadership of a new political party was busy with preliminary preparations of the manifesto setting out its aims and ambitions. The manifesto will be issued about next week end when the name of the new party has also to be announced. Details of the manifesto are to be made public in an issued statement rather than by way of a public address, he intimated.

Ottawa, July 8—(CP)—Canada has a new political party today, a party without a name but fully equipped with a leader, a policy, a provisional executive and followers throughout the country, it was learned.

Leader is Hon. Harry H. Stevens, former Conservative Minister of Trade and Commerce and the policy is the progressive Conservatism advocating for the past year or two.

Mr. Stevens took political circles by surprise yesterday when he announced he would lead a new force at the coming general election although in view of his differences with his fellow Conservatives some statement from him was expected. The Stevens party will fight the election battle on all fronts, he announced. It will place candidates in all constituencies and Mr. Stevens will conduct a country wide campaign. Its name and platform will be announced within a few weeks.

A battle for the rights of the "forgotten man" will be waged, Mr. Stevens' organization, the former Conservative member promised. Its executive will be composed of farm groups, workers, farmers, merchants, the "white collar class" and small manufacturers all of whom, he said, were opposed to government in the interests of the great corporations.

Received Many Requests

Steps leading to his acceptance of the leadership of the party in the legislation enacted at the session, Mr. Stevens said, were the cabinet of Prime Minister R. B. Bennett taking $6,000 from the relief fund and $6,000 letters from Canadians in many walks of life all urging the need for such a reform movement. To all he had received he was only too pleased to be leading a party but only in securing adequate legislation.

Following a meeting of his supporters was held in Hamilton, which sent a delegation of three to interview him here. The three, Warren Cook of Toronto, Thomas D. Lazier of Hamilton and Thomas V. Bell of Montreal, met Mr. Stevens Saturday, presented a petition asking him to head a new party and received his assurance he would do so. All three were described by Mr. Stevens as prominent businessmen.

Reference to a name for a new party, coupled with his own opinion of the legislation enacted at the session of parliament session was inadequate led Mr. Stevens to pioneer along new political paths.

ENGINES COLLIDE 4 PERSONS HURT

Passenger Train Crashes Into Extra Near Regina

Regina, July 8—(CP)—The crash of two railway locomotives left four persons in hospital here today and started an investigation to fix responsibility for the accident, six miles north of Regina.

Eight other persons were injured, but not seriously enough to require hospital treatment.

A passenger train travelling from Saskatoon to Regina, crashed into an extra from Regina sent out to make repairs to telegraph lines. John H. Ezra, 61-year-old engineman, and his fireman, D. Matheson, both of Regina, were injured when they were caught in backing over of their passenger cab: S. W. Falkins, of Regina, and Mrs. S. J. Mackham of Saskatoon, passengers, were cut about the face by flying glass.

Officials considered, it little short of miraculous that the train consisting of an engine and caboose, was only slightly damaged and that there was no loss of life. The seriously injured were rushed to Regina and others left officially hurt were given first aid at the scene.

ESTIMATE DAMAGE AT ONE MILLION

Violent Rains And Storm Pass Over New York

Albany, N.Y., July 8—(AP)— The worst flood menace in recent years hung over the eastern and central sections of New York State today as early reports showed violent rain and electrical storms already have caused at least one death and damage estimated at more than $1,000,000.

From many parts of the state came reports of washed out highways and bridges, broken crops, destroyed houses and ruined crops.

The rainstorms struck first at Richfield Springs and swept south to Chapter the damage was estimated at $100,000. Roads and bridges were flooded and buildings were struck by lightning. Four golfers were stunned by lightning.

Death stalked the highways and waterways of Ontario during the week-end, taking a toll of eight lives, while the heat wave, that surged down over the province claimed two more.

The heat proved fatal to John L. Wyman, 62, and he collapsed on a Toronto street. He died shortly after in the hospital.

Garnet Coward, 17, was struck by lightning near Exter in London district, as he was hauling hay. One of the horses drawing the rack was also killed.

James Seagar, 20, drowned at Hamilton, when his boat he was in sprang a leak. A companion, Roy McKay, 22, was rescued.

Mrs. Virtue Lee Wayne, 31, tind, drowned near Bala in the Muskoka district, when driven under by strong currents, and Glenn Stone, 24, drowned near Port Erie, when he went into water beyond his depth.

The waters of Lake Simcoe claimed the life of Norman R. MacFarland, 18, when the boat was thrown into the water from his canoe as a storm broke. His father's efforts to save him were fruitless.

Seagar was fatally injured when the truck he was driving plunged into a ditch.

Ernest Bowen, 19, was killed when struck down by an automobile near Orillia.

Mrs. Caroline Eicher of Detroit, was killed, when the car she was riding in collided with another machine near Leamington. Her husband and two sons were injured.

LAKEWOOD, N.J., July 8—(CP) —John D. Rockefeller, Sr., was 96, today and enjoying the best health in years.

Routine in "golf house" with its staff of nurses remained unchanged, with any birthday observance barred. The nonagenarian's son, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., spent the day with him.

"He never felt better in many years," the son said.

His friend, Max Goldstein, reported that the annual examination showed the natural vigor was still sound with no need for fillings, drillings or extractions.

Mr. Goldstein noted the eighteenth wear since the start of the business career of Standard Oil King Rockefeller from the possession of nothing to the possession of multiple millions. The actual size of his fortune has never been revealed.

Cyclone Carries House Half Mile Occupant Killed

Saskatoon, July 8 (CP)—One dead, one seriously injured and crop and property damage estimated at several thousand dollars was the toll today of a cyclonic wind and hail storm that ripped across Central and North Central Saskatchewan over the week-end.

Dead is Mrs. Ida Hall, 79, miles northwest of Biggar, a miniature tornado Saturday night picked up the farm home of Ole Svenson, carried the ball a mile and dumped it down on the prairie, killing Svenson.

The 30-year-old farmer and commercial traveller met death when he was hurled 100 feet when his car overturned.

The storm came alongside in a flashing boat under the cover of a heavy fog. Some remained in the boat while five men boarded the Monte Carlo.

The crew of the Monte Carlo was quickly subdued and the safe located.

$32,000 in cash, and $10,000 in jewelry left as security by patrons of the Monte Carlo.

The pirates came alongside in a flashing boat under the cover of a heavy fog. Some remained in the boat while five men boarded the Monte Carlo.

The boarding crew carried pistols and were armed with revolvers, rifles and sawed-off shotguns.

The crew of the Monte Carlo was quickly subdued and the safe located.

Befriended Men Assault Members French Family

Woman of Household Induced to Go Into Basement

PARIS, July 8.—(CP-Havas)— The Count and Countess de la Rochefoucauld, descendants of one of France's oldest aristocratic families, were victims of a brutal assault today, when two men attacked their chateau residence on the Rue Henri Rochefort and inflicted severe injuries on both of them.

The attackers, said to have been two unemployed men who had been given work by the Count, fled when his shouts alarmed neighbours. Police captured one of them after a chase over the roof tops.

Police brought the captured man back to the mansion where the Count, with blood streaming from his face, identified him as one of the persons, who several days previously had called asking for charity. The Count said he had given the man some chores to do about the house at the time and had paid him for the work.

Today the Count said, the man professed to have lost his money. Pretending that he had found a gas leak he induced the Countess to accompany him to the basement, where he knocked her down and struck her. She screamed her baby and this attracted her husband.

The Count dashed down to the cellar and fought with the assailant who struck him senseless. The man while the Count suffered cuts about the face and the loss of several teeth.

Duce Says War

Although Great Britain expressed willingness in conversations with Italy to give Ethiopia a corridor to the sea (Zeilah), if she would make concessions to Italy, Premier Benito Mussolini rejected the plan and says "We have decided on war." This is the first time in modern history that Great Britain has ever offered to give up any land.

DR. AND MRS. STOBIE HOME FROM HOLIDAY

Dr. and Mrs. G. H. Stobie of this city returned home Saturday following a six weeks trip to England and the continent. Dr. and Mrs. Stobie reported a delightful crossing of the ocean both ways and also a very interesting trip throughout. "We were gone six weeks during which we visited England, Scotland and France and highly enjoyed our all-too short holiday," commented Dr. Stobie today. When questioned about conditions on the other side of the Atlantic, Dr. Stobie stated that business conditions in England were excellent, but not so in France. On the trip across the Atlantic they were fortunate to have practically calm water, while on the return trip they experienced some little fog, but no roughness of any great nature. Dr. and Mrs. Stobie docked at Montreal on Saturday, creeping on the Dufferin at Richmond. They both report a very delightful holiday.

GEORGE SEMARK NEW LIFE GUARD

With Wife Will Supervise Swimming at Victoria Park

George Semark, of this city, was today engaged by the Belleville Parks Commission as life guard at Victoria Park during the summer months. Mr. Semark will also assist in his endeavours by his wife, who will look after the needs and welfare of juvenile girls, who are desirous of learning to swim in the Harry Corby pool on Victoria Park.

Following his appointment by the Parks Board Mr. Semark announced he would prepare a special apparatus for the purpose of teaching children to swim. "The equipment will be sturdy and in no way dangerous to those using it, as the kiddies will be firmly fastened to the wooden structure. This particular equipment has been sanctioned by the heads of various swimming bodies as the best method of teaching children to swim," stated Mr. Semark.

The new life guard took over his duties today and will attend the regular meeting of the local Parks Commission tonight in regards to the possible erection of a diving tower in connection with the swimming facilities at Victoria Park. Both Mr. and Mrs. Semark will assist in the tutoring of the younger children at a thorough watch will be kept at all times.

The female bathers aged children, will be confined to the water at the Corby baths, but the bathhouses and the Corby pool will be thoroughly cleaned out twice a week, stated Mr. Semark, after a short interview with the PARKS Commission this morning.

Joseph H. Clarke, of this city, failed to answer to his name when called. Clarke was charged under the H.T.A. of failing to produce his instructor's driver's license. Two local residents, charged under the L.C.A. also failed to answer to their names. Bench warrants were issued in all three cases.

Alex. Naphin, Cobalt Lake, was fined ten dollars and costs $44.10 in all, after being found guilty of a charge of causing a disturbance and using profane language. The charge was laid by a neighbour, Burton Searles, Sidney, who testified, that Naphin had called him vile names on two different occasions. Numerous witnesses corroborated Searles' statements. When being cross-examined by Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan K.C., Naphin in answer to a question in relationship to his calling Searles names, replied "as on the radio, 'was you dere Schatzie'."

It was directly following this reply, that His Worship found the accused guilty, Naphin contending, that Searles had requested him to call the plaintiff profane names.

"If Mr. Searles had asked you to tell him, would you have done so?" asked His Worship.

"Hardly, I value my neck a little more than that," was Naphin's reply.

"Guilty, ten dollars and costs," was the final outcome.

Local district Highway Traffic Officers were busy on adjacent highways checking the lights of motor vehicles travelling on provincial highways last night, and a number of delinquents were warned, while some one-armed drivers also received stiff reprimands for their actions. "This practice of one-armed driving is responsible for many of our accidents and must be discontinued," stated the two local Traffic Officers today as they intimated serious charges for such offenders in the future.

TRANSIENTS BEAT A HASTY RETREAT

Ordered to Leave City in .30 Minutes by Magistrate.

A lengthy police court docket was presented before His Worship, Magistrate R. J. Butler, K.C., today, six cases being disposed of before the noon hour.

John Crawley and James Allen, two transients who were arrested on a charge of vagrancy last Friday, after being apprehended pan handling on Front street pleaded guilty as charged. "I'm a sailor and my book is at Port Colborne, if you'll let me off I'll never come to this town again," pleaded Crawley, after spending the week end in the county jail on remand.

"I'll give you 30 minutes to get out of town," sternly stated His Worship. "Thanks," came back Crawley as he beat a hasty retreat down the back stairway at the police station. "The same goes for you, Important" His Worship, when Allen pleaded guilty. He was last seen following Crawley hastily.

A transient giving his name as Jack McLeod, pleaded not guilty to a charge of intoxication and was remanded until Friday. "I thought we came here to Canada," complained McLeod as he was led away protesting. The barbarians appeared, one being sentenced to ten days on the hill in default of payment of the imposed fine, while the other pleaded not guilty and was held in custody, pending bail.

DRIVER ARRESTED AFTER CAR CRASH

Mrs. Mary Kennedy, 89, of Thomasburg Seriously Injured

Burton Thompson, aged 22, of Tweed, appeared in the local police court held before Magistrate Butler K.C., today charged with the negligent operation of a motor car causing grievous bodily harm to Mrs. Kennedy. The accused was not asked to plead, his case being enlarged for one week and the request of Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan K.C., bail was set at $10,000.00 and later provided by fellow townsmen.

According to the serious condition of the injured woman, whose condition is unchanged I have been informed. I think it advisable to enlarge the matter for one week. This is a serious charge," added Mr. Donnan. His Worship readily agreed. Thompson was committed in court by reputable Tweed residents and his bail provided. It was on a pilgrimage to Rome that Luther spoke the immortal phrase, "The just shall live by faith."

The religious setting of the Orange Order was indicated to the members of the Orange order and to a congregation for "there is a unique place given to Jesus Christ in the Orange Order that is not given in any other organization. The text of all the prayers from consecration and every petition is directed to and through Jesus Christ.

Dr. Semple appealed for the perpetuation of Protestantism through the home, school and church.

"Often I think of the devotion of Roman Catholics to their church and of the apathy of a great many Protestants. I dare not condemn any individual Roman Catholic for his devotion, any no Protestant has a right to condemn the devotion of any individual Roman Catholic," remarked the minister.

Dr. Semple then turned to the charges of the irregularities practiced which are he said, directed against liberty, disorders in the brotherhood and then Dr. Semple said "There is only one liberty and that is devotion to Christ and all He stands for."

"I ask all to unite to fight the anti-Christian forces which are seeking to destroy the liberty of our land."

During the service, a trio of Messrs. Sprague, Monck and Bankier sang two numbers.

BARN DESTROYED IN PRINCE EDWARD

Lumber Mill at Murphy's Corners Also Lost by Fire

At an early hour on Sunday morning during a sudden thunder and rain storm which passed over Prince Edward County a large barn, the property of Fred Johnson and Herb Rutter located in Hallowell Township was struck by lightning and completely destroyed. About 100 bushels of grain, hay, harness, and farm implements were burned. A registered bull, the only animal in the barn was fortunately saved. Loss partially covered by insurance.

A lumber mill located near Murphy's Corners, Wollaston Township, North Hastings was also destroyed on Saturday morning destroyed by fire. The mill was owned and operated by Mr. Bruce Airhart, of Wollaston Township. Lumber piles adjacent to the mill were saved. Cause of fire unknown. The loss estimated at $1,000 is partially covered by insurance.

Orange Order Parades to Church To Hear Rev. Dr. J. Semple

Type of Membership is Praised by Preacher in Sermon

Members of the Orange Order, the Preceptory and the L.O.B.A. Lodge No. 283 held their annual church parade on Sunday morning to Bridge Street United Church, where Rev. Dr. J. Semple delivered the address. The parade was led by the Orange Fife Band.

Dr. Semple dealt at first with some conceptions which he said were erroneously held by a number of people regarding the Orange Order, and he declared that a change has dawned for the order, citing knowledge of parades in Belfast and in Toronto where the men in the march were the equal of any organization that ever walked.

"Never have I seen a finer body of men. They are well conducted and the men who on the 12th of July parade will be found there in church and stale. Similar charges to those which are made against some Orangemen can be made against members of other orders. There are some poor specimen in church and in other organizations, some undesirable people.

Admits Political Attitude

"We are also told that the Orange Lodge is very largely a political organization. We admit that in large degree. The influence of the Orangemen is the best safeguard of the franchise. I am told that it is very largely an organization which can be depended upon."

Dr. Semple quoted a statement reported to have been made by G. K. Chesterton "a past master in semi-humorous paradox and a man who has a biting tongue". Most of his publications, the minister said, support the Roman Church. The speech to which the preacher referred was that in which Mr. Chesterton, "as saying over the British Broadcasting Commission, that the Roman Catholic Church has become the bulwark of freedom. Dr. Semple said that the British Broadcasting Commission had been deluged with protests.

The preacher referred to what he called a Y.M.C.A. boycott in Italy the Salvation Army was hampered and the Bible Society was forbidden to publish the report of his work, he charged.

"If one organization is a political organization, the same term may be applied to the organization which says that the Orange Order is political," Dr. Semple declared.

Bible Sufficient Rule

The ideal of the Orange Order was, said the minister, that every person had the right to possess the open Bible and to read it. "The Bible is a sufficient rule and no priest or bishop nor any ecclesiant minister can say he has the right of interpretation." This means more than any other single agency has made it possible to have free freedom of conscience today."

Martin Luther in the morning star that brought the Protestant Reformation to the world, affirmed Dr. Semple and pointed out that it was on a pilgrimage to Rome that Luther spoke the immortal phrase, "The just shall live by faith."

The religious setting of the Orange Order was indicated to the members of the order and to a congregation for "there is a unique place given to Jesus Christ in the Orange Order that is not given in any other organization. The text of all the prayers from consecration and every petition is directed to and through Jesus Christ.

Dr. Semple appealed for the perpetuation of Protestantism through the home, school and church.

"Often I think of the devotion of Roman Catholics to their church and of the apathy of a great many Protestants. I dare not condemn any individual Roman Catholic for his devotion, any no Protestant has a right to condemn the devotion of any individual Roman Catholic," remarked the minister.

Dr. Semple then turned to the charges of the irregularities practiced which are he said, directed against liberty, disorders in the brotherhood and then Dr. Semple said "There is only one liberty and that is devotion to Christ and all He stands for."

"I ask all to unite to fight the anti-Christian forces which are seeking to destroy the liberty of our land."

During the service, a trio of Messrs. Sprague, Monck and Bankier sang two numbers.

To Make Comeback?

With the applause-thunder of a hundred concerts still rioting in her ears, Amelito Galli-Curci, world-famous operatic and concert singer, is pictured in a sunrise arrival at Los Angeles harbor. Unheralded, Mme. Galli-Curci, returned to Los Angeles, her adopted home city, from a concert tour of the world, began last July. She plans to return to the concert stage.

Obituary

LATE WOODROW A. SANFORD

Many friends were present at the funeral of Woodrow Alonzo Sanford, which took place Sunday afternoon from the residence of his mother, Mrs. A. Sanford, on South Front street.

The service in the home and at the graveside in Belleville Cemetery was conducted by the Rev. J. S. Medullen, assisted by the Rev. C. Kleinsteuber.

The bearers were fellow cadets with the late Woodrow Sanford in the Queen Alexandra School Cadet Corps and were as follows:—V. Campbell, M. Storms, R. Stevens, C. Nerrison, H. Smith, and G. Cook.

Known as Ramsay McDonald's of Australia, Rt. Hon. Joseph Aloysius Lyons and Mrs. Lyons arrive in Canada this week on their way to Ottawa and Washington on trade expansion expedition. Mr. and Mrs. Lyons, with their children at will tour Canada, leaving Toronto for Vancouver on July 13.

CITY HEAT WAVE BROKEN BY STORM

Rain is Heavy But No Damage is Reported

Jagged streaks of crackling lightning and voluminous growls of thunder crashing through the heavens awoke many Belleville citizens early yesterday morning and announced the belated arrival of the eagerly awaited thunderstorm which broke after a steamy preparation.

The lightning itself was very vicious and more than one crash sounded as if some house or tree in the city had been struck. However no damage was reported to the local police department and no fires for the damage from the storm has been demanded of local insurance companies.

Pounding rains in veritable cloud bursts accompanied the storm. So heavy was the rain that in a few minutes water flowed down the streets, over the curbs and streamed into the low places. In many places the catch basins could not handle all the water that came flowing into them. After the storm ceased, but it was reported by some people, was not so heavy as had been rained heavy there in the afternoon. It also rained heavy in Corbyville for a period during the afternoon.

ROCKLIFFE CAMP QUIET, ORDERLY

Ottawa, July 5.—(CP)— The Rockliffe Relief Camp five miles east of Ottawa, where camp workers struck and held a strike meeting was quietly and orderly at noon as the men filed in for their usual meals.

The strike meeting was attended by the 1265 of the men registered at the camp. The strike was confined to the number officials said although strike leaders claimed "all but the key men (those employed) in general jobs" about the camp have joined the strike."

The men who do a day wages with a minimum of twenty working days per month. The "demands" were similar to those made by the men at the Valcartier, ucbec camp. At Rockliffe Saturday a sympathetic strike with Valcartier," a spokesman said.

Picton Man Uses Heat Wave as Ruse to Escape

Milton, July 5.—Having been lodged in the jail here after a gun battle with police on a charge of attempted robbery, Fred Myatt, 24, of Picton, used the heat wave as the basis of a successful break for liberty on Saturday afternoon. Up to a late hour today the fugitive had managed to elude the police parties which have scoured the countryside for a radius of 10 miles.

RELIEF PROJECT CAMP AT AIRPORT WELL MAINTAINED

Men Well Looked After And Discipline of The Best

MANY NATIONALITIES

Camp Site Becomes One of Beauty Spots of The Province

Trenton, July 8 (Special)—Twenty cents a day. This does not seem much but when all is considered the boys at the Relief Project No. 32 are really better off than those employed in the towns, cities and farms.

Relief Project No. 32 was opened in November, 1932 to take care of the many single unemployed men, who were homeless and wandering from town to town. Since that date 4185 men have passed through the camp, which is located at the Leslie Field of the Royal Canadian Air Force. On visiting the administration village last week we found, that the population at present is 853. Full quota calls for the accommodation of 860 men. With the exception of maybe one or two, every language on the face of the earth can be heard at the camp.

Considering the thousands who have come and gone the cleanliness at the camp and the conduct is remarkable. When a man wishes to be accepted and passed by the doctor he is issued four pair of socks, one pair of khaki and one pair of tweed pants, two suits of underwear, two work shirts, a pair of boots, a hat and in the cold weather a mackinaw coat suitable for the purpose. Kitchen and office help are issued with lighter rest shoes. A laundry is maintained at the station where the men's clothes are cleaned at last once a week. There were but few sick men, when they arrive in the camp are also cleaned up before they are issued, whenever needed. Another item the 20-cents-a-day men have free of charge is that of medical attention. Every day Dr. W. J. Johnston of Trenton calls at the camp and is assured at the camp The doctor has only missed one day since the camp opened in 1932. The fine barracks block the spotless hospital is guaranteed. Patients more seriously ill are taken to the Belleville General Hospital for treatment.

Meals Quite Good

The meals are of the very best and are prepared in the most up-to-date kitchens. One is situated in the basement of the new Officers' quarters and School building and the other is operated in the main camp country school that was on the property of the Leslie Estate, but by the government for the air base. This unit can feed 535 men in twenty minutes while the other is capable of turning out 330 in the same time, all without the hurry.

Breakfast is on from 7 to 7.30 p. m., dinner 12 to 1 p.m., supper 4.30 to 5.30 p.m. The lights are out each night at eleven o'clock and the entire unit closed at midnight.

Any disputes are settled after both parties are summoned before the camp superintendent, William Goodwin. If the difficulties are not ironed out here they can come before the commanding officer of the Air Force and if necessary the complaint can be taken to Ottawa. Very little trouble has occurred in the camp. Each man is given a number and he is among the men but he is known on his number from the moment he is hatched. In the camp are many types of men, old and young, laborers and university graduates.

Recreation

The men at the base are afforded every line of recreation. The Project accordion band won the Eastern Ontario championship last year. Horse shoe pitching is a popular sport. Lighted courts are busy until a late hour each night. Boxing and wrestling are enjoyed and each month a boxing or wrestling card is opened to the public in the hangar. A most up-to-date ring is available each night. Softball is a main item of recreation and the Project have had's team in the Trenton league every year. In the winter they enjoy skating and hockey. A rink was erected last winter and the team entered in the Trenton and District Hockey League. Those who do not enjoy the more strenuous sports may read, play cards or listen to the radio. Each hut and dining room have their own radios. Every hut houses eighty-eight men and are equipped with shower and other accommodations that the fellow in many cases has to join in order to enjoy. In addition to the above the men also operate their own barber shop, tailor shop and shoe repair shop. All these places are operated free for the project men. Of the original 1000 men, 62 are still in the camp.

Work Goes In Rotation

Work done by the project is carefully picked and not of a heavy nature. They are not called over to stern bosses nor military discipline as it has been rumored. Trades are not worked on by the men at the camp. Carpenters, plumbers, electricians and other skilled labor of this kind is furnished from the surrounding territory and the men work two weeks about. Two to three miles of streets have been laid out and gravelled at the camp. Forty-five teams are maintained at the stables and fourteen trucks are in place along the thoroughfares. Two hangars are already erected and the steel work erected on the third with the excavating being done at present for the erection of the unit. One barrack block has been finished and the excavating commenced on the second. These buildings are 170' x 52' and three stories high. The east wing of the barrack houses the single men of the R.C.A.F. while in the west are 230 of the unemployed. The hotel erected by the project, is 116' x 26' and number five in all. At the shore of the Bay of Quinte the first seaplane hangar is under construction. The steel work is completed under contract. The concrete floor is finished and the roof is in place. At present the men are busy erecting erected of cement blocks. This building is 200' x 120' x 30' high. The workshop is almost completed and measures 181' x 100' x 30' high.

Homes Being Built

The largest building of all, the Headquarters and School building is nearing completion. It is 300 feet by 80 feet wide and two stories or 40 feet high. On the east end of the property on the south side of No. 2 highway, the first residence is fast nearing the finish. This house will be for one of the officers, likely the squdron-leader. On the west side of the line, south of the highway, work on the foundations of two blocks of married men's quarters are under construction. One block is of four residence and the other six. On both sides of the highway a six-foot steel fence encloses the R.C.A.F. base. For safety, a cement sidewalk was completed from the air station to the city of Trenton on the south side of the highway. Only one fatality has occurred by the men walking to town and that was recently, when a member of the project walked the highway instead of the sidewalk provided.

Some of the finest specimens of the male sex can be seen at work in the summer, especially when so many of the men work shirtless and are browned by the sun until they resemble a statue when hard and erect.

Twenty cents a day, with free clothes, tobacco, board, room, recreation, medical attention and institutions if necessary, barber, shoe repairs and laundry is not a bad job for the single men walking about Canadian livelihood.

When the old parties, Mr. Stevens said, were bound up in the present system of concentration of the control of wealth. He did not propose to attack them. They had chosen their paths. But he did propose an appeal for support on a new line of endeavor.

Mr. Bennett had no comment to make last night, when informed of the announcement. Liberal leader Mackenzie King was out of town and J. S. Woodsworth, leader of the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation was on his way to his home in Winnipeg.

The three delegates when questioned confirmed the announcement. Mr. Cook said Stevens clubs would act on the organization throughout Canada. He said the party's backers were not concerned with politics and had no personal ambitions. They were "just a lot of business people, amateur politicians at that, like."

Called New Lizcan

"Canada has found an Abraham Lincoln in her hour of need," was what Mr. Lizcan had to say as he pledged his allegiance to Mr. Stevens. Mr. Bell said it was "pride in Canadian independence" had led him to join the new organization.

Mr. Stevens' political career has been somewhat stormy. He gained into prominence in 1926 when he started grave irregularities in the customs department under Liberal rule. The charges led to the defeat of Mr. King's government, which lacked a safe majority in the House. In the "shadow government" of R. B. Hon. Arthur Meighen in which Mr. Stevens held sway and the general election of 1926 on the constitutional issue, resulting in a Liberal victory.

As chairman of the committee of the House set up to probe price spreads and mass buying he came into collision with his fellow cabinet ministers a year ago. The famous pamphlet of July, 1934, came from the Liberal headquarters and was intended for publication.

Certain statements in it were held to be unfair and unjust to certain organizations and it was further claimed by the Liberals to disclose the subject matter of the inquiry until the report was ready and other members had been consulted.

Resigned Chairmanship

The dispute did not break into the open, however, until October, at a cabinet meeting. Mr. Stevens was asked to make a statement, when the price spreads probe resumed expressing regret if he had injured anyone and promising that all parties who wished to give evidence before the inquiry would have full opportunity. Lourica gave a temperance reading. Mrs. H. Brenton, group leader, then took charge of the programme. Hymn "Jesus Savior Pilot Me" was sung and the 23rd Psalm was repeated by the Lord's prayer. Readings on evangelistic work in different parts were given by Misses Bird, Calsey, Brenton, Smallhorn, M. Pound, E. Pound, Black. The meeting was closed by prayer by Mrs. H. Brenton. A delightful lunch was served by Jack Clapp while Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Brenton poured coffee. There were 20 present and collection $2.15.

WORKMEN SAVED ONLY BY MIRACLE

Canning Retort Explodes Blowing Hole Through Roof

Trenton, July 8—(Special)—Only a miracle saved workmen from injury or death at the Trenton plant of the Associated Quality Canners Ltd., Saturday afternoon when a large retort exploded tearing a hole several feet square in the roof of the building at the iron lid of the retort and three large iron baskets containing several hundred cans of peas went flying into the air. Pete Frykman, workman outside on the sprinklers, narrowly escaped being struck by the heavy iron lid as it fell in two pieces on either side of him. Mr. Snider, plant manager was in the cooking room with several workmen, when the explosion occurred without warning. Peas were strewn inside and out after the conflagration. The noise of the explosion could be heard all over the town. The cause was not given. Ten pounds steam pressure is applied in the retorts before sterilizing the canned goods and testing for faulty cans. Operations at the plant will probably be resumed today.

NAME ANNOUNCED IN FEW DAYS

"This delegation," said Mr. Stevens referring to Cook, Lisson and Bell, "on behalf of those whom they represent claimed the right to present this program to the people of Canada so that their view might be expressed thereon.

"Furthermore they declare, and I agree with them, that it is contrary to the spirit of true Canadian democracy that our country's economic life should pass under the control of a privileged class which, unfortunately, is exactly what has occurred. It is contended also that it is the duty of the Dominion government to protect the people from exploitation and to ensure them equitable treatment and to the youth of Canada a reasonable opportunity to secure a livelihood."

When the two old parties, Mr. Stevens said, were bound up in the present system of concentration of the control of wealth. He did not propose to attack them. They had chosen their paths. But he did propose an appeal for support on a new line of endeavor.

MRS. F. PLUMPTON INJURED IN CRASH

Cut About Neck and Face When Cars Collide

Severely cut about the neck and face and suffering from the loss of blood Mrs. Floyd L. Plumpton, Corbyville, was rushed to the Belleville General Hospital shortly after midnight Saturday following a motor car accident on the fifth concession of Sidney, one mile west of Foxboro. Mr. Plumpton, the injured woman's husband and driver of an automobile, that Traffic Officers allege was struck by another motor car driven by R. M. Sewell, R. R. No. 2, Belleville, collapsed, when he arrived at the hospital in company with his wife. Both Mr. and Mrs. Plumpton were retained in the institution, with Mrs. Plumpton still in a serious condition today. Charges of reckless driving were laid against Seward, Traffic Officer Sert Delaney announced early Sunday.

The accident occurred on a slight curve in the road one mile west of Foxboro on the 5th concession of Sidney shortly after midnight Saturday. Mr. Plumpton was driving a touring car eastward and as he came around the curve met the Seward auto driven on the wrong side. What happened is not exactly known as there were no eye witnesses, both parties contending that they were well over on their own side of the road. Following the impact both cars were badly damaged about the left fenders and radiators, the left front wheels of both cars being damaged beyond repair. Traffic Officers Bert Delaney and Sam Sprague investigated and after close scrutiny laid a charge of reckless driving against Seward.

Several stitches were needed to close the nasty gashes on Mrs. Plumpton's neck and face and except for the loss of blood, the injured woman was progressing as well as could be expected, attendants announced. The injuries sustained by Mrs. Plumpton were the result of flying glass from the windshield of the car, which was broken during the crash.

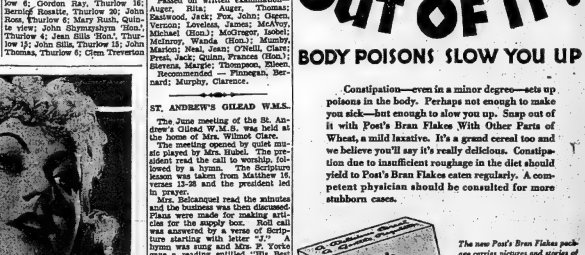
ST. ANDREW'S GILEAD W.M.S.

The June meeting of the St. Andrew's Gilead W.M.S. was held at the home of Mrs. Wilmot Clare.

The meeting opened by quiet music played by Mrs. Hubel. The president read the call to worship followed by a hymn. The Scripture lesson was taken from Romans 12-28 and the president led prayer.

Mrs. Belcanquel read the minutes and the business was then discussed. Plans were made for making articles for the supply box. Roll call was answered by a verse of Scripture starting with letter "J." A hymn was sung and Mrs. F. Irwin gave a reading entitled "His Best Tool." Mrs. Belcanquel sang a duet. Mrs. Wilfred Clare gave a Temperance reading followed by sentence prayers written by the members. A hymn was followed by a reading by Mrs. Fred Leavens, "Keepsly House in Malaysa." A reading by Mrs. Hubel on Friendship.



Members of Group 1 were hostesses and served sandwiches, cake and tea. Attendance 24 collection $2.46.

THE ONTARIO INTELLIGENCER

CANADA YEAR BOOK, 1934-35

The publication of the 1934-35 edition of the Canada Year Book is announced by the General Statistics Branch of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. The Canada Year Book is the official statistical annual of the country and contains a thoroughly up-to-date account of the natural resources of the Dominion and their development, the history of the country, its institutions, its demography, the different branches of production, trade, transportation, finance, education, etc.—in brief, a comprehensive study within the limits of a single volume of the social and economic condition of the Dominion. This new edition has been thoroughly revised throughout and includes in all its chapters the latest information available up to the date of going to press.

The 1934-35 Canada Year Book extends to over 1,250 pages, dealing with every phase of the national life and more especially with those susceptible of statistical measurement. Attention may be specially directed to the statistical summary of the progress of Canada included in the introductory matter and giving a picture in figures of the remarkable progress which the country has made since the first census of the Dominion was taken in 1871, sixty-four years ago.

Attention may be called to some of the special features of the present volume. There is included in Chapter I a brief description of Standard Time and Time Zones in Canada, which is of special interest to those who travel either in the flesh or by radio. There is also found in Chapter III a discussion of the Representation Act of 1933 and a special table showing the populations as in 1931 of each of the new electoral districts which will return representatives to Parliament at the approaching general election. Probably the most extended presentation of the result of the Census of 1931 that will appear in the Year Book is to be found in Chapter IV, where Religions are cross-analysed by racial origin for the first time, and several new classifications are added to the section dealing with Birthplaces; the chapter closes with statistics of the areas and populations of countries of the British Empire for the years 1911, 1921 and 1931 and of the countries of the world for 1931. The Mines and Minerals Chapter, together with the discussion of the new discoveries of economic geology in Chapter I, will be of interest to those who are concerned with this rapidly growing branch of our economic life.

Again, attention may be directed to the improvement of the introduction to the External Trade Chapter as well as to the final statistics of the Census of Distribution and Services of 1930, to which has been added a more summary treatment of retail trade based upon a 65 to 70 p.c. sample of all retail trade and covering the years 1931 to 1933. In the Labour and Wages Chapter may be noted the inclusion of tables showing both the occupational and the industrial distribution of the gainfully occupied population of the Dominion as in 1931. In the Public Finance Chapter appears, for the first time, a comparative analysis of provincial revenues, expenditures, assets and liabilities on the basis agreed upon at the Dominion-Provincial Conference of 1933; additional material regarding national income is also included in this chapter. The Currency and Banking Chapter includes a description of the new Bank of Canada and a classification of bank loans by industries and of deposits by amounts. In the Miscellaneous Administration Chapter there appears a study of liquor control, liquor sales and revenues arising therefrom, and the concluding chapter lists the honours and awards made by His Majesty the King to Canadian subjects from the resumption of the granting of titles in Canada (in January, 1934) to June, 1935.

The volume is illustrated by many maps and diagrams and the latest available data are everywhere included. Immigration and trade statistics for the fiscal year 1934-35 and dairying statistics, which it was not possible to include in Chapter VIII when this was being printed, will be found in the Appendices.

Owing to the urgent need for economy in the distribution of Government publications, it has become necessary to make a charge to all individuals receiving the Canada Year Book. Persons requiring the Year Book may obtain it from the King's Printer, Ottawa, as long as the supply lasts at the price of $1.50, which covers merely the cost of paper, printing and binding. By a special concession, ministers of religion, bonafide students and school teachers may obtain copies at the nominal price of 50c each.

Talent, lying in the understanding, is often inherited; genius, being the action of reason or imagination, rarely or never.—Coleridge.

FOR MY DELIGHT

Out of the dark of time I came
And into the dark I go,
With my life no more than a leaping flame,
And yet, I feel, I know
This little hour which is granted me
Like a spark against the night.
(For what is a life to eternity?)
Was given for my delight!

Through intricate weaving of many lives,
Down years unnumbered, slow
My place in the pattern at last arrives
And the light of the sun I know.
Beauty and rapture are mine to hold,
And the treasures of love and hope,
And mine to watch life's flowers unfold
In Earth's kaleidoscope.

Income from the deeps of time and space,
And hasten to realms unknown;
But gladly earnward I lift my face;
My joy is a rose full-blown!

THE HORSE LAUGH!

UP IN WESTERN ONTARIO publishers are still taking farm products on subscription, only hay being barred, because the publisher's Model T. was raised on alfalfa. Butter, eggs, strawberries, raspberries, etc., are preferred, and the newspaper circulation men show no hesitation in giving subscription receipts for butter and eggs and such—so much so that when the circulation men return to their homes at week-ends there are always a bunch of neighbors watching for them and clamoring for fresh eggs, fresh butter, fresh fruit, or what have you. One ambitious subscription canvasser had long called upon a certain farmer prospect and had finally been warned off the place. The farmer's wife wanted the paper, though, and the brave canvasser returned, cudgelling his mind for some method to break down the farmer's sales resistance and gratify the wife with the paper. The farmer found him in the kitchen talking to the farmer's wife.

"I thought I told you to keep off this farm," said the farmer.

Said the newspaper johnny, "Mister, I'm calling on your wife, have you any objection to that? She hasn't."

That being an effective comeback, one word led to another, and finally veered round to the question of a subscription to that great family newspaper, a matter of about five dollars.

There the farmer stuck—not one cent of tribute to the newspaper, despite the fact that his wife yearned for the paper.

Said the newspaper man, "Haven't you got something around this farm that you don't want, that you'd be glad to get rid of?"

"Well," said the farmer, "I've got an old horse."

"All right," said the newspaper man, "I'll take the horse," and he proceeded to write out a receipt for a year's subscription which he handed to the wife.

At first the farmer was inclined to be angry thinking he was being made game of, but there was the receipt, and the newspaper man claimed delivery of the horse.

It was some weeks later that the horse was delivered at the residence of the newspaperman in town, as per contract, signed and sealed—and delivered as choice steaks, roasts and stews, in the raw.

Delivery was accepted because the newspaper man was a breeder of thoroughbred dogs and the meat was used for feed.

So there you are—even an old decrepit farm horse has his use—and the farmer's wife is entitled to the daily newspaper delivered at her door every day, even if she has to hold out eggs and butter to pay the subscription price.

And in closing let us remind readers never to despise the humblest things, and the moral of the tale seems to be that it will certainly pay a horse on the farmer, and also a horse on the newspaperman—all going to the dogs—in all a good horse laugh.

PARLIAMENT HAS GONE OUT of business, municipal councils are taking their annual vacations, and a pretty question of how to get some real worthwhile public benefit out of relief expenditure has not yet been solved—most of the money being spent on relief being just a gift and of no present or future benefit to the community, rather an injury in that honest, decent, hard-working citizens are in danger of being made chronic loafers instead of earnest leaders.

REVOLT IN THE DESERT

by

T. E. LAWRENCE

As for the tribes about the Akaba road, we wanted their active help against the Turks to carry out the provisional plan we had made at Wejh. Our idea was to advance suddenly from El Jefer, to cross the railway-line and to crown the great pass—Nagb el Sitar—down which the road dipped from the Maan plateau to the red Guweira plain. To hold this pass we should have to capture Aba el Lissan, the large spring at its head, about sixteen miles from Maan; but the garrison was small, and we hoped to overrun it with a rush. We would then be astride the road, whose posts at the end of the week should fall from hunger; though probably before that the hill tribes, hearing of our successful beginning, would join us to wipe them out.

The crux of our plan was the attack on Aba el Lissan, lest the force in Maan have time to sally out, relieve it, and drive us off the head of Sitar. If, as at present, they were only a battalion, they would hardly dare move; and should they let it fall while waiting for reinforcements to arrive, Akaba would be rendered to us, and we should be seated on the sea and have all the advantageous gorge of Itm between us and the enemy. So our insurance for success was to keep Maan strong and weak, not suspecting our malevolent presence in the neighborhood.

It was never easy for us to keep the movements secret as we arrived by preaching to the local people, and the unconvinced would tell the Turks. Our best manoeuvre before Sirhan was known to the enemy, and the most civilian one could not fail to see that the only fit objective was Akaba. The demolition of Mudowwara and Jefer, too, confirmed that the seven wells of Jefer were enough absorbed that the Turks were to that extent on the alert.

Might be that Jefer really was denied to us; but we were not without hope that there too we should find the technical work of demolition done by those pitiful Turks. Dhaif-Allah, a leading man of the Jasi Howeitat, one who came down to Wejh and swore allegiance, had been present in Jefer when the King's well was tired by dynamite placed about its lip; and sent us secret word from Maan that he had heard the upper stone clap together and key-over the mouth of the well. His conviction was that the shaft was intact, and the clearing of it a few hours' work. We hoped so; and rode away from the Bair old leader, on the twenty-eighth of June, to find out.

Quickly we crossed the weird plain of Jefer, for day by day more wells were at the wells. They seemed most thoroughly destroyed; and the fear grew that we might find the first check to our scheme of operations, a scheme so simple as to elaborate that a check might be far reaching.

However, we went to the well—Auda's family property—at which Dhaif-Allah had told us the tale, and began to scomd about it. The ground rung hollow under our mallet and we called for volunteers able to dig and hold. Some of the Agayil came forward, led by the Mirqueb, a capable camel boy of theirs. They started with the few tools we had. The rest of us formed a ring round the well-depression and watched them work, singing to them and promising rewards of gold when they had found the water.

It was a hot task in the full glare of the summer sun; for the Jefer plain was of hard mud, flat as the hand, blinding white with salt, and twenty miles across; but time pressed, because if we failed we might have to ride fifty miles in the night to the next well. So we pushed the work by relays at speed through the mid-day heat, turning into labourers as the comfortable fighters in their faft; but this was the better sign, and our spirits rose. Before sunset the workers showed that there was no more packing soil, that the bottom between the blocks were clear, and that they heard the hollowness which slipped through splashing many feet below.

Half an hour later came a rush and rumble of stones in the shaft followed by a heavy splash and yells. We hurried down, and by the Mirsuqt's torch saw the well yawning open, no longer a tube, but a deep bell-mouthed cavern. A rope was across at the bottom, which was dipping in dark water, and in the middle—with spray here the Agayil who had been clearing when the key slipped, was striking out lustily but the effort not to drown. Everybody laughed down the well at him, but Dhaif-Abdulla lowered him a noose of rope, and he, when we drew up, very wet and angry, but in no way damaged by his fall.

We rewarded the diggers, and feasted them on a weak camel, which had fallen in the road that day; and then all night we watered, while a squad of Agayil, with a long chain, slyred up to ground-level an eight-foot throat of mud and stone. As dawn rose in earth was stamped in round this, and the well stood complete as fit in appearance as ever. Only the two Bair not very much. We worked it the twenty four hours without rest, and only to a cream; and still some of our camels were not satisfied.

From Jefer we took action. Ridirn went forward into the Dhumaniyah tents to see and their promised attack against Fufellah, the block-house which covers the head of the pass of Aba el Lissan. Our attack was planned for two days before the weekly wage was due, and the Turks replenished the client garrisons.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Smaling, who have been visiting their parents here, have returned to their home in Rochester, N. Y.

The Rev. Mr. Boynton officiated for the first time at the Methodist church on Sunday and created a very favorable impression.

Dr. Charles Bigger of Chicago arrived in the city on Saturday to pay a short visit to Mr. Brotherton-law, Mr. Wm. Clarke, and left today for Bostwick, Ont. It was his first visit to Bellefille in twenty five years.

Excursions from Bay of Quinte resorts have seldom or never looked worse than they do at the present time.

The Rev. J. L. George pastor of Cook Street Presbyterian Church, at the Sunday morning service informed the congregation that he had decided owing to illness in his family to present his resignation to the Presbytery at a meeting to be held in Madoc tomorrow.

50 Years Ago

JULY 8th., 1885.

Excursion parties are now the order of the day.

Mr. Pridham, Consul U. S. A. in this city will be tendered a banquet at the Dafoe House this evening.

Mr. J. P. Thomas has been elected a member of the Grand Council of the Sovereign Great Priory of Ontario.

The Bell Telephone is operating a line to Picton and purpose having a branch office and an office at Wellington and also at Consecon. There will be a great accommodation to the guests at these resorts.

Mr. F. S. Clark of the Bank of Montreal and Mr. George Sinclair were elected to membership in the Ramblers' Wheel Club recently. The club now has forty available wheels.

A benefit will be given Miss Linderman at the opera house on Friday night when "Forget Me Not" will be presented.

THE FOCUS OF THE PUBLIC EYE!

Canada has fifty-six thickly settled cities—the centres of highest buying power—from which radiate all the important markets of the Dominion.

More than two million daily newspapers are bought by Canadians every day, for daily newspaper reading is a habit that has grown and fastened itself upon our national life.

All the play and movement of civilization, from the Arctic Circle to the Equator, from the mystic East to the heart of the ultra-practical West—the life of the world—is focussed in the newspaper every day.

The readers of the daily newspaper embrace every class of occupation, every income group—the woman in her home; the executive in his office, and the messenger boy sitting outside; great merchants and keepers of small shops; artists, artisans, financiers and clerks; to each and all the daily newspaper is an essential part of everyday life, the focus of all human activities.

Daily Newspapers help to sell more goods than any other advertising medium because they are read by more people.

NEW DEPARTURE IN BOAT BUILDING

Toronto, July 8.—(CP)—A new speed boat, known as a "Hydrofoil" that he said was likely to do "something sensational" is being built in Detroit, F. W. Casey Baldwin, M.L.A., for Badeck, N.S., visiting here during the week-end, said.

Mr. Baldwin will "look over" the boat, being constructed along the lines of his famous H. D. 4 series built during the war, which actually made 71 miles an hour, and was equipped with an air propeller.

The new ship uses a water propeller. The hull will be held out of the water much the same as the fuselage of an airplane when lasting at high speed. It has two blades similar to an airplane wing to support its weight and it is believed will cut through the waves rather than bounce over them.

CATTLE RUSTLING

Brockville, Ont., July 8.—(CP)—Modern cattle thieves using a high-powered truck instead of canoe, ponies are operating in Lansdowne district. R. Dean, Kaiser's Corners' farmer, had two calves and a two-year-old heifer stolen.

On Friday evening the Simpson football team visited Stirling to play an exhibition game with the local boys. Owing to some misunderstanding in the date set for this game some of the local stars were absent and the flashy team in red from Belleville toyed with the boys and won by a 7 to 0 score. However, the Ladies' Home Journal and he was author of "Spring and Autumn" ing a win with a lead of some 15 runs. Perhaps at a later date another game could be arranged and Stirling could manage to put in a team like one that defeated the boys from Trenton a few weeks ago. Hereunder is was a ball game and the Stirling fans had a chance to see this smashing Simpson team give even a smart display of fielding and plenty of heavy hitting. The batting orders for the two teams were as follows:

Simpson—Johnston, Newbotham, Wilkins, White, Moon, Munning, Cooper, Phillips, Clark. Young pitched after the fourth inning.

Stirling—Jones, Potter, Fox, Bailey, Dowland, Meachillen, Long, Conley, Seale.

'WELL DONE' SAYS HITLER TO HIS NAVAL EXPERT RIBBENTROP

Fuhrer Adolf Hitler (left) congratulates Joachim von Ribbentrop, his special emissary on a master stroke of diplomacy. Von Ribbentrop recently completed the British government when he informed former Premier Baldwin and other British naval experts that Germany demanded a navy 35 per cent that of Britains, and that the demand was irrevocable. Sir John Simon replied that the government could not accede. Von Ribbentrop answered that Hitler would build the navy to that strength nevertheless. The upshot of the diplomatic embassy was that England permitted the desired building provided that Germany would never exceed that percentage. Von Ribbentrop flew to London to carry special assurances that Britain's mastery of the seas would never be jeopardized.

REMARKABLE ACTION SHOT OF 'PULL-OFF' PARACHUTE JUMP

A remarkable photo of a "pull-off" parachute jump shows the fully opened chute about to drag the jumper from the wing of the aeroplane. This was made during the rehearsals for the Royal Air Force pageant drive shortly to be held in Hertfordshire. A "pull-off" jump, incidentally, is when the jumper stands at the aeroplane's wing tip, pulls the rip-cord and lets the opening parachute pull him from the wing.

FOOT INFECTION CAUSES DEATH

Madoc Child Dies After Nail Pierces Her Foot

Madoc—Miss Frances Hoover, the twelve year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Damon Hoover, died in Belleville General Hospital on Tuesday afternoon. A few days ago the little girl ran a nail in her foot and the infection set in. She was taken to the hospital on Monday but failed to rally and died Tuesday.

On Thursday morning, Dan, the five year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Robinson of Madoc township, while hanging on a gate had the misfortune of having his hip broken. Dr. Bentley was called and the little chap is resting quite comfortably.

Mr. and Mrs. Artell and Mrs. Hoard motored into their new cottage at Moira Lake.

OLIVER HARFORD, AUTHOR, PASSES

New York July 6—Oliver Harford, aged 72, author, artist and playwright, died today of heart trouble, cynical gibes and literary imperfections which made him famous among the generations of the '90's and early 1900's.

He is listed as the author of twenty-eight books, and four plays, but it is reported he made the list only as he remembered the titles. His work appeared in St. Nicholas Life, the Century, Harper's, and the Ladies' Home Journal, and he was author of "Spring and Autumn" ing a "Merely Under Editor Norman Hapgood.

SUNDAY SCHOOL PICNIC ENJOYED

Sports Program at Sandbanks After Drive Through District

Picton—The Sunday School picnic of St. Mary Magdalene's church enjoyed their annual picnic yesterday afternoon at the Sandbanks. Two trucks and several cars carried the children and their teachers and parents through the beautiful East Lake district to the Lake Shore Resort. WILL COMMENCE CONSTRUCTION OF NEW BRIDGE

Workmen Busily Engaged on New Route of County Road

Carrying Place — With tweedy pavement busily demolishing the old blacksmith shop that stands at the corner where the Trenton highway meets the county road here, some reminiscent of those a year ago may once again be seen as the new road "through the fields" is begun. Activities commenced early on Thursday morning and by mid-day the roof and sides of the old shop, once the scene of many a meeting and discussion, were removed. The old stone forge together with iron rods and pulleys are still visible but within a space of hours they also will make way for another stretch of new highway. Men have been working at the south end of the proposed cut for several weeks filling in a roadbed through a swamp and cutting trees. Now piles of posts have appeared here and through the fields, the heads of workmen nearly buried in pole-like timber as they set to their toil in the hot gun. and last year's scenes are recalled by those who remember the construction of the Trenton highway. Several notables visitors have visited the scene of the new road with the past few days, among them Hon. T. B. McQuesten, Minister of Highways, and his deputy, also with the local county officials. While in the county last week Hon. Mr. McQuesten made the interesting statement that the completion of the new Murray Canal bridge would begin almost at once. This indeed is welcome word to many who see a growing tired of the detour from the pavement around by the old narrow bridge to reach the highway on the other side. Some time ago on account of difficulties between the provincial and the federal government regarding the cost of this bridge was published. Now it would appear that some agreement must have been made as work is to be commenced on the new bridge, very soon.

Crews day in Belleville flooded the highways and jammed the city with vast throngs of people, many of whom motored here as well as made jaun for any other reason. Now that the holiday is over for one day it was the parade excellent to see, but the crowds that thronged the many local people who attended, was astonishingly fine. No casualties were reported and only one small stomach was uncomfortable for a short time as it refused to digest the sticky masses thrust upon it by kindly.

One-quarter mile to the north of the canal a small office was built this week on the site of the old Indian service station owned by Mr. Ernest Hall. It is slated to be soon open for business very soon.

The Dominion Canal Co. was erected last week at the Say of Quinte Mills for the purpose of handling the dangerous corner takes the motorist quite by surprise if he is unfamiliar with it. Many accidents in the vicinity of this corner has long been needed.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Hennessy motored to Toronto on a pleasure trip through the northern part of Ontario and are residing in Toronto.

Local scholastics augmented by players from Belleville journeyed to Cobourg on Wednesday evening to play a baseball game with Cobourg a team there. Spectators saw the Cobourgers look an east 6-3 decision. Burnt pitching for Carrying Place had one bad inning and retired in the second after Hennessy had relieved him on the plate. He was replaced by Ross Hennessy who pitched good ball team who allowed only one run. Batting honors went to Chambers who was also the only man to get more than one hit against the comparatively strong Cobourg team. Chambers pitcher, as he connected smartly for two singles and a double in three times against Benedict-Proctors in Trenton on Saturday evening. A win will lift them to second place in the league.

BRITISH ROBOT AEROPLANE MAKES INITIAL FLIGHT

England's first official robot plane, controlled entirely by radio is shown here going through its paces for the benefit of air-force officials at Farnborough, Hants. The plane can fly at more than 100 miles per hour and rise to more than 1,500 feet, it was designed primarily to be used as a target at which anti-aircraft batteries could fire live ammunition. The officers in the fore ground are using the control panel which commands the movements of the pilotless ship. The controls are so delicate that perfect take-offs and landings can be made.

AS CANADA'S 17TH PARLIAMENT CAME TO AN END

AT THE CAPITOL

"Hooray for Love"

Mirth, Music and Slark Drama Share Honors in Smart Film

Comedy, romance and glamour share honors with a human interest drama at the Capitol for the first three days of this week.

The mirth and glamour is furnished by "Hooray for Love" in which are starred those two delightful troupers, Ann Sothern and the new heart interest, Gene Raymond.

"Hooray for Love" is a story of a young college man who aspires to be a Broadway producer and the girl who wants to be a musical comedy star. When their paths cross, it is love at first sight and they travel the road to success together.

Two clever comedy teams carry the burden of the hilarity problem in the story. Pert Kelton as a gold-digging chorus girl, is teamed with Etienne Girardot, as a genius old judge who is induced to put his money into a Broadway show so that his daughter can be in the company.

Musical selections sung in a night club and a radio station and a four act revue comprise the musical program. Bill Robinson and Marie Gambarelli furnish the dancing.

For those who like the weighty drama, "Among the Missing" will suit their tastes. It is the other half of the bargain program and a story concerns an aged father who falls in with a gentleman jewel thief. Acting as their cook and housekeeper in the rear of an antique shop where they transact their stolen jewelry into "Antiques" the old woman learns that the boy in the gang is in love with a sweet young girl, but is bound to the illicit profession by the domination of his older associates.

It is the old housekeeper who pets hold of the youngster and regenerates him. The climax is one of poignant interest and pathos and enables Henrietta Crosman to picture production, then you can't afford to miss "Vagabond Lady". Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's full-length feature comedy special featuring Robert Young, Evelyn Venable, Reginald Denny, and a large cast of Hollywood favorites.

The Belle Latest News Flashes will be exhibited on the same program.

Powell-Harlow Leaving

The two most talked of stars in Hollywood are now on the screen of the Belle at the same time, teamed in the picture, "Reckless" and these two stars are Jean Harlow and William Powell, ably supported by Franchot Tone and May Robson in important roles.

As a whole "Reckless", to be presented at the Belle Tonight for the last time is crowded with plenty of color, life, music, beauty and gayety.

The Latest News of the World, and a clever oddity, completes a program of ideal summertime screen entertainment in cool surroundings.

AT THE BELLE

"The Glass Key"

Comedy, Mystery and Thrills Abound in New Twin-Feature Bill

A Dashiell Hammett story, by the author of "The Thin Man", comes Tomorrow to the Belle Theatre, when "The Glass Key", starring George Raft, arrives.

Political manouvering, love intrigue and an enthralling murder mystery are the story elements of this picture.

Raft, the star, acts the political henchmen of Edward Arnold, political boss of a big city, supporting Charles Richman for Senator, in order to win the hand of his daughter, Claire Dodd.

Richman's son is murdered after he has an argument with Arnold, and the latter's political enemies immediately start a campaign to fix the responsibility for the murder on him.

Raft pretends to be estranged from the boss, cultivates his enemies and gains their confidence. Although he dares death to get it, he finally succeeds in trapping the murderer in a thrilling climax.

Rosalind Keith, a screen newcomer, is cast opposite George Raft. Guinn Williams appears in an important supporting role. Frank Tuttle directed "The Glass Key".

"The youngster is played with feeling by Richard Cromwell. Others in the cast are Arthur Hohl, Ivan Simpson and Billie Edwards. Also the lady patrons attending the Capitol on Monday and Tuesday, the management will present a print of the attractive Du Barry dinnerware.

CONCENTRATION OF TROOPS STEPPED UP

Warfare Likely Before Rainy Season in September

(By Andrew Rerding)
Associated Press Foreign Staff

Rome, July 8—(AP)—Italy stepped up concentration of troops for action in East Africa today, and some observers predicted warfare between Italy and Ethiopia before the rainy season ends in September.

The Blackshirt divisions, it was disclosed, have been increased in strength from 12,000 to 15,000 men. Four divisions have been completed and another is to be ready soon.

More than 3,000 soldiers and officers are en route to Africa on the ships that sailed during the week end. Other transports are ready at their docks, awaiting only the arrival of volunteer battalions.

MARY PICKFORD HEADS NEW UNIT

Will Produce Under Own Name Two Pictures

Hollywood, Calif., July 8—(AP)—Mary Pickford, who announcing she will head a motion picture production unit, is about to challenge a notorious Hollywood jinx.

Miss Pickford said yesterday she would shortly start work on "Great Artists' system, producing at least two pictures a year under her own name. The first of the readjustment following Joseph M. Schenck from the company.

The Toronto actress is not the first group to attempt to capitalize on the 25-year history of the movies's most vivid romantic characters—all film companies organized by famous players—and more important the personal fortunes of famous players.

Miss Pickford's personal fortune is at stake.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

NEW YORK - TORONTO - WINNIPEG

NEW YORK CLOSE

New York, July 8 (AP) — Steel stocks resumed their forward push in today's market and were joined by a number of specialties, mail order and farm implement issues.

Acme Steel got up more than 3 points and among gainers of around 1 to 3 were U. S. Steel and Bethlehem Preferreds, Republic Steel, National Steel and American Rolling Mill. Others, up to around 2 included Allied Chemical, Bullard Co., J. C. Penney, International Harvester, Case, Industrial Rayon and American Tobacco "B". Montgomery Ward and Sears Roebuck were active at fractional advances. The sale tone was firm. Transfers approximated 1,200,000 shares.

WALL STREET FINANCIAL

By VICTOR EUBANK

New York, July 8 (AP)—Renewed strength of steel, industrial specialties, mail order and farm implement issues today added fuel to bullish stock market fires.

Equities, generally, merely blinked at Washington happenings and the news, elsewhere, provided no distinct impetus to the favorable trend. A brisk rally in wheat took place at Chicago, but cotton was unable to get ahead. Foreign Exchanges were quiet.

Mining stocks were unenthusiastic when the price of imported bar silver at New York was again reduced 3½ cents an ounce, the market level was off ¼ cents. At the same time the American Smelting and Refining Co. advanced the price of lead $1 a ton.

Canadian stocks were quiet and a shade lower. Fractional losses were shown by International Nickel, Dome Mines and McIntyre Porcupine. On the bond market, Canadian Government s were ¼ to ¼ of a point higher. There was little activity on the curb market. Canadian dollars had unchanged at 99⅞.

Oil stocks started uncertainly, but soon found their stride. Gains of fractions to around 2 points were registered by U. S. Steel Common and Preferred, Game Steel, National Steel, Republic Steel and Bethlehem.

Southern Railway stocks and bonds were again under pressure, although Commission House commentators could advance no specific reason for the selling.

TORONTO STOCKS—Close

Toronto, July 8 (CP)—A lethargic summer market on the industrial section of the Toronto Exchange saw few changes from Saturday's last outstanding trade features. Ford A got into action on the up side in the afternoon session, the price gained a fraction of about ¼ on heavy turnover and the list held steady to strong but at the close the board showed a mixed list of declines and over gains. Distillers Seagrams showed a heavy trader in the liquor group but the selling was as good as the buying, the price closing unchanged.

Early afternoon prices on the industrial section were generally dragging except in the oils and Distillers Seagrams. In Seagrams support appeared to be plenty of stock offering and the price weakened a fraction to 19½. Walker G. and W. common was able to hold a small gain.

Trading was quiet during the oil group but for a loss of ¼ for Imperial and a small fraction for McColl common. International Nickel weakened ¼ and Consolidated smelters showed a half point. Brazilian, Ford A recorded a drop of the minimum fraction.

TORONTO MINES — Close

Toronto, July 8 (CP)—While trade came mainly in dribbles the Toronto Exchange's list of base and mining section of the Toronto exchange was quiet and featureless today. The shares of the medium priced gold issues were off during the early trading but the low priced issues were mostly made up before the close. Senior golds were generally quiet with prices showing little change.

Trade was spotty on the mining section in the early part of today's session with prices holding firm on the whole. A few of the cheaper golds were off a fraction or more slightly during the morning, the latter group reflecting a fewer market for spot silver but bids were firmer in the early afternoon.

Senior golds boarded hardly any changes while recessions of 3 to 5 cents were posted for Little Long Lac, Sylvanite and Pickle Crow. In the base metals Noranda, Mining Corporation and Hudson Bay were steady and Falconbridge and Mc Missouri improved slightly.

Board Room Gossip

As supplied to Biggar and Crawford by Financial Service.

Beaufor-Gold Mines.—Operations have been resumed at the property in Beauce, Que.

Parkhill—Drilling proceeding 'in high grade ore on ninth level in new vein which was first encountered on 8th level. Latter developed to 80 to 90 tons daily from previous rate of 50-55 tons.

Murwood.—A report from the north states that all operations have been discontinued at Murwood Gold Mines property in Tibiemont.

Siscoe—Production in June valued at $182,835 from 12,333 tons of ore milled. In first six months of 1935, production was $1,113,333 from 74,302 tons of ore.

The local market last week continued its narrow trend. The public is not showing any buying stocks for the time being, although any setback from current levels would probably bring about good investment demand.

From a usually well-informed American source there comes intimation that by the fiscal year ending July 31, Distillers Corporation-Seagrams will report earnings of around $5 a share. This would compare with earnings of between eight and nine million dollars, or around $4 a share. Net income was equivalent to $1,965,393 or $2.63 a share.

Shareholders of the Bank of Canada residing in the Province of Quebec are advised that they may secure their definitive certificates in exchange for their interim ones in Montreal now at their convenience.

Although Harry Oakes has resigned the presidency of the Lake Shore Gold Mines and is taking up his residence elsewhere with the idea of saving in respect to taxes, his position in the shares will not be disturbed. Mr. Oakes' field is practically informed. Harry Oakes and his associates will continue to own 1,300,000 common shares of Lake Shore.

CHEESE MOVES TO 11 CTS. ON BOARD

Bonus to Factories Will be Paid by Government

At the Belleville Cheese Board on Saturday bidding the buyers present was brisk. Bids started 10c and increasing by fractions until 11c was reached at which all cheese boarded was sold, the buyers being Messrs. Jas. Cook and O. F. Ostrom. A week ago the price paid was 10 3-4c.

Previous to the boarding of the cheese Mr. F. R. Mallory, Secretary of the Board, referred to the Dominion Government's action in regard to the paying of a bonus of 1 1-4c for every pound of cheese, that is manufactured in every plant, thus is inspected. At the end of each month a statement as to the number of pounds made has to be made out and signed by the salesman and secretary of the factory and forwarded to the department. A cheque will follow. This was for the months of July, August and September.

Factories Boarding

Thirty-one factories were represented by salesmen with the result that 1640 boxes of white and 128 boxes of colored were boarded. Mr. Cook selected 720 boxes and Mr. Cairnon the balance which he resold 995 boxes. The factories represented were as follows:

Montreal Produce Review of Past Week

Montreal, July 8— Exports of cheese from Montreal last week were announced today at 15,000 boxes, which compares with 14,697 boxes in the preceding week and 14,977 in the corresponding week last year. There were also exported 3 boxes of butter, 150 cases of eggs. For the season to date cheese shipments are running under last year.

Receipts of dairy produce at Montreal last week, with comparisons, were announced by Board of Trade Saturday as follows:

	Eggs	Butter	Cheese
Last week	9,015	23,572	30,175
Week ago	11,400	23,572	29,050
Year ago	19,313	33,919	34,035

As regards cheese, receipts of cheese advanced fractionally during the week; eggs were steady on a little easier new season's eggs were cheaper and old potatoes were higher, and poultry lower for turkeys.

The butter market ended the week at 20c to 21c for finest creamery in tubs or 1-lb. rolls, while small lots to the retail trade were quoted by jobbers at 21c to 22c for 1-lb. prints.

The cheese market was 10 3-4 to 11c for No. 1 Ontarios and 10c to 10 1-8 for No. 1 Quebecs.

On the egg market graded shipments arriving in cartons or 1-dz. lots were 21 1-2c to 22c for A-large, 20c to 21c for A-medium, 19 1-2c to 20c for B, and 17 1-2c to 18c for C. Small lots to the retail trade were quoted by wholesale jobbing houses as follows, per dozen:

	Cartons	Loose
A-1 large	22c	...
A-1 medium	21c	...
A-large	22c	20c
A-medium	21c	19c
B	20c	18c
C	18c	17c

The poultry market was steady. Quotations to the retail trade on small lots dressed weights were as follows, on A grade stock: 8 grade being two cents per pound lower:

	Per Lb.
Turkey	24c
Milkfed chickens	24c-26c
Selected chickens	21c-24c
Fowl	20c-22c
Broilers	24c-26c
Geese	18c-20c
Roasting fowl ducklings	24c-26c

Livestock

Toronto, July 8—(CP)—Opening movement on the Toronto Live-stock market was very slow with not enough sales on the cattle division to make a quotation and lambs, sheep and hogs at a standstill. Calves' market easier.

Receipts as reported by the Dominion Stockyards Limited were: Cattle, 200; Hogs, 1,700; sheep and lambs, 700.

A few lots of choice handyweight butchers sold at $6.35 to $6.40 and a few lots of choice heavy steers brought $6.00 to $6.50.

The calf division was easier at $6.50 to $7.00 for choice and at $3.50 for common grassers.

Lambs were steady with packers bidding $8.75 F. O. B. for best handyweights and $8 off car. These bids were 25 cents lower than last Thursday's close.

No carry sales were made on sheep or lambs.

Quotations: Calves good and choice $6.00 to $6.50; common to medium $3.50 to $5.50; grassers $3.00 to $3.50.

Cattle: hogs, sheep and lambs; no quotations.

Single Handed, Doug May, Oshawa, Defeats Radios 4-3 Batting in Runs With Homers

Hits Four Sackers off "Bud" Wilkins And Jack Williams

WEAK LINEUP

"Sonny" Green and Calhoun Unable to Play Through Injuries

Motor City Stadium, Oshawa, July 8 (Special)—Two home runs by Doug May, who celebrated his local debut in an auspicious manner, proved the downfall of the Stewart Warner "Radios" when they met the Oshawa Dominion Brewery nine in a scheduled C.O.B.L. tilt here Saturday afternoon. The final score was 4-3 for the homesters and May's bat was responsible for all four tallies, getting two circuit clouts over the right field fence one in the third and the next in the seventh and both coming with a team mate on the bases.

Belleville, minus the services of Calhoun and the popular "Sonny" Green, presented a somewhat weakened line up but they lost the decision due to the superior hitting strength of the locals combined with a couple of tough breaks which didn't help the Belleville cause one iota due to careless base running.

Wilkins did a fair job on the mound for the visitors until he was called in to the dugout at the end of the seventh, "Chief" Williams took over the pitching assignment and the Oshawa victory was chalked up at his expense.

Doug May, an Oshawa boy playing before the home fans for the first time in his career as a visiting player, followed Jubenville's single in the third, with a lift over the fence to put the Motormen in front. "Moose" Matthews hurling a nice brand of ball and receiving excellent support from his mates the "Brewers" held this advantage until Belleville snapped into life in their half of the fourth and took the lead with a three run scoring splurge. Weir singled and stole second to start things off and then after two were out, Little reached first on a fielder's choice after Smith had drew a walk. Ford hit a long double, McIlroy followed with a clean single to complete the scoring for the victors.

Belleville held this lead until the seventh, when Williams went in to hurl, as Wilkins had faded towards the end of the sixth. Osborne, first batter, singled and then after Jubenville had flied out, May hit another one over the fence and that won the ball game for the homesiders, as Matthews finished in fine style.

Any hope that Belleville may have had was spoiled by poor base running, an offence which was repeated the very next inning. With two out, Gray hit a triple ball to right field base and was called out, after the umpire's attention had been called and then Smith hit a double in the eighth and he also missed the initial sack, with the same result.

Errors were quite scarce and the game was played in fast time, the homesters distancing their rivals and deserved the decision. Green and Calhoun are scheduled to match May's two homers while Jubenville had two safeties and Smith had two out of two. McIlroy and Weir each had a couple of singles for Belleville while Ford starred in the outfield with some fine catches.

The Oshawa nine appear in Belleville for the return C.O.B.L. tilt on Tuesday.

Score by innings:

Dean Brothers Put on Act to Win Double Bill Placing Cards Firmly in Second Hole

Tigers Continue to Blast Way to Top of American League

CHICAGO COMING

Win Seven Straight Before Being Defeated by A's.

One of the most annoying things about Frank Frisch's job of managing the Cardinals must be that he is so hard to stay mad at Dizzy Dean. The elder brother of the famous pitching pair has developed a habit of getting himself in wrong with the manager and the fans by displays of temperament but each time he pitches his way back into their good graces.

Last month he had a row with his team mates in Pittsburg and the fans booed lustily at him when he returned, only to forget their anger in their pride at his pitching. Yesterday they weren't prepared to toss anything more damaging that resounding boos when Ripsy Russell Jess Haines in the fourth inning of the opening game against the Reds—his first appearance after his recent exhibition game "rebellion" at St. Paul.

A Brother Act.

But old Ds again went out and pitched himself a ball game, checking the Cincinnati rally and giving only three hits through the rest of the game while the Cards won 9 to 4. Brother Paul followed him on the hill and outpitched Paul Derringer with the aid of enemy errors for a 5-1 victory.

Circuit play throughout settled the Cards firmly in second place, right behind the Giants, who recovered from two defeats to trim Brooklyn 9 to 2. It's games in front of the Cubs who regained third place by pasting Flatex 13-1, Mel Ott's 18th home run, made with the bases full, played a big part in the Giants' victory which finally brought Carl Hubbel his tenth win of the season.

Philadelphia remained hanging on the standing by trouncing Brave 5 to 1 behind Johnny Vee's six-hit fling ing and moving into sixth place ahead of Cincinnati.

American League.

Tigers continued to dominate the American League flatly by slamming down Browns by a 12-4 count although they were outhit 18-14 and Rollie Hollers walloped three-base runs to account for all the St. Louis tallies.

Other clubs broke even in doubleheader played during the week-end. Bugs Chicago's rapidly recovering White Sox downed Cleveland 3-0 with a sensational fielding display behind Ted Lyons to extend their winning streak to seven straight and Cleveland's string of losses to eight, but Indians broke both strings with a 7 to 6 triumph in the loosely played afternoon affair. Lefty Grove's relief hurling and Bill Werber's flashy base running enabled the Red Sox to take a 13-inning opener from the Athletics 7 to 6 but Philadelphia replied with a 3 to 1 victory on homers by Pinky Higgins and Charley Berry. The Sunday law ended this game after the eighth inning.

LATTA DEFEATS CANNIFTON 9-3

Winners Score All Their Runs in Two Innings

In a regular scheduled game of baseball of the South Hastings League played at Latta on Friday night July 5 Latta defeated Canniffton by the score of 9 to 3. In spite of the one sided score the game was closely contested, Tyner pitching for Latta was in good form keeping the hits well scattered. Simpson for Canniffton pitched good ball for two innings but in the third Latta got a hitting streak netting 5 runs and four in the next innings. Bush was called in for Canniffton and finished the game. A good crowd witnessed the games and interest is increasing in the league race. Batteries for Latta were Tyner pitching Young catching; for Canniffton Simpson and Bush pitching Webb catching.

Umpires plate Jerow, Ashley on bases.

In the other league game played at Melrose, Melrose defeated Shannonville by the score of 4 to 3.

USUAL ADMISSION

CURRENT SPORT

DAY BY DAY

The C.O.B.L. has developed into a pretty kettle of fish, especially following the reverses suffered by the Ponies and the Radios over the week end. The Radios came out on the short end of a 4 to 3 score at Oshawa, while the Ponies dropped a 5 to 1 verdict along the shores of the Ozonobee. The result of these games finds the Ponies still atop the loop with six victories and five losses, while the Petes are in the cellar with five wins and six losses to their credit. Intermediately the Radios and Brewers are tied for next and between with six wins and an equal number of losses apiece. The standing of the C.O.B.L. today finds the league leading Ponies only one game ahead of the fighting Petes. "Some race, people, some race."

Glancing over the schedule we find four games scheduled this week. Starting on Tuesday (twilight) the Oshawa and Belleville nines clash on the local ice with the victor having a chance to go into the league leadership, providing the Petes take the Ponies in Kingston on Wednesday. At any rate the Radios and Brewers are both in a tough spot and will be battling when they tangle here on Tuesday as the winner is assured of second place until Saturday, when all four teams again swing into action; Belleville at Peterboro and Kingston at Oshawa being the scheduled games for next week end Doubtlessly the Fearless Williams will be given the pitching assignment for the Radios on Tuesday at the Exhibition Park, Oshawa, while Manager Frisk of Dose Ogden, Magzie Frisk or Lefty Wills, "the rumored.

In reference to Saturday's game in Oshawa it had all the markings of Doug May versus the Radios. May made his initial appearance on the home ice an auspicious one as he floored, or should we say popped, two home runs over the short right field fence, with one apiece each time. May's two circuit blows accounted for all of Oshawa runs. Even at that the Radios are responsible for losing their own game due to very poor base running. In the seventh Gray hoisted one of Matthews' slants for three bases, but was called out for skipping first. Gray and his team mates roared long and long, contending that the first footed right fielder had touched all the sacks, but Umpire Fair ruled otherwise. In the very next inning Jim Barclay duplicated this feat on a hit that was good for a double. There is positively no reason for a base runner skipping a sack, it is nothing short of mass carelessness, but those in a position to see the play inform us that Gray did not skip the initial sack, but that Barclay did. At any rate Umpire Fair's decision nailed a local rally in the seventh and doubtlessly cost the Radios a victory. Bud Wilkins, recently drafted from the intermediate ranks, started his first senior game on the mound and fared fairly well for six innings. He was relieved by Jack Williams in the 7th while Moose Matthews hurled for the homesters. Incidently when Gray and Barclay were called out it robbed the Radios of two extra hits.

When the Radios took up the field in Oshawa a weakened team lined up against the regimented Brewers. First and foremost Coach Mills was absent, he being called by the Toronto Athletic Commission to the decision of the commission's summer golf tourney at Lake Cheechokkeo. Manager Young handled the local reins in ship-shape manner, however. To make matters worse Sonny Green was unable to accompany the team, owing to an injury received while in Peterboro during the holiday games and to add insult to injury Bud Calhoun is laid up with an infected hand and will be out of the line-up for Belleville at least. Mel Little took over the second base duties on Saturday and looked capable in showing. Incidentally we hear, that Art Logan has been appointed coach of the Oshawa team in the stead of Teddie Saunders, who was recently given the axe by the Brewers. Coach Mills will be back on the job for Tuesday night's game, we hear, while it is expected, that Sonny will also return to the infield. The Radios are in a tough spot and will have to be at top form to take the Brewers this trip. To date the Brewers have won three out of four games played with the Radios and naturally the Mills-Young clan are out to even matters up for Saturday's questionable defeat.

"My health will not stand it any how, I'm not getting the co-operation that was promised me," declared Charlie Tebworth as he informed us he had resigned from the position of secretary of the local Senior Softball League today. Naturally the position of secretary of any softball league is anything but amicable and with ill health facing him Mr. Tebworth should have been afforded more and better co-operation. He informs us that club secretaries continually refuse to forward the results of their games and therefore he is unable today to compile a proper league standing. Tonight's two games are scheduled in this league with St. Pauls going to Regionsville and Young Canada battling the Alsmides in town. On Wednesday the Alsmides and the St. Pauls battle at which time the Foster Ward aggregation can climb into a contending position by downing Glen Bowler's crew.

The Bay of Quinte Loop swings into action with a double header on Wednesday when the local club entertains Cataraqui while Picton and Napanee appear in Gibbardville. Tuesday as the home game of the Trainglites is concerned the local intermediates have a chance to precisely clinch a play-off berth by taking the Cananoque aggregation into camp, as a loss for the visitors will leave them with no defeat to date.

..Only two points finished the S. E. A. C. race for the U.E.L. trophy decided by W. C. Miller Wednesday, The strong wind and heavy sea forced six of the eight starters out of competition. The Mikzi U.E.L. entrant was won this year by Frank Smith's John, while Harry Edwards Aurora C was second. A goodly crowd witnessed this special race under adverse conditions.

In an exhibition softball game played at College Field on Saturday evening the Hamilton Jewery Company of Kingston defeated the Ontario Intelligencer nine, at the local Kingscastille loop by the score of 9 to 7. The closeness of the score well indicating the play which was spirited throughout.

JOKA WINNER OF MIKEL CUP

Boats Forced to Quit Due To Heavy Seas

Owing to the local Yacht Club racing at Picton last week, this race was run on Sunday, July 7th, and if anybody was looking for thrills the waterfront supplied them.

With the wind blowing hard from east to southeast and quite heavy seas running, ten boats including the Felix of Picton, crossed the starting line at 1.23 p.m. with the Allegro (Reg. Hinchey) taking a handy lead, followed closely by Lucky, Anne C, Joka, Atlanta, Dorothy and Let's Go. At the first buoy the Allegro still maintained the lead, followed by Anne C. and Joka. After U. Freeze and Let's Go. For two lap round, the Allegro held her lead with the Joka and Anne C. fighting for second place, by this time the Atlanta, After U. Dorothy, Felix and Louis had withdrawn. After the first buoy was passed on the third lap, the Allegro capsized some trouble, believed to be swamping and withdrew, leaving Joka and Anne C. to battle it out for honors. From the second buoy to the third, first one, then the other would lead the lead with the Anne C, taking the buoy first, and Joka close on her stern. Coming into the home stretch, near Schuster's Dock, the Joka got to weather of the Anne C, and squeezed past, and the Anne C. came a quick turn over to win Joka's weather side to get past, but caught a bad squall and headed for the rocks, but by quick maneuvering cleared them, but the race was lost and the Joka crossed the line a winner for the second time of the Miller Centennial Cup by 2 minutes. The only other punt in finish was the Peaks, who had developed trouble at the Bay Bridge and came in about 15 minutes after.

In between laps, Mr. Geo. Saunders gave an exhibition of surf board riding, with Bert Richardson, G. Gibson and Miss Hazel Saunders assisting as riders, both single and dual.

SECOND POSITION TO BE AT STAKE

Smarting under a 4 to 3 defeat in Oshawa on Saturday the local Stewart-Warner nine return to home diamond where they meet the "Brewers" in a regular scheduled C.O.B.L. fixture on a twilight game on Tuesday at the local Exhibition Park. The Motor City aggregation and the Radios will be battling for sole possession of second place in the league standings. Coach Mills announced that Jack "Chief" Williams would get the home team pitching assignment with either Frisk on Ogden Magzie Frisk or Lefty Wills behind the visitors. The largest crowd of the season is expected to witness this struggle, as the Oshawa and Belleville clubs are now tied for second place in the C.O.B.L. standing.

CANADA BUDS LOSE FIRST ONE

Trenton, July 8 (Special)—The Canada Bud softball squad suffered their first defeat of the season when Trenton, on a night when the Downs-Coulter team defeated them 13-12 after an extra inning. It looked bad in the first when the Buds ran in four runs leaving the locals 10-3 but the boys from the textile mill came right back in their half to net six counters. At the end of the seventh inning the score was tied 11-all. The Buds batted first with Wrens scoring after getting safe on Ferguson's error. Then Johnston got on on C. Benham's error and Johnston bunted safe, Miller struck out, Ferguson was safe on first on Wrens' second. Lott out after Ferguson took grounder and threw to first. Niddery evened the count when he smacked the second pitched ball for a homer, C. Benham out to first, Drake single but was out at second on Niddery to Bell. Kennedy singled and Bell hit to bring in Wyatt and end the game. Heavy hitting featured the game leading many home runs were hammered. Downs-Coulter: c, Bell; 1b, Brinklow, J. Benham and Niddery also hit the circuit, all scoring for the winners but was replaced by Niddery in the fifth. Darwin Sager pitched for the Canada Buds and was nicked for twelve hits.

Carrying Place Defeat Benedict-Proctor

Bill LaTour's Carrying Place nine defeated the Benedict-Proctor Friday evening by a narrow score of 5-7 on the Benedict-Proctor claim the game as the winners played three men who are not signed on the league's certificates. Allen Anderson, who was playing ball and hockey before many of the players of today were born, started for the LaTour-lad clan. He was in bad shape several times and wiggled carefully until the last half of the final inning, when the visitors scored five to almost knot the score. Anderson was replaced by Nicholas who now finished the next two batters without letting them even get on base. Hood pitched a steady game for the losers. Richards got a single and a double for three. The Benedict-Proctor have failed to register a win this season in seven games.

CHAPTER 25

For a brief space Judith forgot all, else save that she was with Spencer and was happy. Came, doubts, danger all vanished under the spell of the moon and the personality of the man opposite her at a plain kitchen table, sharing his cocoa and coffee with her. The past and the future were as if they did not exist; only the present mattered and it was very sweet.

"It's mighty brave of you girls here, Judith, and I presume the girl of the gods ought not to be questioned. Still, I am curious to know how you came to be on that lonely mountain road at one o'clock in the morning, with a wrecked automobile standing at the bottom of the hill burning at the bottom of the cliff several hundred feet below you. Tell me the secret. Were you learning to drive, and practicing at midnight?"

Judith's smile faded and she shuddered a little.

"I hate to think of it," she said, "and I want to put it out of my mind as best as I can. Please, you tell me how you came to be there so providentially."

"No mystery about that," Spencer replied with ease. "After I had dined in state last night alone here in my palace, I dismissed my retinue of servants and, smoking my cigarette out in front of said palace, forswearing my fate that the beautiful princess was not here to share it with me—the palace, I mean, not the pipe. The moon had not come up and it was as black as sin.

"Presently I heard a crash and it flashed into my mind that some fool gone over the cliff on that old mountain road. It's seldom used now, but it is certainly criminal neglect on the part of the authorities that a good barrier has not been put up to prevent just what has happened. Then I said to myself, 'Some fool there at the foot of the cliff, and pretty soon it was a roaring pillar of fire. I knew then that it was an automobile sure enough, and that whoever were in it if they escaped death from the fall—which would hardly be possible—were being roasted to death.

"It was inconceivable that there was anything I could do to help anybody, but there is a fascination about such a tragedy that draws one to it irresistibly. I took my flashlight and started for the foot of the cliff, my direction being well guided by the beacon light of the burning car. It was quite a distance and rough going, and I must have been half an hour getting there. And after I arrived there was nothing I could see by a long way. It was a roaring bonfire. The gasoline tank of the car must have been nearly full and it took quite a lot of time to burn out. I just sat there and watched it. By the time it burned down enough for me to make out the battered and twisted wreckage of a car, but nothing that looked like bodies. Every might have been consumed in the flames." Judith's shudder was apparent to Spencer and he broke off, and he patted her hand reassuringly) "but it seemed to me that there ought to be at least a few bones left."

He grinned boyishly.

"Don't get the idea, though, that I was disappointed—I wasn't. I was relieved. But I couldn't get it straight in my mind how an automobile could go over that cliff with nobody in it, and curiously compelled me to climb the hillside and investigate.

"That's how—I came across you—and thank heaven for my curiosity! Now your story, Judith. You can't put it off any longer."

"I can tell it in a few words," said Judith gravely. "I had a phone call that evening from Miss Maddison. She asked me to have tea with her. Of course I was surprised, but I accepted. She sent her car for me, and after tea sent me home in the car. The chauffeur did not take me back to the hotel. It was very dark and I could not tell where we were going, but I became alarmed when I discovered that the chauffeur was not really a Negro, but a white man disguised up. That was when the car stopped and he said he had to get out and fix something. Then he put his hand in and did something with the emergency brake—that was when I saw his wrist and forearm were white, though his hand was black —and the car started off. I jumped out and must have been stunned. When I came to myself the moon was up and I saw a man coming. I thought it was the chauffeur and screamed—then I saw you. Heaven God Nanny—and—what in the world is the matter?"

As Judith's story proceeded, Randall Spencer's face paled. Presently he rose nervously from the table and started pacing the room in agitation. At the climax of the narrative, when Judith told of the disguised chauffeur pressing the emergency brake—that was when I saw his wrist and forearm were white, though his hand was black —and the car started off, I jumped out and must have been stunned. When I came to myself the moon was up and I saw a man coming. I thought it was the chauffeur and screamed—then I saw you. Heaven God Nanny—and—what in the world is the matter?"

As Judith's story proceeded, Randall Spencer's face paled. Presently he rose nervously from the table and started pacing the room in agitation. At the climax of the narrative, when Judith told of the disguised chauffeur pressing the emergency brake to send the car hurtling over the cliff he groaned inwardly, and as Judith finished she saw him, white faced, leaning against the wall of the room and shaking as though seized with palsy.

Distressed, she too rose and went to him.

"What is the matter, dear? You are shivering so! You are ill!"

He put one arm tenderly around her.

"No,—Yes! I am ill—sick unto death, in mind and soul! Physically I'm all right—but your story has been a terrible shock to me, Judith. It is incredible! That any should be deliberately plot death for it can mean nothing else."

"I am sorry to have had to tell you," said Judith simply, "but you asked me."

"I did—and you have told me the truth, calmly and dispassionately—I know that. But I never believed she would—go that far. Well, at least it relieves me of all obligations to her. God, if her plot had succeeded! It is too horrible —too horrible!"

Spencer threw himself on the couch in an agony of mind, and buried his face in his hands. All her tenderness and sympathy aroused, Judith went to him and sought to console him with endearing caresses and words:

"Never mind, dear—don't think of it any more," she whispered. "I'm here, and nothing shall part us."

"The woman must be a fiend incarnate!" groaned Spencer. "And I loved her —or thought I did — once."

"She must love you—terribly," said Judith, seeking unselfishly to soften his agony of mind by lightening the dark picture of the woman the truth was now revealing to him. "Perhaps her mind has become unsettled."

"It is good of you to say that," said Spencer, "I hope that is the true explanation. At any rate, I must see her and tell her that this has closed every obligation that has bound me to her and to silence and implicate me. I will give her one week to go away."

"Please don't—dear her," Judith pleaded, "I am afraid for you. I do not want to say any more against her than I am obliged to, but I fear she is a desperate and determined woman."

"Well do I know that," said Spencer with a grim smile, "but I must see her once—and for the last time."

"She as much as said you and she were secretly married," said Judith, with reluctance. "I did not intend to speak of that, but I am afraid you have yet to let her."

"It is a lie," Spencer affirmed, "I know it is —selfish to question a woman's veracity, but— God knows I have suffered enough, Judith—I pray! And still, for all she has done and tried to do, I would ask her forgiveness for my part in it, could I but feel that I could. Judith you are the most considerate, the noblest woman I have ever known. Could you find it in your heart to forgive her if she would go away and never cross our paths again?"

"Gladly," said Judith earnestly. "I have no desire for revenge. All I ask of her is that she leave Harley and you —alone."

"Good!" said Spencer. "Then I am going to ask a great favor of you—that you do not express her sentence to kill you."

"I have no desire to oppose it—I am only too glad right where she is," said Judith.

"She will. She dare not repeat the attempt," declared Spencer. "I shall go to her and tell her very pointedly that this is the last straw, and that she must leave this country within a week."

"She won't do it," said Judith, worried. "She told me that she always won. She is resourceful and determined. I am afraid to have you go to her."

"Nonsense," said Spencer. "It is the only thing to do. You do not know, Judith all that I have suffered—but the end is at hand. I shall go and have it out with her tomorrow. Then I shall be a free man again, and you and I, sweetheart, will see at least the beginning of the end of our troubles. In the meantime you will not expect me here? You will explain your delay in reaching home in a way that will not brand her as attempted murderess?"

"Yes," said Judith. "I have no wish to expose her if she will leave us alone. Still, I dread to have you go to her. I am afraid. If you go tomorrow you must let me know you are safe. I will expect your visit. If I do not hear from you by tomorrow night I will feel sure that some disaster has overtaken you. And then I will expose her, you may be sure."

"You need have no fears," said Spencer reassuringly. "Everything will be all right. And now that you are staying at a hotel, why not drop landlady to play the spy. I will be able to use the telephone. I will call you tomorrow night at eight o'clock."

"But you have no phone," said Judith cautiously, "and you will excuse yourself if I say I'd rather you go around using other people's."

Spencer smiled.

"I will find a way without danger. And it won't be long now that I am a fugitive from justice. I'll be walking into Captain McMahon's office most any day and asking him if he was looking for me."

"Oh, Randall, I do hope it will be soon!" cried Judith.

"Very soon, dear. But now I must take you home. What will Sally say?"

"I had forgotten all about Sally," said Judith ruefully.

Ten minutes later they were on their way to the city in the black coupe.

"You must let me out at the street car line again," Judith cautioned, "for I cannot have poor Sally spoiled now."

"All right," said Spencer lightly. "But everything is in our favor. It's too late, or too early, for anybody to be up to see us."

As though in contradiction of his confident assertion, a car swung from a side street directly in their path, compelling Spencer to step quickly on his brakes.

A red-headed civilian and a burly blue-coat got out of the car, and Judith exclaimed, "Bob Harley, —Thank God you're safe!"

"You're under arrest, Spencer," growled Captain McMahon, "charged with the murder of Hezekiah Stokes."

TARZAN THE UNTAMED—

(Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service)

With all her strength, the Red ape drove the spear deep into the panther's savage breast. Tarzan arose from Sheeta's lifeless body and shook himself after the manner of wild beasts. He braked the girl, a quizzical expression upon his face.

Tarzan of the Apes did not wish to be obligated to Red ape! Yet in his honest heart he had to admit admiration for her courage, a trait that always appealed the ape-man most. "Here is the kill," he said, picking up the deer's carcass.

"You will want to cook it, probably. Tarzan does not spoil his meat with fire." In silence they followed him to the boma. As they prepared the couple meal, the girl worked a little apart from the others. "Jan's she wonderful!" murmured Roger.

A low growl issued from Tarzan's clean-cut lips. "She is a Red and a spy!" he replied. The Englishman turned quickly upon him. "What do you mean?" he cried. "I mean what I say," replied the ape-man. "She is a Red and a spy." "I do not believe it!" exclaimed the aviator.

WHEAT SITUATION REMAINS TENSE

Buyers Urge For More Detailed Statement From Canada

(By George Hambleton)
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)
LONDON, July 9—(CP Cable)

Despite recent recoveries, the London wheat situation remained tense today. Buyers are urging, that the Canadian Government should release Canadian facts regarding disposal of its surplus, and make a more detailed statement of policy in regard to stocks than that given by Prime Minister R. B. Bennett last week. As a consequence of this slump one Liverpool firm is reported in difficulties.

Interviewed by the Daily Telegraph Sir Herbert Robson, chairman of the Baltic Exchange, said changes, say that to prophesy about the wheat situation was more difficult than to forecast the results of horse races. Fear of Canadian dumping had caused a slump, he said.

"The Canadian Government," Sir Herbert continued, "assures us that there will be no dumping, but we do not know what that assurance means, or what the Canadian Government is going to do. Probably it does not know itself. Since last Thursday wheat values in Canada are of selling at any sort of price, it is impossible to say if it is going to end, but you cannot say."

'PEACE' MEASURES AIMED TO SETTLE LABOR DISPUTES

Camp Workers Likely to be Restored to Gainful Employment

SITUATION REVIEWED

At Calgary Camp Desert-ers Cut off The Relief Rolls

By The Canadian Press

Scenes and sounds of strike warfare re-echoed across the Dominion today as government officials pondered "peace" measures aimed at settlement of labor disputes and a return to gainful employment of unemployed relief camp strikers. More than 5,000 men were affected.

A strike of 500 workers at the Rockcliffe airport relief project near Ottawa, yesterday, constituted the second phase in relief camp discontent stepped in disorder at Regina just a week ago.

The picture was brightened somewhat by decision of recalcitrant strikers at Vancouver to return to government relief camps on their demands, that there be no blacklists were accepted.

Winnipeg and Calgary remained last strongholds in the west, where deserters held out for adjustment of camp conditions. At the foothills city 76 strikers, returned from Regina, refused to register for camp work, while a Manitoba group numbering 90 held camp equipment at Winnipeg demanding the right to re-enlist as a unit.

And while strike scenes dotted eastern Canada, Ottawa was expected a movement to re-organize the system of caring for single unemployed through a plan which government would climax the federal government's efforts to restore peace to the idle.

Situation Reviewed

A brief review of the situation today brought these highlights:

Quebec: Delegates representing 1,000 strikers at Valcartier, unemployed concentration camp, received a report from Ottawa in reply to their demands for a day wage and improved working conditions.

Rockcliffe (Ottawa)—A tentative agreement with 500 relief camp workers was sought following election of strike leaders to their demanded $1 a day and adjustment of working conditions generally.

Winnipeg—Eighty of Manitoba's contingent of 600 unemployed camp strikers remained determined in opposition to march on Ottawa to lay their grievances before federal authorities. All single men were under police guard.

Calgary—A group of 76 camp deserters were cut off relief when they refused to return to camps on their arrival from a trek to Regina.

Vancouver—The British Columbia government was informed today it has agreed to proposals submitted by 80 unemployed that there would be no discrimination against them for strike activities—a condition they sought before ending their insurrection action, activity along the waterfront continued despite appeals of 300 longshoremen to return to work.

Ottawa—Timber operations issued an ultimatum to 1,000 striking pulpwood workers camps would be closed by the end of the week if they failed to return to work.

APPROPRIATION PASSED

Toronto, July 9—(CP)—Appropriation of $2,736,000 for the Toronto police department with radio equipment was directed by a legislative committee today, by a division in which the majority was only one in excess of the two-thirds vote necessary to carry the proposal. The vote was 17 to 16, which divided 14 to 5 in favor of purchasing the radio equipment opposed by the Police Commission and Chief Constable Draper.

Strike at Rockcliffe Relief Camp Resumes as Men Refuse to Work

Ottawa, July 9—(CP)—The strike at the Rockcliffe relief camp was resumed this afternoon, shortly after one o'clock when the weather cleared and the men were called out, only a few responded and went to work.

"We are sticking" was the terse comment of the strike spokesman.

A notice was posted on the dining-room door today calling on the men to stay on strike. It read:

"All strikers:

"Don't go to work until further notice. Show your spirit in the fight.

"(Signed) The Authorities."

Superintendent G. Hall Roy ordered the men of No. 1 camp out to work; but they congregated on the steps of their quarters and sat passively. Fifteen minister later Acting Superintendent Steve McAllister went through No. 2 camp. The men adopted the same attitude there,

Work starts on the U. S. Government's $30,000,000 Passamaquoddy tidal power project as Major Philip E. Fleming, army engineer in charge, breaks ground at Eastport, Me., while Rep. Ralph Brewster and crowd looks on. Project will harness famous tides of Bay of Fundy for electric power. Lower is first blast set off by telegraph from Washington. Map shows location of project that will employ thousands for several years.

Pay for Surplus Power Until Contracts Revised

Premier Hepburn Gives Statement on Power Issue

Toronto, July 9—(CP)—Action of the Ontario government respecting power purchase contracts with Quebec Companies remains in abeyance, until he confers with Premier L. A. Taschereau of Quebec and later with the power companies, Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn said today.

The Premier recalled the Taschereau conference would not take place until Attorney-General A. W. Roebuck returns from his vacation. It was Mr. Roebuck, who raised the contract question in the Legislature last season by declaring the contracts "illegal, void and unenforceable."

"We will pay for the surplus power until the contracts are revised," the Premier said after agreeing the province was still paying for the surplus.

Asked if this meant a general revision of the contracts nullifying legislation passed by the legislature declaring the contracts "illegal" the Premier said it applied to power at present being received. He declined to be questioned further but said nothing could be done until Mr. Roebuck returned later in the month.

The act declaring "illegal" the contracts with Chisholm Power Company, Besuharnois Light, Heat and Power Company, James McLaren Company and Ontario Valley Power Company has not yet been proclaimed. A clause in it provided the act would not come into force until proclaimed by the Lieutenant Governor.

Mr. Hepburn said the government remained firm in its refusal to accept the 27,000 horse power from the James McLaren Company which had been scheduled for delivery on July 1.

GOODRICH'S PLEA SURPRISES COURT

Says He is Innocent of Murder of Lillian Gallagher

Detroit, July 9—(AP)—Merton Ward Goodrich pleaded innocent to the murder of Lillian Gallagher at his arraignment today in Recorder's Court.

The plea obviously took the court and the crowd of spectators by surprise.

A gasp went up as Goodrich, his knees shaking, told Judge Thomas M. Cotter, that he pleaded innocent and that he wanted the court to name an attorney to defend him.

Judge Cotter ordered, that the former trap drummer, who has confessed slaying the 21-year-old girl, be given a routine examination. Goodrich was led out of the courtroom immediately.

Mrs. Goodrich was not brought into court with her husband.

Goodrich, who has said he was "anxious to get it over with" gave no explanation of his plea.

RECORDS BROKEN IN HOLSTEIN SALES

Association Declares 99 Per Cent Increase Over 1934

BRANTFORD, Ont., July 9—(CP)—All existing records for the registration and transfer of pure bred Holstein cattle in Canada have been broken, according to yearly report figures just released from the head office of the Holstein Friesian Association of Canada at Brantford, Ont.

In all 14,705 head have changed hands, which represents a 99 per cent increase over 1934. Exports to the United States total 4,536 head and are 180 per cent. higher than last year.

Prices on the whole particularly in Ontario and Quebec have improved from 50 to 100 per cent.

Registrations for the period total 15,531 and show a 23 per cent. improvement, despite the heavy expert tuition of breeding stock.

BURSTING DYKES TRAP POPULACE IN LARGE AREA

100,000 Homes in China Under Water as Toll Mounts

FIRE ALSO MENACE

Ancient Walls Only Thing Saving Changteh From Obliteration

(Copyright, 1935, By The Associated Press)

Changteh, Hunan Province, China, July 9 (AP)—The people of this city clambered for life tonight as a devastating flood engulfed and the surrounding country.

Every dike protecting the city and the low lying farm lands adjacent to the flooding Yunan River and Tung Ting Lake, with one exception, have collapsed.

One hundred thousand homes within Changteh are already under 10 feet of water as this is written shortly before dawn tomorrow the flood is still rising.

The populace is trapped within the area 2½ miles square. The people are frantically clinging to anything above water, including floating debris.

Property within the city and for miles around, with all crops, have been obliterated. Fire is adding to the horrors.

Changteh's staunch and ancient walls are the only things protecting the city from being wiped off the map. All areas outside the walls have long since been submerged, while the ancient city within the walls is a tiny island in the sea. Only see what the future holds.

Within the walls the inner city is submerged, while the waters slowly climb higher inside.

Outside, seemingly limitless expanses of water are piled to depths of 10 and 15 feet. That portion of Changteh which still is alive looks to be a huge tub in the center of a vast lake, stretching in every direction farther than the eye can see.

While the river swept down with its greatest volume into Tung Ting Lake, the big body of water, also overflowing, backed up to this city, which ordinarily is 30 miles from the lake at the closest point.

No Fruitience as Yet

The Associated Press was able to send this story of hundreds suffering through telegraph lines operating only at intervals.

The Swedish Lutheran Presbyterian missionaries are attempting to evacuate women and children if possible, but their efforts are merely a drop in the bucket of disaster.

Numerous buildings of this mission are among those already under the flood waters. Those remaining are being kept in use by the missionaries, but the ratio of one mission residence is where the missionaries are sheltering is five.

They are living in boats in their city dweller by boat.

The mission hospital forumulately is situated on higher ground than the majority of the buildings. Thus the hospital continues to function, but no one dares envisage what is going to happen when the water begin to subside.

Rev. J. J. Bannon, a nurse whose home address is listed as of Medicine Hat, Alta., and Melbourne, Australia, interrupted yesterday during as she tried to navigate a raft from the 20 corpses along the edge of the city wall. A portion of the wall crumbled and the raft was swept into the narrow inland water which poured through the gap.

BRITISH GOLFERS SCORE EASY ONE

Defeat Canada and United States in Pro Tourney

Prestwick, July 9—(CP)—Great Britain won the first golden age international tournament with Canada and the United States concluded this afternoon. Final point score was: Great Britain 31-1-3; United States 16, Canada 4 1-2.

Tr next three Canadians reporting also went down to defeat: D. Darwin beat Dr. R. J. Parry of R.-milton, 3 and 4; A. Aitken def. Dr. Thomson, Prestwick, 2 up; same margin; and H. Denoste defeated George Robinson of Toronto 6 and 5.

MANIFESTO OF STEVENS' PARTY ISSUED FRIDAY

Personnel of Executive Also Available at Same Time

NO ENDORSATIONS

Local Clubs Will Choose Candidates After Policy Announced

Ottawa, July 9 (CP)—Name of the new political party whose leadership he has accepted and its manifesto would be announced Friday noon on Friday night according to present expectations, Hon. H. H. Stevens told a press conference today. Personnel of the executive officers of the new party in the various provinces would be available "within two or three days".

The former trade minister expected to leave for western Canada within the week. It had not been definitely decided", however, where he would open his trans-Canada speaking tour, he stated.

"No candidate up to the present has received the endorsation of my self or the new party," Mr. Stevens said.

"We are going to be as careful as possible about the selection of candidates," he replied to questioning. "They will have to be endorsed by the local body representing the party as far as it is possible to do so. In regard to men in the standing party members of parliament, we would naturally be glad to consider in every case their affiliation with us, but only on the understanding they will be free to act unfettered anyway they must run under the name of the party."

Manifesto Will Explain.

The former minister was asked if he had any remarks to make on published comments today on the formation of his new party. "None of these expressions of views are most interesting, some may I say amusing," he answered. "I see no reason why I should be perturbed or chagrined."

"What about the statement of William Aberhart stating the Alberta Social Credit Party would be willing to co-operate with you and your group when the new party has formed proposals of social credit and national monetary reform?" he was asked.

"Our position will be made clear in the manifesto announcing our program," Mr. Stevens replied.

He had received many suggestions from all parts of Canada for platform the former minister replied to interrogation. Some suggestions are good, but some are obviously impractical, but I would not be inclined to ridicule or label any of them because they suggest the people have not thought out new plans more intelligently than ever before and are suggesting reforms from a sincere source, I am sure," he added.

Dr. Varney of Detroit Succumbs to Acute Indigestion

Montreal, July 9—(CP)—Railway officials here last night were advised that Dr. Varney of Detroit, died of acute indigestion on a pool train last night near Brockville.

Mr. Varney was travelling with his friend of Detroit, according to information received here. The body was being taken to Detroit on the Canadian National-Canadian Pacific Railways.

Premier Baldwin Praises Progress Made by England in Four Years

London, July 9—(AP)—Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin, replying to the first full-dress debate upon his new government in the House of Commons, today challenged the Socialists to find "a single country that has made more progress in the last three or four years than this country".

A labor party spokesman, Arthur Greenwood, moving a vote of censure on the government for its handling of unemployment, asserted industrial production had increased only 27 per cent in the United States since the beginning of 1932, against only 20 per cent in Britain.

Special Session Would Deal With Italo-Ethiopian Conflict

Not Likely Britain Will Impose Embargo Against Prince

London, July 9.—(AP)—An extraordinary meeting of the League of Nations Council and Assembly was forecast today in an official communique.

The communique was issued following conferences by Joseph A. C. Avenol, Secretary-General of the League, with Sir Samuel Hoare, Foreign Secretary, and Anthony Eden, Minister for League of Nations Affairs.

It said Avenol called on Sir Samuel and Capt. Eden and "discussed various questions which will be dealt with by the council and assembly of the League of Nations in the near future".

Avenol's conferences with Sir Samuel and Capt. Eden were held separately. Before the Foreign Secretary had talked with King George for half an hour.

A clarification of whether Ethiopia expects to seek arms in Great Britain was expected with the arrival of the new Ethiopian Minister to London, the legation as Warocex C. Martin.

Likely to Resign

Geneva, July 9.—(AP)—Italian circles predicted today that Italy would resign from the League of Nations if a special session of that body were called on the Italo-Ethiopian conflict but a special session appears likely because of the breakdown in the conciliation commission proceedings.

A resolution adopted by the League Council May 25 provided a special session of the body should be called July 26, if the Italo-Ethiopian arbitrators failed to reach an agreement and failed to appoint a fifth arbitrator to act as umpire.

It also provided for a council session July 28, at all events, if the dispute had not been settled by that time.

Today the Italo-Ethiopian Conciliation Commission decided to suspend its sessions indefinitely. The Commission members arranged to depart from Scheveningen immediately. It was not immediately known if the Conciliation Commission intended not to take up the problem of arbitration or of naming a fifth member.

If this should prove to be the case the council will have to decide whether it should meet August 4 to consider the dispute.

Affects World

The dispute between Italy and the African Empire already has gravely affected the world's economic and financial experts who are meeting here privately to study the feasibility of lifting the economic and financial penalties on nations embarking on aggression by the two pudlations of international treaties.

Italy's invasion of Ethiopia is the League Council as a sequence to Germany's repudiation of the military clauses of the Versailles Treaty.

Diplomatic quarters heard that Germany's action in the Saar district had advocated applying economic sanctions against Italy.

CROPS DAMAGED BY HEAVY HAIL

Hamilton, July 9—(CP)—Two valuable cows owned by Harcourt Kern, Oneida Township, were killed by lightning in an electric storm on the farm yesterday afternoon in one of the most severe storms known in the Caledonia area for many years. The storm cut a swath two miles wide, destroying considerable crops, only moderate showers fell in Caledonia. Four acres of tobacco, field stone as big as hickory nuts fell and caused great crop damage.

CANDIDATE FOR MAYOR ARRESTED

Accused of Slaying Waiter on Night Club Ship

Boston, July 9—(AP)—Francis J. Roche, 40, Cambridge city councilor and announced candidate for Mayor of that city, was booked on a charge of manslaughter today in connection with the death of an elderly waiter — once the favorite servitor of former United States President Calvin Coolidge.

Roche surrendered to police last night several hours after Sergeant Joseph Fallon of the homicide squad began an investigation into the death of Austin T. McGeough, 62-year-old night club waiter, who formerly resided at Antigonish, N. S.

McGeough died yesterday of injuries received a year ago, when he allegedly was kicked in the back during an altercation on a ship, operated here as a night club.

FIRST WHITE BOY AT ARDOCH DIES

J. Pierre Watkins, Lived in District For 75 Years

Kingston, Ont., July 9 — (CP) — The death occurred at Ardoch about 10 miles north of here in Frontenac County, of J. Pierre Watkins, first white boy to settle in the district. Mr. Watkins was born in Ardoch seventy-seven years ago and had been living in Ardoch for past 75 years. The district was then a wilderness. He went north with his parents and had to clear the land to build a home.

BELIEVE YOUTH IS OVERCOME BY HE .T

Anxious parents requested local police to assist in the search of one Elmer Dunkley, last seen as he left his boarding house in Peel Ward late last Friday night in quest of relief from a severe headache. Elmer Dunkley, originally a Picton youth, is described as being 5 feet 11 inches and of fair complexion. There is a predominate mole on his upper lip, while the letters "Dunk" are tattooed on his left shoulder. His parents are of the firm belief that the young man has wandered during the warm spell last week and has wandered away.

MICHAEL J. ROE TRAFFIC OFFICER

Michael J. Roe of this city, was yesterday appointed to the position of traffic officer in the city of Belleville, following the resignation tendered by Provincial Constable Jack Drusieck. Mr. Roe is well known in the city having been previously employed by the Dominion Oil Cloth and Linoleum Company and came to the local police force with ment highly recommended by his previous employers and citizens at large. Mr. Roe's application was accepted by the Belleville Police Commission at a meeting held at the Court House late yesterday afternoon. Over 15 applications were received by the Commission, Chief Kidd announced today. Traffic Officer Roe will commence his duties immediately and has already been instructed to enforce the local traffic by-laws to the letter.

Eight Dollar Theft Brings Sentence of Two Months

Airport Worker Says He Did Not Realize Wrongdoing

TRENTON, July 9.—(Special)—George Armand Casavant, 36, was sentenced to two months in the County Jail by Magistrate E. J. Butler, K.C., of Belleville in Trenton court Monday afternoon. Casavant pleading guilty to the theft of eight dollars from the till at Jack Boban's Service station near the airport. He also pleaded guilty to the theft of several articles of clothing from the airport during February of the Department of National Defence. He stated that he was guilty but did not realize his wrongdoing as he had been distressed heavily for four days previous. Crown Attorney R. C. Donnan, K.C., read two previous convictions of theft to the accused, one in Quebec and one at Kingston and it showed that he had served sentences of four and one month on the two counts. The magistrate gave him two months on the one charge and one month on the other, both to run concurrently.

Two speeders and a reckless driver paid their fines, A young woman from Toronto, Gwendoline was charged with speeding but pleaded not guilty. After the evidence of Constable Huffman and Hall was accepted the magistrate found her guilty and she was assessed the usual costs. A case of having liquor was next called until Thursday next.

Four youths appeared before the magistrate in juvenile court to answer charges of pleading guilty to the theft of two dollars from milk bottles. The first two got off with a severe lecture and pointed out to them that they were starting on the wrong path and if they appeared again they would have to go to the Industrial School until they reached the age of twenty-one. Another boy admitted the theft of a bicycle at Wellville and on a visit to the Canadian Exposition at Toronto. He received an twelve rings, four cigarette cases, a watch and chain and a clock from a local merchant. The next youth pleaded guilty to the theft of three bicycles and a bag of golf clubs. He was charged with indecent assault but pleaded not guilty, and the case was enlarged for one week pending an investigation by Captain Allen Rankin, Provincial Police Inspector of Belleville.

The late Mrs. Robert Ireland

The funeral of one of Smithfield's oldest residents, Mrs. Robert Ireland, was held from the Smithfield United Church on Saturday afternoon with a large number of friends present to pay their last respects. The services at the church and the graveside at Greenwood cemetery were conducted by Rev. Ralph Spencer, pastor of the Smithfield United Church. The pall bearers were Percy Maynard, M. L. Way, Robert Smith, William Wood and Corey Snider.

The late Mrs. Ireland was before her marriage Georgina Fraser Croft and was born in Smithfield forty-nine years ago, daughter of the late Andrew Croft and Agnes Logan. Her husband Robert Ireland, an employee of the Canada Creameries, two daughters, Laura and Margaret, and one son Max are left to mourn her passing. Two brothers Claude and Orloff of Rochester, New York, also survive. The passing of Mrs. Ireland takes one of the most active workers of her village and an untiring worker of the Smithfield United Church. In the time of her death she was president of the Ladies' Association.

The Late Mrs. Fred N. Alyea

The death of Georgina Frances Schryver, beloved wife of Fred N. Alyea, occurred at her residence in Murray township on Friday, July 5th, after an illness of almost three years. The late Mrs. Alyea was born in the same township where she spent her entire lifetime, fifty-one years ago, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Schryver. She was very popular in the community and her passing will be greatly felt especially in the Mount Zion church where she was an untiring worker. Her death will be a great loss to the Women's Institute as only suffered one defeat this season.

the late Mrs. Alyea was an ardent worker of that organization.

Her husband, two children, Allan and Hilda are left to mourn her passing. A brother, William Schryver of the English Settlement and two sisters, Mrs. Walter Powers of Toronto and Mrs. Annie Brown of Salem also survive.

The funeral attended by many sorrowing friends was held on Saturday afternoon with interment in the Carrying Place cemetery. Rev. Ralph Spencer, minister of the Smithfield United Church officiated at the services. The bearers were William Ostrigan, Gordon Harvey, Harry Simpson, A. Hayes, Hugh Maitland and Scott Hutchison.

Addresses Rotary

Dr. Stan Montgomery of Whitby was the guest speaker at the Trenton Rotary club last evening. The new president elect, George Shonlier took his place at the head table for the first time. He said he hoped the Trenton club would see an increased membership during the coming year and he thanked the members for electing him to the presidency. The chair was handed over by vice-president Jerry Squire who has been acting as president since the death of Thomas Jarvet.

Dr. Montgomery was introduced by George Astley of Whitby. The speaker gave a very interesting lecture on his experience in Rhodesia in Southern Africa. He told of the habits, of the people and their diet and dress. He told of their fight with warfare. Lantern slides were shown of many scenes in the territory over Dr. Montgomery was stationed for two and one half years. He also exhibited many of the native devices of the native and also the weapons in warfare. The entire talk was most interesting and educational.

Dr. Montgomery is a member of the Whitby club and was accompanied by Rotarians George Astley, Jack Brook, Harry Lemmon, Irwin Astrop and Jack Roblin of the Whitby Club.

Rotarian Ed Simmons voiced the appreciation of the local club to Dr. Montgomery and the visitors.

The next meeting will be a general business affair with no speaker.

Humane Society Meet

The Trenton Humane Society met last evening in the town Hall to wind up the business of the season until October when the new meeting will be held. Mr. R. J. McNair was in the chair, Mrs. J. Stark, the secretary-treasurer, gave her report which showed that the recent tag day brought $60.26. The accounts were passed and the annual report was read. It showed the fine work being done by the society and many suffering animals were destroyed during the month.

Downs-Coulter Move to 2nd Place

A big sixth inning that netted them eight runs, has moved the way for the Downs-Coulter softballers to come from behind to defeat Whitfall Can by a score of 12-10. The win changes the position of the two teams in the league as the Downs-Coulter now occupy the second position while the Cans move into third, which will give the Coulter position before the important tilt.

Cord Derry started on the mound for the Whitfall's but was relieved by Jack Kidd after four batters had faced him. He walked the first, had an error on the next, struck out G. Benham and walked the next, filling the sacks. Kidd held the winners until the sixth when they all scored except one man. Staples started for the winners but was shaky and was replaced by Niddery in the third frame. They got a pair of counters in the third and another two in the sixth.

The league is now producing good ball after a shaky start. The Downs-Coulter are still on top, having only suffered one defeat this season.

LIEUT.-GOVERNOR KIWANIS VISITOR

W. C. Davidson, Toronto, Congratulates Club on Attendance

W. C. Davidson, K.C., Toronto, barrister and Lieutenant-Governor of the Central Division of International Kiwanis, paid his annual official visit to the Belleville Kiwanis Club and addressed its members during the non-delay luncheon today Lieutenant-Governor Davidson was to have spoken on the subject of "club attendance" but owing to the creditable attendance record of the Belleville Club he changed his topic, after congratulating President Cliff Bacragar and his fellow Kiwanians on their splendid attendance reports. Subsequently Mr. Davidson spoke on the laxness of the individual clubs in the matter of tendering their annual statements and achievement reports.

The booster of the day was Gordon Blue, proprietor of Blue's Marketeria, who informed his fellow Kiwanians, that his business was the largest independent retail grocery store in Belleville, also boasting of the largest floor space. "We are the largest Canadian account in the city with the National Grocers and we invite you to use our "phone service". We also deliver free of charge all meals and carry prices. Come up and see us some time," concluded Mr. Blue.

The program for the day was also been supplied by the new members, but owing to the visit of Kiwanian Davidson, this important meeting was again postponed. Kiwanian Ernie Allen, chairman of the sports committee, reported a substantial amount having been derived from the recently concluded wrestling bouts, $141.00 in all. The money will be used for charitable purposes, Mr. Lee assured the President.

In addressing the local Kiwanis in relationship to the laxness of the individual clubs in submitting annual reports, Lieutenant-Governor Davidson stated that there were 46 clubs in Ontario, Quebec and the Maritimes. There have been only nine annual statements received from these 46 clubs, but fortunately in our own central zone five of the nine were received. As you know your own Belleville Club in your central zone, therefore I expect the remaining four clubs in this zone to forward their annual reports," requested Kiwanian Davidson. In conclusion the speaker advised President Bacragar and his fellow officers to engage the better class of programs which can be depended upon to stimulate attendance. Prior to inviting all members to the annual Kiwanis Ladies' Night banquet, September 21-23, Lieutenant-Governor Davidson asked the club to itemize their club activities in their annual reports in order to emulate the various activities. The Chair entertained some real authentic information in relationship to the possible membership of the club funds.

Kiwanian Phil McKee thanked the speaker for his educational remarks and suggestions.

CARDINAL DIES

Venice, Italy, July 9—(AP)—Pietro Cardinal La Fontaine, 74, Patriarch of Venice, died at 10 a.m. today from arteriosclerosis.

The Cardinal , once mentioned prominently as a possible successor to Pope Benedict XV, received extreme unction last night and lapsed into unconsciousness from which he never revived.

Pope Pius XI sent his special benediction.

Cardinal La Fontaine's death reduced the number of the sacred college to 69 or a possible 70.

TWEED L.O.L. AT DIVINE SERVICE

Rev. W. A. Hunter Addresses Large Gathering At St. Andrew's

Tweed — Tweed L.O.L. No. 147 held Divine Service on Sunday, July 7th at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church at 3.30 p.m., with the minister, Rev. W. A. Hunter, having charge of the service. The members of the Order to the number of about fifty, preceded by the Tweed-Delphiste band, marched from their lodge room to the church.

After the opening hymn "The morning light is breaking", Rev. Hunter welcomed the members of the lodge and invited the Worshipful Master, Com. Burleigh to accept a seat on the platform. Psalm 40 was read by the minister and congregation. The second hymn "The wise may bring their learning," was followed by the lesson St. John, chapter 12. Mr. Wm. Hawthorn, a member of the choir of St. Peter's Presbyterian Church, Madoc, assisted with the service by singing "The Wayside Cross".

The minister selected as the basis of his excellent discourse St. John chapter one, verse fourteen, "And the Word was made flesh, and dwelt among us (and we beheld His glory, the glory as of the Only Begotten of the Father), full of grace and truth." Two words on which the brethren of the I.O.L. place emphasis said the minister, are loyalty and brotherhood. Their organization expresses loyalty to the King, to the Empire to each other as members, and to the Protestant faith, to religious liberties hard bought. They keep alive on July 12th the memory of those who, in Northern Ireland, long years ago, won those liberties for them. The Order stands for the glory of God and for the glory of the Word of God.

Many brethren, observed the speaker, turn out on the "glorious twelfth" but leave the burning of the work of the lodge during the rest of the year to the few faithful members. These he urged to devote thought and effort throughout the years to maintaining and putting into effect the principles for which the Lodge stands.

Referring more particularly to the text, the minister said that back of all things and in all this world is a divine being existing for a purpose irrespective of man's desires and purposes. We are endowed with an intelligence which enables us to get some idea of what that purpose is. All religious organizations—churches, lodges—have within not a full vision of this purpose, some inkling of what it is. We can see the glory of God, referred to by St. Paul, in His Son, Jesus Christ. Some men do not like the glory of God revealed in the crucified Christ. They are chiefly concerned in glorifying themselves. We are only "rencerced savages". Any civilization which we possess we owe to the church.

Men still rejoice in force in the exercise of physical and mental strength. We glorify the big bully who forces his fellow men to do his will—Mussolini and Hitler exemplify this force. Strong men of strong will seize and hold power merely for their own desires and aggrandisement. We want self-expression, and self-glorification. We do not like the picture of the Christ with the crown of thorns upon His brow.

We cannot see the glory of God unless we are willing to surrender our pride and desire for self-glorification. We must make a choice between Cæsar and Christ, the God of Mercy. We must decide whether we are going to worship the God Almighty made in our own image or Jesus of Nazareth. That choice faces all of us as individuals, as lodges, and churches. We must be men of peace, of honourable peace, living the life represented by the

Council Concludes Business And Adjourns Till Sept. 30

Unless for an emergency, when a special meeting will be called the city council at their regular session on Monday evening adjourned for the summer months and will meet again on September 30th for the fall term. The session last evening was a lengthy one, the members staying in committee until after ten thirty and then the time was extended for one hour so that business in the council chamber could be completed. By-laws occupied the major portion of the night's work. The tax collector was appointed by the usual by-law and Edward Ketcheson was again named for that duty, an agreement of sale will be drawn between the city and parties for the sale of 58 Agnes Manor by another by-law and the Belleville Poundrics will be given a deed to their land on Station St. as agreed. The Bell Telephone will be allowed to erect poles on the east side of Coleman Street from the Bay of Quinte to the city limits, according to a bine print submitted to the council, the necessary by-law being passed. Another by-law gave the treasurer the right to pay all bills during the summer recess providing they are properly audited and signed by the various chairmen.

Oiling will be started on Wednesday and the council ratified the purchase of 10,000 gallons at 11½ cts per gallon laid down in the city with all taxes paid but the material must be satisfactory to the City Engineer. The office of the City Clerk will be renovated and painted at a cost not to exceed $75.00 according to a recommendation passed.

Considerable time was spent in the committee with a representative of the K. L. Ruddy Company representing the sign on the Bowlerama Hotel, which the council ordered to be taken down unless a bond for indemnity be provided, that would be satisfactory to the city. A long argument ensued and a reconsideration appeared on the table, that the bond was satisfactory and the sign will be allowed to remain.

To Pay For Truck

The Public Works Department was given the use of the oiling truck at a cost of $3.00 per day and the same is to be credited to the Street Oiling account.

Stanley M. Carter was given the contract to restore the City Hall tower at a cost of $3,035.00, this being the lowest tender. Mr. Carter has to supply a bond to guarantee the work for five years he must provide Workmen's Compensation and also Public Liability until the work is completed. The bond was supplied to the council by Mr. Carter at the meeting last night and proved to be satisfactory in every respect. It is expected the work will be started in the near future and completed within the next two months.

The oiling committee gave a report to the council respecting streets that were again inspected after petitions had been received requesting that no oiling be done this year. The committee found the following streets St. Paul, Herchimer, Mineral, Moodie, Baldwin, Purdy, Frank, Elmer, Bracken, East Moira and Gordon, needed to be oiled to keep them in condition but found that Bell Rock street from the C.N.R. tracks to Victoria Avenue and Cemetery street could be left off the list this year. The report of the committee was accepted.

Chairman of Fire, Alderman Harry Hill and Fire Chief Lynch will attend the fire convention at Brockville and while there will likely witness the new pumper purchased by the city in operation. The matter of holding a fire permanent staff was left in the hands of the Chairman of Executive with power to act. Alderman McCreary asked if the front of the arena property could be cleaned at the same time as the market square as many are looking for sale of produce and Alderman Marshall stated that the matter would be attended to.

In the absence of Mayor George C. Tice, Alderman Harry Hill acted in that capacity during the meeting. Alderman McCreary in the absence of the committee of the whole and the following members were present: Aldermen Hill, McCreary, Thompson, Fairman, Guthrie, Cushing, Harlow, Harvey, Marshall and Arnold.

CIVILIZE THE DRIVER

Science and industry have done their part in producing the automobile. Paul du Pont, in a recent Rotary magazine article, declares that "hardly fifteen per cent of all accidents can be laid to automobile defects." The culprit is the driver. Collectively, he has not yet mastered the new device, has not yet adjusted his nervous organism to its demands, has not yet mastered the technique of making this invention a part of his social routine with economy of human wastage. He is, in short, not yet civilized.

The driver too often does not know the driving customs and regulations. Lacking such knowledge of how to signal, he fails to give any intimation to the driver behind such as putting a hand out—that he is about to do something other than proceed straight ahead. He will "just this time" pass a car on a curve or near the crest of a hill. He will take the chance that "the other fellow" will slow down at intersections, and himself speed on through.

But, to sum all, he lacks courtesy. The vital core of courtesy is consideration for other people. Courtesy is a product of the fine sort of imagination that instinctively pictures other people desiring the treatment you yourself want. To be complete it needs the will power to do what you would like to have them do if the circumstances were reversed. Courtesy is not the cloak to be exhibited upon occasion for admiration of friends; it is a way-of-doing of regularly practiced that it best may be described as a habit.

VALUE OF FARM EGGS IN CANADA

The value of farm eggs in Canada in 1934 was the highest recorded since 1931 and more eggs were laid than in 1933. This is all the more remarkable since there were approximately a quarter million less hens on farms than in the former year. Prices advanced in all the provinces and all provinces contributed to the increased valuations, although, so far as increased production was concerned, only three provinces, Quebec, Ontario, and British Columbia, were responsible. The increase in production was due principally to the somewhat higher production of eggs per hen. According to the official statistics the total production of farm eggs in Canada in 1934 is estimated at 223,107,000 dozens, showing an increase of 853,000 dozens on the revised estimate of 222,254,000 dozens in 1933. The estimated number of egg-laying hens in Canada in 1934 was 24,685,000 compared with the revised estimate of 24,922,000 in 1933. This represents a reduction of 234,000 birds. The value of eggs in 1934 is placed at 13,265,000, an average price of 15 cents per dozen, in comparison with $27,577,000, or 12 cents per dozen in 1933. Thus, the value increase between 1933 and 1934 is $5,629,000.

A PERMANENT OCCUPATION

Mr. Lloyd George announces with a good deal of emphasis that he is in politics again. Most people in England will ask him to be quiet out of politeness, but has been out of office for some time. But his activity in public affairs has not ceased. Writing and speaking almost incessantly, he has, to the amusement of the old detached elder statesman, but his enemies have continued to feel the point of his spear, while his friends have been left wondering to which party or group he would next attach himself.

The political habit became so fixed upon him through long years of strife and success, with final failure, that he cannot shake it off, remarks the New York Times. His vigor and alertness are astonishing at 72 ages. He is still an admired, though somewhat dreaded, orator in the House of Commons. He has a way of squirting rhetorical vitriol over many of his old associates that delights the onlookers but shakes the victims wince. The probability is that his return to politics now will mean mainly an indulgence in that gentle art of making enemies.

The platform on which he states that he will stand is "Peace and Reconstruction." Doubtless he will have a good many useful things to say. But there will be no peace for the Conservative government and no reconstruction of the Liberal party which Mr. Lloyd George proudly led to disruption and almost to disappearance.

The gold standard has been "killed" several times in history, or at any rate superseded! As long ago as 1890, Edouard Suess, of Vienna, pronounced its demise in his monograph "The Future of Silver." But it will not stay dead, and as Professor Kemmerer of Princeton University says, will continue in some form, in spite of the false theories and bad policies of some governments, including our own. Belief in a continuously steady price level has become a kind of fetish worship without a solid logical foundation, says David Kinley president-emeritus, University of Illinois, in the Rotarian Magazine.

WHO WEEPS FOR TIME

At last I see I have been slow in learning
My grief is futile, my regret in vain;
Who weeps for time, the fleet, the unreturning,
Has but his tears as solace for his pain.
Wise heads have found when every summer passes
Then must come autumn with its paler skies,
Its whirling leaves, its dry and yellowed grasses;
What better plan can aching hearts devise?

Some mark in fading beauty, beauty lingers
And scattered petals own faint fragrance still;
They trace the tenderness of Autumn's fingers
On every gold and scarlet field and hill.
Who weeps for time must weep in mad unreason,
Since there is loveliness in every season.

A TURKEY STOPPED A TRAIN, a fast express on the C.N.R., at that. Believe it or not, but Belleville railway men state that it is true. The incident of the turkey and the train is said to have occurred east of this city within the past few days. The Montreal-Chicago express was speeding along when the engineer spied a huge turkey cock between the rails, strutting his stuff and daring the onrushing steel monster to mortal combat, or what not. The strut suddenly ceased for all time when the locomotive hit the turk and almost immediately the train was suddenly stopped. Investigation indicated that the body of the turkey struck an air brake valve with such force as to immediately apply the air brakes on the train and bring it to a sudden stop. Time out for necessary readjustment. Before the train reached Toronto the same engine is reported to have encountered a cow on the track, with disastrous results to the cow, and more or less serious injuries to the engine, which put it disgust and had to be replaced, while an irate engineer and disgruntled conductor had some extra reporting to do, with a possible session on the "carpet". Seems as though railroading is strenuous enough without having to shoo livestock off the track every few miles. Recalls the time when a certain short rural railway in Ontario was obliged to stop the train frequently in order to let the bars down so the train could proceed through some farmer's pasture. This was caused by a dispute over eight-of-way settlements still pending when the railway started operation. And it is said that the habit of running slow on this particular short line became so fixed that any engineer known to have exceeded the twenty-five mile an hour limit would be liable to dismissal. However, those switchmanty tales which come under the "Believe it or not" category.

FISH STORIES are in season now, but the interest is in the "big fish which got away" is not as keen as it was, and even photographs have lost some of their effectiveness, with the knowledge that the camera can be taught to do some funny tricks with perspective and such. But when a Belleville lady hooks a monster muskinonge in Moira Lake, and is able to produce it on shore and break many records on tested scales, her's the honor of champion fisherman until a larger one is caught, ever, in those waters. Hats off, fisherman, to Mrs. O'Flynn, wife of the Sheriff of this here county of Hastings—a lady who sure gets her fish.

BELLEVILLE BUSINESS MAN took his first lesson in punt sailing Sunday. All went well until the craft struck shallow water and the centre-board had to be raised. Just at this phsyological moment along came a big puff of wind, filled the sail and over went the boat. The sailing instructor was a complete success—no wet sheet and a flowing sea and a wind which followed fast—and a wet crew which made fast time to shore and dry togs once the ship was righted.

LOOKING BACKWARD.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BY-GONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

JULY 9th, 1915.

Work was commenced today decorating Front street for the 12th. of July celebration here. It is expected that thousands of visitors will be in the city on that day.

The fire brigade was called out last night between eleven and twelve o'clock to extinguish a fire which originated in the house on George street, north of Bridge street, occupied by Mr. John J. Shea. Considerable damage was done to the building and the contents were damaged by water and smoke. The loss is partially covered by insurance.

Miss Helen Taugher of this city was successful in the recent examinations at the Peterboro Normal School.

Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Ashley of Boston, Mass., are in the city visiting his parents Mr. and Mrs. W.F. Ashley, and her parents Mr. and Mrs. Adam Leslie.

Mr. Robert Paine has returned to Detroit after visiting relatives here.

30 Years Ago

JULY 9th, 1905.

A subscriber writes to the Intelligencer calling attention to luxurious growth of weeds along the roadway on west Bridge street. We know of other streets in the city where the weeds flourish and it would be a good idea to have them cut down.

The harbor presented an animated appearance yesterday afternoon with the R. and O. steamers Belleville and Picton in port, the Anne Lake going to Massassaga Park, and an American steam yacht from Detroit and a number of local sailing craft in port.

Mr. B. Mayo has returned to the city from Barrie.

Mr. Garnett Lockett of Kingston, formerly of Belleville, is spending a few days here.

Mr. J. Langley of this city was in Lindsay today on business.

40 Years Ago

JULY 9th, 1895.

In conversation with Alderman Clarke this morning we learned that in order to retain the city's classification of B an electric alarm system must be installed. The fire committee has obtained prices and now have the matter under consideration. The system would use twenty boxes in different parts of the city. The prices obtained are $1,746.00, $2,195.00, $2,345.00, $2,390.00, $2,906.44. These prices vary owing to size and other specification.

Mr. John Harry will shortly open a men's furnishing store in the shop recently occupied by Mr. Hugh Walker on Front St.

Dr. Macauley of Frankford was a visitor in the city today.

Mr. George Woodley is home from Montreal on his holidays.

Mr. James O'Brien left today to visit his sister at Lowell, Mass.

50 Years Ago

JULY 9th, 1885.

Mr. William Johnson, Inspector of Weights and Measures will leave for Quebec tomorrow and will sail on the 11th, for Ireland.

"Our Mission" edited by the Rev. D. Mitchell may be found at the stores of Mayor Dunnet, W. B. Carmichael, R. Templeton, A. Knox, J. C. Owens, John Bogart, W. Flint Jones and L. W. Yeomans.

John R. Dorrs' Great Interstate Show will appear in Belleville on July 24th. The bill posters have arrived.

Mr. Stow, advance agent for the Barnum and London Great Shows, was in the city yesterday.

The steamer Alexandria will run up the bay Saturday evening at 8.30 o'clock as far as Trenton to view the electric lights in the Gilmour lumber mills at that place. Fare 20c.

What price SPACE MR. ADVERTISER?

Space in a daily newspaper possesses a power that is lacking in the lineage of other advertising media.

It is not only more economical . . . which is a matter of easy computation . . . it is not only more flexible, it is not only more timely and rapid, but also it is the advertiser's unfailing point of contact with the mass market and every spot market of the Dominion of Canada.

The Daily Newspaper possesses a power by means of which an advertiser, who knows how to use it, can reach and move to action all or any part of the Canadian consuming public.

In this North American continent there was spent during 1934 in the columns of the daily newspapers more than $500,000,000. The strongest of all supplementary media was used to the extent of $114,000,000. Why?

Because for prompt action on sales plans . . . for cool unconsumer influence at minimum cost . . . for willing co-operation from the retail trade, the daily newspaper is today, as it always has been, the outstanding and most economical basic advertising medium.

No Activity

London, July 9—(CP Cable)—Continued Italian reports of military activity in British East Africa again met with a blank denial in authoritative sources today.

No troops have been landed in British Somaliland, it was stated, and there has been no unusual military activity in either the Sudan or Kenya Colony.

The only movement through the territories has been a party of refugees from the quake-ravaged district of Quetta, India. "Perhaps the refugees were mistaken for soldiers," it was asserted.

Not Plain Embargo

London, July 9—(AP)—Informed British circles, while denying that British munitions are moving toward Ethiopia, expressed a belief today that the government probably will not place any embargo in the way of Emperor Haile Selassie, should he turn to Great Britain for petroleum elsewhere.

Despite repeated rumors that Ethiopia has approached British munition manufacturers, it was learned officially that there has been no application to the government for the export licenses which would be necessary.

American All-Stars Triumph In Great Baseball Show by Downing All-Star Nationals

Game Over in The First Frame, When Foxx Homers

NATS OUTPLAYED

Gomes And Harder Hurl Game For The Winners

(By Alan Gould)

(Associated Press Sports Editor)

Cleveland, July 9.—(AP)— It comes only once a year and it's a great baseball show— this - major league all star tournament — but the feeling today in National League quarters was that it's a much sounder policy to settle current arguments in the World Series.

The Nationals are not visibly discouraged, nor have they —the slightest idea of suggesting the abandonment of an event, that has rapidly captured popular fancy, as a spectacle, but the fact remains they have yet to win an all-star game, in three attempts. On the other hand they have been victorious over the American League in the last two world championships and look forward with considerable confidence now to the fall festivities when, in all likelihood, the New York Giants will strive to wipe out the stigma of what happened yesterday before the gaze of 69,812 cash customers in the gigantic Cleveland stadium.

The third straight triumph of the Americans, by a 4 to 1 score, was easily the most decisive scored since the all-star idea was hatched in 1933 at Chicago. It was especially sweet for the heroes of the Junior League for the reason they were supposed to be somewhat below par, crippled by the loss of several outstanding stars of previous years and generally rated, in advance, as the stay's underdogs. It simultaneously a bitter pill for the Nationals, who found themselves outpitched, outplayed and—outsmarted under circumstances that left plenty of room for the second-guessers to go into action.

Judgment Criticized

Most of the argument of the wake of the game today centred about Manager Charley Grimm's judgment in starting his own southpaw, Bill Walker, instead of Hal Schumacher, similar hurler of the New York Giants. Walker was rapped for three runs, including a booming homer by Jimmie Foxx in the first inning, so that the ball game was all over but the shouting by the time Schumacher went in to twirl a four-hitting relief.

"Prince Hal" himself yielded the fourth run, but he fanned five and gave an individual performance equally as brilliant as that of Lefty Gomes or Mel Harder, who combined to pitch the Americans to a four-hit victory.

"It's sheer second-guessing to say I should have started Schumacher," Grimm declared. "Sure, I figured Hal was our ace but I had to take into account that he and Walker were about equally effective and Bill was still receiving a suitable ovwiegdment in the way of a bronze button for his coat lapel, while those who can lay claim to membership in the Y. M. C. A. Junior Beginners Test, (Must swim at least 50 Ft.) will receive the National Y.M.C.A. Certificate similar to that awarded all members of the Y.M.C.A. who successfully pass the initial test.

TO RENEW DUELS

NEW YORK, July 9—(AP)—Jesse Owens and Eulace Peacock resume their duels in the 100 yard dash and the Broad Jump at Ohio Field here tonight.

"Y" Free Swim Lessons Campaign Attracts 59 Boys

Yesterday morning at the Y.M. C.A. fifty-nine boys ranging in age from 10 to 15 years were given the first of a series of six free swimming lessons, which are being made available to youngsters of the city who are unable to swim, by the local Association preliminary to entering the swimmin' pool, the boys were given a short talk on the subject, learning to swim following which a brief period was spent in land drill practice. Assisting physical director Morden in the instruction of the boys were two members of the swimming Club of the Y, Harry Moncrief and Howard Kerr. These boys received instructions were divided into two groups with an enrollment of some thirty odd in each.

Announcement was made to the boys this morning by their instructor, that every boy who learns to swim will receive a suitable award in the way of a bronze button for his coat lapel, while those who can pass the Y.M.C.A. Junior Beginners Test, (Must swim at least 50 Ft.) will receive the National Y.M.C.A. Certificate similar to that awarded all members of the Y.M.C.A. who successfully pass the initial test.

SENATORS BEAT TORONTO LEAFS

Canadian Team Misses Opportunity to Move to Second

(By The Canadian Press)

Toronto missed a chance to run up into a tie for second place with their brother from Montreal last night, when the Albany Senators, prowling at the foot of the heap, up and smote them 3 to 2.

But behind that game is the story of an ambition had who at least, partially made good. Joe Boline of Northampton, Mass. walked into the Albany camp six weeks ago and asked for a chance to play. They looked him over, saw he had something on the ball and decided to give chance.

He was tried out in an exhibition game against Harrisburg and made the grade. Last night he made his first start in the International and did a good job. He pitched, retiring when a walk and a single put him to the showers. Dutch Lieber relieved him and the Toronto brace of runs were scored off Dutch before the rally was halted. The fan will be seeing more of Boline however.

Albany bunched three hits to ge a tally in the fourth and added two more runs in his next frame on extra base blows by Wright and Hayes and a single by Rosiger.

Steve Bean took a walloping as the Buffalo Bisons who haven't been going so good lately, slammed them out 9 to 0 in one of the fastest good light games ever played at Buffalo. Johnny Lazoca hurled fine ball, allowing but two hits, and Jack Smith, who banged out double was the only runner to reach second Lazoca also fanned five and forced issue a single pass.

The Orioles rallied from behind to defeat the visiting Rochesters 9 to 7, tallying eight runs in the last three innings while the Montreal Royals defeated the Syracuse Chiefs, 13 to 1 getting 19 hits.

Greenberg Not Anxious For Homer Record

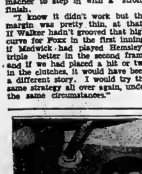
Detroit, July 9—(AP)—If Hank Greenberg, the current home run champion of the Nationals, equals or betters Babe Ruth's record of 60 four base swats, it will be because he is "swinging for fun."

With 25 homers already in the bag, the tough batter was definitely ahead of him and his perennial pending Tiger mates, the slugger declared yesterday to interviewers that he had a certain fear of the 60 mark and pray to be rated as a one hit wonder in any fourth year in the majors. That's what I'm thinking about now."

Keed Chocolate Prepares For A Real Comeback

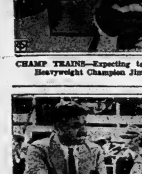
Havana, Ha., July 9 — (AP) — Deep in the heart of every fighter who has been a champion, there is the conviction that his fists carry the old speed and dynamite.

And so the other night Kid Chocolate, the ebony flash of Cuba who has held both the featherweight and junior lightweight crowns, sat at a Havana ringside and saw Frankie Genaro gain a 10 round decision over Baby Arizmendi.



"Rumee" he mumbled through his heavy lips, "After watching those fellows I'm sure I can make the go places as a featherweight. I'll be back fighting in the fall and then pay" beats. I'm so sure I can trim him. They don't need to give me a handicap if I do."

He went off so bed; earlier than he did when he was the best all Harlem cabarets, but later than he has been going since he started beating his comeback dream.



The "Keed", with his long, lean arms and flashing fists, appeared went a long way from his humble beginning in Cuba.

He turned back the best they had to offer in the United States, but he liked his job best of all. Harlem and the tawny maids that danced there; he preferred late hours and river songs to the drudgery of training.

And so he slipped into the world of "had beens", took some lickings in the small spots. On one he hoped he will lead to the ring glare of popularity again, the clicking thousands and the gold that slipped through his fingers.

CURRENT SPORT

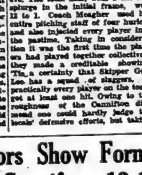
DAY BY DAY

When the local Radios turned up for practice last evening they were surely a sorrowful looking sight. Calhoun is still nursing an infected hand, Rooney's ankle is bothering him around on one leg, Skipper Mills had just returned from the Ontario Athletic Commission's camp and knew nothing of the injuries and then Jimmie Barclay stepped into the picture nursing a badly injured left shoulder, the result of a foul ily received in Oshawa on Sunday. Barclay is under the care of the club physician, Dr. Flynn, but seems to be laped up sufficiently to get in tonight's twilight fixture versus the Oshawa Brewers. The Radios are still smarting under Saturday's reverse and contend that Umpire Jack Paris' decision on Sloxy Grey turned certain Belleville victory into defeat "Sloxy touched first, because I was coaching there when he hit him" relates the player. At any rate the locals are in a tough spot tonight, but promised MCKIM suffering no runs to give him a victory, thereby making up for Saturday's loss. Don't forget the pre-sale of tickets for this evening's game at Ki Thomas' and Bill Cooper's.

Last year when the local senior team played in the Oshawa Stadium a hit, three bagger into the right field fence only went for two bases. This year, however, the Oshawa management have had the fences moved in and the left field fence only 300 feet from home. This year, however, the Oshawa management have had the fences moved in and the left field fence only 300 feet from home. This year two hits fences on Saturday, both of which would have been over the left Grey in any other park in the league. The O.B.A. has adopted the Spalding playing rules, which distinctly say in the opening rule in base ball, "The distance between home plate and the barrier in the outfield must be 235 feet." With this consideration the locals, who are very shy on left-hand batters, would be well advised to measure the distance between the baseline and the left field outside fence in Oshawa and then demand a grand rule. "If it's one inch over 300 feet, well, we'll eat 'em up Georgie." This is in no way an affid for the careless base running of the Stewart-Warners on Saturday. Every man is behaving in a different story can be told after the game on the home lot this eve.

Owing to the closeness of games the home game of Panning's intermediates, scheduled with the Gananoque Inls, has been delayed 24 hours and will be played on Thursday as a twilight fixture instead of Wednesday afternoon game. Incidentally the local intermediates are playing a fair brand of baseball and as pointed out by Manager Panning the other day—the Bay City Baseball League has the best class of intermediate ball in Ontario." This pay sound fetched, but Skipper Panning went on to press with the statement, "Last year Napanee won the intermediate title, the year previous Picton went to the Intermediate O.B.A.A. finals, while the year previous to that our own Victorias advanced to the semi-finals and should have gone further. Can you name any league in the province with a better record?" asked the manager of the Intermediates. At any rate the local squad have gone along nicely thus far this year and are well intrenched in the Bay of Quinte loop than any other team. A victory here on Thursday will virtually put them into a play-off position for the league title.

Kirsop Juniors, Belleville's entry in the O.B.A.A. for the current season, opened the season with an impressive game at Canniffton, versus the Canniffton "Sluggers" of the Hastings Baseball League. Geo. Lee has a squad of sluggers, as practically every player on the team is good at least one hit. Owing to the roughness of the Canniffton diamond one error was chalked up, the locals' defensive efforts, but taking



Kiwanis Juniors Show Form In Downing Cannifton 12-1

Team Has Plenty of Hitting Power And Good Hurling

Garnering six runs in the initial frame the Kiwanis Juniors baseball team won their first game of the season, when they journeyed to Canniffton and downed the Canniffton Sluggers by a score of 12 to 1 in an abbreviated six innings game last evening. Coach Allen Hubbs used to good advantage his available material including Ken Bonnis, who was given the first game of the season for the Kiwanis nine. The locals took advantage of the locals ploughed powerful bats with practically every player, from the regulars lined to the pastime, collecting at least one safe hit, while their defensive efforts were equally as good.

Johnnie Bawden starting on the hilltop for the Belleville juniors and retired the homesters in order for two straight innings, striking out four and not allowing a single hit. The visitors scored single in the fourth inning and added two more in the fifth frame, as he allowed two hits and the one tally registered by the home team was chalked up against him in the local scorebook. McCabe, an elongated right hander then took over the hurling assignment for Belleville and although he was nicked for two safeties, held the Canniffton batters scoreless for the rest of the skirmish, who finished the pitching for the Kiwanis. The locals knocked Smallhorn, the starting Canniffton hurler, out of the box, whereupon Bob Kidd hit for the circuit in the initial frame, Loucks, another right handed batter, who was also relieving duties but in time gave way to Simpson, with the latter the outhurler, Jack Bush being called in, to the fourth, to close the side of hits coming from the local juniors' bats. Owing to the roughness of the field neither of the teams scored spectacular efforts on the defence. The homesters registered only five singles from the deliveries of the three Belleville hurlers, not allowing a single safe blow as he labored on the hilltop.

Jack Kidd with a homer out of one official time at bat led the hitters of the day with two safeties, getting a brace of singles and every other member of the team scored on the pitchers, getting at least one safe blow. Bush with two safeties, E. Harris, Cherry and Bawden were the only Canniffton batsmen to arrive at the initial sack via the safe hit route. The local Kiwanis juniors are negotiating for another exhibition game with the fast Foxboro team of the game league

MRS. MOODY VICTOR IN "BATTLE OF THE HELENS"

Taking up their grudge battle where they left it in the last meeting, Helen Jacobs and Helen Wills Moody faced each other in finals for women's tennis singles at Wimbledon, England, in what is considered the world championship tournament. Mrs. Moody climaxed her remarkable comeback after a two-year layoff due to back injury, by winning the title 6-3, 6-2, 7-5. Thus Mrs. Moody has won the crown seven times, a record never before equaled, (She is shown CRIGHT) as she slipped and fell on wet turf during an early round match. Helen Jacobs, American champion, is pictured (LEFT) in action during the tournament match.

London Lunch Lose

When the American Hardware turned tables on the London Lunch "munchers", in the Mercantile loop, it was a case of the latter's cinders scoring a surprise victory over the league leaders. The Eldorado aggregation was held practically helpless before the slants of Jiminie the Hardware moundsman, while Skipper Kilgo's ace hurler, was assailed aplenty by the victorious "lock-making" nine, who won by the score of 15 to 8. Weddings

PEPPER—BELL

The home of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Bell, Pacific Avenue, Toronto, was the scene of a pretty wedding, when their only daughter, Dorothy Beatrice, became the bride of Mr. John B. Pepper of Toronto, Rev. Allen E. Pepper of Shannonville, brother of the groom, officiated. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore all white chiffon and carried an unusual bouquet of violet pansies with maidenhair fern. Miss Margaret Bell, cousin of the bride, was bridesmaid and wore pale pink chiffon and she carried Ophelia roses. Mr. Frank Allen of Toronto, attended the groom. Mrs. Agnes B. Bell of Milton, aunt of the bride, played the wedding music. The couple left later in the evening for New York and a cruise of the West Indies, and on their return in August will live in Toronto.

O'BRIEN—McGRATH

Stirling, (Special)—A very pretty summer wedding was solemnized on Monday morning, July 8th, at 8.30 a.m. in St. James' Church, Stirling, when Mary Agnes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. McGrath, became the bride of Harry Francis O'Brien of Niagara Falls, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William O'Brien of Elder. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father H. Farrell of Colborne.

The wedding music was rendered by Miss Ellen Shea, who officiated as an organ solo the Wedding March from "Lohengrin" as the bride was assisted by Miss M. Fowler, Mrs. Charles Emery sang "On this Day O Holy Mother" by Lambillotte.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, looked charming in an ensemble of white crepe with pink trimmings and hat and shoes to match. Her flowers were a cascade bouquet of red Talisman roses, sweet peas and baby breath. Miss Nora McAvoy attended her cousin as bridesmaid, wearing a gown of Princess Marina blue crepe with white accessories and carried a bouquet of Amber roses, cornflowers and baby's breath.

Mr. Stanley O'Brien of Thurlow, brother of the groom acted as best man. The ushers were Mr. Frank McGrath, brother of the bride and Mr. Clinton McAvoy, cousin of the bride. After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents. The bride's mother received the guests wearing a gown of navy and white crepe. The tables were artistically decorated in a color scheme of pink and white. Later the bride and groom left for a motor trip to Ellington and other eastern cities, the bride travelling in an ensemble of blue figured crepe with matching accessories. On their return they will make their home in Niagara Falls, N.Y.

The groom's gift to the bride was a sunburst pendant and to the bridesmaid a necklace with earrings to match. To the best man a combination cigarette case and lighter and to the ushers, cravats and scarlet, he gave cheques.

Among the out-of-town guests were—Mrs. Descent of Trenton, Mr. and Mrs. Thos. McAvoy, Miss Nora McAvoy, Miss James McAvoy, Mr. Clinton McAvoy, Mr. George McAvoy, all of Thurlow, Mr. Steve Kerby of Madoc, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Craig of Thurlow, Mrs. Michael Fitzgerald of Detroit, Mich. and Mrs. Eugene McAvoy of Tyendinaga.

Treasure Hunt Begins at Library

Youthful subscribers of Corby Public Library have begun their summer reading with a new zest, caused by the latest reading contest, the Treasure Hunt. The competition directed by the librarian of the Girls' and Boys' Department, Miss Olive Delaney has captured the imagination of the young readers who have entered wholeheartedly into the contest.

Thirty-five have enrolled as treasure hunters receiving a silver star to which will be added a gold star if they complete the reading list. The treasure hunt will take them through a series of books in which they will find the answers to various questions for which the hunt was started. The contest will last all summer long and there is still time for additional adventurers to enter the search for literary treasure trove.

"Vagabond Lady"

Plenty of Laughs in this Film

"The Glass Key", Gripping

A good plot, plenty of action, and lots of comedy make "Vagabond Lady" the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer feature comedy special, one of the fastest moving screen efforts of the season. The romantic comedy is now showing at the Belle, matinee and evening.

Robert Young as the irresponsible "Tony", son of a millionaire department store owner, has the line of his young life providing delightful comedy and considerable romance to the plot of the story, which revolves around the beautiful daughter of the store's Treasurer, "Spigot" Evelyn Venable as the daughter, "Miss Spigots", turns in one of the best performances of her career.

A Top-Notch Cast

Evelyn Venable takes the part of "Jo" effectively, with Robert Young scoring as "Tony" and Reginald Denny playing the part of "John". Burton Churchill is the chief "Spear" and Frank Craven as "Joshua Spiggins".

With more skill Director Sam Taylor has put these players through their parts with an understanding of comedy values and human emotions that explains why he is among those on top rungs of cinemaland's ladder.

"The Glass Key", Fascinating

Mystery addicts will have the opportunity of unraveling the intricacies of another Dashiell Hammett murder mystery when Paramount's "The Glass Key" is presented today as the second feature offering on the same program.

This newest effort is from the pen of the author of the justly famous "The Thin Man" starring George Raft with a supporting cast that includes Edward Arnold, Claire Dodd, Rosalind Keith, Ray Milland and Charles Richman.

The political bosses of a big city are the principals in this enthralling story. The victim is Ray Milland, the son of Charles Richman whom Edward Arnold is supporting for a senatorial job.

Enemies of Arnold who dominate the city's politics launch a veiled attack on him, trying to fix the responsibility of the murder on him. Raft, his trusted friend and henchman, determines to solve the crime by extracting the truth from his enemies.

Raft follows many blind leads without results, dares death and endures fiendish punishment, then just as he is about to give up in desperation, he stumbles across the solution of the mystery.

The gripping climax of "The Glass Key" shows how Raft traps the real murderer into a confession, clears his friend and wins the love of his daughter, Rosalind Keith. The Belle Latest News of the World will be exhibited on the same program. The last complete show commences at 8.30 p. m.

AT THE CAPITOL

Season's Best Musical Comedy And A Tense Human Drama Playing

Cosmopolitan New York, the New York of bright lights, gay crowds and theatres, furnishes the inspiration for the up-to-the minute musical comedy that is now being shown at the Capitol along with the drama "Among The Missing."

"Hooray For Love" is the carefree story of love and ambition along the Great White Way, a tale of a boy and girl trying to break into the theatrical game, by way of night club, radio and musical comedy. As a result the sets afford an audience fascinating glimpses behind the scenes of a great broadcasting station, a smart night club and a musical revue.

The play features the handsome young blonde leading man, Gene Raymond, and the devastating, also blonde Ann Sothern.

There is an abundance of hearty laughs in the picture provided by such able farceurs as Pert Kelton, as the gold-digging chorus girl, Thurston Hall as the suave promoter, and Georgia Caine.

The dances are worth the price of admission alone, with the nimble-footed Bill Robinson executing some intricate steps and the famed ballerina, Marie Gambarelli of Roxy fame performing some marvellous toe dancing.

All told, "Hooray For Love," can be adjudged about the niftiest musical comedy yet seen on the Capitol screen.

TRAVELS ALONE

The other half of the bargain section program includes, "Among the Missing," a story of the regeneration of a youth who falls in with a gang of jewel thieves. A soulful elderly character, impersonated by the well-known Henrietta Crosman, prevents the young chap from leading a life of crime and aids him with a charming girl to 'turn to the right' and be happy ever afterwards. The role of the regenerated youth is taken by Richard Cromwell, who

HE PRACTICED IT FOR WEEKS!

When this little boy has the opportunity of auditing a lady of royal blood, he goes through the gesture with a seriousness and stiffness that would do justice to the commander-in-chief of the entire British army. The occasion was the opening of the cripples' training college at Leatherhead, England, by the Duchess of York. The lad was one of the children who walked up to the dais with a monetary presentation.

displays some clever acting ability in this human drama, while many of the girlish Billie Rhoads play the role of his fiancee.

Others in the cast include such sterling actors as Arthur Hohl, Ivan Simpson and Arthur Hurst.

On Thursday will be shown the much-heralded screen story of an Irish actress who made such a success-criminal whose career is vividly depicted by Peter Lorre, a newcomer to the screen, but a character actor who has been acclaimed by those who see his work in "The Man Who Knew Too Much". Others in the cast include Edna Best, the wife of Herbert Marshall, Leslie Banks and Nova Pilbeam, the young Eng-cast in a recent British picture.

FINANCIAL MARKETS
NEW YORK - TORONTO - WINNIPEG

TORONTO MINES, CLOSE

Toronto, July 9 (CP)—The silver stocks kicked up a dust in an otherwise quiet mining share market today following a rumor that the United States Government was again buying bar silver on the London market. Those issues had been down in the morning session but a quick change came in the early afternoon, pushing Eldorado up about 3c, Silver Bear 2 and Cattle about 6. The general list took some different turns, Espanola though trade continued dragging in the gold and base metals. The mining list sagged in spots in slow trading, giving the morning session an appearance of weakness. Some improvement was noted by early afternoon. Senior golds as well as Noranda were barely firm and in the secondary golds McWatters weakened 7 cents to 71, Reno 6 to 1.28 and Afton 2 to 58.
Silver stocks were down a little in the early trading, reflecting weather on the metal price but they firmed-up in the afternoon to show gains on good buying in Bear and Eldorado. Castle was also active but unchanged.

TORONTO STOCKS CLOSE

Toronto, July 9—(CP)—The liquocer, oils, Ford "A", Nickel and Brazilian made the market in the industrial section today, with moderate exchange today and these were higher at the close. Weakness in that of Brazilian. The morning tone had been barely firm, outside the liquocer group but a sprinkling of strength developed in the afternoon and the closing found the board well up from the previous finals.
Everything went well with the Liquocer Stores on the industrial share section, good volume showing early this afternoon on gains ranging up to a point. The general tone improved as the session advanced with trading fair in the oils, nickel and Brazilian as well as the liquors. Textiles showed little or no interest in trader and it was holding a point gain at 30 for 5-4 this afternoon. Rights on Common at 27 1-2 was up 3-4 and Industrial Alcohol A was up a fair minor gain. Base metal stocks continued sluggish.
Gifts held steady, Smelters gained a fraction, Nickel had a loss of a small fraction and Ford A was strong at 27 1-2.

WALL STREET FINANCIAL

New York, July 9—(AP)— The stock market put its shoulders behind the recently lagging list today and sufficient buying was attracted to give the transportation group a sizable forward push.
Scattered profit taking was evident among favorites of the past several sessions, but this was seemingly well absorbed as the day progressed. Industrials were inclined to little more than hold their own, but rails edged into new ground for the year.
Trading was brisk in the first hour but slowed down later.
Canadian issues showed a mixed trend. Dome mines and International Nickel were a shade lower on the day, while most of the golds were improved fractionally on the curb. Bonds were irregular with Canadian dollar rates were 1-16 of a cent higher at 99 15-16 cents.
Shares in the company to a point or so included Santa Fe, Union Pacific, N.Y. Central, Pennsylvania, Chic. Illinois Central, Delaware and Hudson, Southern Railway, New Pac. Film; Loew's; J. C. Newberry; Eastman Kodak; Sears Roebuck; Radio Preferred "B"; Radio "A"; Auto-Lite and Montgomery Ward.

NEW YORK CLOSE

New York, July 9—(AP)—A rally in the recently lagging rail stocks kept today's equities market in a firm position.
While extreme gains were not held in all instances, the tone was scattered profit taking soft spots, advances of fractions to points, in the predominance. Trading was more active than in the previous sessions.
Among the best on the list were Santa Fe; N. Y. Central; Union Pacific; U. S. Steel; Westinghouse; Radio Preferred "B"; Bullard; Anaconda; Montgomery Ward; Inland Steel; and Chrysler. Motor issues, one of the motors, utilities and steels were narrow, with the tone generally steady. Transfers approximated 1,500,000 shares.

HONEY PRICES

Board Room Gossip

As supplied to Riggar and Crawford by Financial Service.

A report has been put into circulation that the Distillers Corporation-Seagrams Limited were contemplating issuing new stock to shareholders in order that the bank loans might be liquidated and the company's working capital position strengthened. On making enquiry in official quarters, Financial Service is told that "no such a plan is under consideration at present. There is no need for further working capital as business is good and satisfactory banking arrangements in New York in this connection. Money is easy and cheap down there," comments this official to Financial Service, disagreeing with the rumour as the best."

In an interview published in the Times Magazine on Sunday, Henry Ford comments on the proposal that "wealth" be "shared". He is of course basically interested party. Everyone knows, he says, that the Ford Company is wealthy. But he asks, "What does He wealth consist of? Money. Certainly not. His wealth is made up of productive plants, machinery and the rest of it. Can he shake it out? Can he put it's own such wealth for the reason that it is not in money and anybody which is in demand." What would people who propose to "share" wealth do with it, asks Henry Ford Mr. Ford's? Should the machinery be confiscated and divided among those who have no machinery?" Or should the entire wealth of plants, machinery and efficiency on one would question, be seized and operated by the government? If so, how long would it continue to produce when the chief incentive to give employment to as many men? Mr. Ford makes this sage comment: "No one can share wealth. This share-the-wealth idea has taken the trouble to explain itself to the organization men as one might be taken over and divided and still remain a source of national wealth."
The Ford Company is, of course, one of the few in which wealth is very great. But it is not unique in this respect. Wealth consists almost essentially of power to produce an article which can be sold in a competitive market. There is no question of wealth in a modern industrial society existing in the form of money. It consist of "money", or even of bonds and stocks, which could be hardly said to exist among a large number of claimants.

"America is coming through," Sir Harry Brittain, famous English lawyer and economist, said recently in an interview. "Everywhere I have gone on my return from his six-weeks' tour of the United States.
"Business is improving through. Not, perhaps, quite as it has planned, but it is making more forward than backmentum and the richness of its gifts."
Despite the fact that traders are in the sidelines, moderate investment demand is noted. Conservative investors are taking advantage of the list for attractive opportunities and now and again certain issues are put under the hammer. The paradox with which to measure the worth of a stock is apparent.

The gasoline price war on the island of Montreal continues, although there has not been any further price cutting in the past few weeks. The oil companies are exchanging charges of discrimination. A decrease in the demand for gasoline, although gentle are greatly reduced. There is still a possibility of further price cutting.

Canadian Industrial Alcohol has been dominant marketwise for some little time. Commenting on this security Financial Service says: Contrary to reports, this company is not participating in any profits in the whiskey business. While it has made contracts for sale, over the next five years, of its entire U.S. American type rye whiskey (the chief whiskey of which, of course, will continue to be in Canada) and will have considerable profits from the new distillery in Glasgow. Disposal of its large surplus, however, will not permit greater concentration on industrial alcohol and solvents business.

In connection with the above, Financial Service wishes to point out that the "disposal of the large inventories" will not only permit greater concentration on industrial alcohol and solvents business, but will enable the management to distribute sizeable cash disbursements to shareholders.

Financial Service learns that the postponed annual meeting of Distillers-Seagrams may be held towards the close of this month or early in August, at which time the shareholders can look forward to hearing some very interesting information about the company's American operations which have proven eminently successful.

The change in the beer laws of Ontario has resulted in an increased consumption of the beverage to approximately one-half litre per head than that of the previous year. This is a most satisfactory showing. Consumption of beer in Ontario in May totalled 1,800,566 gallons as against 782,853 in May, 1934, an increase of 1,106,824 gallons. It was in July of 1934 that many of the beverage rooms began to do business and it will be interesting to note the comparative consumption in the current month with the same period of last year. This should point to a continuation of the upward trend.

Sales of Ford of Canada in the first six months of this year are exceeded the total sales of 1934, according to an official statement by the company.

Since announcement was made a few weeks ago that the management of Noranda Mines would not continue the "hands off" policy in the affairs of the Beattie-Gillies Red Lake gold mine, the stock would be withdrawn from trading on the New York Stock Exchange, the shares have eased off several points. This is not to be considered unsatisfactory on quarters for purely psychological reasons.
Operating results of the company for the first quarter this year were considerably better as compared with those for the same period of 1934. Net profit for the quarter, in the measure to the fact that the company during the first three months of the year had an extra large amount taxation to meet due to the change in the basis of taxation of profits for in the last budget.
The second quarter results, it is anticipated, will show a reversal of the earnings trend. Noranda is in a position to benefit by being able to show material benefits for any rise either in the price of copper or in gold which may develop. The company has tremendous resources at its command for the great potentialities for future expansion in operations and earnings.

No abrupt change in the general course of business activity has taken place in the U. S. since the supreme court handed down its decision invalidating the major part of that legislation under the NRA, states the current issue of the Guaranty Trust Co. of N. Y. As a matter of fact, in many branches of industry and trade, the effects of the decision have not been essentially altered, industrial leaders and financial experts have announced their determination to adhere closely to the code provisions of their respective codes.
Business in general continues to exhibit that moderate upward tendency that has been visible throughout the spring season. Some signs of moderate revival have been noted in the last few weeks, but these have yet to indicate a change of trend. Most indications of current business level are encouraging, particularly in view of the fact that the normal seasonal tendency in most branches of industry and trade is downward at this time of year.

Cheese and Butter Gain at Montreal

Montreal, July 9 — Butter and cheese prices advanced moderately on Montreal yesterday, continuing the firmer trend followed last week. Cheese prices were strengthened by providing financial aid to the cheese industry, which has had the effect of strengthening influence, with advancing tendencies in other cities today.
The butter market was generally 20½c to 30½c for No. 1 creamery; 1c1. lots of No. 1. Receipts, 255 boxes. Small lots of finest creamery quoted by jobbers at 21c for solids and 22c for prints.
Cheese quoted at 16½c to 17c for No. 1 Ontarios and nominal at 16½c for No. 1 Quebec. Receipts, 902 boxes.
The egg market had a barely steady tone. Long graded shipments in carlots or 1c.l. lots quoted 31-32c for Extras, 29-30c for Firsts, 27c medium, 18½c to 19½c for S. and 17½c to 18½c for Storage. Receipts, 855 cases. Small lots to the retail trade were quoted by wholesale jobbing houses as follows, per dozen:

	Cartons	Loose
A-1 large	32c	...
A-1 medium	29c	...
A-large	28c	25c
A-medium	25c	22c
B	23c	20c
C	21c	20c

The potato market was slightly easier again, new Quebec potatoes being quoted at $2.50 while old Maritime potatoes were 45-50c per 80-lb. bags.
The poultry market was steady. Quotations to the retail trade on fowl, 20c; chickens, 25c; ducks, 22c; turkeys, 30c; geese, 18c.
Dressed Lake ducklings 17c-20c
Domestic ducklings 17c-20c

POTATO PRICES

Carlot prices of Ontario Potatoes delivered Toronto yesterday were: Cents to 75 cents. Outside trade today. The price to the retail in Toronto and Northumberland counties were 40 cents and Prince — and Islands 50 cents.

MID-WEEK MART WELL ATTENDED

A goodly market welcomed local citizens today at the Belleville fruit and produce remained stationary. New potatoes were offered at 45 cents a peck, while green vegetables predominated. New carrots, with the three bunches for ten cents as did new beets and onions. Spinach was offered at 10 cents the peck while a large offering of shelled green peas were offered at 20 cents the quart at 30 cents the quart of two quarts for 35c. Parsley, lettuce and other garden produce remaining unchanged in price.
The season's initial offering of raspberries did not demand an active market, owing to the high price asked. Raspberries sold as high as 35c per small box, while others asking 45c for two boxes. Strawberries were off slightly in price as they sold as low as ten cents a box, the latter being the three boxes for a quarter. Huckleberries were plentiful at 20c the quart measure. The market was not as busy as usual but fair attended.-mid-week markets.

THE OLD FASHIONED PICNIC

Still Holds Its Ancient Charm

NEW fashions, new methods, new people, new desires come and go with the changing years and the introduction of swift transportation, airplane, motor car and speed boat, and folks travel many miles a day for pleasure—and do not always get it.

Just a glance at the picture on this page will bring pleasant memories of the old-fashioned picnic of the long ago—and not so long ago.

Evidence there is a-plenty that the old-fashioned picnic is due for a revival and survivors of the picnic era will welcome back an old friend while the younger generation that knew not Joseph will soon warm to this intimate friendly gathering of lovable home folks.

Glorious Grand Trunk Picnics

Not so long ago the Grand Trunk basket picnics were a feature of every summer, both in Belleville and Brockville, divisional points, and the eats under the trees, the health and the happiness generated at these events left a memory ever pleasant. Even the little boy who was not provided with a basket, or a lunch box, or a family, or anything that faintly resembled Folks of his own, fitted into the picture when he was claimed by several picnic groups and filled to bursting with those wonderful home-cooked viands which never gave an ache or a pain of indigestion but generated that mellow friendly feeling which goes with well-cooked food of the simpler kind.

Grand Picnic Pies

Do you remember the picnic pies? Oh, Mother o' mine, eats a pie you used to dish up, and how much better they tasted at a picnic than anywhere else.

Do you remember the dancing? No fancy city orchestra. Just a fiddler and a piano, and how that fiddler could fiddle, especially if irrigated regularly with Corby's Special or Wiser's Red Star.

As we intimated before the old-fashioned picnics are coming back because they are too splendid a thing to pass out of the picture.

Charlie Hanna's Picnics

One of the most enthusiastic promoters of Get Together Picnics was the late Charlie Hanna, who served as Mayor of Belleville and Alderman, and also as member of the Dominion Parliament. Charlie's greatest picnic achievement was probably the Civic Picnic, representing the city officials and their families and friends. This picnic, held at Massassaga for several seasons was a great success and a great promoter of Good Fellowship. It will be remembered that Alderman Robinson was one of the Moving Spirits of the Civic Picnics, ably assisted by Alderman Woodley, one man whom age does not wither nor the years destroy. Charlie Hanna was also an active member of the city band and promoted several band picnics which were most enjoyable affairs. His services as Director and President of Belleville Fair were more successful, perhaps, because he had the picnic spirit of Good Fellowship.

There will be picnics galore, and there will be more genuine enjoyment at these old-fashioned picnics than anything else could offer.

Famous Old Picnic Places

Massassaga used to be a favorite place for picnics, but there were others at Oak Lake, Moira Lake, Twelve O'Clock Point, Fresqu'Ile, and dozens of others not far from Belleville.

This year being a Dominion Election year there will, no doubt, be political picnics, and the mind reverts back to notable events of comparatively recent history when public policies of great importance first reached the public from the lips of Dominion statesmen at Stirling and Marmora.

The Country Fair

The return of the old-fashioned picnic as pictured on this page is an evidence that the best that is in people cannot remain submerged forever and keeps returning to the surface. And the picnic, like the country fair, is one place where good fellowship reigns supreme, only the picnic is less strenuous than the fair, which holds its important place in the scheme of things as they are in this day and age—and the little country fair survives despite the growth of great national and international exhibitions, for the country fair is founded upon Good Fellowship and Neighborliness, and the fact that George meets Bill and Henry meets Fred and Anne meets Minn, and Julia meets Mary Ann and the folks from way down below the creek bottom.

No getting away from it, folks, it's Good Fellowship which gets to the roots of human nature, and which if rightly applied can solve every vexing problem which is giving this old and ever new world such tremendous growing pains now.

It's just a little friendly co-operation that is needed to combat incipient selfishness, greed and lack of co-operation, elements which have combined to make trouble for everybody. Just the friendly soul-warming conception of the immortal Burns' flat "A Mon's a Mon for a' that and a' that."

Harking back to the old-fashioned basket picnic wherein each family brought a big clothes basket full of good things to eat—enough for themselves and any friends who might drop in—enough for several meals in fact. A peculiarity of the picnic atmosphere was always the constant desire to eat—what with swimming and running races and climbing trees and there a tremendous appetite was aroused.

A Juvenile Tragedy

The writer remembers a Grand Trunk basket picnic of the long ago, where he went au solitaire, that is to say, unattached. A paper box crammed full of eats promised protection against incipient starvation, and all was well in the juvenile heart with visions of a day of great joy.

Also on the boat were some of the tough lads who always crash the gate, carry no lunches, toil not, neither do they spin, but never miss a meal—you know the lads that used to live down near the gas works, or somewhere.

These lads were all fine swimmers and divers so when the boat reached the picnic place almost the first suggestion was a place to swim. Trailing the lads from down under, the writer decided to swim himself—first carefully hiding the cardboard box of eats, thinking no one witnessed the act.

A glorious hour—high diving and swimming feats, and an appetite just as big as all outdoors, seemingly, a rush to get into our pants and shirt the uniform of the day, and off to the cache where the eats awaited.

A Raided Cache

Sad to relate the eats were gone, so, suspiciously so, were my erstwhile companions, and so, a hungry, disillusioned lad with tears almost reaching the outlets, crept sadly back to the park proper where many groups were enjoying delicious looking eats. Rows of luscious pies caught the eye and almost stopped the breath—but while grown-ups profess to be able to drink to someone only with their eyes, to a hungry lad, eating when confined to eye service was very inadequate.

Sunshine Again

However, the sun broke through the gloom, when one particularly jolly family party, with lads and lassies about the age of the hungry lad, summoned him to the banquet spread out on a clean white table cloth on the grass, and told him to pitch in and see how much he could eat.

God was in His heaven and all was well with the world after that.

A Girl in the Picture

When boyhood days were past and gone the old-fashioned picnic still held its charm, but generally there was a girl in the picture—dancing in the moonlight, and holding hands all the way home in the back of the boat—perhaps a hastily snatched kiss or two—strictly contraband, but all the better for being stolen amid protests.

Next to the old-fashioned basket picnic the rural fair held a large share of our affections—not the great, hurly burly, midway noise-generating fair of the larger centres, but the quiet, little country fair where we knew everybody, and everybody knew us, and where one might reasonably be expected to be invited back of the pavilion occasionally to try a snort of some neighbor's mountain dew, or Corby's Special Selected—all in good-natured fun.

Stepping in 3 Minutes Flat

The trials of speed, the name applied to the trotting races so as to come under the fair law and not jeopardize the government's grant, were more exciting than the two-minute trotters of today because you knew the owners and the horses—knew them since they were knee high to a colt, man and beast. The three-minute trot brought out the fast ones and oh! Boy! how they did burn up that three-to-a-mile track, with all the neighbors yelling for their particular favorites and bedlam let loose when the leaders came down the home stretch and the winner led by an eyelash or a boot-lace under the wire.

And how those old boys in the judges' stand did strut their stuff—how they paced back and forth in the small space and discussed horse and horse handlers by and large. Occasionally their optics rested on the crowd, but just to see that their high position was duly recognized and fully admired. Occasionally some of the judges would duck down out of sight, and those in the know said that there was always some liquid refreshment for the officials at the foot of the ladder. At any rate they would bob up serenely, seemingly refreshed and with lustier voices than ever.

WHEN THE CLOCK STRUCK EIGHT

CHAPTER 24

"You've been playin' fast an' loose with us long enough, Spencer," said McMahon excitantly. "Mebbe 'twould be better put the zippers on you."

"No—I'll go with you all right," said Spencer, concealing his chagrin and disappointment under a bounty air. "Sorry though, we couldn't have postponed this meeting for 24 hours."

"Or years mabbe, huh?" sneered McMahon. "The longer the better, huh?"

"No, just hours," said Spencer.

"Then I could have proved my innocence of all your suspicions."

"Well, then, what you been doin' these weeks we've been layin' idly, I believe he'll keep his word! Park yer car up against the curb there and come along with us Spencer—and no funny business. I'm carryin' a gat."

Meanwhile to Bob's expressions of joy that Judith was safe and sound, and impatient questions as to what had happened, Judith was paying small attention, but too much concerned with Spencer's welfare. Now she turned into the conversation between the officer and his charges replying:

"Captain McMahon, please listen to him! I know what he says is true. Give him 24 hours!"

"Excuse me, Miss, but this is not your affair," said McMahon gruffly. Then his innate gallantry overcoming his official brusqueness, he spoke hard to speak rough to so fine a young woman as you—even if this rogue has deceived ye—but the proposition is ridiculous. Twenty-four hours indade! Twenty-hours to get away in and lave me holdin' the bag. I can't do it."

"If he had wanted to get away he could have done so long ago," said Judith earnestly. "He has no desire to get away. But if you lock him up now you will spoil his opportunity to prove that all your charges and suspicions are wrong. Give him one day, Captain, and I'll guarantee his return."

Captain McMahon took off his hat and scratched his head, perplexedly.

"Murder is not a bailable offense, ma'am," he said. "If 'twere anything else I might listen to you."

"Has a formal charge of murder been made against me?" Spencer demanded.

"No," said McMahon slowly, "but it looks bad for ye, man. Your initial scratch on the dead man in his own blood are mighty damaging evidence, considering you're the last person known to have been with him."

"If no formal charge has been made what difference can 24 hours make, since I have no intention of running away? Why, Captain, I've been within 20 miles of you all the time. I give you my word of honor, if you do not put me in jail tonight, I'll walk into your office by eight o'clock tomorrow night and give myself up."

"Word of honor—Captain McMahon smiled grimly—"I'll have to admit your word of honor would be passed at par, a few weeks ago. But you know, man, it isn't customary for the police to accept the 'word of honor' of a man suspected of most all the crimes in the calendar. It's true no formal charges have been made—we've just been waitin' to get our hands on ye. And now that I've got ye, wouldn't I be the soft one to let ye go?"

"If you want a rash forfeit," said Spencer. "I'll give you my check right here for any amount up to $50,000—and the check will be good."

"I will go his bond gladly for any amount you name," said Judith.

"Now, I think ye're all tryin' to bribe a poor honest policeman," said Captain McMahon with a grin. "Checks and bonds—or even the dirty green—are out of the question."

"What do you make of all this, Bob?" He turned to the reporter.

"I hardly know," said Bob Hadley. "Really, I'm more interested in what happened to Judith last night. We have Miss Madison's word for it that she started home in her car and neither car nor chauffeur returned we've found a wreck and burned car under the cliff at Rugged Mountain—and now we run into Judith and Spence. I think some explanations are in order."

Bob looked at Judith rather severely.

"They're very simple," said Judith demurely. "The car went over the cliff, I jumped out and was stunned; Mr. Spencer found me at the edge of the cliff and brought me home in his car . . . And now you want to put him in jail for it. It isn't fair."

"Not for bringin' you home, lady," no, indeed," grinned McMahon.

"What became of the chauffeur?" Bob insisted.

"I don't know," said Judith. "He got out of the car just before it started down the hill. Some something needed fixing. I never saw him again."

"It—sounds a little fishy," said Bob. "You're keeping something back, Judith."

"Maybe," said she unconcernedly. "But you're changed one subject and I'm not interested. What I want to know now, just now, is—are you going to let Mr. Spencer go, Captain McMahon, until eight o'clock tomorrow night? Oh please, do! All these years you've looked after me, Captain. You can't convict him on circumstantial evidence—and he's innocent anyhow. I promise you, since you won't accept my bond, that he'll come back."

"I will," Spencer asserted, "and I'll bring proof of my innocence."

"What do you think, Bobbie?" McMahon was evidently wavering. "Id be a bum policeman if I took him at his word, wouldn't I?"

"I'll never speak to you again, Bob Hadley, if you ay you," declared Judith while Bob was pondering the question.

Bob grinned.

"You see how we're up against it, Mac? Of course it's a bit irregular, but as no formal charges have been launched against Spencer, it's not like releasing a prisoner. Personally I believe he'll keep his word."

"Thanks for that, old man," said Spencer. "Your confidence will not be abused."

"Get in yer car an' hale it," said McMahon, giving Spencer a shove. "I haven't seen ye."

With a pressure of Judith's hand and the words: "Tomorrow night I will see you in Captain McMahon's office," Spencer turned to his car. "Thank you gentlemen," he said to McMahon and Hadley. "Goodbye until tomorrow night at eight."

"I know I'm a damned fool," said McMahon as Spencer's coupe started off. "If he don't come back I'll resign my job. I'm too soft to be a policeman."

"I'm coming down to your office tomorrow night, Captain," said Judith. "He'll be back all right."

Captain McMahon drove Hadley and Judith to the Metropolitan Hotel, where Bob parted from her.

"You've got a lot of explaining to do to Sally," said Bob as he was about to leave her. "The poor girl nearly had hysterics last night. I expect she's ordered a herself to sleep."

Judith did find Sally asleep, with tear-stained face. She woke her with a kiss.

"Oh, Judie!" Sally exclaimed, throwing her arms around Judith's neck. "You started to go to sleep —tears of joy this time. "I didn't think I'd ever see you again," she said between sobs.

"You can't lose me, Sally," said Judith gaily. "But gee I'm tired! Too tired to tell you all about it tonight." She thus forestalled Sally's endless questions, and started to undress.

"Tonight! Why Judie, it's tomorrow!" exclaimed Sally. "You've been gone all night."

"What time is it, dear?" Judith yawned.

"A quarter past four," said Sally indignantly. "There have you been Judith Hadley?"

"I'll tell you all about it when I wake up," said Judith, climbing into bed. "It's a long story, and I need my sleep. Good night, darling!"

"Good morning, you mean," Sally corrected. "Dawgone it, you never tell me anything! You let me asleep when I have to get up to go to the office, and I won't know a thing all day . . . I don't see how there she's asleep already! Well, I guess she needs it."

Judith was breathing heavily, whether really asleep or just "playing possum," Sally could not be sure, so reluctantly she gave up trying to "pump" Judith at this hour in the morning and tried to compose herself for sleep. She had lost a good deal herself in her anxiety for Judith, and both girls were soon breathing heavily without any suspicion of camouflage.

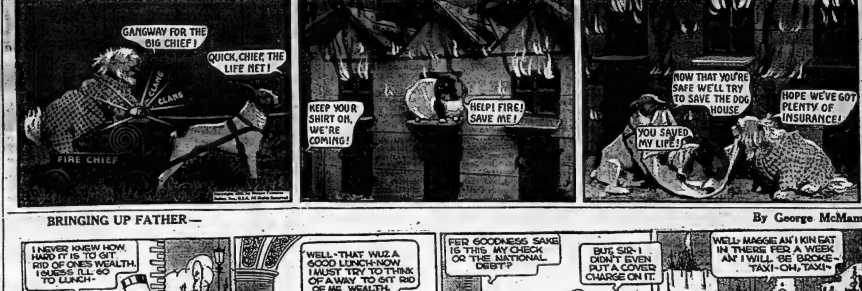
Little Benny's Note Book

Ma and ma was eating breakfast yesiddy and pop hadn't came down yet, me and Sister Mary Jane Walker would take us for a drive in the Sparrow this morning. It's such a lovely day, but he's so temperamental about driving. Just as sure as I suggest it he's bound to feel a mythological aversion to it. I think I'll approach the subject indirectly, she said.

And when pop came down ma said, What a perfect day. Willyum. it's ideal, and pop said, ee, ideal for emulsifying smogy indoors rapped in the protecting wings of an arm chair where no dust can blow on you and no wind can rattle the peaceful serenity of your Sunday paper.

Now Willyum dont sound pessimistic when the sun is shining in all its proverbial glory and the birds are instinctively singing and I'm sure the entire countryside must be an inspiring panorama of green grass interspersed with all the flowers of the rainbow, ma said, I mean, what a day to be rolling along drinking in the sites and sounds of nature, she said.

What sensible person wants to roll? pop said. Nature never intended human beans to roll. Let wheelbarrows and marbles roll, he said, and ma said, Now Willyum you certainly can be aggravating.



Why, no? Why, what, how do you mean? pop said and ma said, You know how I mean and pop said, I know only too well how I mean, and if you dont take us out for a nice drive this morning I'll think you're the meenest man I ever heard of and not deserving of the slightest sympathy or understanding.

Sure I'll take you for a drive, pop said. I'll be delighted. for feel sake why didn't you say you wanted to go for a drive, ma said, and ma said, I said one thing and I repeat it, you certainly can be aggravating.

Wich he can.

REVOLT IN THE DESERT by T. E. LAWRENCE

We sat in Jefer meanwhile, willing to bear the brunt of the attack, but lack. On its success or failure would depend the direction of our next march. The hill was not commanding, nor position had its comic side. We were within sight of Maan during those minutes of the day in which the mirage did not make cars and glasses useless; and yet we strolled about admiring our new well-dip in complete security, because the Turkish garrison believed water impossible here or at Bair, and were hugging the pleasant idea that we were now desperately engaged with their cavalry at Athrah.

I hid under some bushes near the well for hours, against the heat, very lazy, pretending to be asleep, the wide silk sleeve of my pillow-arm drawn over my face as a veil against the flies. Auda sat up and talked like a river, telling his best stories in great form. At last I reproved him with a smile, for talking too much and doing too little. He sucked his lips with pleasure of the work to come.

In the following dawn a third horseman rode into our camp with news that the Dhumaniyeh had fired on the Fuweilah post the afternoon before as soon as our main body had reached them. The surprise had been quite complete; the Turks manned their dry breastworks and drove them off. The crestfallen Al-Bir dry bed, took cover, and the enemy, believing it only an ordinary tribal affray had made a mountain sortie upon the nearest encampment.

One old man, an Ageyl, and seven children were its only occupants. In their anger at finding nothing actively hostile or able-bodied, the troopers smashed up the camp and cut the throats of its helpless ones. The Dhumaniyeh on the hill-top heard and saw nothing till it was too late; but then, in their fury, they dashed down across the ravine and fell on the rearmost men of the column. One old man, also and seven children were its only occupants. In their anger at finding nothing actively hostile or able-bodied, the troopers smashed up the camp and cut the throats of its helpless ones. The Dhumaniyeh on the hill-top heard and saw nothing till it was too late; but then, in their fury, they dashed down across the ravine and fell on the rearmost men of the column. Two of them off almost to the last man. To complete their vengeance they assaulted the now weekly-garrisoned fort, carried it in the first fierceness of their rush, and took the prisoners.

We were ready saddled, and within ten minutes had loaded and mounted our camels. Feisal, the first railway station south of Maan on our direct road for Aba El Lissan. Simultaneously we detached a small party to cross the railway from Abana Maan and make a diversion on that side. Especially they were to threaten the great herds of camels, the mainstay of the Palestine front, which the Turks pastured in the Hisbeh plains till once more fit for service.

We calculated that the news of their Fuweilah disaster would not have reached Maan till the morning, and that the garrison would by these camels (supposing our northern party missed them) and by the actual fighting divert the relief thither, and so let us move Ataba unmolested.

With this hope we rode steadily through the burning mirage of midafternoon, when we descended on the little land, barely cultivated a long stretch of it from guards and patrols. Each of these had a section of the captured section. The little garrison of Ghadir el Hij sallied out with the valour of ignorance against us, but the heat-haze blinded them, and we drove them off with ease.

They were on the telegraph, and would notify Maan, which beside, could not fail to hear the repeated thuds of our explosives. It was our aim to force enemy down upon us in the night; or rather down upon the road we would find no people in many broken bridges. So we worked fast and did great damage. The Arabs helped in the wrecking drills held from three to five pounds of gelatine and primed with two minutes by short fuses, brought down the arch, shattered the pier, and stripped the rails, all in no more than six minutes' work. So we ruined and blew up and mainly rolls, and finished our explosives.

After dusk, when our departure could not be seen, we rode five miles westward of the line, to cover. There we bivouacked and watched Maan's signal however, was not cooked before the Arabs, who had climbed a hill, report that a long column of reg troops—infantry and guns—had just appeared on the road between Maan. The Dhumaniyeh, disorganized with victory, had had to abandon their ground without fighting. They were at Batra waiting for us. We had lost Aba el Lissan, the blockhouse, the pass, the command of the Jefer, and Maan's water was being fired.

We learned afterwards that this unwelcome and unwonted vigour on the part of the Turks was accident.

A relief battalion had reached Maan that very day. The news of an Arab demonstration against Fuweilah arrived simultaneously, and the battalion, which happened to be formed up ready with its transport in the station yard, to march to barracks, was hurriedly strengthened by a section of pack artillery, some mounted men, and moved straight out as a punitive column to rescue the supposedly-besieged post.

They had left Maan in mid-morning and marched gently along the motor road, the men sweating in the heat of this south country after their native Caucasian mountains, and drinking thirstily of every spring. From Aba el Lissan they climbed uphill towards the old blockhouse which was deserted except for the silent vultures that flew above and waited in slow uneasy rings. The battalion commander feared lest the sight be too much for his young troops, and led them back to the roadside spring of Aba el Lissan, in its agreeable narrow valley, where they camped all night in peace about the water.

TEAM OF HORSES STRUCK BY CAR

One Horse Killed, The Other Receives Serious Injuries

Rawdon—Early Saturday morning about one a.m. two horses belonging to Mr. Frank Smith were struck near Mr. Will Pott's home by a car driven by Mr. Hall of Campbellford.

The one horse was killed outright and the other so badly injured that it was necessary to shoot it as it was unable to be led by Mr. Hall was returning home from Belleville and was on his way to Campbellford at the Crowe Valley Trail when the accident occurred. We understand the car was badly damaged.

When Mr. and Mrs. Smith arrived home from the Education Service held that evening at Mount Pleasant United Church they noticed the bars were down in the pasture field and upon investigation found the team or horses missing but the cows were still grazing in the field so they thought the horses had only been there a short time. They then took their car and searched the township as far as Codrington Merrick's Hill without success. On their return they searched the hay field of Mr. Will Pott's and soon finding their horses they concluded they must have broken into their neighbor's pasture field.

Early the morning Mr. Herbert Smith started to search for the team and at breakfast time they heard that a car accident had been killed about three miles away on the Campbellford road.

A barn dance was in progress Friday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Seeger and it is thought that when the horses passed the field of corn they commenced cars going to the dance frightened the horses. Mr. Seeger's and then they wandered down the Campbellford road by Mr. Spencer's farm out to the Trenton Trail.

At the time of the accident the team were crossing the road and both felt the impact of the car. Folks residing nearby were soon on the scene and they soon dispatched the one animal which was suffering so badly. The other horse was killed outright.

LORD TWEEDSMUIR GREETED BY LORDS

Canada's New Governor General Takes Seat in Upper House

LONDON, July 10.—With colorful and historic pageantry, Lord Tweedsmuir, Canada's next Governor-General, was introduced to the House of Lords at his elevation to the peerage.

Lord Tweedsmuir, who as John Buchan sat in the House of Commons for seven years, was escorted by Lord Macmillan and Lord Strathcona.

The procession passed through the bar of the House headed by the Black Rod followed by the Garter King of Arms, the Hereditary Earl Marshal and the Lord High Chamberlain, in the uniforms of their rank and office, and carrying the symbols of their dignity.

The new peer and his sponsors followed. In scarlet robes, the procession advancing up the floor of the House to the throne, Lord Tweedsmuir dropped to his knee and presented the writ for creation of the peerage and the writ of summons.

After these were read the oath was administered and the new Peer signed the roll.

Proposed by Lord Macmillan and seconded by Lord Tweedsmuir was conferred to a seat on the back Government bench.

BORROWING FROM ONTARIO BANKS QUITE AGREEABLE

Mayors in Conference With Premier Hepburn Give Support

MOTIONS PRESENTED

Urge Federal Government Pay Full Cost of Relief

Toronto, July 10—(CP)—Resolutions passed by the Ontario Mayors' Association at Kitchener last month were presented to Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn and Minister of Welfare David Croll today by the executive of the Association headed by Herbert E. Wilson of Hamilton.

Among the resolutions were those urging the Dominion government assume the full cost of relief in Canada and that the Provincial government take such action as might be necessary for loans to municipalities.

The Association asked for a works program of unemployment relief and that the provincial government lend to each municipality individually to enable the municipality to work out its own problems.

Old Age Pension Limit

Other requests were for a minimum wage for women, old age pensions limits for old age pensions from 60 to 65 years, legislation by the Federal and provincial governments to provide a portion of the business tax from departmental stores to municipalities where these stores are located.

The Association asked that the federal government take over the collection of municipal income taxes to be paid back to the municipality less a five percent collecting charge.

Rate on Borrowings

Mayor J. A. Smith of Kitchener said his city had to pay five percent on its borrowings from banks, whereas London paid a lower rate.

Agreeing the charge "was out of all proportion," Mr. Hepburn said Ontario could get all the Canadian money it wanted at three percent unless the United States demand less than one percent. He added, however, to take United States funds would entail payment in that country's currency.

Municipalities Attitude

Mr. Hepburn asked the opinion of the delegation on a proposal to exempt from taxation savings offices so citizens could deposit their surpluses and the municipalities borrow from them. The delegation would negotiate an amendment to the Savings Office Act to permit this being done, he added. "Could we be assured of support?" he asked.

You would have the backing of every Mayor," replied Mayor G. A. Wenger of Waterloo.

Mayor P. J. Nolan, of Ottawa thought such a step would cause banks to reduce interest rates.

The premier said he had such an amendment in mind.

Found Injured Beside Tracks

Brockville, Ont., July 10 (CP)—Believed to have lain beside the C.P.R. tracks for two days and a half miles east of here, all night after being from a freight train last night, Samuel Adams, 35, Montreal, was found by police early today with bruises about the legs and scalp for which he is receiving treatment in the St. Vincent de Paul Hospital. Adams has only one good arm and is believed to have lost his grip on the train upon which he had ridden from Montreal.

Torture Chamber of Ivan the Terrible Believed Discovered by Excavators

By JOHN LLOYD
(Associated Press Foreign Staff)

Moscow, July 9.—(AP)—Archaeology excavators have announced they have discovered the underground chamber where Ivan the Terrible was said to have tortured his victims nearly four centuries ago.

Definite proof was declared to have been obtained that a chamber and passages found beneath the centre of the city (AP)—the spot where the Lenin Library is under construction was Ivan's dreaded "henchmen's court."

There, according to the stories told of Ivan, he had his victims torn to pieces by bears and sometimes, buried alive.

Canadians, Americans, Ask to Leave War Zone

Dr. G. C. Bergman (shown at RIGHT), superintendent of the Seventh Day Adventist hospital at Addis Ababa, Abyssinia, is still carrying on his tasks of mercy despite the threat of war. His post is in the danger zone about which centres the war dispute of Ethiopia's Emperor Haile Selassie, and Italy's premier-dictator, Benito Mussolini. Mrs. Bergman and the two Bergman children are with the doctor. The family comes from Los Angeles, California, and Dr. Bergman was formerly stationed at the Washington sanitarium, Takoma Park, Maryland. They, together with the other 125 American residents in Abyssinia have been advised to leave by United States Charge D'Affaires William Perry George. Several Canadians have also been advised to leave. The warning came after the state department turned down Abyssinia's request for intervention.

DEATH TOLL 41 MANY HOMELESS

Damage Estimated at Fifteen Millions in New York

Albany, N.Y., July 10.—(AP)—With damage estimates mounting hourly, the State and Federal governments today pushed the full costs of removing debris and rehabilitating flood-wrecked New York communities where 41 persons have lost their lives since Monday.

The two governments swung to full force of relief workers into action as the most conservative reports from the 15-mile stricken central area of the State showed the flood damage to be put in excess of $15,000,000.

Approximately 3,000 persons all are homeless. Five are missing.

Chairman Alfred H. Schoellkopf announced that the entire cost would be borne by State and Federal agencies.

Provide Food

As the men moved to the scene, the American Red Cross and State Health Department officers tackling the tremendous task of providing food and protection for them.

The State Health Department, fearful outbreaks of typhoid fever sent representatives and equipment to communities where the water supply was ruined.

Hornell, where the flood was termed a "major disaster", was hardest hit surely returning to normal. As flood waters receding more than 1,000 refugees salvaged belongings, repairing wrecked homes.

The area north and east of Hornell was faced with grave new dangers last night as a dam burst at Wayland and heavy rains swept Dansville and Arkport.

News Ban to States Lifted

PARIS, July 10.— (AP)— The official government censorship on despatches to Britain and the United States was lifted today.

Premier Pierre Laval informed the Anglo-American Press Association which had been protesting against the censorship for months, that in an agreement with the Ministers of War and the Interior, he has ordered all Press dispatches to the two countries transmitted without delay.

The censorship, however, will be continued on despatches to other countries.

CHILDREN DROWN WHILE PLAYING

One Falls Off Rock And Other Rushes to Rescue

Haliburton, July 10.—Lake Twinkamning Tuesday claimed the lives of two little sisters, Patricia Seven, and Betty, five, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Miller, 763 Dundas street, Toronto, who were drowned a few yards from the cottage where they were with their families had been camping, about five miles north of here.

The younger Miller girl slipped from a rock while trying to reach a raft floating nearby and fell into the lake. Her sister went in for her and both disappeared. Sheriff Watson, eight-year-old daughter of Mrs. Annie Watson, 46 Essex Street, Toronto, was the only eye-witness of the tragedy, police said.

The bodies were recovered later. A pulmotor had been rushed from Port Hope Fire department, but both children were dead when taken from the water. Dr. J. S. McCullough, coroner for New Liskeard, decided against an inquest.

BLAST KILLS, SEVERAL

Warsaw, July 10.—(CP-Havas)—Several persons have been killed and many others seriously injured today in a terrific blast in a secret subterranean explosives laboratory at Zoliborz, a suburb of Warsaw.

The experiments were being conducted under the auspices of the Military Explosives Laboratory but nothing was revealed as to their exact nature. Strict censorship was applied.

Lindsay, Ont., July 10 (CP)—Breking the lock on the warehouse door of the British American Oil Company here last night, thieves entered the office and cracked the safe, obtaining $150. The thieves dirged the safe out into the warehouse where they turned it upside down and battered the bottom out of it with crowbars.

"WORK OR LEAVE" ORDER IN EFFECT AT ROCKCLIFFE

138 Strikers Ejected And Sent Out of Camp to Ottawa

300 MEN PARADE

Complaints Regarding Food Will Be Fully Investigated

OTTAWA, July 10.—(CP)—The show down on the "work or leave camp" order put in effect at Rockcliffe Relief Camp today resulted in 138 strikers being ejected.

The men were transported in trucks to the Capital, five miles from the camp at Ottawa Air Station.

The men left the trucks at the city limits and trekked into the city a problem for the city and province since they had left Department of National Defence jurisdiction.

The camp clean-up was made without disorder. Relief workers electing to stay at Rockcliffe and Pendelton, Ont., 30 miles farther down the Ottawa River, will resume work at 1 p.m., numbered 665.

The Pendelton Camp as well as Rockcliffe is under the direction of Wing Commander A. E. Dagfrey, officer commanding the Ottawa Air Station.

There was no strike at Pendleton, where 106 relief workers were quartered.

Segregation of men who signified their intention to work and those who continued the strike took three hours—from 8 a.m. until 11.

Officer Men of the men paraded on the Athletic Field at 9 a.m., where Wing Commander Godfrey read them, "the latest instructions from Headquarters," and "the Minister's Headquarters," promised immediate attention to complaints made regarding bedding and meat supplies, and full protection for those who wished to stay in the camp and work.

At the 300 who heard the Commander, only 21 voted to continue the strike.

Meanwhile 200 additional men remaining in their quarters refusing to treat with the camp officials.

Poignant With Interest

The scene on the Athletic Field early this morning was poignant with interest as the men paraded, gathered in little groups and declared "to go or stay."

The men came from the breakfast table to assemble on the field.

Those who remained in their huts showed little enthusiasm. Many I go, until they take the 'red-coats' away."

The commander on his trip through the camps have personal interview after interview to those men, who hesitated in deciding whether to go or stay.

"Where will I go, Commander?" one lad in his early twenties, with tears in his eyes. "I'll have to go back home."

"That is the last place I want you to go," the Wing Commander replied, "Can you not get work there to set satisfactorily here?"

"Yes, but I don't want to be called 'a scab,' " the lad answered. "I've had enough of that in my time up the group at the field.

ELECTION DATE LIKELY SEPT. 23

Not Expected Machinery Can be Put in Effect Before That Time.

Ottawa, July 10 (CP)—The political situation may be somewhat clarified when Hon. H. H. Stevens, leader of the new party, issues his manifesto. Yesterday the former Minister of Trade and Commerce expressed the view that his announcement would be available Friday. Simultaneously it is expected the name of the new party will be given out.

While preparations for the campaign for the general election of Liberals and Conservatives, speakers campaign plans of the leaders all await definite announcement of the election date, Prime Minister R. B. Bennett continues to carry on the strenuous duties attaching to his position, which have been materially increased by the unrest at various relief camps throughout Canada. Liberal Leader Mackenzie King has gone to his summer place near the city where he can rest and yet enjoy some of the relaxations of so soon air.

Falls on Monday

While official intimation is still lacking, September 23 is now regarded as the date for the election. It will fall on Monday (the day provided for in the Dominion Elections Act), and it seems probable that an earlier Monday in the month would be chosen. The first Monday in the month is Labor Day, which could not be an election day. The next Monday would be the chosen for nomination day.

The Prime Minister has a long list of vacancies to fill, some of which may be attended to before the end of the week. Whether or not he will leave for a holiday then may depend on the situation in relief camps. The possibility of a change in the system of caring for single unemployed men, as a result of the unrest, has been suggested.

Highways Dept. Curbs Operations Travel Bureaus

Toronto, July 10 (CP)—The Ontario Department of Highways announced in a statement today, that "travel bureaus" must cease their operations of travel bureau transporting passengers without a license to do so.

"War has been declared by the Department of Highways on the operation of so-called "travel bureaus" in this province and in order to protect the passengers," said the statement.

"This type of business is contrary to the provisions of the Public Vehicle Act and at the last session of the Legislature the Act was amended so as to prohibit advertising of these so-called "travel agencies" or "bureaus" the statement added.

War in Africa Inevitable Is Feeling in Europe, Britain Hopes for Peace

Control of Ethiopian Hinterland is Italy's Demand

SLAVERY ISSUE

Italian Forces Not Yet Strong Enough is London View

By The Canadian Press

Inevitability of war between Italy and Ethiopia was expressed today although the British government still hoped for some form of settlement that would avert hostilities.

Grave concern for the future of the League of Nations and the whole laborious "collective security" system was expressed in both the British and French capitals, as diplomatic efforts to settle the dispute reached a complete impasse. This was heightened by a report Ethiopia would demand immediate convocation of the League Council.

The British government, polished off the conference it made for the House of Commons tomorrow, still believed the hand that settlement must be on a collective basis. A cabinet meeting on Monday warned Britain to keep "hands off" less European tension be increased.

Ethiopia's Emperor Haile Selassie was reported to have informed the British Government Italy will be satisfied with no less than control of the Ethiopian hinterland, and Italian Fascist political and trade sons of influence.

Addis Ababa, July 10 (CP)—The Foreign Ministry announced today that Ethiopia, "protesting a peaceful solution of the dispute with Italy, demands the immediate convocation of the Council of the League of Nations.

Efforts to settle on the Italo-Ethiopian conciliation commission meeting at Scheveningen, "following the refusal of the Italian authorities to examine the question of Walwal" did not surprise Ethiopian government circles, the announcement said.

Italians' unwillingness to take up this question was termed new proof, the statement said, of Italy's claims against the illegal occupation of its territory and the Italian aggression of December 5, 1934.

(The Italian arbitrators, insisting that discussion be confined to the actual blame for the Walwal border clash in which Italians and Ethiopians were reported killed, declined to listen to Ethiopia's contention that Walwal is situated on Ethiopian territory.)

Italy Still Sought

London, July 10—(AP)—The government's determination to seek a peaceful settlement of the Italo-Ethiopian dispute "in co-operation with the governments of the other countries" was reiterated today by Lord Cranborne, Dominions Secretary, and Anthony Eden, Minister without Portfolio, in the House of Lords.

The same assurance was given in reply to Geoffrey Le M. Mander, Liberal member, who asked whether Sir Samuel Hoare, Foreign Secretary to represent to Italy that, for British, the League of Nations is not to default in her obligations under the Covenant in the event of Italy's aggression.

Saying such an invitation appeared to refer to the possibility that Italy might resort to war, Eden stated: "That situation has not yet arisen, and I earnestly trust that it will not arise."

Italian Papers' Warning

Rome, July 10—(CP-Havas)—Italian newspapers on the eve of the important conference of the British cabinet and the House of Commons on Ethiopia, published articles today to adopt a hands-off policy in the dispute with Ethiopia.

The semi-official Giornale d'Italia reminded Great Britain that she is bound by the text of the world and should not deny to Italy a "place in the sun, especially when Italian rights in the entrance British interests." The newspaper assured Britain that British interests in Egypt and Tana would not be menaced by Italian control of Ethiopia.

Gionale D'Italia added the following "four theses of mediation":

To take the prestige of the League of Nations into account; "not to understand better the true needs of Italy, to be convinced that Italy in Ethiopia would be no more of a menace to Britain than the government of Addis Ababa, and to remember European solidarity, of which Britain might have grave need in case of war."

British Cabinet Meets

London, July 10—(AP)—The Cabinet met today to discuss the grave Italo-Ethiopian crisis.

Fed on Lettuce And Some Meat Says Farm Hand

Grimsby, Ont., July 10—(CP)—John Donaz, Kitchener, told Magistrate's court he had been fed on dry bread and milk, with an occasional bit of lettuce and meat and potatoes.

He was suing Joe Barich, Clinton Township farmer, for wages. He was awarded judgment for the wages and costs.

Donau declared he was given dry bread and milk for breakfast, dry bread and lettuce and vinegar for luncheon and dry bread and milk for supper, and on Sundays potatoes and smoked ham, and sometimes a little butter.

He claimed he had agreed to work for $20 a month and board, but Barich offered him $15 at the end of the first month. He quit on this account and became the meal "were no good."

SHAW AND CROSS GIVEN FIVE YEARS

Plead Guilty to Robbery of York Township Office

Toronto, July 10—(CP)—Fred Shaw and Fred Cross were sentenced to three years in Kingston penitentiary when they pleaded guilty today to the robbery of the North York Township Treasurer's office of $4,000 in cash and $60,000 in cheques. They were found guilty on other robberies as well.

For escaping from Cobourg Jail Cross and Shaw were sentenced to an additional two years in penitentiary.

Eugene Colbourne, companion of Cross, pleaded guilty to robbery charges and was sentenced to three years in jail.

Girls Suspended

Alma Howes and Cora Brown, companions of Cross and Shaw when they were arrested in Montreal for questioning, pleaded guilty to charges of vagrancy and were given suspended sentence of two years, and placed on probation for that period.

Shaw and Cross pleaded guilty to a charge of breaking into the library of A house at Cooksville.

Cross and Colbourne pleaded guilty to theft of a car in Hamilton, theft of markers from a car in Windsor, burglary of a fur and wire store at Galt, and robbery of a cry, Gleaning plant at Belleville.

WEATHER

Toronto, July 10—(CP)—With the exception of a few light scattered showers in the western provinces the weather is fair and quite moderately warm elsewhere.

Lake Superior—Light to moderate winds; mostly fair continuing warm.

Kenora and Rainy River—Mostly fair and warm; possibly a thundershower.

Manitoba—Mostly fair and warm.

Saskatchewan — Fresh westerly winds; mostly fair and continued warm; probably thunderstowers in northern.

Alberta—Fresh westerly winds; partly cloudy; not much change in temperature; some light scattered showers.

FISH SHOWS MARK OF SPEAR PRONG

While trolling in the upper Moira river above Corbyville on Thursday evening, William McIntosh and D. Laporte hooked a two pound fish, which was safely landed in the boat. On examination, the fish was found to have a scar on the right side about the size of a fifty cent piece, apparently the result of a spear prong. Likely in the spring when the fish was making its way to the head water he was one some person had struck the fish with a spear but missed.

JAIL SENTENCE ON FIRST OFFENCE

Continuing the provincial-wide concerted drive against drunken drivers, Albert Danforth, Coe Hill, labourer, was arraigned in local police court this morning on a charge of driving a motor car while intoxicated. The accused man pleaded guilty as charged, was sentenced to serve seven days in jail and the individual operator's license was cancelled for a period of two months by Magistrate E. J. Butler, K.C. today.

During the progress of the Court His Worship commented on the matter of drunken drivers. "There is no alternative under the law. In all cases of drivers while intoxicated the same sentence will be meted out on first offenders. Subsequent offences will be dealt with in a more drastic manner," assured Magistrate Butler.

CANADIAN WINS FOUNDERS' CUP

Honors Come to Canada With Victory of R. M. Gray

Prestwick, July 10—(CP Cable)—Canada took individual honors in the Senior Golfers' Triangular International Tourney with Great Britain and the United States ending today, when R. M. Gray of Toronto won the Founders' cup with a score of 71.

In the team championship which concluded yesterday Canada had totalled far in the lead with five points to 17 1-3 for the United States and 31 1-3 for the Britons. A. R. Aikers of Great Britain was runner-up in the individual events with 72 and R. L. Fearey of New York third with 80.

Thirty of the 39 men who made up the three teams went into the tourney but it rained so hard during the round that several of these withdrew after playing a few holes.

No other Canadian was among the leaders.

WAR IN AFRICA FELT INEVITABLE

Tomorrow Foreign Secretary Sir Samuel Hoare will make a statement to the House of Commons on the British position.

Britain is finding it hard to find a way out of the impasse. She is continuing conversations with Rome in hopes for a last minute solution. But even the greatest optimist here realizes that war between Italy and Ethiopia is virtually inevitable.

Negotiations with Italy have reached an impasse. Conversations in both Rome and Addis Ababa have for the time being ceased. It is frankly recognized that Italy will no longer be content with economic concessions from Ethiopia. She wants political control and at anything affecting her political independence Ethiopia offers blind defiance. Until either one side or the other makes a new offer, there is no starting point for negotiations.

Great Britain is keeping all the Continental powers informed of the situation. There has been no specific invitation to any Continental power to give its view, but that, it is stated, is implicit in the communications.

Sees Death of League

"If," commented the Daily Herald, "Italy does invade Abyssinia in war in violation of her covenants, in order to steal the Ethiopian land, if the world powers of certain League powers choose to be accomplices to the crime, fail to do its duty, then the League dies, and with it the whole system of collective security on which rest reverts to that 'jungle law' which means war in Europe, war in Africa but war and the danger of war everywhere and for all time."

"The League's stake is not the future of Ethiopia. It is the future of civilization."

It is reiterated in British circles today that it is in accordance with the French there has been no question of resort to economic sanctions against Italy. Conversations have been on possible ways of conciliation.

LONDON, July 10.—(CP-Havas) —Control by Italy of the administration, policing and fixing of an Italian political and trade zone of influence, covering the whole economic government and hold the territory of Ethiopia was the revelation which Dino Grandi, Italian Ambassador to Great Britain, at St. James', was understood to have made to the British Government.

Ambassador Grandi has been in close touch with the foreign office yesterday and it was believed he made clear all the points on which Italy would welcome a peaceful settlement of the dispute with Emperor Haile Selassie.

He conferred also with Joseph A. C. Avenol, Secretary-General of the League of Nations, and it was believed he emphasized the same points to the League official.

Italy, Grandi also told the British government, wants to control the suppression of the slave trade in the Ethiopian Kingdom.

Have Troops Suppressed

The demands were summarized as follows:

1.—A political guaranty equivalent to control by Italy covering all the Ethiopian Hinterland adjacent to Italy's colonies of Eritrea and Somaliland.

2.—Fixing in Ethiopia, in addition, the last three years, of a thoroughly controlled, of a zone of political influence, which would be exclusively under Italy, where Italy may exploit the country and control supplies of arms and war.

3.—The zone, which would cover approximately the eastern half of three-power treaty of 1906, should have suppressed there the slave trade, under Italian influence.

Ambassador Grandi also said the British Government, up to now, had shown itself little disposed to entertain Italian claims, and Italy, it was said, would formally make these demands and the Addis Ababa Government only if France, England and Italy concluded anew the 1906 Treaty in Kingston on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays the next two weeks. Police court will be held before the same magistrate at Napanee on the same days. Trenton His Worship is holding a special traffic court in Picton.

Italy Not Yet Ready

It is the belief here that Italy is ready yet for its attack on Ethiopia. Only today the London Daily Telegraph asserted that Premier Mussolini had not yet listened to the advice of his general headquarters staff that 500,000 troops should be sent East Africa before the campaign should begin. Less than half that number have been transported to the Italian colonies in the last three months, including non-combatant units. Some credence was given to the report since the Emperor Haile Selassie's reserves are estimated at 400,000.

Adequate communications from the Ethiopian border to the heart of the Italian colonies is another problem that has not been completely met by the Italian army engineers and this will require more time.

BELIEVE CHICKENS KILLED BY FOXES

W. R. Wensley, Bleecker Ave., Loses Flock of Fourteen

The wholesale destruction of a flock of chickens, the property of W. R. Wensley, Bleecker Avenue, was reported to the police yesterday, the feathered fowl allegedly being killed by three escaped foxes. When the matter was reported to the authorities it was disclosed that on Monday night last six foxes, the property of Harvey Leeman, 30 Chatham Street, had escaped from their coop. Later Mr. Leeman, assisted by neighbours, recovered three of the missing foxes but the remaining three at large are believed to have been responsible for the wholesale killing of Mr. Wensley's chickens.

After killing the chickens the foxes later buried them in a vacant field adjacent to the Wensley residence, where they were discovered yesterday. An all-night vigil was kept by Mr. Wensley and Mr. Leeman last night, but only once was there any outward sign of the return of the foxes, that being when Mr. Wensley's dog chased what looked like a small animal resembling a fox, around midnight. No further destruction of chickens was reported this morning, although no trace of the missing foxes was reported at noon today.

among the strikers, Nar Shoon of Montreal. He had been born in China and had lived 13 years in Canada, he said.

"Why do you strike?" the Commander asked. "Don't you want to work?"

"I'll work for pay, work here or farm work," Nar Shoon replied. He explained he had been afraid to apply for a farm job offered yesterday. He elected to stay in the camp.

Many of the men who left the camp, Commander Hughes said, were sympathy with Communist agitation.

"They have had enough with camp life, they explained. Some had been in the camp for over two years.

ORANGE WALK AT WEST HUNTINGDON

Many Lodges Will Participate in Celebration of July Twelfth

It is expected that many will be in attendance at West Huntingdon on July 12th inst. to take part in an Orange Celebration to be held under the auspices of the Orange Society of that locality. Special trains will leave from Trenton Hamilton too," he told Mayor Wilson, "Hamilton's not paying for them and Sudbury is."

"I think the Provincial Government should look after them in some form," said Mayor Wilson.

Says Food Excellent

Recalling the visit of Rev. S. R. East, of Regina, to Ottawa yesterday, Mayor F. J. Nolan said that "there was no agitation till he arrived." He told of visiting Rockcliffe Airport, scene of the strike yesterday and finding the food satisfactory.

Mr. Croll asked the mayors how they found relief conditions in their cities.

"I have scores of reputable people on relief and they tell me they are satisfied," said Mayor Wilson.

There were, however, about 1,100 agitators making impossible demands, he said, and wanting electric refrigerators.

Kitchener officials were satisfied relief was fair, said Mayor Smith.

In Sudbury, however, Mayor Challen felt the cost of living was insufficient due to increased living costs.

Mr. Croll reminded him the Sudbury allowance was 37 per cent lower than Campbell report fig. Calls said living costs were 25 per cent. more than in Southern Ontario.

LOOKING BETTER

George Selkirk, Canadian-born successor to Babe Ruth in the right field position with the New York Yankees, and also wearer of Ruth's former number, No. 3, is batting a good ball again. The former Huntsville lad made a sensational climb last season, hitting safely in 11 straight games to climb close to the .300 mark and fielding brilliantly. Ruth's passing is believed by Manager McCarthy to have contributed to the temperamental lad's renewed.

National Minimum Wage

A minimum wage for men should be applied nationally, said the mayor during discussion of the mayors' minimum wage resolution. Mayor P. E. Clarke, of Simcoe favoring a national minimum wage, said hundreds of children were employed in canning factories in his district but he realized all possible help was required in the busy season.

While wages had been generally low for men and women, he added appeals to employers had resulted in increases.

The Premier declared Ontario would have gone ahead at the last session of the Legislature with minimum wage and other social legislation but Prime Minister R. B. Bennett forecast a federal social program and Ontario waited for it.

Transient Relief

Mayor W. J. Cullen, of Sudbury, spoke of a resolution urging the Provincial Government bear the full cost of transient relief and provide accommodations in Government hostels at strategic points through the Province.

Because Sudbury has been known as a "boom" town there were transients in Sudbury from Halifax to Vancouver. "I don't have from Hamilton too," he told Mayor Wilson, "Hamilton's not paying for them and Sudbury is."

"I think the Provincial Government should look after them in some form," said Mayor Wilson.

TWO MINISTERS ARE INDUCTED

Rev. James E. Beckel, Rev. J. A. MacMillan Assume Charges

Stirling—On Thursday evening July 4th, Rev. James E. Beckel was duly inducted minister of the Rawdon Circuit of the United Church. The induction ceremonies were in charge of Rev. James Semple, B.A., B.D.D., President of the Bay of Quinte Conference. The address to the minister was delivered by Rev. W. W. Foley of Springbrook. Rev. E. W. Rowland of Stirling, chairman of the Belleville Presbytery, addressed the three congregations of the charge as they gathered in one body for this ministerial event in the church at Mount Pleasant. Special music by the combined choirs of the three churches was exceptionally well rendered. Rev. L. S. Wight of Kingsford and Rev. A. MacLauchlin of Almonte also assisted with the ceremony which was carried through in manner portraying the solemn dignity of such an occasion.

Rev. James E. Beckel and his family of four girls and two boys moved to their new home in Stirling on Thursday July 4th, and Mr. Beckel ministered to the people of the Rawdon Church on Sunday, July 7th for the first time since his official induction. Before coming to Stirling Mr. Beckel, who is incidentally Secretary of the Bay of Quinte Conference of the United Church of Canada, made his home in Napanee where Mrs. Beckel and the Bay Circuit.

On Monday afternoon July 5th, a special induction service was held in the Stirling Presbyterian Church at Burnbrae, when Rev. J. MacMillan formerly of the Ottawa Presbytery was officially inducted to the Pastoral Charge of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Stirling. A large congregation attended. The ceremony which was held in the afternoon for the purpose of permitting ministers from a distance to be in attendance. In the absence of Rev. A. G. Cameron, Moderator of the Kingston Presbytery, who was unavoidably detained Rev. W. J. Walker, B.A., B.D., of St. Andrew's Church, Belleville officiated as Moderator pro tem. Rev. Mr. Walker delivered a very inspiring message in the induction sermon.

After the induction vows were taken, the address to the minister was delivered in fine manner by Rev. W. E. Kelly of Trenton. Rev. J. A. MacMillan, St. Andrew's Church, Stirling addressed the congregation. At the conclusion of the ceremonies the members of the congregation served a delightful lunch to the members of the Kingston Presbytery who were in attendance.

Rev. J. A. MacMillan who has been in this district for nearly a year acting as stated supply in the Burnbrae field is already quite well known for his ability in the pulpit, and the people of Burnbrae are to be congratulated on securing a man of his ability, for their minister.

Institute Meeting

The July meeting of the Stirling Women's Institute was held on Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Lawrence Munro. Chairs and tables were arranged on the lawn of the home and the open air meeting proved to be a delightful outing. Mrs. Louis Rodgers, president was in charge of the opening exercises and opened the meeting with the singing of the Institute Ode followed by the Lord's Prayer in unison. The members present answered the roll call with their maiden names and their birth place. Mrs. R. H. Williams, Secretary-Treasurer gave her report of the last regular meeting. Mrs. H. Tulloch, convener of the program committee was in charge of the remaining portion of the days activities. The following numbers made up the very interesting program.

"As ye sow, so shall ye reap." Benjamin Franklin. Are that the ponties marchers, near Rome, were drained and converted into arable farmland.

Mrs. R. H. Williams read an interesting article on "The Modern Home" written by Ada Jones. Misses Elgie then offered a solo, "Sweet and Low" with Mrs. Jitz at the piano. A reading entitled "Being Happy" was given by Mr. Arthur Gordon. When and Why Institutes?" by Seth Parker was read by Mrs. Wm. Wilson and Miss B. Donnan also read one of his numbers entitled "Jesus is my neighbour" Mrs. J. M. SCRAMBLED IDEAS

Everybody complains about the weather, but no one seems to do anything about it—according to Mark Twain, who could see something funny even in the weather. Attempting to write editorials when the mercury is flirting with one hundred in the shade of the old apple tree is something in which the germs of humor has departed, if it ever was. Question—why editorials in summer, anyway? Is there anything the editorial mind can conceive and put on paper which will surprise, entertain or amuse the reader—the sophisticated reader of today?

Time was when editorial writing was a personal matter, the editor backed up his written opinions with fist, sword or pistol, and was not slow at expressing opinions of a controversial nature. Not that he was over brave, but that was his job, and in the days of weekly journalism it could be said that the paper went to press at four and hostilities began at four-thirty. Duels used to be frequent and the editor was generally a pretty good shot—he had to be.

There is a story somewhere about an editor who was challenged to mortal combat by a fiery one-legged son of the sunny South. The editor went to the field of honor and insisted upon strapping one of his legs to a stump, stating that he did not want to take any advantage over his challenger. The affair ended not in gunpowder but in laughter over mint juleps and friendship was renewed.

Ed Howe, one of the most militant editorial writers that the southwest ever produced had one favorite slogan, "Don't get the small town complex"; never be satisfied with things as they are—hitch your wagon to a star, the sky's the limit.

By this time the reader will have guessed that this is a hot weather editorial, written to fill the space which yawns so emptily and must be filled every day—even if the editor preferred to go fishing. And so, if you have read down this far expecting to get some great thoughts, new ideas, comment on third parties or what have you, we're sorry to disappoint, but as our old Methody minister used to say when he broke off his discourse when it was logical by about half worked out—take it home and think it out for yourselves.

HOT FEET IN ETHIOPIA

Ethiopia does not want war, but if war comes that nation does not mean to keep hit end up. Even before the game begins there is rumor of foul play. King Selassie's warriors fight in bare feet and the rumour states that the Italians are plotting to saturate the ground with chemical stuff which will burn the feet of the dusky fighting clansmen and cripple them. Seems to us a flimsy sort of foul warranting the chemical war bureau of Ethiopia in arranging to install army ants in the trousers of Mussolini's fighters. Not that we want to be flippant, for war is serious, even terrible in spots—but did you notice the high price of cheese and hogs?—perhaps even wheat will do the same and symbolic that tension at Ottawa caused by carrying over so many thousand bushels of wheat waiting for the price to overtake the limit fixed.

PUT IT OUT

The great open spaces are calling, calling to you and to me,—calling away from the desk and dusty office, away from tired people and tasks that long since have lost interest. In camp or cottage it should always be remembered that the camper has responsibilities which he should religiously observe. Government statistics show that more forest fires are started by open camp fires than by any other single cause. Open fires are not necessary in this age of invention. Camp stoves, perfectly safe, can be obtained at small cost and great comfort. Do you know that during the years from 1923 to 1932 the following damage was done to forests by careless campers and others: 26,988,227 acres burned over; with a loss in dollars of $96,377,483; timber destroyed being 34,564,736 cords, the result of 67,598 forest fires. Anyone who has ever experienced a forest fire in any degree, been exposed to one in a dangerous way, or had relatives lose their all and often their lives need not be astonished to be careful with fire. Push country dry during the summer. All others should stop and consider their duty to humanity in general and all that the forest means in national assets. Don't drop matches, cigarette or cigar stubs or the hot ashes from tobacco pipes without seeing that the fire is thoroughly out before leaving the spot. And if you must have an open camp fire bring water from the nearest stream or spring and drown the last spark out before leaving the camping place. Your own life, the lives of other humans and animals and much valuable property may depend upon your being careful or careless.

Sloth like rust, consumes faster than labor wears, while the key often used is always bright.—Benjamin Franklin.

I WONDER

What has my room to talk about,
Those hours when I have hurried out
Into the world of work and play;
I wonder what the four walls say?

They know me better than my friends
And I believe their silence ends
In chatter swift and unafraid,
When echoes of my footsteps fade.

They know me well, for they have heard
The unchecked sigh, the poignant word
Which find my lips unguarded fell;
Have seen my tears, they know me well.

These walls have watched when triumph came
And joy leaped in me like a flame;
Have, inarticulate, looked on
At heartbreak in a summer dawn.

They are so old and there have been
So many dwellers, here within,
They must have learned to share in part
With all the moods of any heart.

DALLAS, TEXAS, CORRESPONDENT, comes back strong, despite the heat, and furnishes another interesting column of doings way out there where the South west begins, and then some. Gather round, folks, while Texas tales are told:

Boa Constrictors are not native to Texas, but one occasionally visits the Lone Star State. Wholesale grocery deliveryman was making delivery of a bunch of bananas in Palestine, Texas, recently, when he felt something cold and slimy in his arms, and found himself nursemaid to a baby boa constrictor about four feet long. He speedily dropped bananas and boa and using a fruitpeg and a wire captured his snakeship. The bananas had been shipped to Galveston from a South American port and the particular stalk chosen by the snake had been in cold storage for several days.

A BUG BIT Mrs. Oswald Jacoby, of Dallas, while she was driving her car. She was clad in tennis shorts and naturally was not willing to take any chances on a second bite. When the fight finished there was a dead bug but in the excitement the lady's purse had been emptied into the road and the money not missed until many miles had been covered. The bug cost the lady just $300 in cold cash.

LOOKING FOR TROUBLE and finding plenty a Texas steer, or bull, or what have you, broke down the fence at Mineral, near Gainesville. Three automobiles, one truck, and one man suffered damage from the long-horned product of the wide open spaces of Texas. The cattle engaged concerned the truck which swinging along with a cargo of peanut butter sideswiped the bull, an insult no self-respecting Texas bull could tolerate, and the fight went into action on the truck forcing the driver and assistant to take refuge on the roof. Peanut butter was scattered all over the peanut landscape and the truck went permanently out of action. Some time later an automobile came along, struck the peanut butter and bounced like a top and demonstrated that the bull was no self-respecting Texas bull could tolerate, and

FACTORY INSTALS TWO NEW VINERS

Large Crop of Peas Indicates Busy Canning Season

Frankford—The Canadian Canners received their first load of peas last Thursday morning. The next two or three weeks will see the factory in full swing, working night and day as the pea crop this year is as good or better than last year.

Two viners have been installed, one in Sidney and one in Murray, for threshing the peas which will lessen the congestion at the factory this year.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Sickle who have been spending a few days in Peterboro have returned home.

The Free Methodist annual district camp meetings are being held all this week at their grounds situated in Ethel wood. The District Elder, Rev. Albert Bell of Campbellford is in charge of the meetings. Special speaker from the district as well as from other parts will be heard each day. Sunday, July 14th will be the last day the camp will be held this year. Last year well over a thousand people attended the last day meetings. There are three services daily as well as a children's service in the morning.

Mrs. G. W. Sine who has been visiting her son Neil at Pellisi, Ont., has returned home.

Mrs. Sadie Gunter, of Gunter, Ont. is visiting her daughter Mrs. Harold Rogers for a few weeks.

Miss Elaine Harrison of Orillia is spending her vacation in the village.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Dickson and family have taken a cottage at Oak Lake for the summer.

The Citizen's Band gave an enjoyable concert on the main street on Saturday evening. The band under the leadership of Floyd Ketchenson is a credit to its members and the few towns in the size of Frankford can boast of a better one.

Weather permitting a concert will be given each Saturday night throughout the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Keith Hadley and family spent Sunday at Dr. D. W. McMillans' camp at Crowe Lake.

Mr. W. J. Bryant who has been living with his son Lyle at Stockdale has rented the house on Wellington St. owned by Miss Myrtle Wass.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Rose of Burlington are spending a few days with the former's father, Mr. Chas. P. Rose.

Mr. R. F. Coleman of the Bank of Montreal staff is spending a two weeks' vacation at his home in Peterboro.

The local L.O.L. and L.O.B. will join with lodges at Foxboro this week for the Orange walk and other events being held there on the 12th.

GERMANY BUILDS TWO BATTLESHIPS

28 Submarines Will Also Be Constructed Under Program

Berlin, July 8—(CCP)—Return of Germany to the front rank of world naval powers was foreseen here today following the announcement of the Reich building program for this year, including two 26,000-ton ultra modern battleships and 28 submarines.

The program, announced by the German admiralty overnight, totals 107,500 tons and in a single year practically doubles all the tonnage permitted by the Treaty of Versailles which specifically prohibited the reform of German submarines.

The new submarines, 6ft of which already is in service while two others have been launched and are undergoing final fitting, include 20 of 250 tons, six of 500 tons and two of 750 tons.

The Treaty of Versailles allowed to the Reich six ships of 10,000 tons maximum, six cruisers of 7,000 tons each, 12 destroyers of 800 tons each and 12 torpedo boats of 200 tons each—108,000 tons in all.

In addition to the battleships, two 10,000-ton cruisers and 12 destroyers of 1,625 tons, some of which already are under way, will be built this year. The battleships will be armed with 28 gentimeter (11.023-inch) guns, the cruisers with 20-centimeter (8.874 inch) guns and the destroyers with 12.7 gentimeter (5-inch) guns. Limitation of the bigger guns to 11 inch is somewhat surprising as German pocket battleships already carry guns that size.

GREAT YANGTSE AT FLOOD LEVEL

Approximate Figures of Those Drowned Not Available

Nanking, China, July 10—(AP)—The sun played today the leading actor, which have built over China and Chihli the last three weeks, but the great Yangtse held its flood level amid reports of wholesale death and destruction.

Most of the reports, filtering in to this capital through disrupted communication lines, were accompanied by urgent pleas for immediate assistance.

The meagre advices indicated that few cities between here and Ichang, 800 miles by the river where the river torrent boils out of the mountains onto the Yangtse plain, have escaped without some loss of life. Even approximate figures, however, were as yet unavailable.

The river flood, fed by melting snow in the mountains of Tibet and Western China, seemed to have struck with particular violence in the vicinity of Hankow.

Typical was the disaster befalling the town of Kingshow, bordering on Shasi, where two-thirds of the population was reported trapped and wiped out by a sudden rush of water.

Many Cling to Trees

Many more residents were still clinging to trees and housetops, awaiting rescue, while the flood undermined the foundations of the mud buildings. Famine also was contributing to the great toll of victims.

Semi-official advices from Hankow and Wuhang about Ichang now, said an army of more than 20,000 wretched refugees was driven out into the open areas, and faced a threat of pestilence.

Advices from Ichang, 387 miles from Hankow and 1,000 miles from the sea, said the Yangtse flowed over its dykes into that city of more than 50,000 inhabitants and that many perished.

Rumours of disaster about Ichang were reported to have disappeared before the on-rushing waters. What befell their one-time residents remained a matter of conjecture, but it seemed certain many were victims of the flood.

Bert Boyce New President Rotary Club

J. R. (Bert) Boyce was installed President of Belleville Rotary Club for the ensuing year at the regular meeting this week, succeeding Jamieson Rose, who has held the office for the past year, and now steps into the vice-president's chair. Ross Weal was re-appointed secretary, with Archie Cameron, treasurer, and John Guthridge, sergeant-at-arms.

Retiring president, Jamieson Rose was presented with a Past-President's bevel pin by the club in appreciation of his faithful performance of the duties of president. This was voiced by Past President Ed. Bernstein who expressed the deep appreciation of the members for the active and effective work of President Rose all through the year, his enthusiasm for Rotary ideals and his determination that the club would not lack pep or energy under his direction.

Reports from various committees were received showing the club in healthy condition financially and active in all departments, particularly in the work for crippled children, the report made by Chas. J. Symons, chairman of this committee, showing much good work done during the past year, the number of cases treated under Rotary direction having passed the five hundred mark. One lad is being cared for who has up to date a record of 1,141 days in Toronto General Hospital, sponsored by Belleville Rotary Club. The program for this year will be more extensive and the work is even overlapping the boundaries of city and reaching out into the country.

E. V. Illsley was welcomed back from a trip to Texas, and Past President, Tom Webster, from Galt, who is spending his vacation in this vicinity was also welcomed. Next Monday evening, Belleville Rotary Club will visit the Boys Camp at Moira Lake and be the guests of the boys, and camp meal. This camp site was purchased by the Belleville Rotary Club and turned over to the Boys' Work Committee of the Y.M.C.A. for use as a boys' camp, ownership being retained in the Rotary Club.

DR. F. E. MALOTT GIVEN FAREWELL

Former Minister in This City Takes Over Brockville Charge

Before leaving Winnipeg to assume charge of the congregation of Westminster United Church, Brockville, Rev. Dr. F. E. Malott, now at his summer home in Muskoka, was praised by members of Young United Church, where he concluded a six-year ministry.

His sermon at the concluding morning service in Young Church was an inspiring message on Paul's view of what Christianity did for men.

A Farewell Social

Following the evening service, a farewell social was held at which Dr. Malott and Mrs. Malott were presented with a cabinet of silver and a purse of money, and Miss Eleanor with a leather edition of Shakespeare's works.

Dr. Malott's loyalty, sympathy and hard work were highly praised by several speakers at the gathering. G. Wilkinson, in reading the presentation address, lauded him as a "fine preacher, faithful pastor and loyal friend". He expressed appreciation of Dr. Malott's work for presbytery of which he had been chairman. The presentation was made by D. J. Dyson.

LEADING EDITOR TAKES OWN LIFE

Ray Long at One Time Editor of Cosmopolitan' Magazine

Beverly Hills, Calif., July 10.—(AP)—Ray Long, once one of the United States leading editors, was dead today, apparently a suicide victim under circumstances he must have canned in many a short story plot.

He was believed to have been discouraged over waning of the literary success that was his for more than a score of years.

Fatally wounded, Long was found in his bedroom of his Beverly Hills home late yesterday. Nearby was a small rifle.

Long died in an emergency hospital as a hurried operation was attempted.

"There is no doubt it was suicide," said A. G. Peterson, Beverly Hills officer who investigated the death.

The one-time executive, who came to California to become story editor for several motion picture studios following a varied and colorful career in New York, had not been feeling well, his housekeeper, Mrs. Helen Andt, said.

Mrs. Andt said Long, his widow, said at her home last night in Greenwich, Conn., that she did not know whether she would come west immediately.

Long, who guided to prominence such writers as O. O. McIntyre, Peter B. Kyne, Damon Runyon, Ring Lardner and many others, a short time ago was named vice-president of Liberty magazine, and subsequently assumed an editor's post on Photoplay, a fan magazine. While these positions and his studio work were well paid, they hardly compared to the $180,000 a year Long made at the peak of his career.

For 12 years he was editor of Cosmopolitan magazine and President-editor of the International Magazine Company, publisher of Cosmopolitan, Good Housekeeping and other journals.

GRAIN OPERATOR TO GAIN CONTROL

Purchase Would Give Norris Supremacy in Cash Grain

(By John A. Klick)

(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Chicago, July 10.—(AP)—Charles E. Norris, brusque, ready tongued Canadian-born giant of sports and business, was embroiling in a new battle today. At stake was control of the Rosenbaum Grain Corporation and with it, technical supremacy in the cash grain market.

The battlefield was the same one in which Norris gained possession of the huge Chicago stadium-sports and convention arena on Chicago's east side—the Federal bankruptcy court.

Aligned against the La Salle St. veteran of 30 years trading wars were the Continental Grain Corporation by fact and by name the Cargill Elevator Company of Minneapolis and New York and the Rosenbaum family, whose gigantic grain firm last April filed a petition for reorganization under Section 77 of the National Bankruptcy Act.

Should Norris, president of the Norris Grain Company, gain approval of his offer to Federal Judge William H. Holly to take over the Rosenbaum Company, he would control storage space for additional millions of bushels of grain.

Trade said this would place Norris in a strategic position for hedging operations and possibly result in establishing him at one of largest cash grain operators in North America.

YOU BUY ROADS, TOO!

The accompanying chart shows how the price of gasoline to the retailer has decreased and the gasoline tax has increased since 1924. In 1924 the average price to the retailer of all gasoline sold in Canada was 26.6 cents per gallon. Since 1924, the price has fallen almost continuously until in 1933 and 1934 it stood at the unprecedented low of 18.8 cents —a decrease of 29 per cent. But as the price of gasoline fell, the tax on gasoline rose. The data for this graph are based on figures published by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

WHEN you buy gasoline, you also buy roads over which to drive your car.

Approximately one-fifth to one-third of the price you pay goes directly to your Provincial Government in road tax.

Twelve years ago there was no gasoline tax. Today the tax ranges from six to eight cents per gallon. And yet the cost of gasoline to you is no more because during those twelve years the price of gasoline has been steadily reduced.

Imperial Oil played a leading part in the developments that made lower prices possible. But lower prices were not achieved at the expense of labor. Imperial Oil employees have always been well paid. They work under ideal conditions. They have sickness and death benefits and pensions plans to protect them and their dependents. Five thousand of them are part owners of the Company. They are given every incentive to work efficiently and happily. The result has been better gasoline at lower and lower prices.

W.M.S. MEMBER IS HONORED BY MADOC BRANCH

Madoc—The W.M.S. of Trinity United Church met for the July meeting at the summer home, "Green Gables", of Mrs. Archibald Thompson and Mrs. S. S. Ashley with a fine attendance of members and visitors.

The meeting was in charge of Mrs. H. Bailey. After the opening hymn, prayer was offered by Mrs. Bailey. The devotional leaflet was read by Mrs. Hamm, the subject being "Joyous Friends", based on Matthew 25:26.

The business part of the meeting was conducted by Mrs. Hamm. Reports were also received from the Strangers' Secretary, Mrs. Rutherford and the Temperance Representative, Mrs. Pair. A hymn was sung. A synopsis of the seventh chapter "The beginning of Wisdom" of the Study Book "Builders of the Indian Church", dealing particularly with the work of Alexander Duff was given by Mrs. Jack.

Preceding the Mizpah Benediction and the social half hour, the assistant hostesses being Mrs. T. E. Burnside and Mrs. Wellman, a unique important part of the programme took place.

Much concern has been felt by the members on learning of the withdrawal from the circle in the near future of a member most highly esteemed for her many sterling qualities and beloved by all, in the person of Mrs. Marshall Hayden. To mark this sincere feeling in a tangible manner the following address was read by Mrs. Huffman being followed by the presentation of a purse of gold by Mrs. Thompson. Both ladies being friends of Mrs. Mayhee over a long period of time.

Dear Friend:

It is with sincere regret we learn of your leaving us. You have lived in Madoc for many years and have to be part of us, also part of the church and community from which you are now leaving. Looking back over the years we see you as Secretary Secretary for the last year duly faithfully for twenty-one years, acting as Supt. of the Christian Stewardship and Systematic Giving and helping in any part of the church and work. We are glad you are not going far away and will be pleased to have you with us at any time.

As a token of our love and respect we ask you to accept the gift, with a prayer that God's blessing may follow you to your new home and through the remaining years.

Signed on behalf of

Members of the W. M. S.

Mrs. Mayhee thanked the members for their thoughtfulness and after a short reminiscing assured one and all that she had deemed it a pleasure and a privilege to help forward the work of God.

The thoughts of many were also turned to Mrs. Mayhee's departure manner by Mrs. Harrison, also an excellent co-worker of other days Mrs. Mayhee leaves shortly to take up residence in Belleville.

Mr. Norman O'Flynn and little son Billie, Mrs. W. H. O'Flynn of Belleville and Mrs. Frank Mrs. Gorman of Belleville were visitors at Madoc on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy of Buffalo are visitors at Mrs. Pat Phillips'.

CHOIR MEMBERS ARRANGE PICNIC

Madoc—Mr. and Mrs. Hark Hoctor of Hamilton have been spending the week end at their cottage, Moira Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex MacGregor and Miss Enid MacGregor of Napanee spent Sunday at Mr. Walker Whytock's.

Mrs. Wannamaker and her son Murney of Toronto are visiting Mrs. F. Embrey.

Mrs. Frances Harrison spent the week end with Mrs. A. H. Watson at Bogsden's Cottage, Moira Lake.

Dr. Geo. and Mrs. Young and Miss Elisabeth Young of Toronto have moved into camp at Moira Lake.

Mr. Warren and Mr. Hoskins of Hamilton were week end visitors in Madoc.

Mrs. Ivey of Toronto is visiting her sister Mrs. Geo. Wright.

On Wednesday afternoon the members and their families of Trinity United Church choir held their annual picnic at Crowe Lake. The weather was ideal and the afternoon was spent in races and games, and particularly the popular baseball match. A splendid supper was provided by the ladies and after a picnic will be eagerly looked forward to. Mr. W. Fletcher Secretary of the choir motored down from Stony Lake for the affair.

On Friday evening neighbors and friends of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Allore (nee Miss R. Fleming) gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. Brown, Madoc Township to spend the evening with the bride and groom and to shower on them best wishes. During the evening the young couple were presented with a set of dishes from the friends of the Hart and Riggs neighborhood and a casserole from the friends of the O'Hara neighborhood where the groom had formerly lived. A dainty lunch was provided by the ladies and the remainder of the evening spent in dancing.

Sunday, July the ninth was the beginning of the union services for the two summer months. St. Peter's Presbyterian congregation joined Trinity United and the service being held in Trinity United church. Rev. W. A. Hunter preached to a large congregation and welcomed the boys of community camp who were in charge of Mr. Sherit. Mr. Hawthorne contributed a solo during the service.

SIDNEY B. Y. P. U.

The meeting was held in the church with Mrs. Arthur Reid in charge. The Vice President, Luella Wannamaker opened the meeting with Hymn 11, followed by the Lord's Prayer in unison. Aletta Horton, the secretary, read the minutes and called the roll which was answered with the member's favorite hymn. There were about 15 members present. The business was discussed and Mrs. Reid took charge of the meeting. The topic "So Run" was given by Mrs. Reid and Charlie Brenton gave a musical selection on the accordian. Bertha Smith read the Scripture Lesson taken from John 10 chapter, 1 to 12 verses. Hymn 33 was sung and two readings "Sticking it" and "Success" were read by Doris Carter and Aletta Horton. Fred Hedington took up the collection, hymn 9 was sung and Mr. Armstrong closed in prayer.

DEFIES WRINKLES

She'd rather be known as a writer from now on, not an actress, would Patsy Ruth Miller (above), stage-shoring aside her make-up kit, and taken up the typewriter with a vengeance. It doesn't make any difference how old you get when you're a writer," she says, "but an actress has to see herself ageing die because she gets a few wrinkles which show on the screen."

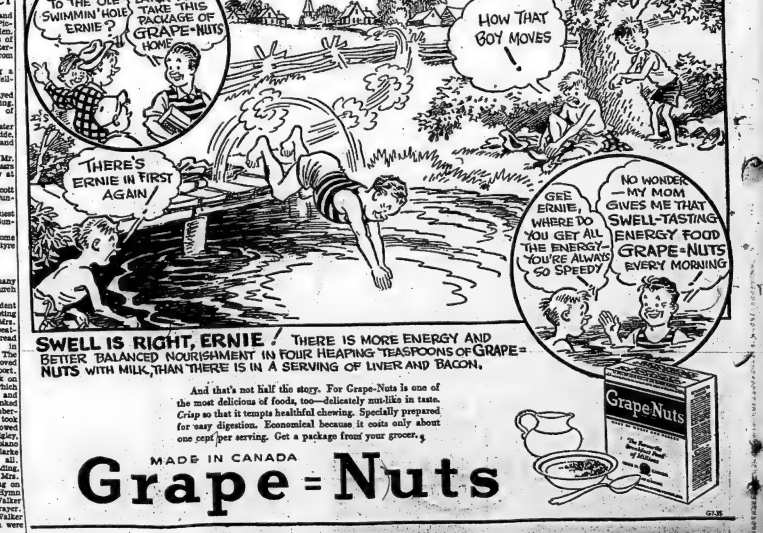
Why do you stir your Tea?

■ Odd question! You stir it, of course; to make the sugar dissolve. The sugar cannot sweeten the tea until it is dissolved.

■ Neither can soap go to work for you until it dissolves. That is why Sunlight Soap is purposely made to dissolve rapidly. Just swish a bar of Sunlight around and see the thick lasting suds that appear as if by magic.

■ There is no need for hard rubbing, for these safe, rich suds do the work for you. There is no wash board wear and tear—your clothes stay out of the mending basket. That is why it is so economical to use Sunlight Soap.



■ Look for SUNLIGHT at your dealer's—it has a $5,000 guarantee of purity on every carton. That means protection for your clothes and for your hands, too.

$5000 REWARD WILL BE PAID WHO CAN PROVE THAT ANY PART OF THIS GUARANTEE HAS BEEN VIOLATED. LEVER BROTHERS LIMITED TORONTO. LEVER'S PURE SOAP. MADE IN CANADA. AFTER A SLIGHT SHRINKAGE, WILL NEITHER SHRINK NOR WASTE.

FINANCIAL MARKETS
NEW YORK - TORONTO - WINNIPEG

NEW YORK CLOSE

New York, July 10—(AP)—The stock market today retained most of its early gains of minor fractions to around a point during late transactions today.

American Telephone, after establishing a new 1935 high at 130 3-8, slid back for a loss of nearly a point, modest profit taking but other leaders held up well including J. I. Case, Schenley Distillers, Santa Fe, Delaware and Hudson, Union Pacific, Chesapeake man, General Motors, Remington Rodak, Consolidated Gas, North American, Curtis Wright, Inland Steel, National Steel and Anaconda. The late tone was steady, sales approximated 1,050,000 shares.

.. WALL STREET—FINANCIAL ..

(By Victor Rukeyn)

(Associated Press Financial Writer)

New York, July 10.—(AP)—The stock market made a quiet but orderly advance to higher levels today. New 1935 peaks were made by a number of leaders but most all of them were able to hold the full advantage.

Commodity markets, which whirled around at a furious pace yesterday were more orderly but there was only a little of the steady under tone. Grains, cotton and Gold advanced in London. Wheat and coarse grains gained upward during early trading in Chicago, but leveling off later and cotton held close to Friday's finals in both New York and New Orleans. Rubber, Sugar and Hide futures were steady and there was a slightly firmer tone in the foreign copper market.

Canadian Stocks went along with the rest of the list rather easily. Dome Mines and International Nickel each gained a fraction but the big board while Hiram Walker was 3-8 higher on the curb. Bonds were quiet and Canadian dollars exchanged at 1-32 off.

Among shares, best showing was made by a selected group of Industrials. Utilities, Rails, Accessory and Specialties, including Amusement Issues. Amerinda Corporation, Paramount Film, Inland Steel, Western Union and Reynolds Tobacco "B" were among others edging into new 1935 high ground for small fractional gains. Most of the gains were not fully maintained.

TORONTO STOCKS CLOSE

Toronto, July 10—(CP)—Zac Bigsor shares pushed up strongly on heavy buying today on the industrial section of the stock exchange gains up to 1 1-2 were registered in high spots. Gains were general in character, including Bell Telephone and the metal shares were higher at the close. Trade in the list slowed down and the group did no better than hold their price gains.

Heavy buying in the liquor shares was largely responsible for the industrial section strong leadership today. Metal shares were inclined to push ahead also but the main strength was firm in the utility, steel and construction issues.

Oil shares were barely steady. Imperial and British American showing losses of a point. Consumers Bell Telephone sold higher as did Can. Malting, Steel of Canada, and Steel of Canada.

Distillers-Corporations, leading in volume, touched 21 1-4 and was holding a gain of 3-8 this afternoon. Walkers Gooderham and Worts than a point and Industrial Alcohol A 1-8.

TORONTO MINES CLOSE

Toronto, July 10—(CP)—General strength marked today's session of the Toronto Mining Market, with trading a little better than the recent average. Interest centred on an advance of the quotation on bar metal, while Base Metal shares were quiet but steady and most of the secondary golds came out at unchanged. Only gainer, rapping to new soft spots in the gold group. A weak tone for the gold shares and strength in the silvers and some of the Base Metals characterized the early mining market today. Hollinger was off 14.10, its low for the day, while Lake Shore was down 25 cents and Lake Shore and Teck Hughes posted minor recessions.

Reno was a weak member of the Secondary Gold group, roaping to 1.17 for a loss of ten cents on active selling. Little Long Lac moved ahead.

Buying was heavy in Eldorado and Beta, the former on an advance of 7 cents to 1.93 and the latter up 3 cents to around 55. Castle gained a cent or two.

Board Room Gossip
As supplied to Sigger and Crawford by Financial Service.

According to New York reports, brokers attribute but one of the reasons why the stock market has gone contrary to wheat moves is because one of the important operators in wheat have had important stock holdings and view recent bullish breaks in grain markets often enough some of the leading operators have been heavy holders of stocks and have had to liquidate the latter to take care of their positions in grains.

The semi-annual statement of holdings of Dominion Stores Limited will be despatched to shareholders on or about August as usual. In the similar period of 1934 this company showed a profit of 44 a share. Enquiry made by Financial Service in official quarters reveals that the Dominion Stores report will reveal a loss. The summer months are quiet ones for the chain stores. Under present circumstances, it is not expected that Dominion Stores will reach the break even point shown in the first quarter. A small advance in the price of commodities such as butter, eggs and sugar would make a difference immediately.

LABOR LEADER ATTACKS CABINET

Lansbury Charges Baldwin With "Political Dishonesty"

London, July 10 (AP)—George Lansbury, leader of the Opposition Labor Party, attacked the government of the Cabinet in the House of Commons today.

He charged Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin with "political dishonesty" and declared Ministers now are not chosen for ability but "just to fill certain vacancies and sections of the National Government."

Lansbury charged appointments to the Cabinet of Ramsay MacDonald's son, Malcolm, and of Anthony Eden "were the appointments of favoritism."

Turning on Sir John Simon, Home Secretary, Lansbury demanded that Mr. Baldwin say why Simon proved himself the worst Foreign Minister in modern times." He asked, "Is that the reason why he was switched to the home office?"

Lansbury attacked the elder Macdonald, asserting: "He and a dozen colleagues, with their conspicuous exception, but not a single trade union man in the co-operative Socialist Society."

PART OF RE CORD ALL-STAR CRO WD OF 69,812 IN CLEV ELAND STADIUM

View of part of the crowd of 69,813 persons, which set an attendance record for the all-star baseball game series that started in 1933, is pictured above in Cleveland's stadium on the lake front. Paid admissions totaled more than $83,000. Previous largest crowd was that which saw the first game, at Comiskey Field, Chicago, when 49,200 fans paid $51,000. Last year's game was in New York, and drew slightly under the sum realized at Chicago.

HOME RUN BY FOXX WHICH WINS ALL-STAR GAME

Bob Johnson

Jimmy Foxx

Jimmy Foxx, Philadelphia Athletic's star first baseman, grasps the hand of his teammate, Bob Johnson A's outfielder, as Jimmy crosses the plate completing the home run which won the All-Star Interleague baseball game in Cleveland for the American league team. Foxx's smash into the left field stands scored Lou Gehrig of the New York Yankees, ahead of him. Final score: Americans 4; Nationals, 1—giving the junior league its third straight All-Star victory. A crowd of 69,812 paid more than $83,000 to see the game in Cleveland's municipal stadium.

VOSMIK ADDS CIRCUS NOTE TO ALL-STAR GAME

Halfway between second and third base in the fifth inning of the all-star inter-league game in Cleveland stadium, Joe Vosmik tripped and fell face forward, but leaped to his feet and scrambled to the bag where his slid headlong again. Joe's vaudeville tumble added a comic touch to the game which was won by the American league stars, 4 to 1. The play occurred when Gehringer singled to right. Vosmik racing—and skidding—from first to third, where he is shown finally embracing the bag safely.

REPUBLICANS TAKE TIME OUT FOR BALL GAME

These empty seats at meeting in Cleveland of Republican Crusaders from six states testify to the fact that for the moment All-Star ball game had precedence over "saving the nation". The ball game, which attracted a record crowd, was only three blocks from the meeting hall.

What Local Theatre Managers Have to Say About Current Offerings

AT THE CAPITOL

"The Man Who Knew Too Much Unusual Interest Being Exhibited In Forthcoming Engagement of Mystery Thriller

While large audiences are attending the double feature program that the Capitol are dispensing this first part of the week in "Hoopy Foo Love", and "Among the Missing" interest far out of the ordinary is being displayed in the three day engagement of that mystery thriller, "The Man Who Knew Too Much".

Advance reports have it that a new screen luminary has reached the heights of stardom in one Peter Lorre, who portrays the role of the arch-criminal in the startling melodrama.

Its swift-moving plot starts in the Alps, St. Moritz, with the murder of a British Secret Service agent. Before he dies he asks Bob Lawrence to take a message to the British Consul. This puts not only Lawrence but his young daughter and his wife on the spot with the terrorists who are plotting the assassination of a foreign diplomat. The daughter is kidnapped and threatened with death if Lawrence passes on his information. Lawrence picks up the trail, and, after a pitched battle in an alleged den of sun worshippers, he is taken prisoner by Abbott, the terrorist leader. A meticulously polite, silky voiced fiend, Abbott murder to music and declares his soft heart is touched by the parting of those about to die at his command.

The climax is a gun battle between the police surrounding the house and the gangsters barricaded within.

The cast is noteworthy, with Peter Lorre playing the role of the sinister criminal. Edna Best, Nova Pilbeam and Leslie Banks are prominently cast.

The engagement starts Thursday for the balance of the week, and on Saturday will be augmented with a breath-taking, hard-riding Western called "The Phantom Thunderbolt" in which are featured the straight-shooting Ken Maynard and his wonder horse, Tarzan.

AT THE BELLE

"Murder in the Fleet" Baffling Humorous and Entertaining;

Bacr vs. Braddock Upset

Visitors' day on a cruiser...crowds of curious sightseers...secret work under way on a new fire control gear...then suddenly a murder!

Thus is the audience plunged almost immediately into excitement and tense mystery of "Murder in the Fleet", Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's fascinating detective drama laid aboard a warship, which comes to the Belle Theatre, Tomorrow and Friday, matinee and evening. A young lieutenant turns detective and trails a strange criminal. Suspicion rests on everyone aboard in a swift-moving story, the action of which takes place in a single night. High-pressure action mystery is solved in the final fadeout.

Edward Sedgwick, who filmed "Death on the Diamond", directed the new picture, an original story by himself. Lieutenant Commander Frank Wead, author of "Hell Divers" and other hit stories wrote the screen play.

Robert Taylor, who recently scored in "Times Square Lady", and is hailed by critics and public as the most potential screen "discovery" since Clark Gable, heads the imposing cast, with lovelies Jean Parker sharing romantic honors. Comedy is provided by that inimitable trio of numerous laugh fills — Ted Healy, Una Merkel and Nat Pendleton, and the featured players also include Jean Hersholt, Arthur Byron and Frank Shields.

Among the well-known players in the large supporting cast are Donald Cook, Mischa Auer, Mary Doran, Tom Dugan, Tony Hughes, Raymond Hatton, Ward Bond, Richard Tucker and Leila Mcnamara and John Hyams, noted vaudeville stars.

There's Comedy Galore

Intimate glimpses of actual life aboard a cruiser at sea make the picture interesting, and maneuvers figure to add spectacular detail. Comedy highlights are the feud between Healy and Pendleton, jealous of the affections of Una Merkel, Mary Doran's pursuit of a philandering sailor sweetheart with a gun, and the antics of Tommy Dugan as the armorer.

Bacr vs. Braddock Pictures

A special extra attraction on the same program are the exclusive motion pictures of the heavyweight boxing championship, truly the biggest sport event in ring history, Jimmy Braddock vs Max Baer, and how the new champion battered his way to the golden crown of pugilism, see it in detail rounded-by-round blow-by-blow. Added attractions on the same program include a clever screen oddity "Jungle Antics", and a beautiful color symphony "When the Cat's Away".

Smart Features Tonight

Two smart features will be presented Tonight for the last times: George Raft in "The Glass Key" and Robert Young and Evelyn Venable in the uproarious comedy "Flirting with Danger".

Leafs who lost a heart-breaking 13 inning night game to Albany 2-1.

The Bears took the first game 9-5, as they sent six runs across the plate in the fourth inning but found Rod Lisenbee too tough in the second game, winning 2-1. The Leafs got seven hits off Bob Weiland while the Senators could touch Joe Vance for only three. Vance lost out to Weiland for the second time, Vance lost a tough 10-inning game to the Senators in Albany 1-0.

ORIOLES DROP TWIN BILL TO LOWLY WINGS

Montreal Moves up to Within Game of Top By Loses

LEAFS DEFEATED

(By The Associated Press)

As the result of some add on the part of Rochester Red Wings, who are headed no place in particular in the International League pennant race, and a little initiative on their own part, Montreal Royals today trailed the pace setting Baltimore Orioles by only one game.

While Royals were taking the measure of Syracuse chiefs in 13 innings, Red Wings, beaten in their five previous starts, turned on Orioles yesterday and won both ends of a doubleheader, the first 6-5 in 11 innings, and the second, scheduled to go only seven frames, 6-3 in eight innings.

Tom West, little Rochester catcher, was the hero of both encounters. He brought home the deciding tally in the opener after the wings had tied the score in the ninth and in the night-cap cracked out a home run with two mates on base in the eighth to break up a pitching duel between Cy Moore and Ray Harrell, former Cardinal hurler.

Home runs also played an important part in the first game scoring. Pooch Puccinelli connected with his 34th of the season and Eddie Mayo added another for the Orioles while Buster Mills found one of Pearce's offerings to his liking the first inning and sent the ball out of the park for the Wings' first run.

A Pitcher's Duel

The Montreal-Syracuse affair was a pitching duel between Leo Mangum of Royals and first Flint Rhem and the Bob Coombs of the Chiefs. The Canadians finally got to Coombs after two out in the 13th however. Benny Tate, Montreal pitcher, drove home the winning run, scoring Del Bissonette, who had singled and advanced to third on pinch-hitter Gus Dougla's double.

Though they split a doubleheader with Buffalo Bisons the Newark Bears advanced themselves into a tie for third place with the Toronto

FAMOUS VOLCANO AGAIN IN ERUPTION

BATAVIA, Java, July 10.—(AP)—The volcano Krakatoa, which exploded in 1883 killing 36,000 persons with a roar which was heard 3,000 miles distant, began a series of eruptions today.

The eruptions are occurring at two minutes intervals, and lava was spumed to a height of about 3,500 feet.

The coast watch maintaining by the Netherlands Government doubled its arrangements for safety precautions and ordered warnings to be set out by tom-toms through the inland regions should the eruptions, in his opinion, become dangerous.

It was reported that the small island of Anakrakatau has disappeared.

REPORTED DROWNED FOUND IN HAYLOFT

Albany, N.Y., July 10.—(CP)—Two persons reported drowned when flood waters raced through their farm home near bath were found safely today in a hayloft of a barn. They are Mr. and Mrs. John Shoemaker.

They took refuge n the barn early Monday and had been without food for nearly two days. A searching party found them in the loft, weak from hunger and strain.

Stewart-Warners Win Game Then Toss it Away to Oshawa In Weirdest Contest of Season

Reversed Decisions And Bad Calls Makes Game a Joke

DEFENCE POOR

Errors of Locals at Critical Times Hurt Chances

Glaring errors of omission and commission marked baseball at its poorest exhibition, of umpiring of the season, all materially assisted into last night's O.C.B.L. game played at the Exhibition Park, when the Stewart-Warners dropped a 6 to 5 decision to the Oshawa "Brewers". The local boys drops the Radios into third position in the league standing a scant two points ahead of the ball-and-chain crowd. The game's war one of the wildest affairs seen on the home diamond this many seasons as umpires' decisions were reversed, heated arguments ensued, fielding fell apart, wherein the gladiators, and finally the Radios literally tossed away the ball game in the ninth inning, following a walk, a bad error and still another error of commission as the entire local squad failed to observe Hurst, who scored the lucky deciding counter, skip third base in the most glaring manner, after rounding same safely on Jack Williams, who replaced Calhoun in the eighth, second to secure local honors in the box, who relieved as a weird ninth inning denomination in the form of pitching that tried their previous rallies.

Doug Cooper, pitching sensational baseball, once again proved a stumbling block to the locals as he was given tardy support after a rather shaky start.

Five Local Errors

Coupled with five local errors of commission and equally as many mistakes on the part of the locals, who cuffed the combined offerings of Calhoun and Williams for 13 safeties and six soft runs, while the locals helped themselves to ten safe blows, including seven extra hits by Grey, Bosh teams displayed a poor brand of baseball with the errors being committed in all. The teams see-sawed along until the Radios went into a decided lead in the seventh, when subsequent poor base running by both clubs cost the two runs after Umpire Pak aroused the ire of the 500 fans by handing to the weird exhibition as he called McIlroy out at the plate for a liberal steal, prior to which the same official was forced to reverse his decision on the question of a trapped ball by Hilliott, in left on Weir's line drive in the fifth inning. The umpire was continually in hot water all during the pastime and in no way assisted the cleanness of the pastime in Belleville.

Green and Weir played the best defensive ball for the locals as McIlroy made one sensational running catch. Outchinson, Hilliott and May all played sensational ball behind the pitching of Cooper, the latter wielder of the day was Moose Matthews, striking, slugging right fielder for the visitors, who also clapped the pellet for four safe blows in the day. Cooper was the then sent had three out of four trips to the plate, while Green also heralded Doug May, of home run fame went hitless. Grey with two doubles, however, Weir and Green all hit in the pinches for the Radios. Cooper was a fast breaking hurler that he dishes up, but only managed to strike out one local batsman, while Calhoun and the visiting hitters back via the strike route on three occasions apiece, two in the eighth, with two on and only one out. Calhoun started for the locals, but retired in favor of Williams, following two successive hits in the eighth.

Stars Of Toronto Races, July 18-24

PARADING the fastest harness stars of Canada and the United States in a six-day series of 12 sizzling events daily, Toronto's Grand Circuit meeting at Thorncliffe Park, July 18-24, promises to outshine every other, speed session on the major league trotting loop. With many events for Canadian colts and a wide variety of races in which the home-bred and American horses will compete, harness fans, many of whom last year discovered what thrilling and close-cut sport the Grand Circuit offers, will flock to Thorncliffe starting July 18. With mutuels in full swing, and horses from as far distant as 2,000 miles, Toronto boasts a $25,000 card. Del Whitney, 2:05½, top, Montreal owned pacer, trained and driven by Vic Fleming, left, native of Dundas, Ontario, will clash with other Canadian wigglers and steppers from across the border in the thrilling Progressive Pace, first division. Silver King, right, star three-year-old colt, trained by Ben White, Canadian horse reinsman, and famous entry in rich Hambletonian Stake, will flash into action in Toronto's own reproduction of that classic. A splendid week of fast, rich events insures success of the card, veterans freely predict.

Canadian Born Trainer to Bring Fast Performers to Thorncliffe

Ben White Paying Feed Bill on Best on Turf

Toronto, Ont., July 10.—(Special)—For good cause is he known as the "Canadian Magician" with more victories to his credit in the two and three-year-old futurities than any other harness horse pilot. Ben White, Canadian-born Houdini of the sulky sport, will invade Thorncliffe Park for what promises to be Canada's greatest Grand Circuit meeting, July 18-24.

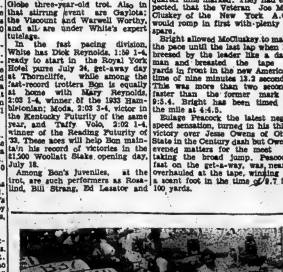
A pupil of renowned "Pop" Cloots, Ben White has proved through the years that the grand, old man of the sport did not withhold any of his wise winning secrets from the protege from the north side of the Canadian border. Like Ben Geers and White silks of Ben's stable, always suit up in front, are expected to maintain that enviable position when White campaigns his colors at Thorncliffe.

Among Ben's most prominent colts this year is Silver King, top flight favorite for the Hambletonian Stake, and a sure-fire starter in the pre-view to the Canadian classic which will be raced here Thursday, July 25, as the Toronto Globe three-year-old trot. Also in that stirring event are Gaylord, the Viscount and Warwell Worthy, and all are under White's expert tutelage.

In the fast pacing division, White has Dandy Volo, 2:03 1-4 ready to start in the Royal York Hotel purse July 24, get-away day at Thorncliffe, while among the fast-record trotters Bob Direct, already at home with Mary Reynolds 2:03 1-4, winner of the 1933 Hambletonian; Moka, 2:03 3-4, victor in the Kentucky Futurity of the same year, and Daffy Volo, 2:02 1-4, winner of the Reading Futurity of 1933. These sons will help Ben maintain his record of victories in the $1,500 Woollatt Stake opening day, July 18.

Among Ben's juveniles, at the time, are such performers as Rose Ireland, Bill Strang, Ed Lassior and Brookfield, all of whom will clash in the $1,900 Daily Star Stake on July 23 at Thorncliffe. In other classes, White enters as proficient as in those mentioned, with every trial resulting rich test and a tough competitor he has in this Canadian-born trainer of stop-watch, whip and reins.

New Mark Set For Two Miles By N. Bright



NEW YORK, July 10—(AP)— A new star has appeared in the United States track firmament and his name is Bright.

Norman Bright of Bellingham, Wash., who was the guest of honor at San Francisco Olympic Club races a year ago, today broke the world record last night on the rain-soaked track of New York University at Ohio Field.

Bright, who said he never before had run the two-mile event in competition, amazed timers before the race when he asked that he may be pelted to him as he passed each quarter mile marked. Then he expected, that the Veteran Joe McClunkey of the New York A.C. would push him to the fastest pace he could.

Bright allowed McCluskey to make the pace until the last lap when he forged by the leader like a dark man and breasted the tape 30 yards in front in the new American time of nine minutes and 17 seconds. The time is better than the two seconds faster than the record of Paavo Nurmi's 9:3.4. Bright has been timed in the mile at 4:4.5.

Eulace Peacock the latest negro speed sensation, turned in his third victory over Jesse Owens of Ohio State in the Century dash but Owens evens matters for the meet by taking the broad jump. Peacock, last on the get-a-way, was nearly overhauled at the tape, winding by Owens by a scant foot in the time of 9.7 for 100 yards.

CURRENT SPORT

DAY BY DAY

Baseball of the most weird type, in every department, cost the Stewart-Warners last night's ball game. Errors of omission as well as commission repeatedly entered into the contest. To add insult to injury Umpire Pair gave about the worst exhibition of "guessing" seen on the local lot in years. As a rule we abum the ridiculing of umpires, but Pair's call on McIlroy, as the plate in the 6th, was the limit in that category. The play wasn't even close. Aside from this, however, the Radios had the ball game well tucked away in the bat bag in the ninth and went out and deliberately threw the game away. Regelay's play on Hurst was bad enough, but when the diminutive centre fielder subsequently raced home for what proved the tying run, he skipped third base by feet. The local lads sound asleep at the switch as not a single Radio paid the slightest attention to what he so rounded the hot corner. Carelessness, indifference and errors of the most costly nature cost the Radios last night's setback, as they threw the game away.

Some time ago President Hugh Brown of the Oshawa club, protested the C.O.B.L. in relationship to a bout between Jack Williams and one the Belleville official was quietly eased out of circulation. Every time a short right hand came and clean his own right yard, as the Brewers and the Radios continually were crabbing at Umpire Pair's decisions. Both clubs heads was doubtlessly the wildest ball game played in Belleville in years. Everything happened, that possibly could take place, in the way of a baseball game. Decisions were reversed and a general good time was had by all, except the Radios in defeat. The crowning climax came when Pair called McIlroy out as he lay prostrate across the plate as.. Hickson legged it past on the bag, but on the trousers. Of course the base-runners subsequently went into the lead and actually lost their own game through carelessness, but in fact seems as though every time there is a close play with Pair umpiring, well, Belleville always gets on the wrong end of things. As stated before, Oshawa was a fine exhibition and commission, cost the locals the game, which they had earned and dropped them into third place.

Just when the proposed benefit wrestling bout for the relief of the late Chris Findlay will be held in the Arena is not known, but judging from the interest shown on the street, the Arena will be crammed to the doors on the night it is staged. The arena management has offered the building gratis, the Rinaldi Club promises to sell nine seats, a selling charity work, eight high-class wrestlers have signified their will to perform, and other features are to be added, all great. Chris Findlay was well known in Belleville wrestling circles and despite the fact he was a wrestler no fighting was in many a boo and Bronx cheer, he was a clever mat performer and showman. We remember one night last spring, when Findlay brought Ernie Dusek out to the ring, and head for what looked like shelly tackle. In reality he was in the ring with a bad named McDougall, who was a green youth just breaking into the pro ranks. Findlay not only carried the opponent, but purposely let him win. When asked why he did this Findlay said to us: "The lad is a good boy and willing to learn. It did not hurt me to lose, while a win for him materially assisted his future efforts." That's the stamp of a fellow Chris Findlay really was outside the ring. Findlay died as the result of the same kind of an infection, that killed the late Stanley Stasiuk, the Polish lion and father of modern wrestling, who died in Belleville. This particular infection is greatly feared by wrestlers, as there seems to be no satisfactory cure for it.

Today is "Rest Gilson Day" up in Cobourg, where a gala baseball game is being played in honor of Percy "Rest" Gilson and his newly acquired wife formerly Miss Lena Mary Wilkins of this city. Mr. and Mrs. Gilson were married last winter in this city, and have been the good fortune, the Cobourg Pauks are making "Rest Gilson Day" the all centenoon. Mrs. Gilson is also well known to Belleville sport fans, being an outstanding player in the old Ontario girls' softball team, together with Maurice Callaghan (President), and Charles Jeffs (Secretary).

All kinds of water sports will be staged for, sailing of course being the main event, rowing, swimming and canoe races with land sports for the kiddies on Victoria Park, not forgetting the greasy pole which has been an popular the previous two years.

Invitations will be sent around the Bay of Quinte and a large number of visitors are expected including the return visit of Picton with their power boats.

There is also talk of a trip to Deseronto on Civic Holiday, if a regatta is being held there, also a trip to Trenton is being considered. Altogether it looks like a busy week ahead for the local Yacht Club.

Max Baer's Marriage Ship On Rocks After 10 Day Trip

Difference of Religion Said to be Cause of Rift

New York, July 10.—(AP) Max Baer, leaping 100 paces ahead of his marriage ship, today found the bride of eleven days are parting. The bride was somewhere ahead of her husband, a spokesman for friends said, but the whereabouts of the couple was a mystery.

The former heavyweight boxing champion, accompanied by a girl who was rumored to believe married to him, met a group of friends in a Manhattan restaurant last night and said of himself and bride:

"I'm through and she's a Catholic so it's no go. The marriage is on the rocks."

Mrs. Baer, the former Mary Ellen Sullivan, who married him in Washington, D.C., on June 29, was informed last night of the statement at the Baer cottage on Long Branch she laughed and said:

"We are very happy. I talked to Max at 5 o'clock today and if there was anything wrong then, he failed to mention it."

Wife Not Perturbed

As to her husband's being in the company of his former fiancee, Gloria Vanderbilt Morgan, she said: "It's all right with me. I just didn't want to go to the city."

Mrs. Baer's father, Robert P. Sullivan Sr., said at Ithaca, that Mrs. Baer was returning home.

Friends quoted Baer as saying he had no intention of breaking up her insistence, that they be married again by a Catholic priest. They were married by Judge F. Dickinson Letts.

"I thought as long as I was not a Catholic and we had not been married in the Catholic church that I was really not my wife in the eyes of the church. That was why I left her and came to New York."

The marriage was a break, he said, that he refused to be party to a second marriage.

"I didn't know she took her religion so seriously," he added.

Though apparently cancelled by his later statements Baer's first action when asked about the report that he and his wife were separated was:

"My God, I hope not!"

REGATTA HERE ON LABOR DAY

Invitations Being Sent to Other Clubs to Participate

At the regular monthly meeting of the South End Athletic and Yacht Club, held in the new Yacht Club Monday evening, the question of the 3rd Annual Regatta was the topic of the evening. It was decided to hold it as previously, on Labor Day.

The committee was appointed as follows, Roy Hay (Chairman), Duke Smith, Bert Asselstine, Murray Zufelt, Harry Semark and Leo Tagger, with Maurice Callaghan (President), and Charles Jeffs (Secretary).

All kinds of water sports will be staged for, sailing of course being the main event, rowing, swimming and canoe races with land sports for the kiddies on Victoria Park, not forgetting the greasy pole which has been an popular the previous two years.

SOFTBALL

The Ontario-Intelligencer nine moved into a contending position in the local Mercantile softball loop last evening with a narrow-margin 4 to 3 victory over the C. D. S. aggregation while the Recreation squad downed the Lobaws by the lop-sided score of 36 to 8.

The "Printers" game developed into a very pitchers' battle as Hagen, on the winners' mound, bested Brown the C. D. S. hurler for five innings, however, the latter's played one man short, but made matters more interesting for the victorious "printers". King, of the victors and Childs of the "department store nine" were the only players to get more than one hit, as the game developed into a pitchers' battle with him being rather scarce throughout the entire tilt. The Recreations romped home to an easy victory over the Lobaw outfit, however.

The line-ups — Ontario Intelligencer—Kemp, Lemberg, Brown, Robinson, Ling, Philips, Oliphant, Cooper and Harris. C. D. S.—Canning, Brooks, Thompson, Childs, Langabeer, Cooke, Coe, Brown and Gardner.

THE RED TIGER

By ALANSON CROSBY

Sally went to work reluctantly, meeting Judith around noon, and hurried back from the office that evening, determining that her curiosity must be satisfied without further delay.

"Come across now, Judie dear," she pleaded. "I've been making all kinds of mistakes today because I couldn't get my mind on my work. If you don't tell me at once I'll lose my job, and then if I start to drink you'll be to blame."

"You won't starve tonight at any rate," smiled Judith. "We're going to dinner early. After that— well, we'll see."

And Sally had to content herself with that quasi-promise.

By half-past seven they had finished dinner.

"Now spill it," urged Sally, "I'm dying to know about last night. I just can't wait any longer."

"Haven't time just now," said Judith. "We're going to Captain McMahon's office—and I think your Bobbie will be there. It'll be just like a play dear—a play with a happy ending!"

Judith sat happily, Sally wonderingly, in Captain McMahon's office at a quarter to eight, watching the slow progress of the minute hand.

As it neared eight o'clock Judith felt a faint distress, which was deepened to dismay as the clock struck eight and no Randall appeared.

At half-past eight Captain McMahon said, rather tartly:

"You are as well go home, Miss Bates. He's not coming. I've been played for a sucker. There's no plain fool."

Then at the expression of pain on Judith's face, he softened his tone:

"I'm sure you had no part in the trickery, Miss Bates. We've all been deceived. Don't blame you —I'm sorry for you!"

ON A DARK STREET

CHAPTER 25

Half-stiffened with disappointment and a feeling of disaster, Judith still sat in a chair facing the door through which Randall Spencer was to have come by eight o'clock, bringing evidence of his innocence of all the charges, insinuendoes and suspicions that had clouded his name.

"He will come," she murmured in answer to Captain McMahon's suggestion that it was no use for her to wait longer. "He is detained, but he will come. He gave his word."

In other chairs Bob and Sally sat, the former grimly courageous but incredulous, Sally suffering vicariously with Judith though not quite understanding what it was all about. When she got Judith alone she would pick it out of him; meanwhile it was more than enough that Judith was suffering and sorrowful; Sally wiped a tear from her eyes and wished she could do or say something comforting to her roommate.

The minute hand of the big clock in Captain McMahon's office crawled painfully across the half-circle, and nine o'clock notes boomed out.

"Take her home," McMahon said behind his hand to Bob Harley. "The poor girl will go crazy if she sits there staring at that door another half hour. Randall Spencer was innocent of everything else, he'd go to hell for breakin' that lunatic child's heart."

Judith her hope finally abandoned rose silently, obedient to a touch on her arm, and allowed Bob to guide her out of Captain McMahon's office, down the long corridor, past a group of detectives who stared at her with the trance-like condition she seemed to be in, but nothing seemed to fit the circumstances.

Finally Judith broke the silence herself by getting up and going to the bathroom, where she bathed her hot face in cold water. Coming out, she met wanly at Sally and said:

"Don't mind me, dear. I'll be all right presently."

"Oh, Judie," exclaimed Sally, throwing her arms about Judith. "I'm so sorry! I don't know what it's all about, and I'm not asking you to tell me. But I'd give something to be able to help you—so yes you keep again! If you could just cry darling, maybe you'd feel better. Cry on Sally's shoulder."

"I can't cry, Sally, dear," said Judith, releasing herself from Sally's clasp, "but maybe I can think coherently now." I believe I will lie down awhile. You won't mind if I don't talk—just yet?"

"No, darling," said Sally. "Don't pay any attention to me. But don't you think you had better take your clothes off and go to bed?" For Judith was lying on the big davenport in the living room.

"I can't sleep," said Judith. "I just want to think things out."

So Sally settled herself in a comfortable chair and made pretense of reading—but watched Judith out of a corner of her eye.

Presently Sally's eyes began to get heavy and her head to nod. In a few minutes the magazine she was pretending to read dropped into her lap. Judith watched her a few minutes, then rose, stepped quietly to her desk and wrote:

"Sally, dear, don't worry about me. I am going out to walk around. I can't seem to think clearly in the house. There are some things I must get settled in my mind.

With love,"

"Judith"

Tiptoeing over to Sally, round asleep in her chair, Judith dropped the note in her lap, smiling a little; then put on her hat and wraps silently to the door. Two minutes later she was on the street in front of the Metropolitan Hotel.

The movie theatres were just discharging their last audiences for the night; the streets were crowded with laughing, talking, slowly-moving automobile horns were blowing and cars were parking. The restaurants and drug stores were magnets attracting many couples and groups. It reminded Judith suddenly of the night, not many weeks ago, that Randall Spencer had taken her to the "Red Tiger". What brief periods of happiness, what incidents of danger, and what hours of poignant sorrow had been dealed for her from that night! It was a different Judith Bates who joined the crowded street irresolutely tonight; a Judith only a little older in point of actual days, but infinitely old in experience, responsibility and care.

Judith turned down a side street to escape the noise and the crowds that interfered with her thinking. Unknowingly she passed a man who turned and stared after her, then followed a short distance behind.

Judith turned over in her mind for the dozenth time all she knew of Randall Spencer; every word and look that had passed between them.

His failure to appear in Captain McMahon's office by eight o'clock or during the hour thereafter had been a crushing blow to her. For the first time her faith had really been tumbled and she had been ready to admit a conviction that he was the unhanged man, the victim of cruel circumstances she had staunchly maintained him to be.

In the stuffy office of Captain McMahon, where the tobacco haze hung air seemed subtly permeating with an essence of cynicism, disillusion had gripped her. Captain McMahon —Bob Harley—Sally—looked upon her as one who had been victimized by a clever, unscrupulous man. Of course, handsome Bob was happy they were right—all the circumstances favored their view. If he had been innocent of their suspected complicity with the "Red Tiger" gang why had he refused to answer Captain McMahon's questions? Judith did not know what those questions were, but clear-headed Bob had seen in his refusal to answer them evidence of guilt.

Little Benny's Note Book

Me and ma met pop downtown this afternoon so ma could help pop pick out a new hat on account of him keeping on coming home without one, and we went in the hat store and pop said to the man, I'd like to try on a hat.

You sabbo several hats, ma said, and pop said. Now, I'm not going to try any more than one hat for fleet sake.

I didn't say any them, but you have to try on more than one hat to get suited, domi you? ma said, and pop said, Sometimes you do and sometimes you dont, yes gosh why look for trouble? And he said to the man, I'd like to see a hat that's suitable for morning wear and all the wear for afternoon and evening.

Yes, sir, you want an all around hat, is that it? the man said.

And he growl one put it on pop's head, saying, There's a mirror rite there on your left.

I'll take a look, pop said. With he did, saying, Okay, it looks all rite, I'll take it.

Willyum, you'll do nothing of the kind, how redickelous ma said, and pop said, Why what's a matter with it?

I didn't say anything was a matter with it, but you cant take the ferst hat that's handed to you, ma said. You'd be the laughing stock of any jury of wimmin in the world, she said, and pop said, But yes gods, am I going trial for anything or am I buying a hat, that's the question? I'm buying a hat and I'm buying the hat, that's the answer, he said.

But Willyum, it seems such a waist of time, it seems perfectly absurd, ma said, and pop said to the man, I'll keep it rite on and you can have the old one for your selfves.

And he payed for it and went out and ma had to follow him shaking her head and saying no wonder I never ever hired would buy the ferst hat she tried on.

Which none probably wouldn't.

TARZAN THE UNTAMED— (Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service)
After Tarzan left, the girl said to Roger: "I wish he had stayed. He is grim and terrible, yet I feel safer with him than any man I've ever known. He seems to dislike me—but I know he would let no harm befall me. I cannot understand him."
"Nor I," replied Roger.
"Our presence here is interfering with his plans. He would like to be rid of us. I imagine he rather hopes to find, when he returns that we have succumbed to one of the dangers that must always confront us in this savage land. We should try to return to a white settlement."
"The girl remained silent. Roger continued: "If we can survive a day's march, I think we can find the means to escape. My aeroplane must still be in the same place that I landed just before the savages captured me. They probably would not dare approach it."
"We cannot leave," said the girl, "without at least thanking him. We are under too great obligation to him." Roger looked at her in silence a moment. He began to speculate upon the truth of the ape-man's charges. He still could not believe that Pat was the enemy's spy.

Guelph, Ont., July 11—(CP)—Baseball fans crashed into the office of the Leafetion, a girls' softball team, announced the loss fans at their next game if another they would like it. The girls have been playing a hot streak lately, and the manager figured if she got a few extra spectators, so to keeping the fans they away for awhile until the girls start playing ball again.

SIXTEEN STITCHES TO CLOSE WOUND

Joe Gould, Hockey And Lacrosse Star Hurt Working on Car

Trenton, July 11.—(Special) — Joe Gould, well known hockey and lacrosse player, received a nasty gash in his right hand that required sixteen stitches to close. Joe was repairing a friend's car in Kennedy's service station on Tuesday evening when the accident occurred. He was in the act of removing a connecting rod when a bystander pulled the starter with the result that Joe's hand was caught as the piston went up. The right hand bore the brunt of the torn away.

Bell Telephone employees who were at the station rendered first aid and Gould was then taken to the office of Dr. Johnston where sixteen stitches were used to close the wound.

The many friends of Joe Gould hope that he will soon be able to resume his duties at the Bell office. He will be off the lacrosse field for the season. This season he has been playing in and around his home town of Hastings. Last year he was with the Aalmas Club of Belleville. He is also known in the hockey circles as one of the best goalies of the district, playing last winter with the Belleville intermediates and the Trenton Imperials, champions of the Belleville City League.

LIQUOR LISTED BY PAYING TOLL BUT NOT IN CASH

Judge Ross Releases Report in Recent Probe

M. P. P.'S. NAMED

Hon. L. Macaulay, Hon. Charles McCrea And H. Price Mentioned

Toronto, July 11—(CP)—In the inquiry he conducted into the former liquor administration in Ontario, Judge Duncan C. Ross of Stratford, Thomas has found no evidence agents for foreign distillers paid cash to any member or officer of the Liquor Control Board for having their brands listed.

"But," he added in the report released here last night, "agents can pay a toll not in cash to get liquor listed." The judge said there was "conclusive evidence" that Georgs Grover of Toronto and P. H. Wright of Ottawa "had paid a toll in political favors" to get and aid the listing of their liquor was their reward.

The inquiry which concluded early this year started last November following charges in the provincial general election of a "toll gate" in connection with listing of liquor with the Liquor Board.

Conduct of Charles McCrea and Leopold Macaulay two members of the former Conservative administration was examined in the report in connection with Liquor Board transactions along with that of Harry Price, former Conservative member of the legislature for West York.

Evidence Shows Brands Listed

Reviewing evidence which showed Mr. McCrea had a brand listed for Wright, before the 1929 provincial election, Judge Ross said Mr. McCrea's "interference with the Board was a clear breach of the avowed purpose of Liquor Board Act and the abuse of the same." He added "one of the worst features is the manner in which, that such things may have been done by other members of the Government, became the minister's intervention in this case was so prompt and so effective and seconded so apparently without any hesitation by the Board."

The Judge thought Mr. Macaulay should have explained the circumstances surrounding the Board's leasing the Rodgers Road Liquor Store property in Toronto. Although Mr. Macaulay's brother in law's firm was a solicitor for the lessors the Board's solicitor acted in the government officials, Judge Ross found "no direct evidence other than these facts, that Mr. Macaulay influenced the Board or its officials."

Finds H. Price Real Agent

Turning to evidence adduced in examination of Ray Price, who held an agency for Teachers whiskey and Harry Price said that while the evidence led him to believe "Harry Price was the real agent for Teachers and that Ray Price was only used as such as a blind or a straw man and that because of Harry being a member of the legislature this arrangement was made necessary" in this way with the idea in view that he would have influence with the Liquor Board.

Declaring the system of agencies "bad in every respect" Judge Ross recommended the Board deal directly with foreign distillers and vendors of wine rather than through the agency system which, he estimated, cost the people of Ontario $35,000 a month or $420,000 annually.

Judge Ross concluded Grover got his brand, Gaelic Old Smuggler, listed with the Board without any of his own politics prominence in the Conservative Party and his work in the 1929 election "but solely because of political friends."

Mr. Wright, who was keeping the Ward Association "well oiled" just before the 1929 election and he criticized the Board's procedure "to be consumed at lodges and dance halls, where young men and women could be assembled and also at organization meetings of his party."

MUSSOLINI DEFIES ALL IN MARCH ON ABYSSINIA

Mussolini across all attempts to stop him from waging war on Abyssinia, and the clash, scheduled for October, seems now to be inevitable. An alliance with France gives her considerable strength. Such a clash would undoubtedly involve many other nations. Japan has invested millions in Abyssinia in recent years, and has a considerable market there. Britain is anxious about Lake Tana, which controls the waters of the Blue Nile, which flows through British Soudan. Mussolini is threatened with a German Nazi "invasion" of Austria if he is drawn away toward Africa, while the United States is involved not only through her 200 natives there, but because she has a $10,000,000 engineering skate at Lake Tana, undertaken by a U.S. engineering corporation. Unlike Abyssinia, Italy will go to war with all the latest scientific war developments, whereas the Ethiopians must rely on fleres tribes to do their fighting.

HIGHLY ELABORATE PAGAN MOVEMENT AIM IN GERMANY

Charges Made in Rome Nazis Foment Strife Against Catholics

NEO-PAGANISM

"Blasphemous Insanity" "Barbarism" Are Definitions

By The Havas News Agency

Vatican City, July 11—CP-Havas—Charges the anti-Catholic movement in Germany is being fostered by Nazi leaders, and that a deliberate attempt is being made in the third Reich to replace Catholicism with a highly elaborate pagan movement, were published in Vatican City this afternoon.

The semi-official Observatore Romano published at length specific cases, the article indicating a veritable compendium on neo-paganism is being compiled by the Vatican.

Citing the neo-pagan sect of Dr. Wilhelm Hauer, the Catholic journal detailed its "creed" and described it as "blasphemous insanity", adding as quotation from Pope Pius: "They want to de-Christianize Germany under the pretense of positive Christianity. What they want in reality is to return the country from Christianity to barbarism. Nothing is being left undone to disturb the Catholic life."

Great Britain Pledged To Continue Peace Task, Says Sir Samuel Hoare

Foreign Secretary Assails Wild Statements in Italian Press

BLOCKADE DENIED

Britain Ready to Bear Full Share of League Duties

(By Harold P. Brauan)
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

LONDON, July 11. — (AP)—Sir Samuel Hoare, new foreign secretary speaking before an intent House of Commons, today decried Italy's reasons for warring upon Ethiopia, pledged Britain to continue efforts for peace, defended her past efforts and in passing, indirectly invited Anglo-American co-operation for world problems.

Even as the Foreign Secretary delivered his formal review of the Nation's foreign policy, the British Government was bolding up export licenses for arms and munitions shipments to Ethiopia.

Assailing "Wild Statements" in the Italian Press concerning Britain's efforts to avert war in Africa, Sir Samuel said his government was concerned only with peaceful settlement of the Italo-Ethiopian crisis and would have nothing to do with the collective peace system and the League of Nations.

Britain Denies Rearm

He recognized Italy's need for overseas expansion, though he declared that Great Britain and France complains against Ethiopia insufficient cause for war and pledged that Britain would not participate "in any reasonable chance which may offer itself for helping to prevent a disastrous war."

Sir Samuel refused to divulge the lines being adopted toward this end, but nevertheless assured the house there was no foundation for rumors that the government had asked the French to join a blockade against Italy or that Great Britain was preparing "some isolated form of coercion".

He said Great Britain was willing to accept her full share of collective responsibility, with fidelity to the League of Nations and its principles.

Collective Responsibility

"But what is collective responsibility, the Foreign Secretary emphasized, "It means collective responsibility."

While distinguished foreigners packing the diplomatic galleries listened, Sir Samuel declared emphatically:

"While attaching full value to Anglo-American co-operation, we must not expect more from our American friends than they are able to contribute."

The French and Italian Ambassadors, sitting among them heard Sir Samuel's detailed review of British foreign relations which he discussed those with France, Russia, Japan and China. In addition he reviewed the naval agreement concluded Anglo-German Naval Pact, Britain's relations with Germany, completion of proposed air and eastern pacts, mentioned her concern for American interests in the Far East and her willingness to co-operate for peace.

Alliances Forecast

Reaffirming his belief in the League of Nations, Sir Samuel predicted reorganization of the old system of alliances, with consequent disquiet and intrigues, if the system of collective security should be totally discredited should be smashed and the League become feeble and futile.

For that reason, he said, Britain in the risk of criticism made proposals designed to bring about peace. Ethiopian war which—no matter who was right—would involve great repercussions in the League system.

Original Deed to Armouries Land Presented to Argyll L. I. Regiment

Two original deeds to the land where the armouries now stands and two pictures of the 15th Battalion encamped at Barriefield in 1866-67, were presented to the Argyll Light Infantry through Col. C. A. Bell, Officer Commanding, by Mrs. Edward Cook, 127 John street, who has had them in her possession for many years. The deeds came from her grandfather, Dr. Lister, who was at one time first medical officer of the 15th Battalion.

On March 8, 1839, the land was sold to Mr. William MacMullen of Thurlow Township, and the deed was placed under the seal of the Province of Upper Canada and signed by the Commissioners of Crown Lands.

MacMullen sold the property to Dr. George Cooper, a medical student who built up a large practice. Dr. Cooper had one daughter who married Dr. Lister, who succeeded to the practice of his father-in-law.

Dr. Lister lived in the house and lived was of the low rambling type so prominent in the early days. It faced Pinnacle Street and the Armouries. The pictures of the camp were gained from Bridge Street and are approximately where the side parking now is on the same fence that surrounds the armouries. The latter moved on realizing that they reached up to where the old Griffin Block's garage stood. The house was later moved on rollers to the northeast corner of Pinnacle and Dundas Street where it still stands.

Judge Demurs as Counsel Suggests Nude Dancer Give Court Exhibition

Paris, July 11 (AP)—Aviators, painters, novelists, and even a sociology professor rallied to the defence of Miss Joan Warner, nude dancer from the United States, when she went on trial in Paris on a charge of offending the morals of Paris.

The judge announced there would be no debate as to whether her dance, which brought down the wrath of the authorities because the increase of the French population, was obscene or artistic. He said it was artistic and the case would be based solely on the question of whether the American girl's "antics" were a danger to public morals.

The courtroom was packed. The spectators heard M. Bauvrest, vice-president of the plaintiff association, ask for the condemnation of all nude dancing in Paris with Miss Warner in particular being made an example.

Said Bauvrest, "Since Hitler suppressed nude dancing in Germany, the Nazi birth rate has risen 35,000 a year."

Joan's witnesses included the famous French films, Rene Clair and Raymond Delmotte; the painter Maurice Asselin; and Professor Dutch Zoology Professor Hoogan.

Henry Torres, the counsel for the defence, suggested that his client dance nude in the courtroom to prove "in the interests of justice" that the dance was all art.

The judge, however, demurred, asserting: "Despite the fact that it is a hot day, it cannot be done. I am afraid I would have to let the spectators to strip too."

AUSTRALIA SEEKS FURTHER TRADE

Premier Lyons Meets Premier Bennett on Proposals

Ottawa, July 11—(CP)— A new trade agreement with Canada embodying additional features is desired by Australia, Prime Minister Joseph A. Lyons of that Dominion said today in his conferences with Prime Minister R. B. Bennett here he has been discussing proposals for a new treaty although he declined to give any details. The matter will be pursued further at later conferences.

The empire trade agreements negotiated in 1932 had proved satisfactory and had brought about an increase in trade, he said. Australia was anxious to achieve further increases and believed a revision of the present treaty in the light of experience would accomplish this. While it was true Canadian exports to Australia had increased more rapidly than Australian exports to Canada, Australia had no grievance and did not consider it had got the worst of the bargain.

Touching briefly on his trade discussion at Washington, Mr. Lyons said there was such a wide range of commodities that the obligations of his country under the empire agreements would not prevent agreements with foreign countries. Every existing contract, however, in the last term of office limited the scope of future contracts.

FURNITURE MEN ESTABLISH CODE

Standardization Effected In Ontario Except in One Zone

Toronto, July 11—(CP)—Standardization of wages and working hours in the furniture industry in all sections of Ontario except at 13-mile area around Toronto, has been effected under the Province's Industrial Standards Act, it was announced today by the Department of Labor.

The agreements were drawn up after long negotiations between manufacturers and workers, assisted in their conferences by J. F. Marsh, Deputy Minister of Labor and Louis Fine, Industrial Standard Officer of the Labor Department.

In one zone, the Hamilton-Kitchener-Stratford area, minimum wage rates will be; common laborers 30 cents and hour until September and then 32 cents; semi-skilled workers 37 cents; skilled workers 47 cents. The other zone, comprising the remainder of the province with the exception of Toronto suburban area, will have wage rates of 28 cents for common laborers until September 1, and then 30 cents; 35 cents for semi-skilled workers and 45 cents for skilled labor.

A work-week of 47 hours—five and one-half days—is established by the agreements. After the first half hour's overtime, workers will be paid at the rate of time and one half. The pacts define a furniture manufacture as "a manufacturer of all wood products, household, office and school furniture."

3,000 LIVES LOST, TOWN WIPED OUT

Hundreds of Bodies of Chinese Carried Down Streams

Shanghai, July 11 (CP-Havas)—Swirling flood waters of the Hwang-Ho River today wiped out the town of Yen-Yeneng near Yenan and inundated adjoining districts in the Province of Honan, with a loss of life conservatively estimated at 3,000. Hundreds of bodies were carried downstream by the rushing waters.

A Reuter's dispatch from Suchow placed the deaths in the flood as high as 5,000 and said that several other villages in the Yangtze Valley had been wiped out.)

To the worst floods this region has seen in thirty years, many thousands were left homeless and faced with starvation. Only about 100 persons escaped when the crest of the flood swept through Yen-Cheng. A thousand persons, it is estimated, perished there in a short time.

The main centre of the inundation was the Yenze region, where most of the deaths occurred.

The second point where the floods spread with alarming rapidity was at Tangtze. In addition to causing many deaths they swept away houses and public buildings, leaving thousands homeless and cutting them off from centres of food supply.

DENY INTENTION BATTLESHIP RACE

Nations Have 17 Months to Reach New Agreements

Washington, July 11.—(AP)—Talk of battleship building in the United States and of greatly increased navies for Japan's navy today served as a reminder of the situation confronting the world's sea powers.

Less than 18 months from now—on Dec. 31, 1936—the Washington and London Naval Limitation Treaties expire, unless some other agreement is made. Then the nations of the world will be free to engage in the naval race which many fear.

Solemn assurances there is no intention to begin such a race come from the great powers. United States Secretary of the Navy Claude Swanson declaimed the idea of "starting any competition" in displacing yesterday that the navy department is planning for its fiscal year beginning next July 1.

DRIVER IS KILLED AT SHARP CORNER

J. A. Darrah of Toronto Dies And R. Elder Injured

Lindsay, Ont., July 11—(CP)—J. A. Darragh, 36 Baby Point Drive, Toronto, was instantly killed early today and Robert Elder, Toronto, is in hospital here suffering from bruises and lacerations following his accident on highway No. 35 nine miles northwest of Lindsay. Elder's father is President of the Lake Simcoe Ice Company, Toronto.

While the roadster in which they were riding belonged to Elder, Darrah was the driver at the time of the accident. The fatality occurred at a sharp corner. The driver of the car apparently did not notice the turn and upon the crashing at too great a speed to make the corner. The car crashed over the edge of the grade and came to rest upside down in the ditch pinning all the headlights and windshield and many other serious damage to the car.

TRAFFIC COP BETTER

Leamington, Ont., July 11.—(CP)—Considerable improvement was recorded today in the condition of Provincial Police Constable A. Reilly, in Hopewell hospital here with concussion of the brain and other injuries. Since Sunday night when he struck a cow roadside with his motorcycle officer Reilly has been in semi-conscious condition although his condition improved yesterday to ask for a bottle of beer.

SLIGHT DAMAGE IN TWO FIRES

Local fire departments were called to two small fires yesterday. Notice in the grate in front of the Singer Sewing Machine shop caught fire presumably from a carelessly thrown cigarette. Small damage resulted and the fire was quickly put out.

A few shingles on the roof of Graham's livery on Colenso street burst into flames in the waning hours of the afternoon. Sparks from the cupola on the American Hardware lit on the dry roof and smouldering shingles soon burst into flames. It was soon noticed and the fire alarm was sent in. Damage was small and amounted to around 30 or 40 dollars.

OAK LAKE SCENE OF C.G.I.T. PICNIC

The Canadian Girls in Training (C. G. I. T.) of Bolloway Street United Church and their leaders Mrs. R. E. Newman, Miss Jean Moorman and Miss Queenie Livesay were hostesses at a very enjoyable Parents' Picnic yesterday afternoon, at Oak Lake. The weather was ideal for such an outing with balmy breezes blowing and plenty of bright sunshine. Many took the opportunity to bathe in the inviting waters and forget the oppressive heat of the city.

FOUR STREETS GIVEN OILING

Four streets were oiled yesterday by the department of Public Works. Pinnacle, Church, John and George Sts., south of Dundas St. were finished. The oil is laid and mixed with five-eights inch stone.

NO INFORMATION RECEIVED HERE

No word has been received as yet by Mr. J. V. Ross, Superintendent of the local Employment Office whether men from Belleville and the nearby district will be given a share of the work to be done on the new highway project instituted last week jointly by the Provincial and Federal governments.

GASOLINE IGNITES SLIGHT DAMAGE

Fire at the front of Mike Marsalisz' Billiard Parlor, caused by ignited gasolene used in the cleaning apparatus was the cause of much excitement on Front Street this morning about 10.40. The fire was slight and by the time the fire department arrived it was almost out, due to the concentrated efforts of Mr. Angelo Peters, who was cleaning hats at the time the fire started. Mr. Peters suffered a few blisters on his right hand in endeavouring to quench the fire. The damage was small. The velvet covered seat used when cleaning shoes was damaged slightly at one corner. The majority of hats in the window front will necessitate cleaning again.

TWO ARE INJURED DRIVER CHARGED

Head-on Collision Near Marysville Investigated By Police

A head-on motor crash on the Marysville curve resulted in two automobile passengers being gashed, injured and fined Court-neyea, Tamworth; being arrested and charged with reckless driving. The accident occurred at Marysville shortly before 1.00 a.m. today the result of which saw Herbert Correll, aged 13 years of Napanee and George Murphy, Tamworth, both seriously injured and taken to the Belleville General Hospital. The Correll lad sustained a badly fractured nose, while Murphy is in the hospital suffering from serious internal injuries, after being thrown from the car driven by Courneyea.

The accident was investigated by Traffic Officers Bert Delaney and Sam Ervine who reported that Courneyea was driving westerly on Marysville curve, when he allegedly lost control of his machine and crashed head-on into another motor car driven in the opposite direction by Francis Correll of Napanee. Following the impact the Courneyea driven vehicle swerved completely around throwing George Murphy, a passenger in the Courneyea car, out and pinning him between the two vehicles, as they came to an abrupt stop. Both Herbert Correll, aged 13 years and son of Francis Correll was thrown forward in the front seat, crashing his head against the windshield with such force, that his nose was broken in two places and he also suffered other minor lacerations about the head and face.

Officer Courneyea was brought before today's local police court by Traffic Officer Delaney and charged with reckless driving. The matter was enlarged.

PUFFY BREEZES CAUSES UPSETS AT PUNT RACES

None of The Crews Were Hurt, Only Receiving a Ducking

GOOD TIME MADE

Many Interested Spectators Remain Till Last Boat Finishes

Good races, good time and a fairly good breeze were features in connection with the Wednesday afternoon punt races held on the bay off the southern part of Victoria Park. These weekly events are held under the auspices of South End Belleville Yacht Club and judging by the number of spectators present are creating considerable interest, and rivalry among the owners of the various punts is keen. The breeze from the south west was at times quite boisterous and puffy, the latter causing a few upsets and thrills. There were, seven events pulled off and in some the crafts were so evenly matched that only a few seconds separated between the first crossing the finishing line and the second.

Th veteran yachtsman, Mr. Wm. (Sing) Rogers was the starter and he is certainly the right man in the right place. Mr. D. Rowe was the official scorer and time keeper. Some delay was experienced in starting the events owing to E. Kellaway's Let's Go upsetting just before the starting gun was fired. The events and the competing crafts were as follows:

Class A

Four punts were entered in this event namely: Joka owned by D Smith; Anne O, owned by H. Seaman; After You, owned by M. Callaghan and Atalanta, owned by J. Hinchey. The Joka proved to be the winner, her time over the course being 1 hr. 31 min. 4 sec. The Anne O was second 1.42.10, and After You 3rd, her time being 1.44.56. The Atalanta was withdrawn after completing a lap.

Class B

There were three entries in this class, namely Dorothy, owned by A. Mallory; Romido owned by C. Kellar and Let's Go, owned by E. Kellaway. The crafts ended in the order named. The Dorothy 2nd time was 1.44.30; Scrapper, 1.50; Let's Go 2.13.

Class C

Toots, owned by F. Green was the only entry in this class. The course for this class of small punts is short, being around the light house and off the government dock, three times around. This swift punt covered the distance in 33 mins. 5 sec.

D. Class

Whilst three punts started in this event only one finished, namely the Romido owned by D. Rowe. The other entries were the Ron Wallace owned by W. Whitmore and the Imp owned by C. Oliphant. The former upset on the first lap and the Imp upset in turning the home buoy on the second lap. Romido's time was 3 hrs. 1 m. 40 secs.

Snipe Class

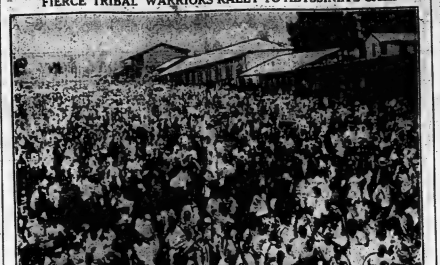
Three entries constituted this class namely, the Wanda owned by W. Bishop; Eagle, owned by L. Flagler, and Comet owned by R. Flagler. The Wanda was the only one to finish, as the Comet withdrew and the Eagle was disqualified for fouling in rounding the home buoy, Wanda's time was 3:30:8.

Sixteen Footers

Scotiata owned by R. Rushbrook; Spray owned by W. Hay and Jolly Rogers owned by Bateman and Thorn were the competitors. The former was the only craft to finish, her time being 2 hrs., 5 mins., 28 secs.

Scow Class

This proved to be a close finish for the Presto owned by R. Salisbury and the Allegro owned by E. R. Hinchy. Only 40 seconds separated them at the finish. The Presto being the winner, her time was 1 hr. 25 mins., 10 secs. The Allegro, 1 hr., 35 mins., 30 secs.



Notes

The time made by the winning punts was the best this far made this season.

Many of the spectators remained upon the park until the last craft had passed the finishing buoy.

Whilst there were three upsets, there was fortunately no casualties, those on board apparently enjoying a ducking in the bay.

FIERCE TRIBAL WARRIORS RALLY TO ABYSSINIA'S CALL

How different to the neatly uniformed, smartly parading Italian soldiers are these Ethiopians! The picture shows thousands of reserve troops with rifles on their shoulders flocking through Addis Ababa, capital of Abyssinia in apparent disorder to join the colors of their emperor. These fierce fighting men will be split into small bands and sent to various outposts to be ready to meet the invasion of Italy's troops.

DEATH AND DAMAGE TOLLS MOUNT IN NEW YORK FLOODS

Thirty-four persons known dead, 100 missing, property damage in the millions—that is the still mounting toll of the worst flood in the history of New York state. Every stream over a wide area went over its banks as a result of the cloud burst which covered a large area of upper New York state with a sheet of water. This excellent aerial view of Ithaca gives some idea of the devastation wrought by the angry waters.

Courage in Advertising

The only shackles retailers wear today are the ones they have fastened on themselves—shackles of fear, of inertia, and of mental laziness, especially in the field of advertising, according to Kenneth Collins, advertising executive and assistant to the president of Gimbel Brothers, in the current Rotarian Magazine.

"I can name only one daring move in the whole field of retail advertising this year. One single interesting, exciting experiment," he says in an analysis of what's wrong with retailing. "Advertising, the normal motive power in business, has become all clogged up with doubts and fears. It's pretty nearly ready for Dr. Freud and his psycho-analytic brethren. I can name only two or three really outstanding sales-producing campaigns in national advertising. A few years back almost anybody could name hundreds.

"Did these exciting, interesting, daring efforts pay? Of course they did. So has practically every effort with any sparkle in it, no matter how small, that I have seen. For now, especially when the competition of exciting advertising is so negative, the advertising campaign with anything 'on the ball' stands a huge chance for success. And what I said about the advertising campaign with sparkle, I say of any business plan with punch, with courage. It will have less competition today than in many years. This is the time for the business man with vision, with ideas, to make a cleanup.

"Pretty nearly every manufacturer and retailer with whom I have talked of late," he continues, "had as his 'alibi' for all business lethargy the government." He overlooks the fact that practically every index for retail business has shown an upward trend for two years. Instead of accepting the challenge of the new conditions—whatever they may be, as did our fathers—we retailers of the '30's have taken them as an excuse for a do-nothing attitude and a conservatism which smack of congealed inertia. Too many of us have been waiting, like Micawber, for something to turn up.

Rev. Dr. Soper Of London Here

Rev. Dr. Donald O. Soper, minister of Islington Central Hall, London, England, one of the most gifted, fearless and convincing speakers and debaters of the Old Land, will lecture in Bridge Street United Church tonight (Thursday). He has occupied a unique position in the religious life of England, where he is not only the superintending minister of one of the great London Mission Halls, but he has every week for seven years faced large crowds of Britain's unemployed and often bitterly atheistic men. Few living preachers are the equal of Dr. Soper in kindly and effective debate, it is said.

Wellington, Kas., July 11—(CP)—Ed Beth borrowed a set of golf clubs and two balls and started his first game of golf, but lost both balls the first hole. He found an old ball and continued. On each of the next six holes he had a ball, but found one each time and continued to play. He had to stop No. 7, but found another ball near the eighth tee and finished nine with it, then checked his club score. He said: "I played hide-and-seek when I was a kid," he complained.

Several ladies from this line attended the W.M.S. meeting at the home of Mrs. Will Bush, 2nd line, on Wednesday of this week.

The sympathy of the community is extended to Mr. Judson Kelly who is a patient in the Belleville General Hospital suffering from a rheumatic condition.

Mrs. Robert Hazlit left last week on an extended motor trip and expects to spend a few weeks with relatives in California.

Dr. Alton Measter and Mrs. Measter of Utica, N.Y., are spending the summer months with the latter's father, Mr. Peter Gerlsmith and family.

Miss Irene Grills and her friend Miss Edith Wright, Reg. N., are visiting Miss Grills' brother, Mr. Harriet Grills and other relatives, in Hamilton, Bermuda.

CONTACT RUSSIA CHINESE ARMY AIM

Desperate Attempt to be Made in Final Drive

Changtu, Szechuan, China, July 11 (AP)—China's ragged Red Army which has already fought a zig-zag trail halfway across the nation, completed preparations today for a desperate attempt to reach far western Shensi where it would be enabled in contact Soviet Russia.

A 1,000 mile march across the inhospitable desert and mountain wastes of Kansu faces the Communist remnants if they hope to reach their objective.

A red vanguard, it was reported, already is moving westward through formidable mountain ranges intending to control passes and thus shield the Red leader, Chu-Teh, many times erroneously reported killed, in assembling all possible food-stuffs.

TWENTY KILLED IN EARTHQUAKE

Fire Follows Shocks But Brought Under Control

Tokyo, July 11—(AP)— Twenty persons died in an earthquake at Shizuoka, Tokyo police reported to the Home Ministry today.

Five broke out in the wake of the earth shocks, but were reported to have been brought under control quickly.

The earthquake was felt throughout the Shizuoka district, 100 miles southwest of Tokyo, and was felt here, but no damage was reported.

Warehouses collapsed at Shimizu Port, near Shizuoka, and it was feared there might be casualties there. Hamanaiko reported experiencing a heavy shock, but only slight damage.

Fragmentary reports said many houses collapsed at Shizuoka on the south central coast of the main island, and fires started.

Shizuoka has a population of 150,000 and is the centre of the tea growing industry.

The Shizuoka radio station, previously off the air, reported its antenna attached to the red cross hospital, were reported to have partly collapsed and it was feared there might be some casualties.

The temblor was felt throughout a 250-mile wide belt from Tokyo to Nagoya, with the epicenter in the valley of the Oi river west of Shizuoka.

Nagoya reported a heavy shock, but slight damage. Telephone and telegraph communication between Nagoya and Shizuoka was disrupted.

ASSEMBLY ADJOURNED

Athens, July 11—(CP)—Greece's national assembly was adjourned today having taken steps for a plebiscite on the question of restoration of the monarchy before next Nov. 12.

PUPILS SUCCESSFUL IN EXAMINATIONS

3rd Sidney—Congratulations are extended to Mr. Edgar Adams on the success of his pupils at Centenary School, his Entrance pupils all passing and nearly all of his other pupils passing to higher grades. Mr. Adams has been engaged as teacher for another year, and is spending his holidays with his son, Mr. Robert Adams, Rossmore.

The many friends of Mrs. A. M. Lawrence are glad to know that she is convalescing at her home, 2nd line, after being a patient in the Bellevile General Hospital for the past two weeks.

Miss Pearl Nicholson of Toronto, is holidaying at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Nicholson.

Mr. Jack Deering of Toronto is spending a few weeks with his cousins, Mr. and Mrs. H. Westover and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Westover.

Miss Clara Adams is in Kingston taking a summer course at Queen's University.

Plan an Enticing Jam Cupboard

See for yourself how easy it is!

NEXT winter take pride in that jam cupboard of yours. Thrill to its row upon row of colourful glasses . . . gorgeous jams, sparkling jellies . . . start to plan them now!

It is so easy to do with Certo. You see, with the Certo short-boil method it takes only a minute or two to boil either jams or jellies. (Certo recipes give you the exact time for every fruit). Then think of this: Certo gives you the loveliest jellies even from fruits you could never make "Jell-Rite." And you will surely get half as much again of this cost per jar because no fruit juice has time to boil away. No wonder Certo-made jams and jellies shimmer with that gorgeous natural colour of true sun-ripened fruit! Amazing, too, what a marvellous extra flavour you'll get—full flavour of the fresh, ripe fruit itself. Follow carefully the recipes found in the booklet containing 75 recipes, under the label on every Certo bottle.

CROPS BEATEN DOWN BY HEAVY RAIN

West Huntingdon — The brakes have been suddenly applied to the hay harvest. The electric storm on Saturday evening which was accompanied by a heavy rainfall and high wind did considerable damage to the hay and early oats. In some fields the appearance is that of cockle. A week's sunny weather the farmers are anticipating cutting the fallen grain for green fodder.

Mr. John McInroy of Vancouver, B.C., is visiting his cousins, Mr. Peter and Alex McInroy.

Mr. McInroy has not been here for over forty years and notes many changes in surrounding country.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Moore and Mrs. Rockbeer were callers at the home of their cousin Mrs. R. T. Earle on Friday afternoon.

Rev. H. A. Turner, the new minister for United Church, arrived in the village on Sunday and conducted services on the circuit on Sunday. He was accompanied on Sunday by Mr. Frank Ashley.

Mrs. Peter McInroy, Evelyn and Marjorie spent Thursday at Marmora the guests of Mrs. Albert Campion.

Mr. James Donnan is visiting his grandparents Mr. and Mrs. James Sharpe of Mount Pleasant.

Miss Ruby Bray spent the week-end with friends at Belleville.

Mrs. F. Sheffield and Jean of Zion's are spending a few days with Mr. Jas. A. Wilson of Mill Street.

HOLLOWAY STREET W.M.S.

The July meeting of Holloway Street W.M.S. was held on Thursday, July 4th.

Mrs. Jas. Cordes acted as Recording Secretary in Mrs. Hall's absence and Mrs. Livesay was the pianist.

Hymn 148 opened the meeting followed with prayer by Mrs. Denton. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved and a reading taken from the church paper "The Record" namely, "Doing the Will of God" was given by the President. The treasurer's report showed the keen interest manifested by all in the desire to further the work with their gifts. Offertory prayer by Mrs. Jas. Hall. Various secretaries reports were accepted.

Psalm 91 was used in the alternate Scripture reading, followed by the Lord's Prayer in unison.

The solo by Mrs. Livesay "In Sight of the Crystal Sea" was indeed inspiring.

It was decided the President represent the W.M.S. at Bridge Street Church to plan the fall conference.

Mrs. Reich gave the devotional leaflet in her capable manner.

The Temperance Secretary gave an interesting reading and the Peace Secretary, Mrs. Newman read an article regarding the League of Nations.

Miss Adams gave a very splendid talk on the conditions prevailing in India enlightening many present as to the strange customs showing a large city where the streets may be modern with trams, taxis, electric cars and then a glimpse into the narrow alleys and byways, where curious shops with scarcely a window are crowded with unbelievable treasures such as exquisite embroideries, pottery, hand-beaten jewelry, Kashmir shawls and brass, a wealth indeed to marvel at.

The numerous types of crops are chiefly dependent upon the moisture and intense famine throughout large areas is experienced through lack of rain. The deepest sympathy and prayer is that "When the rain come?"

The lack of sanitation is appalling causing much suffering with dirt, filth and rubbish lie all about. The hot tropical sun is the one disinfectant or no doubt all India must perish of flies and pestilence.

All honour is due to the men and the comparatively few educated Indian women, who are exercising a vast influence against severe opposition, demanding many reforms for the uplift of their illiterate sisters.

Appreciation was conveyed to Miss Adams for this clear insight into the lives of the Indian people.

The meeting closed with hymn 288, "Oh Jesus I have made up with Thee". The ladies present unanimously declared it was well worth while to have been there.

CARMEL W.M.S.

The July meeting of the W. M. S. was held at the home of Mrs. Milton Ross, with the President, Mrs. Patterson in the chair. The meeting was opened with hymn 72, after which sentence prayer was offered by several members. The Resolds were given by Mrs. Putman, Mrs. Horton, Mrs. Reid, Mrs. Ross and Mrs. Homan. All readings were very interesting.

Minutes of previous meeting were given by the Secretary. Roll call was answered by 13 members. Mrs. W. Simmons, leader of Group 3, then took charge of the program, singing hymn 248. Miss Olive Howes sang a solo and played the accompaniment on the violin. Current events on Canada was given by Mrs. Simmons, Mrs. Seldon Homan and Mrs. Reid.

Mrs. J. Patterson gave the topic, after which Mrs. Billy Sills sang a solo entitled "Out of the ivory palaces". Mrs. Patterson closed the meeting with the Mizpah Benediction.

Mrs. Simmons,' Group were hostesses with Mrs. Ross when a very dainty lunch was served. Tarts, cake sandwiches and lemonade, tea and a vote of thanks was given Mrs. Ross for the use of her home.

MISS AUDREY PRUST IS HONORED BY Y. P. SOCIETY

Tweed—A most enjoyable outing was held on Monday afternoon by the Young People's Society of Tweed United Church at Mr. W. L. Gordon's cottage, Birch Cliff Inn on Stoco Lake. About sixty fifty young people sat down at tables laden with everything to tempt the appetite, it appeities refreshed tempting Cermch pleasant surroundings. After ample justice had been done to the good things provided, the party gathered on the sandy beach where a special Sunset Worship Service was held under the leadership of Miss Beatrice Gordon B. A., president of the Y. P. S. and leader of the C.G.I.T. group. This service was followed by the Thrilling Ceremony of the C. G. I. T.

At this point Miss Grace Reeves, secretary of the Y. P. S. was called on to read a presentation address to Miss Audrey Prust, one of the group leaders, who is moving with her parents to live in Lynwood. Frank Tummon on behalf of the Y. P. S. presented Miss Prust with a leather "over-night bag". The following is the address:

Dear Audrey:—

The one sad feature of our picnic tonight is that we must say good-bye to you, Audrey.

Although you have been with us but three years, you have always been a willing helper and have won for yourself a friendship who will not soon forget you.

You have been a successful and popular group leader in our Young People's Society and have put past year and we shall certainly miss you, not only in connection with our Society but also as a friend and a citizen of our village.

In an effort to show our regret of having to say good-bye, and as a token of our appreciation we want you to accept this small gift. We hope, Audrey, that you will make many new friends in Lynwood, as we are sure you will, and at the same time we trust that you will not forget your old friends back in Tweed.

We extend to you the very best wishes for a successful future, and hoping that you will decide to, in turn, if not to Tweed, maybe not far from us, we say

Au revoir

Signed on behalf of the Y. P. S. Pres. Beatrice Gordon. Secy. Grace Reeves.

Miss Prust made a suitable reply, expressing regret in circumstances which had arisen making the severance of pleasant relations necessary.

Mr. S. H. Connor was asked to act as song leader and a number of familiar and popular songs were enjoyed. Mrs. Russell Frost, who is camping on Sugar Island favored with, a delightful violin solo "Tramerei"; Mr. Walter Dark played a cornet solo.

Rev. R. R. Nicholson moved a vote of thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Gordon for their hospitality and the picnic party dispersed.

THE ONTARIO INTELLIGENCER

SIDELIGHTS
THE HOME FORUM

THE COMING ELECTION

Not so far off is the political war which is to centre about Parliament Hill with localized battles in every one of the 245 constituencies in which there the large issues will be discussed on thousands of platforms and the electors who after all hold the balance of power will be wooed as they are never wooed at any time of the years of a Parliament's life. The man in the street, the man on the farm, the man in the factory, and the man in the office, the woman in the home, in industry and in a profession holds the key and can make the country of what political constructive desired.

Canadians fortunately in these days of unsettlement and unrest hold fast as a body. Progressive as they are they do not risk the overthrow of everything which has been established and has served with more or less effectiveness in the past. Realizing that changes must of necessity come as long as life endures, they hold to what is worthwhile (and much is worthwhile), making amendment when and where it is necessary.

Whatever way the country votes, the people by remaining true to their traditions will be safe from the pure demagogue or the radical who would throw away everything and then trust to chance and radicalism to evolve an ideal state.

So the people will hear in the open parks or in whatever halls the war of the parties for votes but intelligence of statement and intelligence of attitude on the part of the people who hear will be signs of the campaign.

ALTRUISM

There have been a number of instances lately of unselfish sacrifice of lives in the effort to save others. Not always has the but there is some demonstration of altruism which leads a child, a youth or an adult to death because they place the possibility of some one more important than their own safety. In some cases it is the experienced swimmer who goes down in the grip of a drowning man as in the lamentable case at Wellington last week, and in another it is love of a brother or a sister which lures another of the family to death, as in the lamentable tragedy at Lake Temiskaming along the Ferguson highway, when a girl of five slipped off a rock and her sister of seven went in after her, both losing their lives. Such incidents tell a story of human devotion and love which wipes out the stain of many crimes which smear the human calendar. They maintain and restore faith in human nature and a sense of glorious victory over circumstance must be felt despite the tears which dim the eyes of the bereaved.

HOLIDAY TRAGEDIES

Holiday accidents claimed a total over a hundred citizens in the United States on Independence Day. Motor crashes might be expected to claim a large number and did (very their toll and holiday sports accounted for another large number of fatalities. The fast speed on the highways, rashness in the presence of water which is so great a lure almost to make the modern skeptic admit against his judgment that there is a fatal attraction in water for man for some mysterious reason, accounted for many deaths. The lakes, the rivers and the bays claimed a toll in the happiest of seasons, mostly because some at least did not know the art of swimming sufficiently to protect themselves and so added to the toll of their lives the toll of many rescuers who lost their lives as well.

Unfortunately holidays have to the modern world so great an attraction that unusual risks are taken. It is probable that the speed tempo of the age is responsible for much of this modern complex.

Recreation should not be violent, but many folk make it violent and so bring on unforgettable tragedies.

OPEN DOORS FOR YOUTH

Too many young people are watching the great big doors through which they hope to see Dame Opportunity come toward them with outstretched hands. They overlook the many little doors through which all the big members of the big Opportunity family are likely to be sneaking by day or by night.—Walter B. Pitkin in the Rotarian.

Science is a first rate piece of furniture for a man's upper chamber, if he has common sense on the ground floor. But if a man hasn't got plenty of good, common sense the more science he has the worse for the patient.—O. W. Holmes.

Man is a social animal, formed to please and enjoy in society.—Montesquieu.

What is strength without a double share of wisdom? Vast, unwieldy, burdensome, proudly secure, yet liable to fall by weakest subtleties; strength's not made to rule, but to subserve, where wisdom bears command.—Milton.

CLOVER

No hot-house blooms my desk adorn,
Nor roses red and gay,
But clover sweet and buttercups
That grew across the way;
Their fragrance all around they fling,
These common wayside flowers,
And how their beauty brings again
Youth's happy, summer hours!

Hours when we wandred free as air
Through blooming meadow land,
And plucked the blossoms growing there
With eager, childish hands;
Now when I see a clover field
With blossoms gay and red,
I live again those carefree days—
Days that long since have fled.
—Helen B. Anderson.

ONE OF THE GREATEST GOLD MINES in the world is the Lake Shore Mine, one of the first gold strikes north of Cobalt, staked by Harry Oakes. The Lake Shore has made Harry Oakes one of the richest men in the world and it is reported he intends leaving Canada to take up his residence abroad, in England or one of the Channel islands. Harry Oakes was born in the United States, but his profession of mining engineer took him into every country of the world. First in Cobalt at the fall-end of the silver boom he went north with his prospector's pick, bacon and bannocks, and the Lake Shore came into being. One of the men prominent in the developing of the Lake Shore Mine was Dr. W. F. St. Charles, a Belleville boy, who has practised medicine in Toronto for a number of years. It became acquainted with Harry Oakes before the staking of the Lake Shore mine and was ready to back his mining knowledge to the limit. Dr. St. Charles was appointed the first treasurer of the mining company, a position which he has retained through the years, never losing faith in the mine or its discovery. Recently Dr. St. Charles was elected president to take the place of Harry Oakes who is retiring from active participation in the management of the mine, so that he can be free to ramble amid his various palaces in this land and across the ocean. Dr. St. Charles, in his first official statement, declared that the policies adopted by Harry Oakes will be continued in the management of the mine. Dr. St. Charles is a brother of Miss Margaret St. Charles, of this city, and he is the son of the late James St. Charles, a prominent resident of this city for many years, and district license inspector in the days when liquor was sold over the bar in hotels. Cam. St. Charles, well-known former business man of Belleville, is a brother, and holds a substantial interest in Lake Shore Mine stock.

REVOLT IN THE DESERT
by T. E. LAWRENCE

They came together to him, and after a moment scattered away down hill. I feared things were wrong, and struggled to where he stood alone on the hillcrest, gladdening at his enemy: but all he would say to me was, "Get your camel if you want to see the day's work." Nasir carried for his camel and we mounted.

The Arabs passed before us into a little sunken place, which rose to a low crest; and we knew that the hill beyond went down in a facile slope to the main valley of Abu el Lissan, somewhere below the spring. All our four mounted camel men were here tightly collected, just out of sight of the enemy. We rode to the hillcrest and saw the Ahmi their head, and sated the thirst of what it was and where the horsemen had gone.

He pointed over the ridge to the next valley above us, and said, "With Auda there"; and as he spoke yells and shots sprang up in a sudden torrent from beyond the crest. We licked our camels the head to the edge, to see our fifty horsemen coming down the last ridge into the valley like a run-away, at full gallop, shooting from the saddle. As we watched, two or three went down but the rest thundered forward at unchecked speed, and the Turkish infantry, huddled together under the cliff ready to cut their desperate way out towards Maan in the first dust, all got up in a hurry and ran, and began to sway in and out, and finally broke before the onrushing their flight to Auda's charge.

Nasir screamed at me, "come on" with his bloody mouth; and we plunged our camels madly over the hill, and down amidst the head of the fleeing enemy. The slope was not too steep for a camel-gallop, but steep enough to make their pace terrific, and their control inconsiderable: yet the Arabs were able to extend to right and left and to shoot into the flying crowd. The Turks had been too bound up in the terror of Auda's furious charge against their rear to notice us as we came over the eastward slope: so we also took them by surprise and in the flank: and a charge of sudden camels going nearly thirty miles an hour was irresistible.

The Howeitat were very fierce for the slaughter of their women on the day before had been a new and horrible side of their character revealed to them. So there were only a hundred and sixty prisoners, many of them wounded; and three hundred dead and dying were scattered over the open valleys.

A few of the enemy got away, the gunners on their camels, who mounted men and officers with their Jazi guides. Mohammed el Dheilan chased them for three miles into Mreigha, hurling insults as he rode, that they might know him and keep out of his way. The head of Auda and his cousins had never applied to Mohammed, as a political-minded, who showed friendship to all men of his tribe when she was slow to do so. Among the fugitives was Dhaif-Allah, who had died as the good turn—Sherif Ali Ibn Sifok. Well at Jefer.

Auda came swinging up on foot, his eyes glazed over with the rapture of battle, and the wrist bubbling with incoherent speed from his mouth. "Work, work, where are swords, work, bullets, work. Yayy," and he held up his shattered fieldglasses, his pierced pistol-holster, and his left arm sword-scabbard cut to ribbons. He had been the target of a volley which had killed his mare under him, but the six bullets through his clothes had left him scathless.

He told me later, in strict confidence, that thirteen years before he had bought an amulet Koran for one hundred and twenty pounds, and had not since been wounded. Indeed, Death had avoided his face, and gone searchly about killing brothers, sons and followers. The book was a Glasgow reproduction, casting eighteenpence; but Auda's deadliness did not let people laugh at his superstition.

He was widely pleased with the fight, most of all because he had confounded me and shown what his tribe could do. Mohammed was wroth with us for a pair of fools, calling me worse than Auda, since I had rounded him by words like flung stones to provoke the folly which had nearly killed us all: though it had killed only two of us, one Rueli and one Shtewi.

It was, of course, a pity to lose any one of our men, but time was of importance to us, and so imperative was the need of dominating Maan, to shock the little Turkish garrisons between us and the sea into surrender, that; I would have willingly lost much more than the two. On occasions like this Death justified himself and was cheap.

Meanwhile our Arabs had plundered the Turks, their baggage train and their camp: and soon after moonrise, Auda came to us and declared we must move. It angered Nasir and myself. To-night there was a dewy west wind blowing, and at Abu el Lissan's four thousand feet after the heat and burning passion of the day, its damp cold struck very sharply on our wounds and bruises. The spring itself was a thread of silvery water in a runnel of pebbles across delightful turf, green and soft, on which we lay, wrapped in our cloaks, wondering if something to eat were worth preparing: for we were subject at the moment to the physical shame of success, a reaction of victory, when it became clear that nothing was worth doing, and that nothing worthy had been done.

Auda insisted, fartily it was superstition—he feared the newly-dead, around us: partly lest the Turks return in force; partly lest other clans of the Howeitat take us, tying them broken and asleep. Some were his blood enemies: others might say they came to help our battle, and in the darkness thought we were Turks and fired blindly. So we roused ourselves, and jogged the sorry prisoners into line.

FLOOD DANGER IN N. Y. STATE OVER

Final Death Toll Placed at 40 And Damage at 29 Millions

Albany, N.Y., July 11.—(AP)—With the final death toll listed at 40, and property damages estimated at $29,000,000, reports from New York State flood zone today gave definite assurance that the danger of further high water had passed.

Thousands of Red Cross, Federal State and local employes labored under fair skies to remove the wreckage of buildings and to clear highways and homes of mud and debris.

Mr. A. W. Vermilyea has returned home after visiting friends in Chatham.

Dr. Lockridge, dentist, left yesterday for Ottawa where he will locate. Mrs. Lockridge will join her husband there in about a month's time.

Another of the advance guard of the Old Boys' Reunion here is fixed in the person of Mr. John Beckett from Winnipeg. He is the guest of his brother-in-law, Mr. Adam Henry, Church street.

After nineteen years' absence Mrs. Henry Hooper (nee Rose Worthy) of Los Angeles, California, is a visitor in the city. She is accompanied by her daughter. They are on a trip around the world.

Mr. Joseph James of Actinolite was a visitor in the city today.

Mrs. Eakins and her son, Dr. George Eakins, are spending a few days in the city.

In most of the "Southern Tier" villages and cities affected—more than a score—chatterbox water mains were being rapidly restored, and it was hoped that the threat of typhoid fever, the usual aftermath of floods had been overcome. Nevertheless, authorities still urged by land and air into a dozen communities, and fresh drinking water into some towns from large cities, or trucked in from nearby communities whose water supplies were not affected.

In some of the hardest hit areas, particularly Hornell, Bath, Hammondsport, Watkins Glen and Binghamton, mud and wreckage was piled from two to ten feet high in the streets.

Unlimited funds were made available for flood sufferers by the state legislature, and the state obtained $300,000 in temporary relief funds to finance rehabilitation work.

R.C.M.P. HAVE OTHER CHORES OUTSIDE THE LAW BOOKS

The Royal Canadian Mounted Police, much in the spotlight of late in connection with relief camp strikers in Regina and elsewhere, have other tasks besides the Dominion's law code. In many of Canada's national parks, they act as "tourist guides". In reality this is for the protection of the tourist. In the layout is shown a striking picture of a "mountie" silhouetted against a peak of the Rocky Mountains. At TOP RIGHT, the mounties at another of their chores, performing their famous musical ride which they perform at exhibitions in many parts of the country. BELOW, a red-coat directing tourists. Quite a pastoral scene compared to Regina.

ANTICIPATE BLOODY CLASH OF FRENCH EXTREMIST PARTIES

Sunday, July 14, is Bastille Day in France in commemoration of the fall and destruction in 1789 of the notorious prison at the hands of revolutionaries. To celebrate occasion, both left and right wing organizations are planning huge demonstrations and the authorities in Paris fear a violent outbreak. The leftists, including Communists, Socialists and Libera. organizations (of which Herriot Daladier is a member) have formed a strong united front for the occasion. Meanwhile the Croix de Feu, French Fascist nationalist organization, with plenty of financial backing, is threatening to fly aeroplanes over Paris and claim to stand ready to make a concerted raid and seize the city. They number more than 50,000 uniformed followers. Layout, above shows RIGHT, some Fascist members in training just outside Paris. UPPER, LEFT, Col. Francois de la Rocque, self-styled "dictator" and Croix de Feu leader, LOWER LEFT, Communists on parade.

FARMERS FEARING RELENTLESS RAYS

Cooler Weather Better For Crops They State

The torrid heat wave of last week declined somewhat this week but it is still uncomfortably hot. The only noticeable difference in the slight breeze that is blowing. The latter part of last week on Friday and Saturday the thermometer hovered around ninety ranging between 85 and 90 during the hottest part of the day. That there isn't a great change this week can be verified from the fact that the temperature yesterday was 85 maximum and 57 minimum. Today's readings show the high so far is 84 and the low 64. A year ago the readings were 78 and 59.

Above the same amount of water is being pumped this week as last for the daily average" declared Mr. R. Davison, at the local pump house. Yesterday 2,946,000 gallons of water were pumped. The peculiar factor is that records show that nearly 300,000 gal. more water was pumped a year ago yesterday than were pumped yesterday, although the mercury soared 9 degrees higher a year ago. The only logical solution lies in the fact that last year was much dryer than this year and people watered their lawns much more. The month of June this year produced much more rainfall than years previous, this fact is evidenced from the figures of the water consumption of June this year and a year ago. 2,112,000 gal. of water were pumped while the month of June, 1,760,000 gals. were consumed.

Thunderstorms have been forecast but as yet there have been no results to predictions. Farmers are beginning to worry slightly about their plants as the sun beats down relentlessly day by day. Hopes for cooler weather is in the offing as the Central States are suffering in a wretched heat wave the mercury soaring to some places to 108. While there is no likelihood that it will be that hot here still there is every possibility that we will get part of it.

Girls' Trumpet Band in City To be Organized

Negotiations were today opened to organize a girls' trumpet band in Belleville. The project is being sponsored by the Belleville Conservative Club and a meeting for all girls interested is to be held in the Association's club rooms on Front Street, on Monday night next. The proposed band will be piloted by Gordon Hayes, an ex-trumpeter in the Canadian Army during the big war. Mr. Hayes has considerable experience in tutoring bugle and trumpet bands in and around Belleville and announced today that only young ladies (under the age of 23 years would be accepted. A number of trumpets have already been secured while suitable drums are also being purchased by the Conservative Club. Providing Monday night's meeting is adequately attended the proposed band will commence immediately. All young ladies in the city are cordially invited to attend the meeting and learn more about the project.

Police News

Alvin Devolin, Madoc, appeared in Magistrate R. J. Butler's local police court today and pleaded guilty to a charge of intoxication. Devolin was arrested yesterday afternoon, on Dundas St., by local police following complaints in regard to his alleged causing disturbances. The accused man was unable to pay the fine and was sent "on the hill" for a ten day stretch, in default of payment.

A. John St., Tweed reported to the police the loss of a child's wagon. The play toy was removed from the premises, the complaint stated.

Being forced into the ditch as he was about to drive his automobile past another motor car on the Foxboro highway late last night, resulted in Leird Adams' car being forced into the ditch, where it crashed into a telephone pole, breaking it off at the base. Mr. Adams, Consecon, reported the matter to the police, but was unable to inform the authorities as to the identity of the driver of the vehicle, that forced him into the ditch.

The Mr. Adams car was not badly damaged, but the broken pole will have to be replaced by Mr. Ad if the authorities fail to locate absent reckless driver, who be him into the ditch.

NO SMALLPOX 4M DISTRICT FOR YEA

Although smallpox has been reported in Brockville and Hami there are no cases of the disease Belleville and there hasn't been cases of the disease in the city years, according to Dr. G. Crunk, M.O.H. The school c can have been vaccinated free as a preventative against it.

Dr. Crunk stated that was meaning epidemic that was prevalent for a short while ago being cleared up and has decl a great deal. There is one case scarlet fever in the city.

On Tuesday, July 9th, the following members of the Stirling Horticultural society attended the convention of the Ontario Horticultural Association District No. 2 held in Victoria Hall, Brockville. Dr. and Mrs. O. F. Walt, accompanied by Mrs. Gilliland, Mrs. Rollins, Mrs. Anna Bailey, Miss E. Deacon, Mr. Charles Allen, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Belshaw. Following is a summary of the interesting program—About 150 members were in attendance and Mr. J. F. Ritchie, Acting Provincial Horticulturist from Ottawa was the guest speaker. In the afternoon he gave advice in the planting of evergreens and other ornamental shrubs and trees and arranged to give perfect view of the front of the houses from outside and not obstruct this view from within.

The mayor of Brockville gave a fine address of welcome to the visitors voicing his praises to the societies for their beautiful work. Mr. J. B. Belshaw of Stirling, welcomed the members of the different societies and thanked the Brockville society for their hospitality. This along with the reception and registration of the visitors concluded the morning session. Luncheon was served by the Mother's Club of St. John's United Church in the Sunday School Hall from 12.30 to 1.30.

From 2.30 to the 3.30 p.m. was taken on a tour of many beautiful private gardens of the town including Mr. Andrew Gilmour, Mr. E. O. Ocastle, Mrs. J. A. McArthur, Mr. G. E. Jackson, Mrs. C. S. Cassett, "Fulford Place", Thornton Cliff, Senator A. C. Hardy, Canso Hospital Grounds and St. Lawrence Park.

Tea was served at 5 p.m. on the lawns of Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Lewis K.C. A very choice collection was called to order and Mr. J. R. Belshaw, director from Stirling thanked Mr. and Mrs. Lewis for their hospitality. Votes of thanks were also tendered to the different societies

NEW YORK CLOSE

New York, July 11 (AP) — The stock market sagged today as realizing flurries developed at the end of recent favorites. A few issues, including motor shares, were steady, bucked the decline. The news was mixed, although depression and labor reaction was attributed largely to technical factors.

Electrical dealers dropped more than 3 points and Union Pacific, Du Pont and Public Service of New Jersey yielded about 2 each. Others, off fractions to a point or so, included U. S. Steel, American Telephone, American Can, Case, Chrysler, Westinghouse, Consolidated Gas and Coca-Cola. The late tone was heavy. Transfers approximated 1,200,000 shares.

TORONTO STOCKS CLOSE

Toronto, July 11—(CP)—Volume dropped off sharply on Toronto industrial share market as the week-end approached, but price trend still maintained a general tone of firmness. Profit-taking in Distillers Seagrams after it considerable rise in recent weeks, was in evidence and a number of issues were also posted and Industrial Alcohol A also showed weakness, but gains generally however held strong around 29 for a gain of about 3-8.

Trading in Distillers Seagrams on its recent persistent rise was in evidence today and a drop of 3-8 to 20 1-3 was showing this afternoon, while Walkers Common held a gain of 1-8 to 39, Industrial Alcohol A also weakened a narrow fraction. The general price tone was steady to strong.

Higher powers ruled for the utilities and food and the oils held steady except for a loss of 1-4 for International Petroleum. Trading slowed down decidedly in the afternoon when the New York market turned soft.

TORONTO MINES CLOSE

Toronto, July 11—(CP)—Gold shares persisted with the downward slant while the base metal and silver shares maintained a fairly steady tone today on the mining list of the Toronto exchange. Moderately soft spots in the golds were Hollinger, Pickle Crow, Reno and Macassa. Dealings were light with a half dozen of the secondary gold issues providing the bulk of the volume.

While the golds were again a bit soft on the mining section, base metals shares held steady today and silvers were moderately active though trading slowed down to a sluggish pace in the afternoon. Hollinger sold at a new low and Reno, which had been moving down for some weeks, sold off 5 cents to 84 today.

Higher prices for bar silver failed to stimulate buying in the silver group where the trend was down in recent sessions. Small gains were showing this afternoon for Eldorado and Beat. Noranda did a little better and Hudson Bay, Mining Corporation and Sherritt remained quiet and steady.

FINANCIAL MARKETS
NEW YORK - TORONTO - WINNIPEG

WALL STREET FINANCIAL

New York, July 11 (AP)—While selective buying continued in today's stock market, a number of erstwhile favorites backed up under profit taking pressure.

Trading was quite active at the start and prices relatively steady. One block of 14,000 shares of General Motors changed hands at a small advance. The volume dwindled later. The alcohols found friends on increased sales predictions. The utilities were dull heavy.

Wheat dropped sharply at Chicago on the government crop figures. Cotton slipped sympathetically. The bonds were mixed. Foreign exchanges eased in terms of the United States dollar.

Canadian equities put on a rather good show, realizing easier prices in the rest of the list with fractional gains. Dome Mines and International Nickel picked up 8 and 1-4 respectively, on the day's work, while Lake Shore and Hiram Walker managed to close unchanged and Paterson on the curb. Bonds were unvarietal. The Canadian dollars were steady at 99.84%.

Small gains were recorded by the shares of Newmont Mining, Standard Oil, U. S. Industrial Alcohol, American Commercial Alcohol, Schenley, International Distillers, Electric Autolite and Associated Gryzgods.

Losers of fractions to a point or so included American Telephone, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Public Service of New Jersey, Consolidated Gas, Westinghouse, International Harvester, Case, Allied Chemical, Du Pont, American Can and Chrysler. The rails were dull and heavy.

The mining issues were resistant as imported bar silver at New York was advanced % of a cent an ounce to 65¼ cents.

The erratic movements of some of the recent stock leaders did not shake the faith of many market commentators in the upward trend of the list, as a whole.

Board Room Gossip

As supplied to Hipper and Crawford by Financial Service.

According to a usually well informed source, the Reno gold properties mine will be closed down for the remainder of the year. The mill is now being dismantled and the crushing plant will be closed down tomorrow and according to a report from the mine, will not be operated on all three new low levels. Two crews are reported at work on the Motherlode Nugget prospect today.

Last month's production was about $7,000 lower than the monthly average so far this year, the lower production being due to the cleaning up of the mill the previous month.

The company's fiscal year ended on June 30 and the annual report to be made public next month should show a considerable profit on the sales and charges, equal to 14 or 15 cents a share on the issued capital.

A moderate revival of interest in the Canadian Industrial Alcohol issues has been noted the past few days, with Standard Distillers also in the picture on the advance. The financial year of Seagrams ends this month, that of Hiram Walker on August 31 and Canadian Industrial Alcohol on September 30. Over the past two and one-half months, the three leading Canadian distilling companies have completed a full 12-months under the changed American liquor laws.

Very little has been heard of late of the possibility of a lowering of the American import tax on liquor, although Canadian interests are still hopeful that Washington's efforts to combat the depression will result in a reduction of the $3 a gallon impost tax.

Sales of Ford of Canada in the first six months of 1935 amounted to 50,300 units, as compared with 48,917 units in the whole of 1934. This year's output should approximate the 1929 high record of 68,000 units. 72,465, Ford of Canada's sales in 1935 will be the highest such combined total of 1933 and 1932, when they amounted to only 51,516 units.

Standard Statistics' investment policy service considers that a constructive long term but a more conservative long term outlook obtains, with recognition of the probability of temporary movements and continue to reflect current trends, as among individual issues and groups alike.

Brazilian Traction, which has maintained its milreis earnings comparatively well during the past four years, has in the last twelve months shown a steady expansion in dollar earnings. The sharp increase in Brazilian's reduced profits of recent years, following the heavy dividends on its capital stock, has been the position of the Brazilian milreis on the international exchange markets. The company, having its head office in Toronto, is protected practically all its revenues from operations in Brazil, and has therefore escaped the late its earnings from milreis into Canadian dollars, thus involving, under conditions which have prevailed for the last four or five years, a very heavy loss on the exchange. It should be noted, of course, that this loss in exchange only was an actual loss while the company was paying dividends on its stock.

Earnings for 1932, when the last cash dividend was paid, Brazilian Traction was able to build up surplus and reserves and also improve the physical condition of its properties and equipment, particularly thereby the equity behind the stock. At that time a economic conditions in Brazil return to normal, shareholders of the Traction Company will it may be assumed, benefit by the return from operations during the three or four years when the heavy depression of 1932 when no dividends were distributed by the company.

Considerable demand has developed for the shares of Distillers-Seagrams from New York and the stock is now strongly favored by a few of the some considerable time. The fiscal year ends with the December quarter and earnings will be at a new high level—possibly around $5 a share.

Distillers-Seagrams has become firmly entrenched in the American market and its brands are very highly regarded. In fact, it is learned that the firm is handling today the largest seller in the United States.

The past year's high earnings have enabled the management to liquidate bank loans to a considerable extent and the way has thus been paved for the inauguration of dividends as soon as the directors deem such a step advisable. In the meantime, those buying the stocks are of the opinion that on an earnings basis, it is attractive.

Produce Prices on Montreal Market

Montreal, July 11.—Potato prices at Montreal took a sharp drop yesterday, New Quebec stock bringing 50c to 75c per 80-lb. bags, compared with $1 to $1.25 on Tuesday. A fair list of offerings, particularly of small potatoes, caused the weakness. A bag of small new potatoes could be bought for the half dollar, while larger sized potatoes commanded up to 75c. Old potatoes were also weaker, becoming 35-40c per 80-lb. bags for Marfitas offerings.

The weekly auction of butter and cheese was held in charge at the Board of Trade, when 978 boxes of No. 1 Quebec butter sold at 20¼c per lb., while 119 boxes of No. 2 brought 30c. There were 1,310 boxes of Quebec cheese, of which 971 boxes were No. 1 white and 280 boxes were No. 1 colored, the balance being No. 2 grade. The best bid for the No. 1 white was 9 9-16 cents, which was refused. Later 9 5-8 cents sold at 10c.

In the afternoon the butter market was being quoted all the way from 26½c to 28c per lb. for No. 1 in cartols or 1-2 lots. Receipts, 437 boxes. Small lots to the retail trade were quoted from 28½c to 29c. Eggs, solids and 21½c for prints.

The cheese market was a shade easier owing to light demand, No. 1 Ontarios being 10¾c to 11c, while No. 1 Quebecs were 10c to 10¼c. Receipts, 2,535 boxes.

On the egg market the hot weather continued to have an influence on the grades, and there was limited according to quality. For graded shipments arriving in cartols or 1-cl. lots the range was 21c to 22c for A-large, the latter for real fresh stock; 20-20½c for A-medium, 19½c to 20c for A-small, and 17½c to 18½c for C. Receipts, 3,330 cases.

High Record for Farm Eggs in 1934

The value of farm eggs in Canada in 1934 was the highest recorded since 1911, according to figures just issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. The total production was 244,682,000 dozens in 1933. The estimated number of eggs laying hens in Canada in 1934 was 24,682,000, which produced an average yield per hen of 54,822,000 in 1933.

The value of eggs in 1934 is placed at $33,306,000, an average price of 13 cents per dozen, in comparison with $27,277,000, or 11 cents per dozen in 1933.

A WANT-AD will FIND IT!

"Twenty Years Acting Enough," Says "Doug," Hinting He's Through

Pittsburgh, July 11 (AP)—Douglas Fairbanks, Sr., said today his acting days probably are over.

The man who put D'Artagnan of the Three Musketeers, Robin Hood and other characters on the screen, stopped in Pittsburgh a few minutes while enroute to Italy and Japan where he plans to make production visits.

He is on his way to Quebec to meet Lady Ashley, his companion on a recent cruise.

He said he expected to be back in four months and direct production of some of his old hits, such as "Mark of Zorro."

Asked if that meant he was through as an actor, Fairbanks said:

"I think so. I've spent 30 years doing it. And that's enough to inflict on the public!"

Since you cannot take "Dick" with you on your vacation, you entrust his health and happiness to good friends or neighbours.

But do not make the change any more of an upset for Dick than necessary . . . pack his grip with all the Brock's Seed and Gravel he will need in your absence. Tell his new friends how you care for him . . . the daily fresh water, baths and the importance of a clean cage.

Brock's Bird Seed and the Bird Treat assures his proper diet.

Brock's Bird Gravel is clean, hard, sharp Silver Gravel gives him "teeth" to aid digestion and helps him to keep his feet clean and comfortable.

FAMILY PICNIC OF HERRINGTONS AT PRESQU'ILE

Record Attendance at Enjoyable Annual Gathering

Wooler—Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Wemple are in Ottawa this week.

On Tuesday afternoon, Mrs. Herb Wemple opened her home to the W.M.S. meeting and sixteen guests from Smithfield Auxiliary making thirty-five in all.

Mrs. O. W. McMasters, President of the Auxiliary opened the meeting using the hymn "The Beauty of the Earth" prayer was offered and the 121st Psalm recited in unison.

Minutes read and business followed a committee was appointed to arrange for the October Thankoffering, meeting observing the Tenth Anniversary of the United Church.

Mrs. S. L. Terrill, President of Cobourg Presbyterial suggested ways to plan for the Tenth Anniversary of the United Church. And also boosted the school for leaders at Whitby from Aug. 26-30th., urging that each organization will help to carry on the education on missions.

The President of Smithfield Auxiliary had charge of the program, opening with a hymn, followed by a vocal solo "My Rosary" by Winnifred Spencer. Then Mrs. F. Denyes gave an excellent paper on "Service" followed by a piano solo by Mary Hall. Talk on Faith by Mrs. Hendricks. The closing number was a contest of groups which sang songs assigned to them, and this was very interesting and this was a means of acquaintance to enjoy the refreshments together.

The Sunday Schools of the Township of Murray gathered in a picnic at Cedardale Sandbanks at the Lake on Thursday. Aylmer Dorland took a truckload and many cars with picnic families were there. An ideal spot for bathing and sun baths.

Rea Wilmot of Detroit, Mich., is at home with her mother during her holidays.

Mrs. Malcolm Wallis is entertaining a W.M.S. group for a quilting on Friday at her home.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Terrill—Mr. and Mrs. C. Terrill and Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Smith attended the "Herrington" picnic at Presqu'ile Point, on Monday. About 600 were present coming from Deseronto, Belleville, Consecon, Wooler, Brighton, Mt. Olivet, Colborne, Peterboro, Toronto, Detroit, Georgetown, Flint, Mich., and many points.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Scott have moved to their summer home at Wesleyton, Ida.

Herrington Re-Union Picnic

The third of these annual events was attended on Monday, July 1st at Presqu'ile Park with a record attendance of nearly two hundred. The weather was ideal for over "National Holiday" and the tourist traffic unusually heavy added its share to the family effort.

The tables at noonday were laden and thronged and something of the banquet style was observed in that the program of singing, music, readings and addresses was given before removing the fine store of good things from the festive board.

The President Rev. L. M. Sharpe (Wilton), welcomed the visitors and all newcomers and congratulated the ladies upon their efforts as also the committee, in the success of their management, he also called general attention to certain correspondence as to the absence of some and the increasing interest of many of the "clan" or "tribe" so widely scattered—the continent expressing the opinion that family reunion prolongs the life of the older members and arouses a fine spirit of tribal and citizenship concern.

The program consisted of a duett by Misses Jessa and Hilda Hunt of Wilton, community singing, guitar music and a solo by Bill Sharpe, Deseronto. Readings by misses Isobel Sharpe, Deseronto, Barbara Telford, Toronto and Anita Sharpe of Belleville. Short addresses by Messrs. C. Terrill, Addison Smith, Wooler, George Herrington, and Fred McNally, Georgetown and an inspiring U.E.L. address by W. C. Mikel, K.C. of Belleville, covering sections of the development of Canada from the early days of British Settlement here and inviting the Re-union to Belleville for the next "meet".

Re-organization followed re-instating as President

Hon. Pres., W. S. Herrington, K.C. of Napanee and Marshall Herrington of Brighton.

President—Rev. L. M. Sharpe, of Wilton.

Secretary-Treasurer — Thos. O. Mikel, Consecon.

Mr. T. O. Mikel was also appointed speechlist for re-union which will celebrate next year July 11th; and probably at Belleville. With sports, contests, baseballs, foot races, fat men's races, 100 yd races, old age, youngest child and freckles contest and with a baseball game too, afternoon cake to a pleasant and enjoyable social supper hour and "Home Sweet Home".

The register recorded guests from Wellsville, Rochester, New York; Detroit, Flint, Michigan, Toronto, Georgetown, Peterboro, Whitby, Oshawa and many nearby local centres.

"The Man Who Knew Too Much" at the Capitol theatre, a thrilling melodrama with Peter Lorre, the screen's newest villain, Leslie Banks and Nova Pilbeam, the wonder child actress.

TWO MINDS WITH ONE SINGLE THOUGHT

better FLAVOUR

QUAKER CORN FLAKES are better flavoured. In fact they are guaranteed to be the most delicious corn flakes you have ever eaten —or your money back.

In addition they are the only corn flakes that are sealed-wrapped and triple-sealed for freshness—irradiated with Sunshine Vitamin "D" and which contain a valuable coupon in every package. That makes them better value too!

SHANNONVILLE W. M. S.

The regular monthly meeting of the W.M.S. of Shannonville United Church was held in the church on Thursday afternoon, July 4th, Meeting opened by singing a hymn and all repeated the Lord's Prayer. The devotional leaflet was read by Mrs. Morley Shetler and Mrs. L. E. Mills led in earnest prayer. The minutes of the last meeting were read and adopted. The corresponding secretary, Mrs. H. Shetler, read a letter of thanks from the Anglican Church Guild for the evening enjoyed with Shannonville W.M.S. on June 19, and the members were much pleased with this very cordial expression of appreciation. Roll was then called by the secretary, members responding by naming one of our Missionaries. In the absence of the temperance secretary, Mrs. W. S. Dies, the temperance reading was given by Mrs. W. D. Robertson, entitled "Temperance and Progress" by Dorothy Clark. Mrs. H. Shetler then favored with a solo, Mrs. Morley Sine accompanying on the piano. Mrs. C. Liddle, peace secretary, gave a reading on the activities of the League of Nations. Mrs. (Rev.) H. Clark gave a Baby Band reading. Meeting closed by singing Hymn 274 and all repeating the Mizpah benediction. Mrs. Walter Morden, Group Leader, and her assistants served lunch and a social time was enjoyed. Attendance at this meeting was twenty. Collection $1.81, and for flower fund, $1. One dollar was sent in as a donation by an absent member, making the total received at this meeting, $3.81.

BRIDAL COUPLE HONORED BY FRIENDS

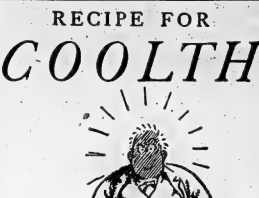
On Thursday evening, July 4th, a number of friends and neighbors gathered at the home of Mr. Percy Hoskin to honor him and his bride.

The bride and groom were seated in the midst of the crowd while Mrs. Thos. Howard read the following address:

Latta, July 4, 1935

To Mr. and Mrs. Percy Hoskins,

Dear Percy and Jean:



It gives us, your friends and neighbours great gladness to be able to congratulate you on this the beginning of your united voyage on the sea of married life. We put forward the hope, it will be long, happy and a glorious one, packed with those things which make for a fullness of life.

To you Jean, we extend the glad hand of welcome and hope that you may spend many happy years together, while a number of us are not personally acquainted with you, as yet, we trust as time marches on we will become better acquainted, and that our friendship will increase.

We are very glad you are making your home among us, and that these gifts in the years to come may remind you of the pleasant evening we have spent together.

Signed on behalf of your friends and neighbours, Mr. John Bradden and Mr. Thos. Howard then presented them with an Aladdin Lamp and tea kettle and tea set, after which the bride and groom thanked them all for their kindness all to come and see them. Lunch was then served and the remainder of the evening was spent in dancing.

On Friday afternoon June 28th a very pleasant time was spent at the school house of S. S. No. 11, Rawdon, when a number of parents and friends along with the pupils gathered to do honour to their teacher, Miss Vera Wright, who has resigned as teacher of the school. Races and games were enjoyed by young and old and the lunch of sandwiches, lemonade and home-made candy. At the close of the afternoon the gathering was called to order by Mr. Charles Mumby who on behalf of the section expressed his sincere regret that Miss Wright is leaving the school. The following address was read by Miss Emma Wickens and the presentation of a lovely silver cream and sugar set on a silver tray was made.

Harold, Ontario,

Dear Miss Wright:

We your pupils and friends feel that we cannot let you leave us without trying to express our sincere regret that you have severed your connection with our school. Also our appreciation to you, who so thoroughly and kindly directed our school hours during the last four years. By your gentleness and patience you have left memories which will last a lifetime and we assure you that you have the goodwill and friendship not only of your pupils but of the community as well.

Your time was not wasted dear teacher.

You gave of your best and more. You deposited wealth no man can tell.

In the hearts of children galore.

We ask you to accept this little gift with all good wishes for your happiness and may health and contentment be among your blessings in the future.

Signed on behalf of your pupils and friends of S. S. No. 11 Rawdon,

Jack Ray

Emma Wickens.

Miss Wright was completely taken by surprise, however, she rose to the occasion and thanked all for their kind wishes and lovely gift and all felt that a pleasant afternoon had been enjoyed together.

SCIENCE DISCOVERED

THE NATURAL CLEANING MATERIAL

SEISMOTITE

When our scientists discovered Seismotite (pronounced Sis'-mo-tite), a natural cleaning and polishing material of volcanic origin, it revolutionized the cleanser industry because it enabled them to introduce Old Dutch to the housewives of the world! No other cleaner can do so much at so little cost, nor so well at any price.

There's nothing else like Old Dutch for cleaning and polishing porcelain, enamel, tile—for painted walls, woodwork, kitchen utensils, glassware—for any surface where water may be used. The flaky, fat-shaped particles cover more surface and cleanse it completely . . . they are entirely free from any harsh, destructive, grimy material.

THE RED TIGER

By ALANSON CROSBY

And this woman—Harriet Alden Madison. She had deliberately tried to tell Judith—there could be no question about that. Randall Spencer had gone and had apparently been horrified. But Miss Madison had been his secretary, had announced their engagement in the newspapers—had even professed to Judith that they were already secretly married. Perhaps there was more in that than poor Judith had been willing to concede as a possibility. Of course Spencer had denied it—it would have made all his love-making terrifically and despicable to have admitted it.

As to the charge that Spencer had killed Hezekiah Stokes, even in the moments of agonized disillusionment, Judith could not bring herself to concede the possibility of its truth. However bad he might be, he could not be that monster. And yet—and yet—with his dying strength the old man had roughly scrawled Spencer's initials in his life-blood.

So Judith's thoughts ran in the terrible last half-hour in Captain McMahon's office. And when the clock struck nine, even in the face of Spencer come to redeem his promise a despairing conviction of his unworthiness had seized her.

Back in the hotel, after she had washed her hot face and lain down on the davenport a while, her thoughts were not quite so black. She remembered that Mr. Anderson was not by any means convinced of Spencer's guilt. Just the other day he had told her that he wanted an opportunity to talk with him—he thought there were several holes in the theory of the police. Spencer, her dad slain Mr. Stokes follow-ing a violent quarrel in the old man's office. And Spencer had told her that they had parted friendly. No—he could not be guilty of that friendish crime, whatever his other deficiencies might be. Where was him that they had parted friendly, last?

It was then that Judith penned the note to Sally and slipped out of the hotel in this if all over again in the purer and cleaner air of outdoors.

Now, quite unmindful of the slinking figure half a block back from her, she turned down another street —a dark, narrow thoroughfare that Judith had never set foot on before and shouldn't have set foot on now and shouldn't have set foot on now without male protection. But Judith was quite oblivious of the street. Her thoughts were wholly on her own problem, and all the incidents, the words, and even tender looks of her acquaintanceship with Randall Spencer—everything, in fact, that would afford food for recurring lovalty to and confidence in the man she had been almost ready to condemn.

Suddenly it came to her in a flash, and she was amazed that it had not occurred to her before. Randall Spencer had failed to keep his appointment with Captain McMahon because he was physically unable to do so! Restrained—a prisoner—in the power of that devil Mahon because he was physically unable to do so! Restrained—a prisoner—in the power of that devil that he had gone to see, to break the last thread of Judith's confidence!

Judith stopped short, trembling. Fool, that she had been! It all stood before! Then she, who had herself been an intended victim and had almost misjudged herself herself from the death planned for her, should be blind! And after her self warning Randall that he was running into danger in going to her!

Judith fairly moaning in chagrin Precious time was being wasted. She must get back to the hotel at once —communicate with Bob Harley and Captain McMahon—go with them and a squad of police to the Madison house and rescue Randall Spencer by force. She could see it all so plainly now.

She wheeled in her tracks and started almost on a run, looking about her wildly. This street was dark and dismal enough, in all conscience. She would hardly know where to turn off from it, but she could keep on—Stone street could not be far off, and then she would get her sense of direction. If there were only a taxicab in the street! Ah, there was one, coming toward her. But a man had already hailed it—he seemed to slink out of a doorway. Never mind—perhaps he would let her share it as far as State street. She called out as the man was talking to the driver. He turned and raised his hat.

"Hello, Beauty—tail father' late, aren't you?"

"Mr. Stokes please let me have this cab! I must get to my hotel at once."

"Sure. I'll let you share it with me with pleasure."

He handed her in and sat down beside her. The cab started off.

Suddenly he thrust something in her face. Judith was conscious of a sweet, sickening odor. She fought and tried to scream, and felt herself growing weaker—suffocating.

BACK TO THE "RED TIGER"

CHAPTER TWENTY-SIX

Sally woke, stretched, yawned. Must have fallen asleep over that stupid story in the magazine. She gave the offending publication lying on the floor in front of her, a kick with her daintily silvered toe. Ho hum! Judith had gotten up from the davenport—in the bathroom, likely. Poor girl—she was certainly having her troubles! Been better for her if she had never met that good looking Randall Spencer. Something wrong with him—'must be some fire under all this smoke' as suspicion. Bob scribbled is say much, but Bob seldom did say much, except to him. But Spencer certainly was a swell looking and gentlemanly fellow and Sally couldn't blame Judith for falling for him hard. Just the same, she was glad that her red-headed Bobbie wasn't so good looking, but was just plain and honest and faithful—and poor. Even poverty had its compensations—especially when your best girl friend had come into so much money she did not know what to do with it and was always making you nice presents and doing things for you. Judith was certainly a grand girl—too darn good for Randall Spencer or any other man. The men were all more or less deceitful and good-for-nothing—except Bobbie, of course!

What was this little paper in her lap, and how did it get there?

Sally read Judith's note with amazement and calamity, then quickly glanced at her wrist watch. Three o'clock. Horrible! Judith wandering around on the streets at this hour of night! Sally must have slept in her chair for hours. No telling how long Judith had been gone. Fine sentinel and guardian Sally was! And Judith, poor girl, distraught and sick at heart as she was when they came back to the hotel, maybe she had wandered down to the river and—and—Sally sobbed and refused to finish the thought.

Frantically she called the Morning Sun on the phone. Just a chance that Bob would still be at the office at that hour. Anyhow she must get him, if she had to go to his rooms and haul him out of bed. Thank heaven, he was there.

"Judith has gone!" she almost screamed into the transmitter. "I fell asleep on the chair, and I just woke up, and she was gone. Don't ask me after three o'clock, and God knows what's happened to the girl! She's a note saying she was going out for a walk. Bobbie, hurry, hurry for heaven's sake! Oh, Bobbie, you've got to do something —do something!"

"Well, I'll be damned!" she heard Bob say. "That girl needs a bodyguard day and night! All right, honey, I'm coming right over. I guess we'll have to rouse McMahon out of bed and get him busy. Don't worry, Sally, we'll find her. All right—and when we do, by golly, we'll put her in a strait-jacket or something. I'm getting altogether too much sleep over that girl's nocturnal misadventures!"

"Bob's mad," Sally reflected. "That means that he isn't really worried. But maybe that was just a bluff to soothe me. Oh, dear, I wish I could be sure that Judie's all right. I'm scared!"

Judith came to her senses in surroundings that appeared vaguely familiar. It was almost as though she were awaking again on old dream. This bed she had certainly lain on before. This window across the room looked familiar—and that plain centre table and two mission backing chairs. Judith sat bolt off from the bed with one bound, with sudden realization that she was back in the cramped third-story bed room of "The Red Tiger"—if not in the identical room, at least one as like it as two peas in a pod!

How did she come to be here? She concentrated on the events of the past evening—the visit to Captain McMahon's office in the police station, the return to the hotel, her slipping out as Sally fell asleep in her chair; her wandering aimlessly about the streets; the dark, unfamiliar street she was on,—When the conviction of Randall Spencer's innocence and forcible detention flashed upon her; her hurry to get back to the hotel and set in motion the machinery for his release from Miss Madison's colonial prison house; the cab; Harold Stokes' hand clapped to her face; forced something sickeningly sweet into her face—and then—back to the "Red Tiger," where his earlier plans against her had been frustrated.

FAVORS

One of the most unpopular sounds in any language is "Hay, will you do me a favor?" You, for reason it would be a pleasant surprise if somebody said to you, "Hay, do me a favor, will you—would you mind finishing this ice cream cone for me?" Only the only place such things happen is in dreems.

Sometimes you have the sensation of doing somebody a favor when you are only doing your plans duty, such as when you eat all your vegetables by request, or when you pay some fellow back some money that you owed him so long you wouldn't even of remembered it if he hadn't of reminded you.

The people that are always ready to so favors for others are the ones that the others are always asking favors off of. This is one of the luckiest co-incidences that ever happened.

One of the best proofs of friendship is how willing you each are to do favors for each other instead of one of you doing all the favors and the other one all the thinking and sacrificating.

Everybody can do favors for somebody. Children do favors for their parents by keeping pritty quiet and going errands without arguing first, and parents do favors back to them by attending to their children's much noise they make and leaving them argue a little bit just for the sake of argument.

TARZAN

(Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service)

"You have more than balanced your obligations to this superman," Roger said. "From what he told me I feel that you, especially, should not remain her longer." The girl looked up at him in astonishment. "What do you mean?" "I do not like to tell you," replied Roger.

Then Lieutenant Roger Cecil squared his shoulders and raised his eyes to those of the girl he loved. "He said he hated you," he blurted. "He has only aided you at all from a sense of duty because you are a woman."

The girl paled and then flushed. "Let us leave."

And so the two set out down-river toward the south. Before departing she insisted that the man leave a note for Tarzan. It was necessary that they be constantly on the alert. Especially fearful was the ever-present danger that some of Numabo's black warriors might be nearby.

"I am not so much afraid of the cannibals," said Olga, "as of Usanga and his people. They have been attached to a Red native regiment. They have the advantage of European military training and modern weapons." Nor was it long before they wished they had never started.

CLANCY ALLOWS PETES ONE HIT

Kingston Wins 5-0 to Move Into Top Rung Alone

Kingston, July 11—(CP)—Hurling the best game of the season in the Central Ontario Baseball League, Red Clancy pitched Kingston Ponies to a 5-0 victory over Peterboro here Wednesday and thereby sent the locals into sole possession of first place. Clancy was in great form, limiting the slugging Peterboro team to a single hit, a scratch double by Lepper in the sixth inning. Apart from that Clancy was invincible, allowing only three men to get to first in the entire game, and only one man got as far as third.

The Ponies played smart ball to give their star hurler great support, the only miscue being a bobble by Quinn on Whatley's roller in the seventh. The locals scored a run in the first and another in the fourth and in the sixth they scored a sensational run when McQuaide went to second on Lepper's error on his zap, stole third and then stole home cleanly. In the sixth, the Ponies fell on Lepper and he was pushing with one man in and two men on. One more was counted on Scrutton's hit.

Lepper was in trouble from the start and in the third frame had the bases filled with one out, but he pulled out of the hole. Finally Kneale Lee sent Sallustro to the mound and the third baseman halted the Petes.

Clancy led the hitters with two blows and two runs driven in while Scrutton also contributed safely with a hit. No time during the game did the Petes look really dangerous.

PICTON TAKES GIBBARDS 5-3

Winners Score Four Runs in The First Frame

Napanee, July 11—(CP)—Making a four-run scoring rush in the first frame, Picton Pirates immediately went on to win 5 to 3 from Gibbard Athletics in a Bay of Quinte Baseball League game here Wednesday. The win put Picton in a first-place tie with the Napanee team.

George Blaseich, on the mound for the losers, after a shaky first inning, when Picton made the most of their chances, and two walks, pitched fine ball for the first part of the game, allowing but five more runs on bases. The eighth, when hits by Prout and Greer, coupled with two errors by Card at short stop, after two were away, gave the visitors their last tally.

Ron Church pitched one of his best games for Picton, being steady in the pinches, and twice master of the tying and winning run on base.

Church struck out three, Blaseich fanned eight and each pitcher had five assists. Scarlett and Dunn for Gibbard led the way at the bat, ted the hitters with two each. The latter missed a triple, as his drive to the right field fence was just a couple of feet outside the foul line.

A double play by the winners in the first frame and Hudgin's sensational catch of Hudgin's lift back of second on the fourth were features.

Gibbard threw away what would have been the tying runs with some fault base running.

No More Piles

Doctor's Prescription Does The Work

Few Pile sufferers know that the cause of Piles is internal—bad circulation of blood in the lower bowel.

This is the scientific truth about Piles—the real reason why salves and suppositories so often may not give lasting relief and why cutting sometimes removes the pile tumor but leaves the exciting cause which may create a re-furrence.

Your itching, bleeding or protruding Piles will only go when you actually remove the cause. For this an internal medicine should be used. HEM-ROID, the prescription of Dr. J. S. Leonhardt, sold by good druggists everywhere, succeeds because it stimulates the circulation, and acts to relieve congestion.

Don't let it bother, when salves fail and before considering operation, to try this internal remedy when J. S.-Monroe's Internal Pile Remedy will refer to try HEM-ROID with money back if not joyfully satisfied with the help one bottle gives.

Brouillard Decisions Young Corbett II

Lou Brouillard, French-Canadian southpaw batter from Worcester, Mass., out-decisions Young Corbett II, in a ten-round bout in San Francisco. Both are former world champions, Brouillard once holding both the welterweight and middleweight crowns and Young Corbett the welterweight title. Brouillard was the place-kicked him. Both are now middleweight contenders.

CURRENT SPORT

DAY BY DAY

On Sunday next three members of the Quinte Motorcycle Club will face the starter's gun in the United States Grand Prix motorcycle race at Keene, New Hampshire. Headed by George, Pepper, Belleville's premier motorcycle club. Pepper distinguished himself as one of the continent's outstanding motorcycle riders during his last two trials in the United States and will be considered as a ranking contender at Keene. The local contingent will travel by motor, taking their machines along in a trailer, Gordon Davies, "Hank" Whilbridge and other members of the Quinte Motorcycle Club will go along to keep the local riders company and assist them as mechanics during the race.

The annual 200 mile road race staged at Keene is over a three mile course with many different kinds of road. For instance the riders will be on dirt, paved and gravel roads with many natural hazards being injected to make the course one of the most difficult in the country. The race is sponsored by the American Motorcycle Club and attracts the best riders in the world. The local contingent have been tuning their machines with the season at hand and diligently practising for this the first time-honored speedway meeting of the season. The three local lads are all veterans having competed in Canadian races both on the road and speedway, Pepper is the only foreign rider ever to place in that particular event.

Pepper is also a veteran of the Daytona Beach speedway classic, having competed in that event for the last two years. Last year he was forced to withdraw after leading the field for a number of laps when his machine developed engine trouble. This year he is determined to go the distance and with his experience can make them step. Pepper has been practising on the Belleville speedway and has shown some fast time which bodes well for his chances.

Gordon Davies, who is also a veteran of the Daytona Beach speedway classic, is another who has been practising on the Belleville speedway and has shown some fast time. Davies is a veteran of many motorcycle races and has a number of trophies to his credit. He is also a veteran of the Isle of Man race.

"Hank" Whilbridge is another veteran of the Daytona Beach speedway classic and has been practising on the Belleville speedway. He is also a veteran of many motorcycle races and has a number of trophies to his credit.

All local sport highways and byways lead to the Fair Grounds for the scheduled Gananoque at Belleville Bay of Quinte struggle this evening. The teams in the Bay of Quinte League are dishing up an scrappy brand of baseball, with upsets galore entering in upon the picture. The Fanning-led aggregation from Belleville can practically assure themselves of a play-off berth in the Bay of Quinte loop by taking a fall out of the Island Town nine this evening. The Gananoque squad have been playing a more steady brand of ball of late, having won their last two home games, versus both Picton and Belleville. Manager Fanning expects Wilfred Pequolnon on the job to assist in the flinging duties. Now this lad Pequolnon has quite a professional baseball career behind him, having played with some good authorized clubs in organized ball, following which he was reinstated and is now eligible to play amateur ball. Besides Pequolnon, Skipper Fanning has Sallustro, Kneale and Paul Lott to toss in against the Amo-Shine aggregation this evening.

When the White Sox were in the basement last year, the New York Yankees were riding high, and Lou Gehrig had just broken a home run field day ak the expense of the Pale Hose. Gehrig sent a wire to Mrs. Harry Grabiner, wife of the White Sox's vice-president, reading: "I owe your cooking credit." Likewise the Bowler-led swatsmiths, who collected the same number of hits as they counted runs.

St. Denis got the batters of the day with three hits apiece and Aajmaas pounded out a clean-cut victory.

The line-ups — Aajmaas — St. Denis, O'Brien, Tuite, Kiser, Kihn; Cook, Hanna, Fisher and J. Bawden. St. Paul — Lott, Whitehead, Lamb, Bawden; Bailey, Rushlow, Pointer, Knott, Caddick and Smith.

TENNIS

Bay of Quinte Country Club tennis members defeated a picked team from the Belleville Lawn Road courts on Wednesday afternoon, the final standings being eight out of ten matches for the Bellerville squad. At the conclusion of the game, the visiting team were entertained at the club house. The return game will be played in Trenton next Wednesday. The following are the results:

George Fisher and Murray Mitchell, Belleville, win from T. Tummon and L. Morrison, Trenton, 6-0, 6-1.

W. Hurst and Ken Chisholm, Belleville, win from H. McCutcheon and D. McCutcheon, Trenton, 6-1, 6-1.

B. Meagher and Fred Fisher, Belleville, win from F. Bowers and B. Sayers, Trenton, 8-7, 6-1, 6-3.

AAJMAAS ROMP TO 18-0 WIN

Defeat St. Pauls A. C. And Increase Margin in The League Race

Scoring runs in every inning except one, the Aajmaas A. C. romped home to an easy 18 to 0 victory over the St. Pauls A. C. in a fast twilight scheduled Senior Softball game at Victoria Park last night. Pitcher Johnnie Bawden proved too good for the Pauls' A. C. aggregation as he repeatedly turned down a bid to hurl four hit ball and apply the while-wash finish. Bawden also started on the hilltop for the losers, but after delivering Fisher Prince the Bowler-led swatsmiths, who collected the same number of hits as they counted runs.

St. Denis led the batters of the day with three hits apiece and Aajmaas pounded out a clean-cut victory.

Winning Streak of Tigers Broken at Ten, When Senators Take Wild Contest by 12-11

Browns End String of Losses and Schumacher Wins 13th Game

FERRELL IS GOOD

Hurls And Bats Red Sox to Victory Over The A's.

(By Hugh S. Fullerton Jr.)
(American Press Sports Writer)

Although the idea may seem contradictory, it takes a long streak of success or failure by a team or player to demonstrate just how tough the competition in general among major league baseball clubs is.

Two such streaks ended yesterday when Cleveland took a 12-11 setback from Washington after winning nine games in a row and St. Louis Browns broke their seven game string of losses with a 7-2 triumph over Athletics that was continued as Hal Schumacher, left-handed relief hurler of New York Giants, rang up his 11th consecutive mound victory, beating Pittsburg 10-3 with a five-hit performance.

These figures don't look very big in comparison with the 154 games played by each team during a season and the 40 or 50 contests in which a hurler or swat bat may be of them were the best compiled this season, and the St. Louis string of losses has been equalled only by the Browns themselves.

Rube 13th Win

Schumacher earned top place on this day's honor roll as he turned his 10th straight complete game and his 13th triumph of the season against two defeats. He put one bad inning, allowing the Reds to collect four of their hits with an error to score their three runs in the fifth, but mowed the last nine men in order after the Giants took the lead. Meanwhile the League Leaders battered Waite Hoyt, Guy Bush and Ralph Birkofer for 14 solid blows, and increased their lead over the idle St. Louis Cardinals to 7½ games.

Tigers, who not only had taken the brilliant Alvin Crowder but had suffered only three losses in 20 games in their efforts to secure place, made a gallant but unsuccessful effort to evade defeat.

After taking a terrific pounding in the opening inning, when Tommy Bridges' ineffectiveness and Joe Sullivan's wildness let Senators score seven runs, they barely failed to tie the score in the ninth, when a homer by Chas. Gehringer touched off a five run rally. They piled up nine hits including 10 doubles, which tied the American League record for production of two-base blows.

Browns got to work early and belted Johnny Marcum out to score three runs in the second inning while Dick Coffman did a good job of relieving eight Philadelphia blows.

Wes Ferrell on Top

Big Wes Ferrell, who has won more games than any big league pitcher except Schumacher without running up a long streak, was in fine form, allowing only two hits both by Tony Piet, and bagged a home run and single to account for two tallies.

Another fine flinging job was turned in by Charley Root, Chicago Cubs' veteran, who relieved Lon Warneke after Wally Berger's 17th circuit swat and a few other hits had given Boston a 4-1 lead and pitched four-hit ball for six frames, while Cubs rallied to win 6-4.

Scoring eight runs in the third inning, Cincinnati Reds turned back the Brooklyn Dodgers 13-3 in a night game for their second victory in four games under the lights. The Yankee-Indians affair was washed out.

Hamilton, Ont., July 11—(CP)—Armed with shotguns of various sizes and makes, James Weedon, commander-in-chief of Hamilton's anti-sparrow league is in a quandary. He can't find the enemy.

Following complaints starlings were becoming a nuisance, Weedon was ordered to muster troops forth with an armed squadron and destroy the pests. Since the appearance of the guns, the starlings have disappeared.

"TOP ROW" WINS BY NECK IN CLOSE FINISH

SUICIDE FAILS, CLERK CONFESSES

Walter Birkett Alfred Volckmann

Alfred Volckmann, young grocery clerk of Greenville, N.Y., is pictured in hospital after he tried to commit suicide by swallowing poison. Failing in his effort to die, Volckmann made a full confession that he had murdered and mutilated little nine-year-old Helen Glenn, whose Helen's body was discovered according to police. Helen, daughter of the Reverend and Mrs. Ernest Glenn of Greenville, had been missing for 36 hours when her body was found in swamp lands. Walter H. Birkett, local constable, said authorities had no evidence that Volckmann was near the marsh.

Rainville in Action Against Fred Perry

National Housing Scheme Endorsed With Tax Uniformity, Lower Interest, Liquidation of Nation's Debt by 1960

'New Reconstruction Party' Starts Out to 'Reform' Conditions

YOUTH TO WORK

Nationalization of Bank of Canada is Advocated

Toronto, July 13—(CP)—With reform as its watchword, the new leader of the New Reconstruction Party, embodying a 16-point programme and prospects designed to carry it out, was issued by its leader, Hon. H. H. Stevens here today.

Sweeping proposals dealing with all phases of Canada's economic and social difficulties are put forward by the fourth party.

They would have as chance to secure remunerative work, Mr. Stevens says and to this end he would establish means whereby employment might be found in the farm, in the mines, the forests and other industrial centres.

Manifesto proposes uniformity in taxation, with that the taxation on the individual be reduced out of units existing within large corporations.

Mr. Stevens would do with investigate the whole monetary problem. He proposes vigorous implementation of the recommendations of the Price Spreads Commission, liquidation of the National debt in 25 years; expansion of public works; railway lines be taken with or without the co-operation of financial institutions. He deals with labor, the tariff, which he would reform on agricultural lines, and secondary textiles, the railways problem privately owned and war veterans.

"I do not deny that certain measures have been proposed, and in some cases adopted, to meet the elements of helpfulness in them; but there has been no clear determination by either of the two major parties to grapple with the underlying causes of our troubles," the manifesto declares. Proposals of the new party Mr. Stevens believes as would result "in such definite and immediate improvement" as would rapidly relieve acute distress.

"This party is not concerned with, nor will it indulge in, at far as it is possible to avoid, racial recrimination or what is commonly known as mud-slinging" the manifesto states. "We are concerned only with presenting our views and securing fair consideration of them."

Large Incomes Taxed

The New Reconstruction Party proposes:—

1.—Increased taxes on large incomes and corporations operating in a multiplicity of fields to be imposed on each unit. Dominion Government could collect all taxes of Federal and Provincial taxes and divide returns on "equitable and reasonable basis."

2.— Enactment of legislation to provide fair price for the farmers products and to free the particles in Canada's primary industry from the economic effects of "ordinary handler of their products," nationalization of the railways; a cultural board to formulate a democratic scheme of education; direction of marketing of agricultural products under four groups; cereals; livestock and poultry; dairy and vegetables; and dairy products.

Monetary Control

3. Complete investigation of credit and currency problems, with assistance of outstanding authorities from Canada and Great Britain, "to devise a plan of monetary control adapted to Canada's changing conditions." Nationalization of the Bank of Canada.

4. Restriction of interest rates to a much lower level, and exercise of governmental power and administrative influence to reduce rates wherever possible. "Five per cent on mortgages should be sufficient; liquidation of national debt in 25 years is the aim of sane, natural resources through the development of the

"Ottawa Trekkers Lose Sympathy" Says Hepburn Refusing Aid

Toronto, July 12 (CP)—Hunger marchers planning to travel from Manitoba to Ottawa will get no support from the Provincial Government, Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn said today.

The Premier said he had received a telegram today from the Mayor of Regina asking that the Manitoba guard of Manitoba marchers asked to town supply provisions for 500 men.

"The Government will not assist these trekkers in any way," said Mr. Hepburn. "I want to point out it is physically impossible for them to get to Ottawa."

"Furthermore we will maintain law and order," he said and added extra Provincial Police would be rushed to Northwestern Ontario if required.

"The Ottawa trekkers have lost all sympathy," Mr. Hepburn declared.

Stevens' Manifesto

The day has long passed when the only recognized functions of Government were to provide for the defence of the country against force from without and to preserve peace and order within the Frontiers. It is now as much the duty of the State to ensure for its people the elementary needs of food; clothing and shelter on a civilized scale as to protect them and their property. The principles of social justice and economic security are now recognized as being the only firm foundation upon which national prosperity can be built.

In Canada the failure of government to preserve the living standards of great numbers of the people has promoted much questioning of our democratic institutions and of our economic arrangements. When a country endowed with the means of supporting at least 50,000,000 people cannot support even 10,000,000 in decency and comfort there is obviously need for a change.

Unfortunately the desire for change has led to much careless condemnation of democracy and private enterprise and to the seeking of panaceas which go far beyond the needs of the situation and which provoke hostility to change of any sort.

What Francis Bacon wrote three hundred years ago is as true today as it was then: "It is good not to try experiments, except the necessity be urgent, or the utility evident; and well to beware . . . that As the scripture saith, that we make a stand upon the ancient way and then look about us and discover what is the straight and right way and so to walk in it."

GALT RECOVERS BEVERAGE ROOMS

479 Persons Had Signed Both Ink And Dry Petitions

Toronto, July 12—(CP)—Authorities will be issued immediately for reenactment of beverage rooms in Galt, Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn announced today, but temperance forces have a vote on the question whenever they desire.

At first there were 110 names more than the 50 per cent on the petition, said Mr. Hepburn, but an examination disclosed 479 persons had signed both the wet and dry petitions.

"I gave a ruling," he said, "that where a person signed both the names should be struck off. That left the number of people against the beverage rooms less than 50 percent of the voting population."

Mr. Hepburn said he was much there was no course open but to grant authorities and he would issue the order immediately.

At the same time, he said, the government would consider a petition as the request for a vote by the people whenever they desired.

Beverage rooms were closed when Premier Conroy's Government Galt, a city centre, had voted for establishment of a liquor store or real sale, but did not have a separate vote to establish Beverage rooms last year.

Country Awaits Campaign Opening

Ottawa, July 12 (CP)—Whether Premier R. B. Bennett and Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King will open their election campaigns with manifestos or key-note speeches had not been decided, it was learned at Conservative and Liberal headquarters today. In the last election both leaders made key-note speeches instead of manifestos.

Hon. H. H. Stevens, leader of the Reconstruction Party, issued his manifesto in Toronto today and J. S. Woodsworth will release that of the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation next week, probably Monday, from Ottawa.

MATTHEWS QUITS FEDERAL OFFICE

Reorganization is One of Problems Facing Government

OTTAWA, July 12.— Announcement by Hon. R. C. Matthews, Minister of National Revenue, that he will not be a candidate in the forthcoming general election, adds to the number of members of Prime Minister R. B. Bennett's Cabinet who will have to be replaced before the Government seeks re-election.

Reorganization of the Cabinet is one of the numerous problems which Mr. Bennett and his advisers have been grappling since prorogation of the House. At least a dozen ministerial changes are anticipated.

BUMPER HARVEST BEST IN 10 YEARS MEANS MILLIONS

Farm Help Demand Very Large at The Present

PASTURES IMPROVE

Four Million Tons of Hay to be Harvested

By HAROLD J. FAIR
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, July 12 (CP) — Farmlands of Old Ontario this year promise a bumper crop, one of the best in a decade, and unofficial estimates of the Provincial Department of Agriculture indicate that farmers will realize millions of dollars more than last year, which was by no means a lean year.

Pasture lands which brought precipitation of 3.72 inches compared with 2.46 inches a year ago increased the pasturing capacity of all cattle by about 25 per cent, and resulted in condition figures standing considerably higher than in July last year.

Four Million Tons of Hay

Harvesting the crop will tax farmers' labor resources to the utmost because they have the prospect of having to start cutting spring grains before all the hay has been stored in the great barns which dot rural districts.

So urgent have been appeals to the government for farm help that a plan has been announced for placing unemployed on the farms to aid in the harvest. The direct relief do agricultural work municipalities will bear either single family, Minister of Welfare David Croll has announced and when the men return in the fall they will not be asked for an accounting of their earnings.

Another effect of the June rain was that pastures showed a 100 per cent improvement especially in Central Ontario, of about 60 per cent above a year ago. There was a consequent betterment in dairy products, Gross annual revenue from these last year was $79,000,000 but should show $85,000,000 this year.

Farm Prices

Farm prices, however, are not expected to follow the upward trend of last year's yield. The increase which set in a year and one-half ago has given no sign of slackening. Officials said there would be no improvement until the industrial picture changed for the better.

Wheat and oats are from five to eight cents a bushel higher now than a year ago.

The 4,000,000 tons of hay will be packed into barns, nearly twice as much as was stored last year. Because of lower prices the value will be about $35,000,000, the same as last year.

94 Per Cent Crop

Favorable weather brought marketable conditions to 94 per cent. The first believed to have suffered so extensively from wilting that much would have to be cut for hay. The first of June the crop was reported at 98 per cent normal but at the first of this month the condition had slumped to 94.

The section extending from Huron, Bruce and Grey counties down the line through to Peterborough county the crop is the best. It is reported in splendid condition. This is 2 ago and it is expected to exceed the 1934 figure.

In most major crops acreage harvested should show an advance over last year. Fall wheat is expected to increase from 2,290,000 acres in 1934 to 2,460,000 this year, barley from 480,000 to 520,000 acres, and from 435,500 to 537,000 and there will be slight increase in spring grains.

Clear Weather Needed

Meanwhile clear warm weather is required for the next couple of weeks to prevent damage to crops and enable farmers to harvest the hay in good condition.

Yields of oats is expected to be 30 bushels to the acre, compared to last year's 34 bushels, and the rate has been estimated at $30,000,000 up $1,500,000 on 1934. Returns from barley are expected to show a similar increase, the spring crop which last year brought farmers $11,500,000 may return $100,000 more than that.

$15,000 FIRE IN BAKERY

Hamilton, July 12—(CP)—In a spectacular fire which broke out about midnight last night the Star Bakery, Bartonville, owned by A. Ewing, and adjoining cottage occupied with it, were completely destroyed. The loss about $15,000 and there was also $1,000 damage done also to Mr. Ewing's home.

WAR-TIME PREMIER TALKS PEACE

David Lloyd George, war-time Prime Minister of Great Britain came out of his political retirement recently to address 3,000 delegates to a convention of members of the Free Churchs and Social Service organizations of England and plead for peace of the world. Here the venerable statesman is pictured during his address in London. The convention was the means of starting a new movement for peace and reconstruction of the old world.

PIECE CORDWOOD USED IN SLAYING

Jury Finds Detective Miller Came to His Death by His Means

Regina, July 13 (CP)— Detective Charles Millar, Dominion Day victim of rioting between police and unemployed relief camp strikers was killed by a heavy blow on the head with a piece of cordwood. This, in substance was the verdict of the coroner's jury at a post-mortem held at the city police station.

The jury's verdict, announced by W. A. Thomson, coroner, was "that Charles Millar came to his death while in the performance of his duty, July 1, 1935 during a riot in Market Square in Regina between the hour of 8 and 8.30 p.m. The blows struck on his head with a blunt instrument in the hands of some persons unknown."

One of the seven eye-witnesses heard at the inquest Thursday night testified that he saw Detective Millar fall to the ground as the first of the eight cords of wood which was being thrown by strikers was hurled at the police.

Regina was the first stand in the country to have a "no parking" law, and other cities soon followed suit.

POWER SERVICE IS INTERRUPTED

As the result of circuit breaks on hydro pole transformers on the east hill during a thunderstorm heavy electric storm, all electricity was off east on Charles Street. The trouble was remedied, however, on Monday morning.

Numerous reports of radio tubes being blown out during the storm were also heard on the street following the storm. Despite the fact a brisk wind followed in the wake of the storm, there was only a two point drop in the temperature.

Driving Same Car 2 Men Go to Jail For Intoxication

Goderich, Ont., July 13 (CP)— Two men were in jail today in one of the most unusual cases in local history. Both of them sentenced for being intoxicated while driving the same automobile at the same time.

The story unfolded in court yesterday told how James Steele, a cripple, with only one arm and one leg, was driving a car containing three others. It crashed into an automobile in which Mayor C. M. Wenige, London, was riding.

William Hopkins, a friend of Steele, witnessed the collision and clambered into the Steele car after it overturned. He got on Steele's knee and tried to drive the car. Just then a constable appeared and arrested it all.

Hopkins and Steele were sentenced to ten days in jail each for driving while intoxicated.

Toronto Girls Claim They Found Guns

Toronto, July 12 (CP)—Picked up here early today, Margaret Paige, 23, and Doreen Scott, 21, were found to be in possession of a revolver and a folding gun capable of firing 45 calibre bullets. They were remanded to July 18 on $500 bail when police appeared in Women's court today. The girls said they found the weapons on the rear of their apartment house here.

Barrister Charged With Fast Driving

Sudbury, Ont., July 13—(CP)—Oswald A. Lennon, prominent Sudbury barrister, was arraigned and committed for trial in county court today before Magistrate J. S. McKessock, charged with furious driving on July 1, as a result of an accident in which Sam Stromink is alleged to have been knocked down by Lannon's car.

Stromink is in hospital with a compound fracture of the right leg and serious head injuries.

Six Young Men are Charged With Interfering With Parked Cars

Charged with the malicious destruction of property and also theft, six young men were apprehended by the Provincial Police late yesterday following complaints received from local motorists, who informed police that a number of boys had been molesting occupants of parked cars in the vicinity of the second concession of Thurlow near the C.N.R. coal chutes. The cars will be heard on Monday, Gordon Atkins, George Bonnell, Gordon Dexter, Don and George Whalen, all of Thurlow and Neil Harris of this city are the young men alleged to the Provincial Police to have been interfering with parked cars and causing the destruction of property.

According to the information laid by the complainants, the boys have been throwing rotten eggs and other missiles at passing cars, breaking windows and causing damage. The investigation was investigated by Provincial Constable John Kelly, who later recovered a radiator cap and two hats, believed to have been taken from an automobile recently.

The attacks were after dark and police believe the offenders would stealthily advance upon a parked car and suddenly rush the occupants, sometimes actually maltreating the male occupants of the car.

When the trouble advanced to such a stage that windows in cars were being broken and accessories taken, the Provincial Police stepped in.

SUN SHINES FORTH UPON MARCHERS IN JULY 12 WALK

Celebrations of 'Glorious 'Twelfth' Held in Many Lands

(By the Canadian Press)

Beneath threatening skies which in some areas precipitated rain to mar celebrations, thousands of Orangemen marched today to commemorate the "Glorious 'Twelfth" anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne.

Parades in most cities and towns were larger than in past years, and today's celebration was expected to be one of the most successful in the history of the order.

Intermittent rains interfered with celebrations in Toronto where 30,000 assembled for the largest parade in recent years. Women's and juvenile organizations played a prominent part in the review which assembled in the Queen's Park and marched to the Exhibition Grounds.

For the 10th consecutive year W. H. "Billy" Harper, rode a white horse at the head of the parade. Prominent lodge officials, headed by W. V. Muir, addressed the assembly at the Exhibition Grounds.

97 Year Old Man At Napanee

At Napanee the Orange Celebration was featured by the attendance for the 76th consecutive time of Henry R. Purcell, of Kingston. The 97-year-old Orangeman occupied a prominent place during festivities.

Headed by fife and drum bands, the Lodge officials, Orangemen paraded early today before entraining for Wilmot where during festivities.

Hamilton Orangemen turned out early today as 15,000 members of the city and district, together with 2,000 representatives of lodges in Toronto and other centres combined in the parade and sports program.

Dundurn Park held thousands who assembled to hear speeches and participate in games.

Smaller celebrations were held in Galt and scores throughout the province.

Windsor Welcomes Thousands

WINDSOR, Ont., July 12 — (CP) — Downtown Windsor streets were crowded today as Orangemen and Orangewomen from St. Thomas, London, Leamington, Kingsville, Harrow, Amherstburg, Intermediate points in Western Ontario gathered here today to celebrate the Battle of the Boyne under perfect weather conditions.

For the first time in 17 years, Windsor will witness a mass celebration when a monster parade of over 5,000 marchers will form at 1 p.m. off as I p.m.

WEATHER

Toronto, July 13—(CP)—A moderate disturbance is moving northeastward over northern Quebec, but has caused little change in the Lake Ismay and on the great lakes where the weather is becoming a little unsettled. It has been fair and moderately warm throughout the western provinces. Pressure is relatively high over the western portion of the continent but low in the eastern states.

Lake Superior—Fresh or strong winds; fair and warm; local rain and not quite so warm.

Kenora and Rainy River—Fresh westerly winds; fair and moderately warm.

Manitoba and Saskatchewan—Westerly winds, fair and moderately warm; local showers or local thunderstorms in northern districts.

Alberta—Westerly winds; mostly fair and warm; becoming somewhat unsettled and somewhat cooler in the north at night.

MEN'S CHORUS TO SING FOR C. R. C.

Belleville Men's Chorus, thirty in number, will sing for the Canadian Radio Commission at Toronto on Sunday, July 21st, at 5 to 5.30 o'clock on a national broadcast. It is possible that there may be also a United States hook-up.

Tribute is Paid Late Ex-Moderator

"I feel that the Church has suffered a very great loss in the death of the Rev. Dr. E. H. Oliver, former moderator of the United Church," commended the Rev. Dr. James Semple of Bridge Street United Church, President of the Bay of Quinte Conference today, announcing that on Sunday morning at Bridge Street Church he would refer to the memory of the great leader. Dr. Semple referred to Dr. Oliver's tact and judgment in the administration of the church, in a trying period and said he had known the ex-moderator for years.

BELLEVILLE BOY PRAISE MINISTER

A number of Belleville boys are grateful for the thoughtfulness of the Honorable Dr. J. A. Faulkner, Minister of Health, who took time from his arduous duties to drive them to Lake Ontahbing where they are leaders at the Ontario Committee's Training Camp for Athletes.

AGED FARM HAND DISCOVERED DEAD

Lying dead in the doorway of a barn at the rear of the premises of Joseph Simpson, aged farm laborer, was discovered by his employer, last night, who immediately reported to the authorities. Investigation showed the man had died from natural causes. No inquest will be necessary.

Mr. Simpson was well known in and around the Tweed section where he had worked many farmers, including Mr. Collins, who saw him earlier in the day at the barn where Simpson sometimes slept. Although Mr. Collins had not seen the elderly man for some time, he thought nothing of it when Simpson was employed by working for a neighbor.

The matter was investigated by Chief Alex. Hayes of Tweed and the Provincial Police. Coroner Dr. R. B. Welsh, of Stirling, was informed of the affair and after examining the body pronounced that death had been due to natural causes. The body had been lying in the barn for some considerable time before being discovered by Mr. Collins.

Durward Ostrander Of Waupoos Taken to Hospital

Picton—Mr. Durward Ostrander of Waupoos was admitted to Prince Edward County Hospital in a serious condition on Wednesday evening. He was riding on a truck load of peas, that were being brought to the canning factory. In driving under some wires, Mr. Ostrander was caught about the neck by a wire, and hurled to the ground, receiving painful injuries. Dr. Allison was called and had the injured man rushed to the hospital, where his condition is serious.

LATE MRS. WALMSLEY

On Wednesday afternoon at half past two in St. Mary Magdalene's Church, a very large congregation gathered for the funeral service of one of the very active workers of the church, Mrs. James Walmsley.

On Tuesday, July 9th, after an illness of about two weeks, Mrs. Walmsley passed peacefully away at the home of her son-in-law, Mr. H. E. Walmsley in her sixty-seventh year. She had resided in Picton for the past fifteen years, and because of failing and delightful personality she had a wide circle of friends, who regret her passing. Previous to coming to Picton she resided for many years on the Walmsley homestead in Athol township. She was a daughter of the late George Creegan and his wife Annie Young and a sister of the late Canon Creegan of Cataqui. She was also active in the Guild and in all the womens' organizations of the church. The very impressive service was feelingly conducted by Rural Dean Ward, assisted by Rev. Mr. Wright, who spoke of the fine qualities of the deceased lady.

The choir rendered special music. The pall-bearers were Mr. Asa Hepburn, Mr. Frank Judge Mr. Thomas H. B. Tulley, Dr. C. E. Wright and Mr. Cecil Carter.

Child Struck by Car

On Wednesday afternoon, July 10 the six year old son of Fred Scott, who lives on the Consecon road was struck by a car driven by Mrs. Shepard, near his home. The child's condition is only fair, but no blame is attached to the driver of the car.

Miss Helen Robson is the guest of her brother, Dr. Walter Robson, of Perth.

Yucca Plants In Full Bloom

Flower lovers will be especially interested in the fact that the yucca plants in the home of Mrs. Peck, 267 Ann Street, are in flower, for this plant, so far from its native haunts, is a rarity in the district. In its southern home, it is a useful plant, indeed. The pointed sides of the leaves being used for thread and the roots for shampooing preparations. The fascinating legend that those who with the yucca plant in the moonlight will have their desires granted forms many stories wherever this plant is found.

The tall, yellow leaves of the plant grow close to the ground and the flowers appear at the end of a long stalk in July. They make a striking picture and people come some distance to see and admire them.

Six of the plants are in bloom and many buds are on the verge of opening.

POLICE COURT

This morning's heavy electric storm rudely interrupted today's local police court, held before Magistrate E. J. Potter K. C., to such an extent, that Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan K. C. deemed it advisable to call a recess, so loudly were the peals of thunder heard. After the storm abated slightly a number of minor cases were soon disposed of, however.

William McGiven, 223 1-2 Front St., was found guilty of a charge of keeping liquor for sale. The case followed a police raid to the McGiven residence last Saturday night at which time a quantity of beer was confiscated, along with a portion of a bottle of native wine. Sentence in the matter was enlarged until Monday next.

Four inebriates nodded their heads in admission of guilty when arraigned on charges of intoxication. Three paid the minimum fine while the fourth, being financially embarrassed, will spend the next ten days in jail.

Joseph H. Clarke, of this city, pleaded guilty to a charge of operating a motor car without having first obtained an individual operator's license so to do. The fine of ten dollars was imposed and costs. Another motorist asked for one week's enlargement in his case, he being charged with knowingly pass upon the highway. His request was granted.

Burton Thompson, 22 of Tweed, pleaded guilty to a charge of dangerous negligent operation of a motor car causing actual bodily harm to Mrs. Mary Kennedy. Thompson was given a one year's suspended sentence, his driver's license cancelled for three months while he must pay all costs in the connection with the accident. The accident occurred near Tweed last Saturday night at which time Mrs. Kennedy sustained serious facial injuries. She is reported to be progressing favorably. The defendant was ably represented by I. D. Corcoran, Tweed barrister.

POLITICAL PULSE ALBERTA QUICKENS

Date For General Election Expected to be in August

Edmonton, July 13—(CP)— The political pulse has quickened in Alberta. The Province was without a parliament and an announcement was expected from Premier R. G. Reid setting the date for the general elections.

The life of the seventh legislature automatically expired last midnight. Already there are 150 candidates in the field for the 63 seats to be filled in the next house. Many nominating convention remain to be held and it is expected election date will be set for some time in August.

At last five cabinet ministers have signified their intention to again seek election. They include Premier R. G. Reid, Hon. J. R. Lowe, Hon. J. F. Lymburn, Hon. J. J. MacLellan and Hon. H. W. Allen. Hon. Irene Parlby, Minister without portfolio will not stand for re-election. Others have not yet been nominated. Liberals head the list with 56 official candidates. Next are Conservatives with 51, The U.F.A. government party has 32 selected with many nominating conventions to be held, and the Labor Party has selected eight. There is one Independent, Social Credit Forces, led by William Aberhart, of Calgary, declare they will contest all constituencies.

ARMS EXPORT TO ETHIOPIA STOPS

British Cabinet Will Make Final Decision in Near Future

London, July 13— (CP Cable) — Pending a final decision by the cabinet, Great Britain has stopped the export of arms and ammunition to Ethiopia. The question of exports to Italy has not arisen, because no applications for export have been received.

Arms and ammunition may be exported from Britain only under government license. Within 10 days upon applications for export to Ethiopia had been received for a considerable period. Since then several have been made, but they are being held up while the question is being considered by the cabinet.

France, Czechoslovakia and Denmark are also understood to be holding up shipments to the Ethiopian empire.

REVOLT IN THE DESERT

by

T. E. LAWRENCE

Most had to walk. Some twenty camels were dead or dying from wounds which they had got in the charge, and others were over weak to take a double burden. The rest were loaded with an Arab and a Turk; but some of us Turkish wounded were too hurt to help themselves on pillion. In the end we had to leave about twenty on the ground beside the rivulet, where at least they would not die of thirst, though there was little hope of life or rescue for them.

Nasir and himself to beg blankets for these abandoned men, who were half-naked; and while the Arabs packed, I went off down the valley where the fight had been, to see if the dead had any clothing they could spare. But the Bedulin had been beforehand with me, and had stripped them to the skin. Such was their point of honour.

To an Arab an essential part of the triumph of victory was to wear the clothes of an enemy: and next day we saw our force transformed (as to the upper half) into a Turkish force, each man in a soldier's tunic: for this was a battalion straight from home, very well found and dressed in new uniforms.

We, the end our little army was ready, and wound slowly up the height, and beyond into a hollow sheltered from the wind: and there while the tired men slept, we distributed letters to the Sheikhs of the coastal Howeitat telling them of the victory, that they might invest their nearest Turks, and hold them till we came. We had been kind to one of the captured officers, a policeman despised by his regular colleagues, and him we persuaded to be our Turkish scribe to the commandants of Guweira, Kethera and Sadra, the three posts between us and Akaba, telling them that if our blood was not to be shed prisoners, and that prompt surrender would ensure their good treatment and safe delivery to Egypt.

This lasted till dark, and then Auda marshalled us for the road, and led us up the last mile or soft, brush-clad slope to the broad, rounded hills. It was intimate and pleasant walking till the last green bank: when suddenly we realized it was the last, and beyond lay nothing but clear air. The lovely change this time checked me with amazement; and afterwards, however often we came, there was always a catch of eagerness in the throat at the first forward of the camel and straightening up to see again over the great expanse of plain.

Sihtar hill-side swooped away before us for hundreds and hundreds of feet, in curves like bastions, against which summer-morning clouds were breaking: and from this foot opened the new earth of the Jefer plain. Here and there Nasir's rounded limestone breasts were covered with soft and tender green, well watered. Guweira was a map of pink sand, brushed over with streaks of watercourse, a mosaic of acacia and, out of this, and bounding this, terraced islands and cliffs of glowing sandstone, wind-carved and rain-furrowed, tinted celestially by the early sun.

After days of travel on the plateau in prison valleys, we met this brink of freedom was a rewarding vision, like a window in the wall of the world. We looked down the whole sigzag pass of Sihtar to feel its excellence, for on our camels we rocked too much with sleep to dare see anything. At the bottom the animals found a matted thorn which gave their laws pleasure: we in front made a hall, rolled on to sand sort as a couch, and incontinently slept. Auda came. We gave him all it was for mercy upon our broken prisoners. He replied that they alone would die of exhaustion if we rode, but if we dallied, both parties might die: for truly there was now little water and no food. However, we could not help it, and stopped that night short of Guweira, after only 5-teen miles. Al Guweira lay Sheikh Jad, balancing his policy to come down with the stronger: and to-day we were the stronger, and the old fox was ours. He met us with honeyed speeches. The hundred and twenty Turks of the garrison were his prisoners: we agreed with him to carry them at leisure and their case to Akaba.

To-day was the fourth of July. Time pressed us, for we were hungry, and Akaba was still far ahead, behind two defences. The nearest post, Kethera, stubbornly refused parley with our flags. Their cliff commanded the valley — a strong place which it might be costly to take. We assigned the honour, in Arab fashion, to the strongest among men, advising him to try it after dark. He shrank, made difficulties, pleaded the full moon: but we cut hardly into this excuse, promising that lo-night for sure there should be no moon. By my diary there was an eclipse. Only it came, and the Arabs forced the post without loss, while the superstitious soldiers were firing rifles and discarding copped pots to rescue their threatened satellite.

Reassured we set out across the strand-like plain. Maud Bey, the Turkish battalion commander, was Nazir's guest, to spare him the humiliation of Bedulin companions. He he aided up by me, and, his sword-girdle and long nose betraying the moroseness of the man, began to complain that an Arab had insulted him with a Turkish sword. I apologized, pointing out that it must have been learnt from the mouth of one of his Turkish fellow-sovereigns. The Arabs was repaying Caesar.

Caesar, not satisfied, pulled from his pocket a vizened hand-bell, bread to ask if it was fit breakfast for a Turkish officer and Maud Bey answered, foraging in Guweira, had bought, found, or stolen a Turkish soldier's ration loaf, and we had quartered it. I said it was not breakfast, but lunch and dinner, and perhaps tomorrow's meals as well. I, a staff officer of the British army (not less well fed than the Turkish) had eaten mine with the relish of hunger. It was dates, not bread which stuck in his gullet, and I begged him not to blame me for the issue of a battle imposed on both our hosts.

MUSSOLINI'S WORDS

The sense of human brotherhood of all the nations of the earth received a jolt the other day when Mussolini told 12,000 blackshirts of a division whom he is shortly sending to Abyssinia that the Italians had always proven themselves the superior of the black races. Even if Il Duce thought so, it was a crude remark to make, remark so much at variance with protestations the world has heard on all sides of human equality. Non-white races heard those words and it is a certainty that the cruel language cut like acid into the souls of the leaders of the people of the Orient, substantiating as far as Mussolini was concerned the unconfessed feeling of the East that some white races, at least, when it comes to a showdown, look upon themselves as a class and each member nation of the class as superior to the black or yellow races. What do the dark allies of other nations, or the black races under the strong arm of Italy think of this? It cannot but mean a set determination of conviction that Mussolini spoke for all races. Let us hope he has not. Missionaries in Abyssinia, who know the blacks, are many of them going to stay and risk the horrors of war in their service of the ebony men and women.

Italy's demand comes in the face of opposition of other nations, particularly of Britain, but that opposition does not seem to avail, for Il Duce has seemingly constituted himself the arbiter of the situation. He wants a mandate won by the sword to clean up Ethiopian slavery and other blights on progress.

The peculiar trend to magnificence and grandiloquence which the Italian chief has been manifesting would indicate that he is trusting to glitter and to the absorption of war to build up his power in Africa. He must know that it is difficult to duplicate the Empire which was set up by Julius Caesar and consolidated by his nephew the Emperor Augustus when Rome coveted the world from Britain to what is now Mesopotamia and still farther east and controlled the north coast of Africa. In those days Rome did not have any rival but the "barbarians" of the North, those peoples who have since made the races of west and northern Europe which are free of Roman domination. Ancient Rome did not have a British race as it is constituted today to face, it did not find a Germany on the north, nor a France nor a Spain nor a Portugal. Its only rival was subjugated Greece, the queen of letters and philosophy and science and art; a rival in art. If Mussolini has a desire to restore the glories of ancient Rome, he may thereby be lured to trouble for he must know that despite all other signs many another people would delight at his receiving a setback. What that would mean no one can tell. For Mussolini to lose his control might start a fresh breakup of Italy after his one-man reign.

Mussolini claims the Ethiopes are backward and savage and must be civilized and the world cannot wait and that Italian interests along the Red Sea are jeopardized by barbarous Abyssinia. Emperor Selassie admits he may not be able to control his savage warriors in battle with the Italians and so lends some color to Mussolini's claim of backwardness. But it does seem that the attack on the Ethiopians would in the final analysis be a form of aggression, even if the mandate would civilize this people.

If the League of Nations would unite to enlighten Abyssinia and bring it to times for whatever faults which may be barbarous, it might seem right but Il Duce has taken that duty upon himself. From a distance it looks as if whatever prestige he might gain is very slight and the possibilities of loss of glory so great that the hazards are no worth taking. The understanding of his words to the 12,000 blackshirts does not help his contention that the war is one of civilization, else why tell the Fascist soldiers that they are better than any black race. It is clear that he made a mistake in those words.

FROM IVAN THE TERRIBLE TO TODAY

Four hundred years have rolled away and the twentieth century is privileged to be shocked at the sight of the torture court where Ivan the Terrible dealt with his victims underground. Victims were torn by bears and sometimes buried alive, so say the Russians.

Ivan IV is believed to have ordered the construction of underground passages in Moscow in 1565. Today the diggers say that one can be lost in the subterranean city. One wide passage with storerooms paved with stone is believed to have been the ancient Muscovites' hiding place from invaders. The passage was even equipped with waterpipe from which the water escaped with such force that the subway workers had difficulty in stemming the flow. Some skeletons with fragments of swords and ornamental pitchers were found in the well near the henchmen's court.

While cruelties exist in the world today, humanity has progressed somewhat from the days of Ivan and rulers of his ilk.

Why men should be so cruel as they have been indicated in history is a puzzle. To day man shivers even at the thought of such atrocities. In older days the human was not so sensitive and many liked a feast of horrors.

But fortunately that time is gone. This sensitiveness tells of progress.

IN FLUX

Life must be in flux and never
Can the fashion of it persist,
But is changing and merging ever,
Unstable as fog or mist.

For life is a wave-crest breaking,
One moment it lifts on high,
And life is a swallow, making
An arc of flight through the sky.

Why cling to the crumbling rapture
In the pattern of any dream?
Is the wind a thing you can capture?
Would you clutch at a flowing stream?

Ah, never be hungry to hold life
For more than an in-drawn breath;
Seek never to shape or mold life,
Lest you find it not life, but death!

—Aline Michaelis.

WEEDS, WEEDS, EVERYWHERE, and not a man with a scythe anywhere—that along Highway No. 2, and presumably other highways, according to the complaint of a sideslight Fan who motors over this highway every day and says the weeds are no high now that the view is obscured. According to law weeds or private property have to be cut and destroyed before they get a strangle hold on the landscape and Sideslight Fan wonders why the same rule should not apply to the government. War on Weeds should be the Warcry.

CONVICT-CODDLERS ARE FOES TO SOCIETY, said J. Edgar Hoover, head of Uncle Sam's G-Men, that police force which is bringing terror to the criminal hitherto protected by local political pull. Dillinger and others have died under the bullets of Hoover's G-Men and the clean-up is continuing unrelentingly. Hoover, addressing the convention of Police Chiefs at Atlantic City stated: "Here at this meeting a criminal is understood to be a criminal, with a gun in his hand and murder in his heart. It is not necessary here to discuss what shall be done with that human rat, to persuade some altruistid soul that he is not a victim of environment or circumstances, or inhibitions of malformed consciousness, to be reformed by a few kind words, a pat on the cheek, and freedom at the earliest possible moment." Friends and allies of these criminals were "shyster lawyers and other legal vermin," said Mr. Hoover, "who consort with criminals, guide them in their nefarious acts, hide them away after the crime committed, use the bloody money of law-breaking to bribe witnesses, dissemble evidence and when possible, convert the judge and jury to a miscarriage of justice. Mr. Hoover also referred scathingly to crooked politicians, sob-sister judges, and criminal-coddlers generally.

AND THE WINDS BLEW, and the rain fell, and the floods came, and the houses not built on high ground, and naturally drifted down the creek. The latest scourge visitation to the land of Uncle Sam, floods —east and west, north and south, with great loss of life and property. In the meantime life flows on like a song in this Canada of ours where outside of a general election there are no national calamities—no droughts, no floods, no great fires like that which wiped out the first and worst Chicago, instigated by the Widow O'Brien's cow. Take a ride over the hills of Hastings and through the valleys of Prince Edward, where every prospect please and life is more than worthwhile, and wonder why boys and girls ever leave the farm, and how folks can ever get used to living in those far countries where the crops and everything valuable on the farms may be detaroyed between sunset and sun-up. No need to count our blessings one by one, hereabouts—count 'em by the dozen.

HAVE YOU HEARD THESE?

Tramp—"Could you spare me a copper, mum, or a piece of bread? I'm travelling the country looking for work."

Housewife—"I'm sorry, my man, but my own husband has been out of work for three years, so I can't give you any money."

After a moment's consideration she said —"Could you eat a yesterday's scone?"

Tramp—"I could that, mum."

Housewife—"Well, come back tomorrow afternoon, I'll be baking this afternoon."

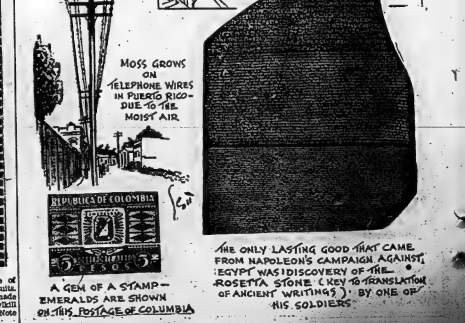
U. S. SETS UP SCHOOL FOR FIGHTING CRIME



Men who lack physical courage ideal P. B. I. agent, or "G" man, are rejected although they qualify in every other respect, J. Edgar Hoover (upper left), chief of the federal bureau of investigation told International Association of Police Chiefs, to whom he described the kind of men they must be. They begin at $2,000 a year salary, receive $5 a day subsistence, and get raises at regular intervals. Men like Melvin Purvis (upper right) and Rhea Whiteley illustrate what "G" officers, in its efforts to wipe out crime, have been repeatedly tested under fire of such captured guns as "G" men are in every other respect. Right, a shooting gallery dummy during "school" hours. The bureau has set up a school for hundreds of police has no for crime.

ALL HAIL THE DESCENDANT OF THE QUEEN OF SHEBA!

Under a velvet canopy and seated on richly embroidered cushions is Emperor Haile Selassie "Descendant of the Queen of Sheba" and "Conquering Lion of Judah." He is garbed in full military dress of red and gold and wears a high bushy made of lion's mane. The red and gold throne is mounted on a richly carpeted pavilion. It is in this manner that he confers with high Ethiopian officials and diplomatic representatives. When asked to vouch for what his soldiers would not mutilate prisoners in the coming war with Italy, the emperor told the Red Cross officials, that in all honesty he could not answer for what the more unsvilized of his soldiers would do.

SCOTT'S SCRAPBOOK by R.J. SCOTT

Stevens' Manifesto

"Ancient Way Democratic

The "modern way" in a British country is the democratic way. Canadians must beware lest disagreement with an apparent failure of democracy to attract attention to schemes of rigid state control of life and organization. One need only look at the world and what the Rhine to realize that one form of tyranny begets another, and that if our age-won liberties are lightly surrendered they will be well-nigh irrecoverable.

Yet for many years the people of Canada have been afforded an impressive and painful demonstration of the inability of the constituent of existing institutions to gear the nation's productive power to the nation's needs in the means of life. While the share of food in the national larder has exceeded all records of previous surpluses, hundreds of thousands of people have not had enough to eat. Though the price of wheat fell to a level below the cost of production to the average farmer, workers in the east could scarcely afford to buy bread. While textile and garment workers are without jobs, workers in many other industries cannot buy clothes. While workers in the building trades, brick-makers, and builders plead for work, thousands while other thousands of our free citizens huddle into slums. While coal miners are hungry, home, who are anxious to provide them with food, clothing and fuel are ashamed of the lack of fuel.

In the jungle of the National economy Canadians recognize the failure of Governments, which they elected to manage the country's affairs. They recognize that Shibboleths and incantations of the old political parties will not rectify faulty machinery.

Change is Needed

They see that a change in the economic system is needed and that it will not be accomplished by the dominant political parties are those whose function—despite fervid protestations to the contrary—is to resist all effective change and to cling to an obsolete system. In the view of a growing multitude, the boundary between politics and economics has been erased, and the hands the demand is heard for a political instrument which will not obstruct but facilitate the necessary modification of the economic system. From that demand the reconstruction party has risen; it has been formed to meet an economic need—formed by the spontaneous and independent action of groups of intelligent Canadian citizens scattered across the Dominion.

These citizens have asked themselves, can Canada provide a standard of living commensurate with the resources of a developed country for every person willing to work? They have considered the abundance of material at hand, the workers anxious to take part in industry, the equipment available and only partly used—and they have answered emphatically: Canada can!

Yet, and, banded together in the reconstruction party, they say that Canada will only realize that Canada's condition has become desperate through the failure of the Government to recognize that these conditions called for adequate and definite remedies. They are determined to help to reconstruct Canada's shattered national economy to wage war on poverty, and to abolish involuntary idleness.

Policy Announced

With this determination the Reconstruction Party declares its policy as follows:

The Youth of Canada.

The future happiness and prosperity of our people will depend upon our ability to absorb into useful employment our young men and women. The older generation has imposed upon the younger a burden of discouragement and debt. Our youth must be given the opportunity to surmount these obstacles and to overcome the handicaps which have been forced upon them.

It will, therefore, be the duty of the Reconstruction Party when called upon to form a Government, to open up avenues of opportunity for all, who are willing to work on the farm, in the mine, in the forest and in other branches of industrial and commercial activity; and during the period of economic reconstruction to secure such work or employment as to enable them to retain their self-respect and earn a moderate income.

Public Works

All public works undertaken for purposes of recovery should be designed to prove public assets, and wherever possible, should be self-sustaining. The following projects are the general advantages of Canada would be at once undertaken, being both economically justifiable and socially desirable.

(a) The completion of the trans-Canada highway.

(b) The construction, in co-operation with the Provinces, of highways from the southern boundary to Canada's northern wilderness.

(c) A system of development, for the Provinces, to make available to great northland accessible to visiting and nature lovers, one of the greatest possible benefit from the tourist industry. Canadian investments in the past have neglected this most valuable source of revenue and field of business.

(d) A country-wide reforestation program, beginning on Dominion-owned lands and extending to areas under Provincial control by agreement with the Provinces concerned. This work is of the utmost importance for the protection of watersheds are seriously denuded and supplies of water and timber are diminished.

(e) Removal of level crossings. In co-operation with the Provinces and the municipalities, the Reconstruction Government will, undertake the elimination of these death traps.

Spare Money in Trust

A National Housing Program of Canada has in recent years been placed in the custody of trust, loan and insurance companies, which act as agents for the investor or directly on their own behalf. The investments are secured by the real reservoirs of capital.

These are potential sources of funds for construction projects. It will be the policy of the Reconstruction Party to invite these institutions to co-operate in the development and execution of a National Housing scheme, both urban and rural, by making funds available at rates of interest much below those prevailing in recent years. Should such co-operation not be forthcoming, the Reconstruction Party declares it to be the duty of the Government forthwith to formulate a Housing Scheme to be financed by the sale of bonds guaranteed by the Dominion Treasury on a self-amortizing basis.

The Labor Problem

The party emphatically protests against the purchase and sale of labor as mere merchandise. It demands that all labor problems shall be approached from the human standpoint, realizing that unless the workers secure fair wages and reasonable hours the whole standard of living in Canada must sink to lower levels, and that this would be disastrous, not only for the workers and their families, but for every member of the community.

The party pledges itself, when elected to office, to pass necessary measures to establish uniformity of wages and hours throughout Canada, and invites the provinces to co-operate in necessary enabling legislation. This step the party believes to be necessary in the spirit of true federation.

Fair-wage provisions in all classes of government contracts will be strictly enforced and it will be the duty of the Government to raise the wage rates in industry generally.

The Price Spread Commission's report:

The Reconstruction Party will exercise all the power it may possess to give legislative effect to the recommendations of the Royal Commission on Price Spreads and Mass Buying. When placed in office, it will vigorously administer all laws so enacted and at the first session of parliament it will introduce a measure to establish a Federal trade and industry commission and to vest that body with authority to serve as referee in all commercial and industrial matters affecting fair trading methods, industrial practices discriminatory discounts, and unfair competition generally.

Debt and Interest

One of the most potent causes of distress is the burden of debt, for we only does the principal weigh heavily upon the debtor, but the rates of interest charged to the ordinary borrower have been exceedingly high, and out of line with rates prevailing in other countries. To relieve the burden it is proposed to restrict rates of interest to a much lower level, and generally and vigorously to exercise governmental power and administrative influences to reduce rates wherever possible. Five per cent on mortgages should be ample.

The burden of the principal of debt cannot be lifted by renewals or by methods which will enable a bank to claim credit for "successfully refunding our maturing obligations." Instead, it is by smoothing the over-burdened taxpayer. What is required is a long-term plan with adequately liquidate our National debt.

This party, when placed in power, will address itself to the development of our latent resources, which are confident are so vast as to be capable of paying off the national debt in 20 years.

Develops Gold-Fields

We propose to explore and develop systematically our gold and silver fields in general territory by expert geologists and mining engineers under direct government control, and with the profits from production accruing to the Dominion government.

(2) A fuel policy that will greatly increase the use of Canadian fuel by absorbing a large proportion of the cost of transportation of coal from producing areas to the central consuming area, and by utilizing the vast bogs of central peninsulas, all of which activities will absorb thousands of men now on relief.

By these and similar policies applied to underdeveloped natural resources we are confident that sufficient new wealth can be produced to liquidate our debts. These measures the reconstruction party believes will materially contribute to economic recovery.

The monetary problem:

The control of credit and of the currency is declared by this party to be the most vital functions of our economic life it should be exercised at all times in the general interest of the country. When placed in office the reconstruction party will promptly conduct a complete investigation into the whole monetary problems, with the assistance of outstanding authorities, from Canada and Great Britain. This Imperial investigation will be directed to devise a plan of monetary control best adapted to Canadian conditions.

Nationalize Bank

The party further declares for the nationalization of the Bank of Canada.

Agriculture:

The farmers of Canada have been exploited by highly organized financial interests, and have had difficulty combine to resist the pressure to which they are subjected. The Reconstruction Party, when returned to power, pledges itself to make such legislation as will ensure fair prices for the farmers' products and to free the agricultural industry from oppression of the manufacturing and financial groups.

Furthermore, recognizing that the farmers of Canada desire a democratic form of control of their industry, the party advocates the appointment of a Provisional Board of Control, to be known as "Agricultural Board," direction of the marketing for agricultural products, and to control prices of cereals; (b) livestock and poultry; (c) fruit and vegetables; (d) dairy products, the objective being that as far as possible the agricultural industry shall through a nation-wide organization under its own control, secure the benefit of handling its own products, thus being enabled to successfully withstand the encroachments and competition of the large organized secondary industries who handle their products.

Taxation:

Prevailing methods of taxation cause much confusion, inconvenience, overlapping and waste. Through the multiplicity of forms and types of taxes, but the system is indefensible and the machinery of collection by the federal and provincial authorities.

The Reconstruction Party proposes the abolition of every federal taxation that a single set of auditors or inspectors will suffice for all classes of taxation, and to invite the Provinces to join in a system which will secure uniformity in bases and will collect the taxes and then divide the returns on a fixed and agreed percentage basis. This would apply to income and sales taxes, which are particularly open to duplication.

Revenue must be secured and budgets must be balanced, and it is proposed that taxes on incomes and profits be increased, and where necessary be collected at their source. Taxes on commodities should be reduced as much as possible, consistent with the maintenance of adequate revenue.

The Tariff:

The principle motivating the customs tariff policy of Canada should be the protection of Canada's industries, agriculture and industrial from unfair competition from countries where the standards of living are lower than in Canada. This principle has not always prevailed and hardships and sometimes suffered in consequence. Cases in point are the cotton and woollen industries and on all classes of primary textiles, the customs duties on which will be substantially reduced.

It will be the policy of the reconstruction party to secure reciprocal agreements with other countries, with a view to increasing exports of farm and factory, and with the range of imports by commodities not produced in Canada. Our foreign trade must be increased and we firmly believe that this can be accomplished without injury to Canadian industry.

The Railways:

The reconstruction party does not believe that amalgamation will private ownership offers a solution of Canada's railway problems. Nor does it believe that it would be to the public advantages to sell the National Railways to private or international financiers at this time or at the valuation of today.

A plan which is being drafted and which will be announced in the near future, after consideration in detail by a group of technical and financial experts will, we believe, at once commend itself to the people of Canada as providing a rational and practical solution of the railway problem.

The British North America Act:

The British North America Act is Canada's constitution and, in the main, is admirably suited to the needs of the Canadian people. In its preamble it declares the establishment of national "unity" to be its purpose. It has come to be regarded by a contract between the two provinces by which certain powers were assigned to the central authority to be exercised for the common weal.

It has been the practice of successive federal governments to invoke the British North America Act as a pretext for neglecting to find legislative remedies for obvious and flagrant abuses. Moreover, the federal authorities have consistently neglected to exercise powers conferred upon them by the Act, especially in matters relating to 'the regulation of trade and commerce,' which subject is declared by the Act to be within the exclusive jurisdiction of parliament.

Before asking the provinces to relinquish any of their powers, the reconstruction party holds that the Government should exhaust its own powers and rights.

It is recognized that owing to the development of modern industrial, commercial and industrial methods, legislation in this Act may be necessary to adapt the constitution to modern needs, but such particular action in any case is made only after ample and amicable negotiations with the provinces, and then only when the mutual benefit to be gained has been definitely established. In no case will the party seek to make changes that interfere with the civil and property rights of any province.

To avoid future conflicts overlapping in the scope of taxation (such as with federal and provincial income taxes) resulting in excessive taxation and inconvenience to the taxpayer, the reconstruction Government will submit to the provincial governments proposals for the abolition of this, especially, so as to ensure not only a more efficient system but larger net revenues through the elimination of duplication.

Prison Reform:

Being fully convinced that our penal institutions are failing in that those in charge of their administration are imbued with the idea that punishment is far more important than reformation of character, the reconstruction party pledges itself to conduct a thorough study of the prison system with the object of transforming the penitentiaries into human establishments for the rehabilitation of their inmates into useful members of society.

The Women of Canada:

All of what is set fourth in other sections of this manifesto is of interest to women as much as to men, but it is recognized that there are subjects in which women take special interest, more particularly those relating to social welfare among members of their sex.

The reconstruction party pledges itself to give recognition to the claims of women in all appointments activities affecting the health and social well-being of the people. The party will also promote legislation to protect women and girls from exploitation by unscrupulous employers, and, where the services rendered are of equal value, that remuneration shall be in accordance with the services and not prejudicial to t he woman worker.

It is recognized, that the responsibility of making the consumer's dollar go as far as possible rests largely with the housewife. It is therefore, the policy of this party to ensure that in every way possible exploitation of the public through unwarranted profits shall be vigorously restricted.

The War Veteran's Welfare:

Although the welfare of the veterans of the Great War has received much attention from Canada's legislators, the Reconstruction Party is convinced that much remains to be done to render full justice to these citizens. A careful and sympathetic study will be made of all existing legislation with a view to more fully implementing the pledges made while the war was on, and especially to provide adequately for those veterans who are the victims of economic vicissitude.

A manifesto is issued to the public with two main thoughts actuating those who are responsible for its issue:

First, That it is absolutely essential to the welfare and happiness of Canadians that there should be a wider enjoyment of those things that make for a happy Canadian livelihood and, on the other, that the people of Canada should be given the opportunity to declare whether or not they wish to have a policy of definite action in dispelling a depression of so much suffering among our people.

Measures Proposed

I do not deny, that certain measures have been proposed, and in cases adopted, that have elements of helpfulness in them but there has been no definite organization by either of the two major parties to grapple with the underlying causes of our troubles.

We believe that our proposals at set forth in our manifesto, while moderate, will result in such definite add immediate improvement as will rapidly relieve the acute distress and ultimately bring conditions that are consistent with our ideals of Canadian citizenship.

This party is not concerned with, nor will it indulge in, as far as it can control its personal ambition or what is commonly known as mud-slinging. We are concerned only with presenting our views and securing fair consideration of them.

It has been said, that we are entering the campaign under such handicaps as will make it impossible for us to succeed. This, I do not think to be the case.

Certainly we had no funds and have no established organization, but already many are voluntarily offering assistance financially and we are overwhelmed with offers of voluntary help and there are such overwhelming expressions of sentiment in favor of our principles that we are convinced our only duty now is to secure the most suitable and practicable candidates and to this latter task we are addressing our immediate attention. We feel the issues in this election with confidence that our platform represents what is in the hearts and minds of all true Canadians.

Bill Campbell Remembers Day

TORONTO, July 12.—(CP)—Premier Mitchell Hepburn's Liberal Government took office a year ago Wednesday but no one remembered the anniversary today but the Ontario Prime Minister's confidential messenger Bill Campbell.

As Mr. Hepburn walked into his office this morning Campbell clasped his hand. "I'm Premier," he finished until Bill explained: "It was just a year ago today you took office and I want to be the first to congratulate you." ·

CRIMINAL NEGLIGENCE!
Death of Girl Brings Charge Against Driver
Miss ... ally Injured as Fat... Alights From Street Car Near Her Home
Ontario must start thinking SAFETY!
In Ontario, during 1934, there were nearly 70,000 automobile accidents.
512 people were killed
8,990 people were injured
... a considerable increase over 1933. It must be evident to all thinking people that this must stop.
Hon. T. B. McQUESTEN, Minister of Highways.
IT IS CRIMINAL . . . NOT CLEVER TO IGNORE TRAFFIC LAWS
WHAT possible excuse can be offered for criminal negligence like this? . Yet, constantly, drivers persist in taking chances near street cars . . . at intersections and stop lights . . . on bad curves and hills . . . and on the straight away.
It doesn't pay! The severe court sentences being meted out to reckless drivers . . . the cancellation of driving licenses . . . prove this conclusively.
Drive with care and consideration. Obey traffic laws—to the letter. This is one proof of good citizenship.

Social Problems are Touched First Hand in Mission Work

Rev. Dr. D. O. Soper of London England, Speaks Here

FIRST THINGS

A gifted, fearless, dynamic, but yet witty speaker ably portrays Dr. Donald O. Soper, who last night at Bridge Street United Church gave an inspiring address on the experience he has encountered while on missions in the service of Christ.

A stifling heat prevailed but yet an almost capacity audience filled the portion of the church where the service was held.

Rev. Dr. Jos. Semple, pastor of Bridge Street Church introduced the speaker, Dr. Semple has for many years followed the work of Dr. Soper through magazines and the church periodicals and "it was through the kind efforts of Rev. Mr. Mc Cleary, assistant minister of the Metropolitan Church in Toronto that we have the privilege of hearing this gifted speaker," declared Dr. Semple.

Secondary Things

"I am not basing my talk on some thesis", said Dr. Soper, "but just on true experiences which are characteristic of Christian Gospel.

"I want to set forth the power of God to reveal Jesus Christ. There are distractions in the church today." he remarked, "Man is busy building great buildings and adorning fine curve for crended diseases, interesting things and add more living comfort to life. When Mrs. Soper and I came over this summer we landed at New York and were amazed at the great buildings. We also know the great Empire State Building and looked up at its towering top. It was magnificent as all such buildings are, but there are only the secondary things of life. We are not bothering with the primary things of going out and telling souls for Jesus Christ. Christianity may become used to do the secondary things. We are losing souls.

In a London Mission

"I went to Cambridge University in England and after I had graduated I was sent to London. I was placed in charge of the South London Mission. After my first Sunday I was asked to preside over the Women's Institute meeting the next day. I gladly gave my consent. Now the women attending these meetings were mostly from the poorer section of London, the particular section being along Bond Road. The people in London today is that formerly where one family lived in a large house ten or fifteen families now live in them and the sanitary conditions are dreadful. In most of these places in London there is no porch or door, you just walk in from the street. This is what those women had to put up with, living all week in a slovenly hole. They went to the meeting once a week and became stirred up and threw off their despondency."

Rhythmic Choruses

This was the situation that the speaker had confronting him. How was he to stir up their souls and give them the love of Christ. He found it through the singing and playing of rhythmic hymns, choruses. He found he could stir up the minds of these people, allowing them to shake off their week's burden by song and then instil in their minds the love of the Saviour.

On another time Dr. Soper was called upon to go into a house where a man was about to commit suicide. When he reached the house he found the man brandishing a gun the man put down the razor to shake hands. No sooner had the man put it down that his little boy, who had been bunched down in the corner of the small dirty room where all the family lived, took the razor in his hand and was off to the street in a flash. The man's wife had been drinking heartily and hadn't paid any bills and the man had became discouraged and was going to end it all. Through the good graces of a friend he was able to pay his bills and his wife was helped.

Unemployed Fellowship

The speaker related another story of the forming of an unemployed club where the unemployed would amuse themselves. They have over one hundred members and the best of fellowship is enjoyed. They co-operate with one another and help out their difficulties. If one man can do something that the other can not, and vice versa, they interchange. The problem with the unemployed is not work. Through it the unemployed are given food and shelter but no clothes, declared Dr. Soper. It is not a good thing to see men going around in fine hunting jackets with their difficulties and can expound to them the love of Christ Jesus and His coming World.

Dr. Soper proved also to be a talented musician and singer. Rev. Mr. McClary and he joined in a duet entitled "Living in Jesus" that was much appreciated.

Rev. Mr. Pearson of Napanee thanked Dr. Soper for his splendid talk and Mr. Rolland, Chairman of the Missionary Committee closed with prayer.

REV. DR. OLIVER PASSES SUDDENLY

Former Head of United Church Noted Scholar

Saskatoon, July 12—Rt. Rev. R. H. Oliver, principal of St. Andrew's College here since its inception and former moderator of the United Church of Canada, died suddenly Thursday at Round Lake in Qu'Appelle Valley.

Dr. Oliver was lecturing at a United Church summer school and it is believed he suffered a heart attack. He was 53 years old. His widow, the former Miss H. S. Cowling of Toronto, whom he married in 1911 and three sons, Murray, John, Gordon, Kent and Ronald survive.

Dr. Oliver was one of the best known educationists in Canada and during his 30 years spent on the prairies had established himself as one of the foremost figures in the Canadian life.

He was born at Sheets, Kent County, Ont., and was educated in the county schools of Chatham Collegiate. He graduated with the gold medal as head boy from Chatham Collegiate and followed this up with further prize winning at the University of Toronto.

Headed University Course

At the university his career was unusually brilliant, for he not only took the classical course and won the McCaul gold medal for Greek on his graduation in 1903. For two years following he was appointed instructor of Greek and Alexander Mackenzie fellow in political science. There followed a brilliant course of Greek and economics and sociology at Columbia University, New York, in 1905, when only 23 years of age, he won his Ph.D. degree.

Returning to Toronto, he took charge of the history department at McMaster University during the period 1905 to 1909, and at the same time completed his theology in Toronto College, from which he graduated in 1910. Further post-graduate work was done at the University of Chicago and in the Universities of Halle and Berlin, Germany.

When the new University of Saskatchewan was organized in 1909, Dr. Oliver was appointed professor of history and economics and from him fell the honor of giving the first lecture to that institution. In 1911 he was appointed the first principal of the Presbyterian Theological College (now the Knox College) at Saskatoon, which position he held until the United Church of Canada, he continued to serve. In 1919 Dr. Oliver went overseas as chaplain of the 196th, or Western Universities Battalion, in France he remained with the battalion for a time as the Canadian corps, was mentioned in despatches and received the rank of lieutenant-colonel.

Represented Province

In 1913, he represented the province of Saskatchewan on the Royal Commission on immigration and land co-operation which toured Europe to make economic investigations.

Dr. Oliver visited Belleville while Moderator of the United Church. He was Moderator from 1930-1932.

Weddings

HOGLE—LINDSTROM

A very pretty wedding took place at ten o'clock this morning at the bride's home, 36 Meyers Street, when Miss Dagmar Lindstrom, daughter of Mr. P. J. Conners, became the bride of Mr. Ross Henderson Hogle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hogle, Rev. J. B. Naylor, pastor of Tabernacle United Church, officiated.

Baskets of summer flowers were used in the decorations of the rooms. The bride was charmingly attired in a gown of baby pink lace with picture hat to match. She was attended by her sister, Miss Grace Lindstrom, who wore blue chiffon with trimmings of pink and matching hat. Mr. Alfred McCarthy was groomsman.

After the ceremony a reception was held. Later Mr. and Mrs. Hogle left on a motor trip to Toronto, Buffalo and Rochester. The bride wore for travelling a navy blue ensemble with baby pink trimmings. Upon their return they will reside in Belleville.

PRESENTATION

An interesting feature of the meeting of Group No. 1, Tabernacle W.M.S. was the presentation of flowers to a valued member, Mrs. George Horton. The meeting took the form of a quilting party on the lawn of Mrs. A. Martin, corner of Bridge and Church Streets.

The following address was read, honouring Mrs. Horton:

Dear Mrs. Horton—

We, the members of Group No. 1 of Tabernacle W.M.S., are indeed pleased to have you with us once another of our group meetings. We are taking this opportunity to tell you how much we have missed you from our group meetings. You have been revered by our group for the high standard of living and of the Christ you have maintained throughout the years you were President of our beloved Mission-Society. We feel when we realized that the many tasks you have undertaken have been too much for you a test physically. We shall treasure the memory of your presence at our Presidents and your interest in each member, and we have been strengthened by your prayers for the great Missionary cause, and sincerely hope your health may be restored so you will be able to attend our meetings again. May the Dear Master prosper and keep you.

We ask you to accept these flowers as a small token of our love to you.

AT THE CAPITOL

"The Man Who Knew Too Much"

A Gripping, Melodramatic Thriller With Swift-Moving Plot

"The Man Who Knew Too Much" featuring Nova Pilbeam, Peter Lorre, Leslie Banks and Edna Best, is the melodramatic-thriller that is being shown the last half of this week at the Capitol Theatre.

Its swift-moving plot starts in the Alps, at St. Moritz, with the murder of a Secret Service agent of the British consulate. Before he dies he asks Bob Lawrence to take a message to the British Consul. This puts not only Lawrence, but his young daughter and his wife on the spot with terrorists who are plotting the assassination of a foreign diplomat.

The daughter is kidnapped and threatened with death if Lawrence passes on his information. Lawrence picks up the trail and, after establishes hotbed in a temple of alleged sun worshippers, he is taken prisoner by Abbott, the terrorist leader. A meticulously polite silky-voiced fiend, Abbott plots murder in music and cunningly consummates the killing of the diplomat.

The climax is a gun battle between the police, surrounding the house of sun worshippers with the gangsters barricaded within, and with Lawrence and his child within in the line of fire.

Edna Best never looked more charming than as the wife and mother in this tensely interesting story. Leslie Banks is suave and convincing as the father and to Peter Lorre go the lion's share of honors for his sinister portrayal of the arch-criminal who is finally brought to justice.

AT THE BELLE

"Charlie Chan in Egypt"

Proves Most Absorbing of Oland's Sleuth Series

Audiences everywhere have hailed "Charlie Chan in Egypt" as the most thrilling, engrossing and ingenious of the "Chan" series, to date. Once more starring Warner Oland, the picture comes to the Belle Tomorrow (Saturday) and Monday, matinee and evening. It's the story of Charlie Chan's ceriest adventure in the land of the Pharaohs promises to be the biggest thrill ever to be believed and visually screen fans in some time.

Priceless gold and jeweled treasures from the tomb of Amen, an ancient high priest, are stolen from among things brought to light by the French, Clerical society's expedition, directed on the Nile, the great river and land over which Cleopatra once ruled.

Charlie is lured by the society to trace the thefts and to apprehend the thieves. Tribes people occur and everybody wonders whether it was Satmet, the one-headed Egyptian goddess of vengeance who struck down those disturbing the monarch of the Nile.

Pat Paterson, as the daughter of the expedition's leader, gives loyal support to Warner Oland and Stepin Fetchit, as a native of the desert sands who becomes Charlie Chan's strange and frightened side, creates many comic situations. The bewitching Rita Carmen displays her charms and ability to good advantage, while Thomas Beck holds up his role with some good manly acting.

Mystery, humor, romance, "Charlie Chan in Egypt" for Pat Flynn and Leigh King directed the picture which is based on the character, "Charlie Chan," created by Earl Derr Biggers.

AT GIGANTIC R. A. F. DISPLAY

Every type of service aeroplane was included in the rehearsal at Mildenhall for His Majesty's review of the Royal Air Force. The assembly of aeroplanes, 360 in all, was the largest ever seen in the air at aerodrome. In the foreground are Hawker Hurricane fighters of the air raids by an enemy power. They are England's "Furies", the fighting aeroplanes that have a capacity to climb 20,000 feet at fast that 12 minutes, notice would fill London and strip with eager British pilots thirsting for the enemy. Also shown in the layout are some of the manoeuvres performed by the R.A.F. for His Majesty. Three S.T.O.P. Liers are known as Hawker Audax army co-operative machines.

FINANCIAL MARKETS
NEW YORK - TORONTO - WINNIPEG

NEW YORK EXCHANGE

New York, July 12 (AP)—Aircraft, motor and specialty issues lent the principal support to today's stock market. Profit taking, generally dried up although there were a few soft spots still in evidence. Trading was relatively quiet.

Douglas Aircraft advanced more than 9 points and United Aircraft and Wright Aeronautical were up about 1 each. General Motors moved to within striking distance of its 1935 year under active buying. Other gainers of fractions to a point included Chrysler, Kelsey Wheel, Chicago Mail Order, National Biscuit, Schenley, Santa Fe, Southern Pacific, Electric Auto-Lite and Western Union. United Fruit lost more than 1. The utilities and steels did little. The late tone was firm. Transfers approximated 1,000,000 shares.

Gains and action lacked zest and fluid indifference. Fail bonds were again inclined to slip. The dollar showed signs of gaining foreign exchanges.

Canadian stocks were quiet but steady. On the big board, both International Nickel and McIntyre Porcupine issues were higher and on the curb Hiram Walker gained ¼-point. The bonds were quiet and mostly unchanged as were Canadian dollars at 99 27-32.

Sharp gainers of fractions to more than a point included Douglas Aircraft, Du Pont, Chicago Mail Order, Air Reduction, Schenley, Santa Fe, Delaware and Hudson, Kelsey Wheel, General Motors, Chrysler, Electric Auto-lite, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Western Union and Westinghouse. A loss of a point was suffered by American Telephone and Public Service of New Jersey eased.

The financial sector was brighter, on a bit by rumors in Washington that the administration's wealth-tax program might be pushed through this session of Congress.

TORONTO INDUSTRIAL SHARES

Toronto, July 13 — The distillery shares, working up a moderate business all by themselves, provided the bright spot in an otherwise dull market in the Toronto industrial section. Walker's common assumed the leadership position and moved up to 30¾ and closed around that level for a gain of more than a point. Distillers Seagrams and Industrial Alcohol A were up ¼ to ½ each on heavy turnover. The strong leadership in the liquor group, on the heels of the rise in the base metal closing prices were firm though trade was small outside of some action in Nickel, Ford A and Imperial Oil.

Liquor stocks climbed higher in active trading on the industrial section today but even the volume of business was slow, the price tone, however, holding steady. Early afternoon Walker's common was bolstered at 30, Distillers Seagrams at 21¼ and Industrial Alcohol A at 41¾, all up ¼ to ½. Walker and Distillers was 3 cents under at 60.

Ford A and International came out in fair volume, former practically unchanged and Nickel 1/8 easier. Weakness that was unable to get above 8¼ and Consolidated Smelters was unchanged at 11¾.

TORONTO MINING SHARES

Toronto, July 13—(CP)—Mining share prices firmed slightly this afternoon following a sluggish morning performance in which the golds were the chief sufferers from price declines. Bralorne, San Antonio and Pickle Crow were forced to close 5 to 10 cents off while Sisco in a late burst of strength pushed up to 2.83 and close 3 cents off 2.80 for a gain of about 10 cents. Silver and base metal stocks had few price adjustments.

Prices on the mining section eased further down today in quiet trade. Recessions of 2 to 5 cents appeared in such accustomed golds as Pickle Crow, San Antonio, and Red Lake Auditor and a few scattered group prices held steady.

Weakness for bar silver eased the silver stocks a little with exception of Bear which held up in an active trading. Base metal issues showed no worthwhile changes.

One of the morning's soft spots was Chemical Research, a drop of 30 cents carrying the issue to a new low for the year at 80 cents. Part of the loss was recovered later.

Rate is Equivalent to 1.385 Per Cent

OTTAWA, July 12.—(CP)—Minister of Finance E. N. Rhodes today announced tenders had been accepted for the full amount of $20,000,000 Dominion of Canada Treasury bills due next October 18.

The average discount price of the accepted bids was 99.65311 equivalent to a rate of 1.385 per cent.

Board Room Gossip

As supplied to Bigger and Crawford by Financial Service.

A revival of inflation talk is again taking place in the United States in which development is attributed the certain bullish outlook being shown by the trading and investing public. Wall Street prophets maintain that business will come back and be permitted to swing itself into a normal position of activity, but that if the business recovery is retarded, then the inflation advocates will attempts will be started in the Fall.

As in the past, the possibility of inflation, whether credit or monetary, tends to fire the imagination of speculators who show their feelings by hurling into these stocks that are in line for substantial benefits in the event of inflation.

Locally, however, the market has failed to reflect the much better feeling prevalent across the line. Canadian stocks are lagging and is noticeable. It is quite likely that this is due entirely to the fact that we are facing a Federal election in just two months and no one is anxious to take any chances previous to prior to an election. In other words, the market during this side should do comparatively little in the interval.

The Brokmire Counselor, commenting on the New York market outlook states that constructive developments of a specialized and economic conditions are favorable, political considerations do not seem to be exerting any great restraining influence, and the action of the stock market is rather underlying in its strength. As long as this set of conditions persists, the main trend of stocks should be upward and reactions should be confined to relatively more than temporary interruptions. Consequently, it appears advisable to keep invested funds fully employed, until such time as definite indications of an important decline come into sight.

When the annual financial statement of Canadian Industrial Alcohol is released for the fiscal year ending September 30, 1935 appears that the company will be in a position to take a great while to clear away the McNish debenture issue—then the shareholders 'turn loose' for further constructive development is also in the making.

THE RED TIGER

By ALANSON CROSBY

But Judith's concern for her own welfare — and consequent sense told her it was in grave jeopardy— was less than her dismay at the thought that, through her own attention, her plan to rescue Randall Spencer was destroyed. Perhaps she could bribe Stokes to let her go. She was impatient for him to come, that she could bargain with him for her freedom. Every hour was precious she thought. Harriet Madison was a desperate unscrupulous woman, insane, perhaps, in her jealousy and there was no telling to what lengths she would go to keep Randall Spencer from her.

Judith stood at the window, pondering again as she had once before the possibilities of escape by that means. A pale moon cast a cold light on the pavement fully 30 feet below the window, and revealed the impossibility of escape by that route unless—Judith's heart beat a bit faster at the thought—there she could make use of some sort of a rope from the bed-clothing, by means of which she could let herself down. She was tempted to start immediately tearing up the fine, sheets and lingerie blanket, but deciding that it would be wiser to wait a few minutes, Harold Stokes would soon be in to gloat over her no doubt and possibly they could come to terms for her voluntary release.

She waited with what patience she could command for what seemed hours, but was actually less than fifteen minutes. Finally she heard the click of the key in the lock of the door and Harold Stokes stood in the doorway a flashlight in his hand.

"Turn on the electric light, Beauty," he said, with a sneering grin. "I'm not wandering around in the dark this time. I remember I fall over the last time that you carelessly left in my path."
